In 1918 a 30-acre area did not produce forage enough to feed satisfactorily 44 Southdown ewes and 30 lambs. This field is now capable of furnishing sufficient summer feed for 100 ewes with their lambs. The improvement is due in part to the application of manures, lime, and phosphates, but chiefly to the fact that leguminous crops were largely used and all crops were fed upon the ground. Under the system followed forage crops are seeded in rotation and the sheep are allowed such frequent changes of pasture as are necessary to prevent troubles from parasites.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Practically all range-bred lambs are docked and castrated.

Hogs on pasture are not so liable to be troubled with intestinal worms and are usually in a thrifty condition.

Horses' teeth demand an examination at least once a year. As the horse gets some age, his teeth need rasping often.

The success of the hog business hinges on the fact that the most economical gains are made when the pig is raised on grain.

The calf will start to eat grain when about two weeks old and it is a good idea to start out with ground oats, barley or corn meal and wheat bran.

GLAD POLITICS ARE ELIMINATED

Endorsement of New School Board By Farmers Is Voiced By High Official in National Organization

The American Farm Bureau Federation is emphatic in its attitude toward education in the rural districts. Mr. J. H. Crenshaw, the treasurer of this great organization of farmers, in a recent interview granted your correspondent, declared:

The Kentucky Farm Bureau stands for the elimination of politics from the control of educational affairs. The farmer boy and girl of Kentucky are entitled to the best mental training it is possible to secure. The question for years past has been how can this be accomplished, now the solution is presented in the new school laws.

J. H. CRENSHAW, Cadiz, Ky.

Treasurer of the American Farm Bureau.

A law is no stronger than public sentiment, no law will work automatically. Are the farmers really and truly interested in the education of their children? Are they really and truly 100 per cent Americans? Are they opposed to Bolshevism? Do they think this government worthy of, and are they willing to do their best that it be perpetuated?

Everything depends upon the interest manifested in the election of the County Board of Education, of the election of men who will without fear or favor stand first for a square deal for the boys and girls of the State; who will have their interest as of first consideration; their future as of prime importance.

That there are a number of men and women in every county in Kentucky fully competent to compose these boards is unquestioned. The County Farm Bureau should take an active part in impressing on them their responsibility; on calling the attention of the people to them, on seeing that the names of such men and women are placed on the ballot and on an aggressive campaign that their election be assured.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau endorses unqualifiedly the law creating the new County Boards of Education and will wholeheartedly give its aid to any county asking for assistance in advising the people of the great opportunity it offers, for happier homes, for more prosperity, for the greater service and for bigger living. The lives of people can not be greater than their ability to live and their ability to live is measured by their knowledge of life. If we are saved to serve and born into the world to render service, to make the world a better place because of our having lived in it, then we must look to the public schools for preparation for life; for the intellectual life of a people will never rise higher than its public schools.

GREAT PIECE OF WORK

The Hon. J. N. Camden was visited in his country home near Versailles by your staff correspondent this summer to secure his viewpoint of the new school laws. That he is heartily in favor of them is shown by his statement which follows:

I know the rural school because I live in the country and see it at work during the whole school year, and I know it needs improvement.

I feel that the two political parties in Kentucky — great and fine pieces of work when they combined forces and passed a group of new and thoroughly up-to-date school laws. Among those laws passed none will be more far reaching in its results than the one creating a Board of Education for each county, composed of five members, who will have the power of selecting a county superintendent and thus take the office out of county politics.

Next November the public will naturally be very much interested in the national candidates and the national issues, but the matter of good schools and strong teachers should not be forgotten for a single moment. Good schools in the Twentieth Century are vitally important to each and every county in the Commonwealth. The voter should not forget that the finest and best National Government in the world will not educate the boys and girls out in the country. So it is up to the voters of Kentucky to see to it that progressive County Boards of Education are elected next November.

HON. J. N. CAMDEN, Versailles, Ky.

Democratic National Committeeman.

One point should not be forgotten when candidates for places on this board are being voted for and that is that they must not be pledged to any special person for the office of County Superintendent. The voter should help elect strong men on the board and leave them absolutely free to select a county superintendent who will make good. In other words, the voter should think of the boys and girls in his county who are not getting a fair square deal in the matter of schooling and forget who happens to wish the office

MUST BE SIMPLE

Modified Styles Replace Modes of Extravagance

Love of Ornamentation Cannot Be Suppressed; Yellow Is Appearing for Mid-Summer Clothes.

It is interesting, comments a fashion correspondent, to observe the simplicity that is replacing the extreme extravagance that directly followed the war—an extravagance in the wake of which came a mass of ill assorted fashions. We have had during the last two years many styles positively grotesque, such as the long narrow skirts, so narrow that their wearers looked like cripples hobbling along.

Down through the centuries history shows that every period of extreme dressing has been followed by one of simplicity. There is little likelihood that dress will remain simple for any length of time. While there is always the reaction from an extreme, the love of ornamentation cannot be suppressed. Dress began, not as a covering for the body, but as an ornament. The primitive savage adorned his body with the juices of berries long before he thought of a covering.

Yellow is appearing in a great many of the clothes for midsummer wear. Three shades of yellow and sometimes three or four are combined in the same costume. Yellow is distinctly a summer color, and has always been a favorite in hot climates.

A combination of several shades of yellow appears in chiffon evening frocks. It makes one cool to think of such a dress. One just completed by a fashionable dressmaker has the skirt composed of petals, one shade placed over another. It ranges from palest lemon to deepest apricot, and is edged with a wide apricot colored satin ribbon. The bodice topping this frilly skirt is just a simple band of satin to match the sash with a wispy bit of lemon colored chiffon draped over it.

An evening hat to accompany this dress is of the apricot colored chiffon. Dripping from the brim are long stemmed pale yellow blossoms and green leaves.

All the nasturtium shades are combined with copper color. Even the florists appear to be co-operating with the dressmakers or else the dressmakers are co-operating with the florists, for one sees the very same shades blended with great skill in the florist windows.

NEW BLOUSE OF TRICOLETTE

This blouse of tricolette is odd in its design. It is of blue and white tricolette with half sleeves of navy georgette.

HATS REQUIRE SPECIAL CARE

Removal of Dust After Wearing Is Important in Keeping Headgear in Best of Condition.

Not only because it is an economy, but also because the condition of the hat and the way it is worn will make or mar your appearance, your hats should be properly cared for.

After each wearing, the hat should be carefully brushed with a soft brush to remove all dust from the hat itself and from the folds of the trimming. A piece of velvet should be used instead of a brush for silk or satin hats. If the hat is of straw, a cloth dipped in alcohol may be used to remove the dust.

For a hat with a brim which is easily marred, a hat stand is an essential. It may be made from a strip of heavy paper about nine or ten inches wide and rolled so as to be narrower at the top than at the base. Tissue paper laid over the top of the hat will protect it from dust. For the "best" hat a dustproof box should be provided.

Hats that have been badly wet and may often be improved by careful steaming. Hold the hat over the steam of a steaming kettle or over a cloth placed on a hot inverted iron.

NOTE: To any individual Garden Hat, call it a garden hat in of brown and green, and wear it with brown and green.

SEASONABLE FOODS.

This is the season of the year when mushrooms may be found in abundance. This delicious fungus may be served as a main dish or as a flavor to various combinations. Cream of Mushroom Soup.—Chop one-fourth of a pound of mushrooms and cook them in a quart of chicken stock twenty minutes, then rub them through a sieve. Reheat and bind with one-fourth of a cupful each of butter and flour cooked together until smooth, then add a slice of onion and cook with the stock, seasoning with salt and pepper. Remove the onion and add one cupful of cream and two tablespoonfuls of orange juice just before serving.

Eggs Waldorf Style.—Arrange poached eggs on circular pieces of toast and surround with brown mushroom sauce, placing a small broiled mushroom cap on each egg.

Brown Mushroom Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add a few drops of onion juice and cook until slightly browned. Add three and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour and continue browning. Pour on gradually one cupful of cream. Clean one-half pound of mushrooms and cut the cups in slices; saute in butter five minutes. Break the stems in pieces, cover with cold water and cook slowly until the liquor is reduced to one-third cupful. Dissolve one teaspoonful of beef extract in the mushroom liquor. Add to the sauce and season with salt and paprika. Just before serving add the mushroom caps.

Mushrooms on Toast.—Prepare the mushrooms as usual, saute in a small amount of butter, add cream, salt, paprika and serve poured over buttered toast.

Fruit Punch.—Upon a tablespoonful of good tea pour two quarts of boiling water. In ready the juice and peelings of three lemons and one orange in a pitcher. When the tea has steeped five minutes strain into the pitcher. Add a cupful of sugar and cool. Serve with plenty of ice.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Frozen dishes of all kinds, punches, frappes and sherbets are most welcome during the sultry hot days of midsummer.

Caramel Ice Cream.—Measure one and one-third cupfuls of sugar. Take half of it and caramelize it by melting it in a smooth iron frying pan, stirring constantly until a rich brown in color. Add this very slowly to a hot custard made with two cupfuls of milk, one tablespoonful of flour, one egg and a bit of salt. Cook until smooth and thick, cool, flavor with vanilla and when the caramel is dissolved freeze as usual.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Take the juice of two oranges, the rind finely grated of one, the juice of two lemons, two cupfuls of sugar, and a quart of rich milk or thin cream. Freeze as usual.

Macaroni Ice Cream.—Take one quart of cream, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and one cupful of dry powdered macaroni. Add a tablespoonful of vanilla and freeze.

Banana Ice Cream.—Rinse four ripe bananas through a sieve, add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one cupful of sugar. Stir and mix well, then add one quart of cream. Freeze as usual.

Strawberry Ice Cream.—Wash and hull three pint of berries. Add one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar and a quart of thin cream. Put the berries through a sieve after mashing them. Strain to remove seeds if desired and freeze after mixing the ingredients.

Lemonade.—Make a syrup by using two cupfuls of sugar, a quart of water and two-thirds of a cupful of lemon juice. Dilute with water to suit the individual taste. Lemon sirup, using a cupful of lemon juice to two cupfuls of sugar and one of water, cooked for five minutes, may be bottled and kept indefinitely. A tablespoonful of the sirup to a glass of water will furnish a glass of lemonade. Orangeade may be prepared in the same way, using a half cupful or less of orange juice in making the sirup.

The Economy of Using Goodyear Small Car Tires

So-called bargain tires, made up for sensational sales and offered at ridiculously low prices, do not attract careful buyers.

They are far more concerned with what they get than with what they pay because they know that in the end it is performance and not price that delivers actual tire economy.

The popularity of Goodyear Tires, of the 30 x 3, 30 x 3½ and 31 x 4-inch sizes, is based on the fact that they deliver exceptional mileage at exceedingly low cost.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread. $23.50
30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread. $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? $4.50

"Snare of Paris"
 Admirers of the beautiful William Fox Star, Madeline Travers, should not miss "SNARE OF PARIS" which will be shown at Ideal Theatre, Petersburg, Ky., Saturday, September 11th.

This photoplay shows Miss Travers in a role eminently suited to her talent for depicting feminine emotion. The rich settings, the beautiful gowns of the star and the glimpses of Paris life, both high and low, with an intensely interesting heart story, makes this picture a winner that is worth a visit.

The truancy law is stricter than ever this year. In fact, the new law has "teeth" in it. Parents are not allowed to detain their children at home to finish a job of work, or because it is inconvenient to send them to school. Mr. Hubert Conner is the new truancy officer for the county, and the new school law requires him to see that all of the children of school age attend the schools. He has passed such orders.

Out in the State.

The people of Pendleton county had almost a complete crop failure last year, but conditions this season could not be better. So far our county is a favored place against hail, wind and fire. We should be thankful. — Falmouth Outlook.

We drove over the roads of Bracken county a distance of 35 miles last Friday and found the rust in tobacco very bad, especially in the Berlin vicinity. This rust extends all over the white Burley district, but it is only very bad in sections. It is impossible to estimate the damage until the tobacco is cured. — Falmouth Outlook.

With the forced release of sugar stocks thru tightened bank credits, the price of sugar has tumbled, selling in Cincinnati and other cities at 17 cents, and some as low as 15 cents. There is a tip that it may drop to 12 cents in a short time. The Department at Washington, has received appeals from many relief from the drop in prices, but a hands-off policy will be maintained. And that's right. Those fellows stuck up the price to fleece the public and the public, it is hoped, will get good and even by fleecing them. Profiteers ought to be jailed. — Cincinnati Democrat.

The hailstorm of Friday destroyed fifteen acres of fine tobacco for Bridges, Bradley and Moreland near Spring Station, and almost ruined twenty acres of tobacco belonging to John Jones and Garrett Jones, near White Sulphur. Neighborhood crops of Wiley Bros and the Pepper place and Robert Church were badly damaged. — Georgetown News.

Lightning, Friday night, which rained the chandelier in the living room of J. Sharon Fleming on South Broadway, burned the paper off two ceilings, the brass of several fixtures, burned a large hole in a carpet, ruined the light meter in the attic, and burned the counterpane off of a bed. The house did not catch fire and none of the occupants of the house were injured. Mrs. Fleming was sewing beneath the chandelier when the lightning struck. — Georgetown News.

Danville.—The initial part of one of the biggest whisky sensations in Kentucky since prohibition became effective, with swift developments hourly promised, was sprung here early today. Authorities found two barrels of whisky, stolen recently in a raid by masked motorists on the D. I. Moore distillery warehouse near Harrodsburg, which were buried in a barn, arrested a member of a prominent family, and indicated that they had evidence expected to lead to arrests of other well-known citizens.

HOWARD SLAYBACK.

The body of Sgt. Howard Slayback, son of Mr. Benj. Slayback, of Salem Ridge, whose death occurred in the Base Hospital in Germany, April 20, 1920, was brought to Patriot, Tuesday, August 17th, escorted by Howard J. Palmer, a member of the Graves Restoration Committee of the U. S. Government.

Sgt. Slayback enlisted from Law recoburg in the service of the United States Army, Company D, 25th Infantry, March 10, 1917, at the time of his enlistment he was but sixteen years of age; he was sent overseas June 1st, 1917 and was severely wounded in the fierce battle of the St. Meier Drive, July 13, 1918. Young Slayback was one of the youngest boys to go overseas from this county, he was noted for his bravery in the face of danger and for his deep patriotism. After the armistice he remained overseas and was later transferred to guard duty over some German prisoners.

It is interesting to note the manner in which the government is handling its soldier's dead. Young Slayback was sent to this county from Hoboken, N. J., escorted by Howard J. Palmer and the late left nothing unknown to give the departed hero a funeral with full military honors. The services were held at the Patriot Baptist church last Friday officiating. The government's action in returning the soldier dead to America is most commendable, and their provision of an escort of a gentlemanly service man is doubly so, and the parents and friends feel comforted by the fact that the body is never alone until it reaches home. — Register.

Less Sugar in Jellies and Jams

Household experts of the United States Department of Agriculture advise that from one-fifth to one-quarter less sugar can be used in jams and jellies as indicated by experiments recently made by them. Experts of the experiment kitchen have found another sugar saving method of putting sugar in a teaspoonful of salt to each cup of fruit juice for jellies or to each cup of pulp for jam, marmalade or conserve. In the case of acid fruits, this is the absence of the full amount of sugar less noticeable and the salty taste will disappear after the fruit has stood for a few weeks and the flavor will be much richer for the addition of the salt. During the war, salt was used in jam-making in this manner and the methods suggested are based upon reports of the process. With fruits of pronounced flavor or where lemon or orange peel of sugar are used for flavoring, fruits of mild flavor, various syrups may take the place of granulated sugar. Usually half and half is the proportion used by the experiment kitchen in substituting

American Legion Meeting.

Boone Post No. 4 of the American Legion of Kentucky met in Library Hall, Burlington on Tuesday night. The meeting was called to order by Post Commander, L. T. Utz. The first event in the order of business was the report of the delegates to the State Convention at Louisville which was held Sept. 3-4. An exhaustive and able report of the work of this meeting was furnished by B. H. Riley who, with L. T. Utz represented the local post at the convention. It is regrettable that more legionnaires were not present at this meeting for the report was of such nature as to advise them fully of the importance of the American Legion, its great growth and steadily increasing influence, and also serving to show them the seriousness of the movement as it concerns the good of the nation in the future. It is to be earnestly hoped that the membership in full will be in attendance at the next meeting to gain a comprehensive view of this report as it is of too great length and scope to deal with in this article.

Local matters of consequence to Legion were discussed consisting of the formation of a firing squad, increasing the membership, Women's Auxiliary and suggestions pertaining to some sort of fitting celebration to observe November 11th which is Armistice Day. The Legion membership Boone Post ranked as one of three at the convention as being organized to the extent of 45 per cent. It has a membership of 128 and only lacks two members in order to reach 50 per cent. Two members were added to the roster Tuesday night. The question of Armistice Day was discussed by the members present and outlined other than a tentative proposition of a fish-fry to be held at Florence Fair Grounds, weather permitting. The matter was referred to a committee to get in touch with the boys and learn their desire concerning same.

The business of the evening having been disposed of the meeting adjourned. Post Commander Utz was seriously handicapped in handling the matters of the Legion with so few of the members present and expressed the earnest hope that more interest will be shown thru increased attendance henceforth for, as he expressed it, the Legion is in no sense intended as a one-man affair, but is for the good of all; but the only method by which the members can reap the benefits is to heartily take part in each and every meeting and thereby do their individual bit toward the betterment and advancement of the order.

A warning to Kentucky and other states not to delay in absorbing their apportionment of federal road funds has been issued by Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture. Kentucky's share is $1,551,755, and the state must enter into contract with the federal government by July, 1921. Money not taken up by that time will be apportioned among the other states. If Kentucky absorbs this entire apportionment it will mean that more than $4,000,000 worth of federal aid road construction will be undertaken during the next two years.

FORECASTS ARE OF MUCH VALUE

Illinois Farmers Highly Pleased With Aid Bulletins Had Been at Planting Time.

ENABLED TO FIGURE AHEAD

With Prediction of Rain Everybody Got Busy With Planters and Crop Put in Ground Ready to Be Soaked and Germinated.

That the farmers of the country find the weekly weather forecasts of immense value, especially during the growing season, is evidenced by a letter of appreciation recently received by the weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture from an Illinois farmer. He was highly pleased with the aid the forecasts had been to him and his neighbors in planting their corn. In part he wrote:

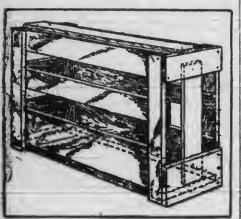

Of Untold Benefit.
"These forecasts have been of untold benefit to us this, an unusual backward spring, and we feel greatly indebted to you. With this very reliable advanced information you are furnishing us we are able to figure ahead and keep planting right up. For instance, this section began plowing for corn last week. When we received your bulletin predicting rain for Tuesday or Wednesday of this week, we got busy with our corn planters, some even turning the face of their calendars to the wall and letting one Sunday get away from them. To make a long story short, when your predicted rain struck us Tuesday noon and is still coming down this, Wednesday, morning, it found over one-third of the Illinois corn crop in the ground ready to be soaked and germinated. Had we not been put wise by your office an confident that not one-sixth would have been planted. While your daily weather reports, made up by your local observer, help out some, they cannot be compared with your weekly forecast sent out from Washington. I have watched it quite close since you began this sort of the service five or six years ago, and have found it most reliable and dependable."

Weekly Forecast.
In addition to the daily weather forecasts published in practically all newspapers, the weather bureau issues on Saturday of each week a forecast for the six days beginning the following Monday. These forecasts are made for nine separate districts covering practically the entire United States, and necessarily are less specific than the daily forecasts. They are given wide distribution during the growing season, and the letter quoted records but one instance, among many, in which they have proved of great value to farmers.

GOOD MARKET FOR CHICKENS

Minnesota Expert Predicts Strong Demand for All Forms of Poultry This Autumn.

N. E. Chapman, poultry extensionist at University farm, predicts good prices for all forms of poultry next fall, and says that chickens raised by July 1 will get into the "soft roaster" class, weighing from one and one-half to four pounds each. Mr. Chapman also foresees a strong demand for broilers weighing from one pound to two pounds, to be dressed out and frozen by the packers for winter trade. During the early summer months the response of feeding can be reduced and a larger percentage of the chickens can be marketed because of more favorable conditions.

AUTUMN-FRUITING RASPBERRY

Ranere and Erskine Originated in United States and Are Now in Nursery Trade.

Fresh home-grown raspberries all summer long and until frost comes in the fall! That is the delightful prospect which the United States department of agriculture holds out to the gardener who will plant one or more of the autumn-fruited varieties of raspberry plants which it recommends. The department points out that European gardeners have grown autumn-fruited varieties for many years, and some of them are of higher quality. It is particularly important that the American gardener secure varieties that will survive in this country, since in many sections our climate is too severe for the European varieties.

Two good autumn-fruited varieties, the Ranere (St. Régis) and Erskine (Erskine Park) have originated in the United States and are now in the nursery trade. The Ranere was found near Hammon, N. J., and was grown by the hundreds of acres on the sandy soils of southern New Jersey before being introduced into the trade. It is the principal commercial raspberry of New Jersey, and seems destined to become the leading sort along the Atlantic coast states as far south as southern Georgia. The variety may be found fruiting freely throughout the fall months in Atlanta, Ga., and even farther south where other varieties do not succeed.

In the cooler parts of the northern states, the Ranere produces fruit of too small size and too poor dessert quality to be of great value. However, the berries borne on the young shoots in the autumn are larger in size and better in quality than those of early summer, and if pruned after the English system, where all the old canes are cut out in late autumn or early spring, it should be desirable in many northern gardens.

The Erskine raspberry, which was found a resident of Lee, Mass., in a patch of the Marlboro, bears larger fruit than the Ranere. The fruit is also of better quality, and if it proves as hardy and bears as well throughout the northern states as it has under the care of the one who discovered it, it should be especially desirable. The Erskine seems to be a hybrid between the American and European red raspberries, and should be tried wherever the Cuthbert and Marlboro succeed.

Among the varieties of autumn-fruited raspberries grown in England are Alexandra, Belle de Fontenay, the Abundance, October Red, October Yellow, Semper Fidelis, Surprise d'Autonne, and Yellow Four Seasons. Only two of these sorts, the Belle de Fontenay and the Hallsman, are in the nursery trade in this country.

Two other European fall-fruited sorts, which may perhaps be found in England, are in the nursery trade in this country, the La France and the Cluster of Autumn-Fruited Raspberry.

Souvenir de Deslre Bruneau. The La France has been grown in gardens in Connecticut for many years without a name.

The experience of American fruit growers of the eastern United States for the last hundred years has been that no variety of raspberry introduced from Europe succeeds in eastern United States as a commercial sort. Introductions of European varieties have been made repeatedly, but none of them have yet succeeded under the rigorous eastern climate. Those who try these autumn-fruited European varieties, therefore, should not expect them to be of value, except in the home garden. There, however, some of the harder of these varieties may prove desirable. By removing most of the old canes and cutting those that remain to within one or two feet of the ground in late autumn or early spring a considerable quantity of fine-quality raspberries may be secured. The berries borne on the canes which are cut back will come after the season of the common sorts, and should last until the new shoots begin to bear.

European varieties are more likely to succeed in the mild humid sections of Oregon and Washington where the climate more nearly resembles that of parts of Europe than does that of the eastern states. Those interested in this group of raspberries probably will want to try the European sort.

SUMMER MEATS.

Chicken, veal, sweetbreads and lamb are the summer meats most commonly liked and served.

Broiled Chicken.—Clean a tender chicken and split it down the back. Break the joints, take out the hard bones, wipe clean, sprinkle with salt and pepper and rub with soft butter. Broil and serve with melted butter.

Breaded Veal Cutlet.—Have the cutlets less than an inch thick; parboil and drain, then cool. Season with salt and pepper, dip in beaten egg and crumbs and fry until brown. Serve with tomato sauce or with a border of green peas.

Chicken Gailloch.—Cut fillet into two medium sized raw potatoes. Put into a fryingpan two tablespoonsful of olive oil and when hot add the potato dice. Stir to keep from burning and cook five minutes. Then add a dash of paprika, a cupful of boiling water, a crushed bean of garlic, a cupful of cooked chicken chopped fine or a can of larded chicken; salt to taste. Cover and cook until the potatoes are done, stirring frequently.

Calf's Brain Salad.—Parboil the brains in articulated water; blanch, cool and remove all membranes. Place in pieces, add half the quantity of finely cut celery; mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Mayonnaise dressing, using olive oil, is the salad par excellence, and a tasty substitute can be prepared from corn oil, using the same method of mixing.

The secret of a good mayonnaise is freshness of the egg and well-chilled ingredients and ingredients. Beat a fresh egg yolk into a well-chilled bowl placed in a pan of ice water; add a half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a pinch of mustard, a dash of cayenne and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Beat well before adding any oil, then but a few drops at a time, beating well between each addition. Thin the mixture with vinegar or lemon juice, adding more oil until three-quarters of a cupful has been used. Mayonnaise to be good should be thick and creamy. When serving it in the salad it may be thinned with cream.

EASY LUNCHEON DESSERTS.

During the warm weather a dish of fruit with a small cake or a cookie is an ideal dessert. However,

For variety the following may prove helpful:

Almond Blanc Manger.—Make a paste of four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, wet with a little cold water, add a quart of milk, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and boil until thick. Flavor with almond and stir in one cupful of shredded almonds or a few tablespoonfuls of almond paste. Mold, chill and serve with cream and sugar.

Banana Puffs.—Take one cupful each of sugar and flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, three eggs well beaten and one-fourth of a cupful of milk. Mix well and stir into this mixture three thinly sliced bananas. Half fill buttered custard cups and steam one hour. Serve with a lemon sauce.

Lemon Sauce.—Stir one tablespoonful of flour into one cupful of sugar, add one cupful of boiling water, the yolk of an egg, one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a bit of the rind. Cook until smooth and slightly thickened.

Baked Peas.—Use the large hard peas; core but do not peel. Fill with brown sugar, add a tablespoonful each of butter and lemon juice and bake during the baking. When tender serve cold with cream or the sauce in which they were cooked.

Lemon Sponge.—Whip the whites of six eggs to a stiff froth. Sift half a package of gelatin in a little cold water and dissolve over hot water. Add to the gelatin the grated rind and juice of half a lemon and sugar to sweeten to taste. Stir until cool and beginning to thicken, then fold in the egg, pour into a wet mold and chill. Any fruit may be used for this mixture in place of the lemon.

Gingerade.—Take two tablespoonfuls of ginger, half a cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of rubenol juice; stir and mix with cold water.

FOR HEADACHE, LIVER TROUBLE

Black-Draught Is The Best Medicine This Lady Ever Used. Says It Is Only Medicine She Gives Her Children.

Cherry Village, Ark.—In telling of her experience with Thedford's Black-Draught, Mrs. Lottie Ellis, R. F. D. No. 1, this place, said: "I used Black-Draught as a laxative, also for headache, torpid liver and indigestion. It is the best liver medicine I have ever used and is the only medicine I give my children."

"I feel like it has saved me a lot in doctors' bills, for when the children complain of feeling bad or have a cold, I just give them a good dose of Black-Draught and they soon get all right. It certainly cleans the liver and clears up the skin and they are soon well again. I wouldn't be without it for anything."

Seventy years of successful use has made Thedford's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. Every member of every family, needs, at times, the benefit that Black-Draught gives in helping to cleanse the system and to prevent or relieve the troubles that come from constipation, indigestion, and a lazy liver.

To keep well, your stomach, liver and bowels must be in good working order. To help keep them that way take occasional doses of Thedford's Black-Draught. Thousands of homes are never without it.

For sale by all druggists. The genuine has the name, Thedford's, on the label. Insist on getting what you ask for.

IMPROVED ROADS

ARMY MATERIAL FOR ROADS

Millions of Dollars' Worth of Machinery Available for Construction of Highways.

The signing by the president of a bill directing the secretary of war to transfer certain surplus army equipment to the United States department of agriculture, as well as allotting certain material to other branches of the government, makes available for distribution to the states millions of dollars' worth of machinery for use in highway construction.

Since there is now available from all sources—federal, state, county, etc.—more than $1,000,000,000 for road building, the states are anxious to secure their allotments of these army supplies because of the great assistance they will be in expediting road building. This material is in addition to approximately 22,000 army motor vehicles which already have been allotted to the states through the federal department of agriculture in accord with previous legislation.

As yet no definite estimate can be made as to the number of machines of different kinds which the secretary of war will designate to be "surplus and not required for military purposes," as provided in the act. Among the scores of items listed in the law are: Road rollers, sprinkling wagons, concrete mixers, derricks, complete pile-driver outfits, clam-shell buckets, caterpillar and drag-line excavators, plows, cranes, dump wagons, hoisting engines, stump pullers, wheelbarrows, blasting machines, corrugated metal culverts, surveying instruments, drafting machines, fabricated bridge materials, gravity and power conveyors, and wagons.

The distribution of this material will be made by the United States department of agriculture, the work being in the immediate charge of the bureau of public roads. It will be allotted in the same ratio as funds granted to the states for federal aid roads.

The bill also empowers the secretary of war in his discretion to transfer to the United States department of agriculture for use by the forestry service in the work of supervising the national forests, any telephone supplies no longer required for military purposes.

The federal government is to be reimbursed by the states, a sum equal to 30 per cent of the value of the material less all freight charges incurred in delivering the property to them. The title to all vehicles and other equipment remains vested in the state for use in improving highways. No vehicles and equipment, in serviceable condition, can be sold or the title transferred to any one else. A provision inserted in the bill shortly before its final passage provided that any state highway department may arrange for the use of this material by any state agency or municipal corporation at a fair rental, if it is to be used in constructing and maintaining public highways. The rental must not be less than the cost of maintenance and repair of the vehicles and equipment.

All materials are being used for these stylish new wraps. Navy blue serge and tulle are popular, and always look conservative, no matter what the cut. Bolivia cloth fashions many, as do duvety and velours. Silks are very good for the summer wrap, and one sees knee-length and tapering ankle-length wraps of heavy satin, crepe de chine, and shorter ones of taffeta.

USE ORGANDIE WITH TAFFETA

Combination Made Not Only Smart, but Adds Simplicity Which American Women Like.

Organdie has found new uses and a new cachet this summer. No longer does it confine its fresh crisp charm to accessories and a few simple afternoon frocks for young girls. Today it allies itself with taffeta to make the most becoming of formal afternoon frocks.

At the Artwell race, writes the director of the Harper's Bazar's Paris bureau, have appeared the most effective black-taffeta frock, which open at every conceivable point over an organdie underdress. The taffeta skirt not only parts in front over a pleated organdie skirt, but it is slit again upon the hips. The organdie skirt falls below the taffeta. Snowy frills fly out from the wrist, ripple downward from the throat and often cup the face. The effect is so smart that every Parisienne has at least one such frock.

Sometimes the taffeta and organdie are reversed. Then the sheer fine organdie in cream, rose or cream-white is used over a black taffeta slip, opening enough in front to show a taffeta panel.

The taffeta organdie mode is not only smart, but it has in addition to distinction the charm of simplicity, which all American women like.

Use Small Fans

On a dress dress a small ornament to touch up a dress is a small fan of a new design. These fans are made of a new material and are very attractive.

BETTER DAYS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Future Is Hopeful If Citizens of Kentucky Take Advantage of Opportunity Presented By New Law

When Mrs. Geo. C. Weldon was asked for a statement concerning the new school laws which will become operative next November in the election of a County Board of Education, she said:

With the prospect before me of Kentucky's brilliant educational future, it is impossible to resist the pleasing temptation of urging that every man and woman, whether they be parent, teacher or citizen, add their interest, their energy and their support to the Cause of Education. May our glorious State not hold back, but by its every act add impetus through increasing interest in our school system.

Kentucky has sunk discouragingly low in the educational scale, but the present thoroughly aroused interest of the State at large in schools is encouraging and will do much toward pushing us upward. We belong near the top. We must make a place for ourselves there and hold it against all time.

The provision in the new school law for the election of a County Board of Education in each county seems the best solution of the problem of rural education. Therefore, my appeal is especially to women, whether they have children in school or not. Education through schools being the chief preparation for future citizenship, our duty lies in making them as efficient as lies in our power. To women is left the direction of children's education, in a large degree, so you must exert the recent privilege of suffrage in electing to your County Board of Education good, clean, capable and conscientious men who will use every influence to create and maintain a non-partisan Board.

Since the rural school is the great hope for Kentucky's educational rise, you women and mothers must wield a mighty influence both inside and outside the home, through the helpful and organized work of Parent-Teacher Associations. Every school district finds its Parent-Teacher or Mothers' Club a solution to most of its problems, whatever they may be, for it is a combining of the forces of the home and the school for the good of the school and to meet its every need.

Women, familiarize yourselves with the new school law, then form a Parent-Teacher Association in your community, or strengthen the one already formed, for the full enforcement and right interpretation of that law as it is unquestionably the only right method of raising the standard of the rural schools. The attendance officer provided for in the law will solve the attendance problem which has always been a grave one and the appointment of the right person to that position is of vital importance.

As President of the National Congress of Mothers' and Parent-Teacher Associations, and knowing full well the mighty strength of parents and teachers banded together for the welfare of children—our future citizens—I urge upon all women of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, active interest and participation in all helpful ways, in affairs pertaining to our schools. Find the particular need of your community and meet it through a Parent-Teacher Association.

HELP WIPE OUT ILLITERACY

General E. H. Woods, who heads the Farm Bureau movement in Kentucky, urges the farmers to interest themselves in the selection of strong Boards of Education in the following:

All honor and much credit is due to the Kentucky School Administration Law. This wise and timely law leaves it with the rural population of this state to carry out its intention. One of the great objects of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation is to work to the end that the country boy and girl in Kentucky can have just as good schools as have the city and town boy and girl. This I regard as one of the most important steps in order to stop the flow of population from farm to town. Another is to help wipe out illiteracy in this state.

Aristotle was once asked how much educated men were superior to the uneducated men. His reply was, "As much as the living are to the dead." We want our state to have a living population. The Farm Bureau Federation intends to keep clear of political alliances, but we are 100 per cent American and stand for the support of our government in the protection of all the constitutional and statutory laws.

GENERAL E. H. WOODS, President Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

The safety of this nation lies in the education of all of its people. Therefore when the farmers of Kentucky go to the polls to vote in November for the Board of Education of the County, let them see only the welfare of their children, the interest of their state, the perpetuity of their nation, and put the rural schools of Kentucky forever out of politics, casting their votes for the most honest, capable and best qualified persons available for the position.

THE CHILD WITH THE HOE

DRIVERS CAN PREVENT WEAR

One Thing That Is Most Destructive Is Driving In Tracks—Distribute Traffic Evenly.

Drivers can prevent wear to the surfaces of the roads and even improve their conditions, if instead of driving in one track or on the edge of the road, they will drive over the middle and other less-used parts of the road when traffic permits. The one thing that is fatal above all things to road surfaces, whether dirt or paved, is driving in tracks, which subjects one small part of the road surface to all the traffic and damage that the whole road accommodates. Traffic should be evenly distributed over the entire surface of the road, and a little thoughtfulness and care in this respect on the part of drivers will do much to add to the permanence and excellence of our roads.

Benefits of Good Roads.
Good roads will enable the producers to hold their yield for a longer time, thus insuring higher prices for them and lower and more uniform prices for the consumer, and will serve to distribute railway traffic more evenly over the entire year.

Useful as a Weapon.
A system of good roads, built on a uniform plan of excellence by the states and the nation, could be utilized as a powerful weapon in the consumer's struggle with high prices.

MANY TRUCKS USED IN EAST

Eastern Farmers Have Been Adding Machines to Their Farm Equipment at Rapid Rate.

Figures obtained by the United States department of agriculture in connection with the investigation of the use of motor trucks by farmers indicate that the rate at which eastern farmers have been adding motor trucks to their farm equipment has increased rapidly during the last three years. Reports gathered by the office of farm management from approximately 1,000 farmer truck owners in the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland during January and February, show that at that time over 80 per cent had owned their machines less than three years. The length of time 955 of these men had owned their machines is as follows: Less than one year, 373; more than one year, but less than two, 237; more than two years, but less than three, 181; more than three years, but less than four, 86; more than four years, but less than five, 37; more than five years, 41. These reports were all from farmers who had purchased new trucks for their individual use. Reports on second-hand machines and on truck attachments for pleasure cars, as well as trucks used primarily for custom work or on regularly established routes, were not included in the count. While it is impossible to determine just how many of the trucks which have been in use only one or two years were purchased to replace other trucks, it is a fact that it is known that a large percentage of the reports covers first experience with trucks.

CHIEF OBJECTS IN PRUNING

One is to Assist Development of Strong Framework for Later Support of Fruit.

One of the main objects in pruning young trees is to assist in the development of a strong framework for the later support of fruiting wood and fruit. It is desirable that this framework be developed as quickly as is compatible with a proper maturing or ripening of the wood in the fall. The main scaffold limbs and their branches which go to form the framework of the tree are developed from shoots. That is, in the young apple tree the shoots of one season become the limbs of the next season. Consequently any practice which promotes a strong, vigorous shoot growth in the young tree is a direct aid in building its framework. It is a well-established fact that comparatively heavy pruning is a great stimulant to shoot growth, a stimulant in the sense of causing larger and stronger, though fewer shoots.

GRAPES ARE POPULAR FRUIT

Doubtful If There Is Any Fruit More Wholesome and Otherwise Valuable to Human System.

Not many fruits are as thrifty and as sure to bear under reasonable conditions as grapes. This fruit is one of the oldest and for years and centuries the most popular fruit. Primitive husbandmen knew the grape and used it.

It is doubtful whether there is any fruit that is any more wholesome and otherwise valuable to the human system than grapes. Most people relish grapes and they are said to be very healthful as a food.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Spraying gets the clean fruit. The orchard or garden is never complete without strawberries. One reason peach trees seem to fall quicker than formerly is the failure of our orchard soils. Blackberry, raspberry and dewberry canes are frequently injured by the red-necked cane borer. Roses, gooseberries and hawthorns may be increased by burning them. Tip a branch to the ground and burn it with care.

THE LAST OUT-DOOR AMUSEMENT OF THE SEASON.

Proper Care Prolongs Life Of Farm Implements.

It is not improbable that each and every farmer when he reads that no lesser authority than Uncle Sam has stated that the American farmer is a waste to the extent of $6,000,000 a week, thought, "What means this waste?" and the majority of them stopped right there. What each one should do is to find out the cause of the waste and then to take the proper steps to prevent it. The waste is not in the implements themselves, but in the way they are used and cared for. A farmer who takes proper care of his implements will find that they will last much longer and will do much more work. The waste is in the way the farmer uses the implements. If he does not take proper care of them, they will soon become worn and will not do as much work as they should. The waste is in the way the farmer uses the implements. rows, etc., all of which will give good returns for protection from the elements. If you are planning to build a shed for your implements, it will pay you to build a good one and the concrete, all enclosed, flat-roofed type has been found suitable for all conditions. It is portable, fire-proof, and will add to the value of the farm. The concrete or any other kind of shed should be built about sixteen feet in depth and of the length necessary of the quantity of implements and machinery to be housed. When planning the size of the shed, it is well to allow for extra tools that may be purchased later and not make the mistake of building the shed too small. A concrete shed may be built of concrete, concrete block, stucco on metal lath on metal frame. The roof may be supported by columns, by walls or by both. If columns are used, place them so as to leave twelve feet between them whenever possible so as to allow the easy movement of the largest machines. If you wish to entirely enclose the building and it is much better to do so, wall in the space between the columns from floor to roof and place doors on one side wide enough and so arranged as to permit the free movement, in or out, of the widest machine, and the fullest use of the floor space. The roof should be given shape enough to drain toward the back of the shed. The roof should be about eight feet from the floor. Above the space reserved for small implements that require no over-head space, may be stored seed corn or articles frequently used. The concrete floor should be slightly graded toward the front. The floor and roof should be made of 1 2 3 concrete, and the columns of 1 2 4 concrete. Four inches is sufficient thickness for the floor except when a tractor or other exceptionally heavy implements are to be housed. Then at least six inches should be used. The roof slabs should be about four inches thick with beams from twelve to fourteen inches deep over the columns. The columns supported by footings below the frost line should be about 8 by 8. The foundations of the wall should also extend below the frost line. In some concrete houses, the fronts are left open and canvas curtains on rollers are used for affording protection from sun and storm. While the first cost of the concrete shed will be much more than a wooden shed, it will pay in the end. It has been estimated that it will pay for itself in about three years and after that time, by the saving in the depreciation of the implements housed, it becomes a pure money maker. It is a good plan to reserve one and of a concrete shed as a workshop, where all tools, odds and ends, bolts, nuts, screws, etc., are kept conveniently arranged so that repairs may be quickly and satisfactorily made. The man who provides such a shed for implements and workshop is reducing very materially his share in the $6,000,000 waste and he will find that he is compelled to buy fewer implements and will derive a genuine pleasure as well as saving much money in making his own repairs when he has things convenient for this work, for every man loves to tinker around in his own workshop. Before housing, it is a good plan to paint up all implements at the end of the season's work and thoroughly cover with grease the unpainted parts to prevent rust. Tools properly protected from the elements and atmosphere give to their owners wonderful returns for this extra care and attention. Try it. Do your part to cut down this enormous waste. If you cannot afford the concrete shed, build a wooden one with a concrete floor. If you do not want to invest this much build a shed using the ground as a floor, making sure that the shed is on a slight elevation so that water will run from the shed. When the ground is used as a floor, it is well wherever possible to set the implements on boards.

No Hay in Philippines.

Grass cannot be cured in the Philippines, because of the great humidity. As a consequence it is cut fresh every day and brought into the towns and cities for sale at a stipulated price per car, two bundles weighing about 125 pounds. It is cut with a small homemade knife, and washed in running water before being placed in the bundle. American farmers cannot live on it but native horses eat it and grow fat. Guinea grass and Bermuda are the commonest kinds of grasses grown for horse roughage in the islands.

For American horses and mules hay is imported into Manila from the Pacific coast states and brings about $15 a ton. Oats sell for about the same price. On account of excessive rains oats cannot be grown in the islands; rust affects it. Corn grows well; Filipino farmers can harvest three crops a year from a single piece of ground. To keep it, it is necessary to leave it in the husk; otherwise weevils destroy it. It is tied in bundles and hung on bamboo poles and husked and shelled as needed. Corn mills are now being established in the Visayas Islands, where the natives prefer cornmeal to rice as a staple food.

UNIFORM POTATO GRADES FAVORED

Potatoes Graded and Packed Ready for Market.

Proper distribution of farm products requires, first of all, that a common understanding exist as to the basis of negotiations between producers and purchasers. This bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, is endeavoring to bring this about by the recommendation of grades for fruits and vegetables. No. 2 potatoes should be No. 2 potatoes throughout the United States and not, as at present, No. 2 potatoes in one section of the country and No. 1 somewhere else.

Higher Grade Demanded.
During the war period the United States food administration required licensed dealers to use government potato grades. The results were so satisfactory that when the regulation was rescinded the use of grades to a large extent was continued voluntarily. In fact, more than a higher grade has been demanded to provide for produce of highest quality.

Therefore, this bureau of markets now recommends United States grade No. 1 in addition to grade No. 1 and No. 2.

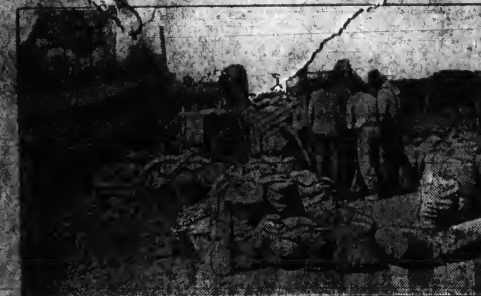

The new variety consists of sound potatoes of the variety which are nature, bright, smooth, well shaped, free from dirt or other foreign matter, frost injury, sunburn, second growth, growth cracks, cuts, scabs, soft rot, dry rot, and damage caused by diseases, insects or mechanical or other means. The range in size shall be stated in terms of minimum and maximum diameter or weight following the grade name, but in no case shall the diameter be less than two inches.

In order to allow for variations incident to commercial grading and handling 5 per cent by weight of any lot may vary from the range in size stated and, in addition, 3 per cent by weight of any such lot may be below the remaining requirements of this grade, but not more than one-third of such 3 per cent; that is to say, not more than 1 per cent by weight of the entire lot may have the flesh injured by soft rot.

Particulars in Circular.

Complete particulars regarding United States potato grades are contained in Department Circular 96, which may be mailed free upon request to the bureau of markets.

Sorting Potatoes Through a Grader—An Increasing Number of Growers Are Doing This and So It Is More Important Than Ever That Uniform Grades for the Entire Country Be Followed.

VEGETABLES STORED FOR USE IN WINTER

Good Time to Begin Plans for Saving Garden Truck.

Money Will Be Saved and Variety Added to Menu by Preparing Room in Basement or Outdoor Cellar or Pit.

One of these nights not far distant there will be a frost. That means, does it not, that huge basket of pumpkins, squash, beets, onions, tomatoes, apples and other vegetables and fruit grown in your garden and orchard, must be brought in and saved for winter use?

Before that time the question of storage must be settled. If you have never had them to store before or did not have success in the methods used last year, or want to know more about the subject for general information, send for a copy of "Home Storage of Vegetables," Farmers Bulletin 579, United States department of agriculture.

Different types of inexpensive and reliable storage places, the room in the basement of the dwelling, the outdoor storage cellar or cave, the bank or pit, are described in detail. The saving in money and the additional variety in your winter menu will more than pay for the expense of preparing for good, careful storage.

MAKING FINE RECORD FOR IMPROVED Sires

Virginia Leads Country in Effort to Discard Scrubs.

Many Farmers of Pulaski County File Declaration They Will Follow Methods to Further Live Stock Improvement.

With over 10,000 head of domestic animals in addition to poultry enrolled in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" movement, Virginia leads all other states in the nation-wide effort to rid the country of scrub and other inferior sires. The stock mentioned is owned by 670 farmers, of whom 564 are in Pulaski county, Virginia. All of these live stock owners have filed with the United States department of agriculture declarations that they will not only use pure-bred sires, but will follow methods tending to further live stock improvement.

The bureau of animal industry, which is handling the nationwide record, received from Virginia recently 72 pledges in one day. Of this number 18 contained statements that purebred sires, including rams, boars and roosters, would be purchased. Cases of this kind show that the movement is not only educational, but is resulting in the replacement of inferior stock with purebred.

VOTING PRECINCT CHANGES.

The Voters of Boone County, Kentucky will take notice of the changes in Walton, Florence and Burlington voting precincts. The said changes were made by the following order of the Boone County Court made at its regular September term, 1920.

The clerk of this court will certify a copy of this order to the Sheriff of Boone County, Kentucky, who will give the proper notice of the changes by advertisement as the law requires. N. E. RIDDELL, County Judge.

I. W. R. Rogers, Clerk of the Boone County Court, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of order as appears of record in my office.

Given under my hand this 6th day of Sept., 1920 at Boone County, Ky.

W. R. ROGERS, Clerk.

As Sheriff of Boone County, and under the law of the State of Kentucky, I hereby give notice of the change in voting precincts in Boone County set out above. I solemnly swear that the changes are no coming down by all of Boone County, Ky. this 6th day of September, 1920.

L. A. CONNER, S. B. C.

Since the last issue of the Recorder J. M. Barlow and wife and Lloyd Weaver and wife have become citizens of Burlington. They are the best of people and "are" the best of the town by all Mrs. Barlow has been in very poor health for a long time, and it is hoped that the change to a new home will be beneficial to her.

Prices Downward.

There is a downward trend of prices in Boone County, and the first to be hit by the drop is this year's wool sold for about half as much as it did last year. Prospects for high prices for wool are not bright.

Mules sold Monday at pre-war prices, averaging less than $50 per head. Horses are no low that one can afford to raise them. Yet the prices the farmer must pay for his implements, for his labor and for everything else needed in the production of crops are not coming down. The farmer must organize or he must feed on husks.

Renaker-Cahill.

Mrs. Irene Cahill and Mr. John Garner Renaker, cashier of Florence Deposit Bank, were married Wednesday Sept. 28, 1920, in the parlors of Hotel Oliver, Chicago.

Rev. R. D. Green, performed the ceremony. The Recorder wishes the happy couple a happy and prosperous future.

Mrs. Renaker and her husband and wife are now making their home in Florence.

STEPS DOWN AND OUT.

Old age and ill health form a combination that is hard to combat, and when the Recorder took a two weeks' vacation this month I hoped in that time to recuperate considerably but not so, consequently the plant has been transferred to my nephew N. E. Riddell, who will continue the publication of the paper.

In stepping down and out after forty-five years' service in the newspaper game I desire to express my profound gratitude to all those who have supported the Recorder so loyally as subscribers or advertisers and bespeak for my successor at least as generous a support.

Respectfully,
W. I. RIDDELL.

For Lunches.

Here are some recommended combinations:

Sandwiches with sliced, tender meat for filling; baked apples, cookies, or a few lumps of sugar.

Slices of meat loaf or bean loaf; bread and butter sandwiches; stewed fruit; and frosted cake.

Crisp rolls, hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish, moistened and seasoned, or mixed with salad dressing; orange, apple, a mixture of sliced fruits or berries; cake.

Lettuce or celery sandwiches; cup custard; jelly sandwiches; Cottage cheese and chopped green pepper sandwiches, or a pot of cream cheese with bread and butter sandwiches; peanut sandwiches; fruit; cake.

Hand boiled eggs; crisp baking powder biscuits; celery or radishes; brown sugar or maple sugar; and butter; dates; apple.

Raisin or nut bread with butter; cheese; orange; maple sugar.

Baked bean and lettuce sandwiches; apple sauce; sweet chocolate.

Nearly everyone knows the necessity of dainty wrapping and packing it an appetizing lunch is to be the result. A container that can be sealed, plenty of paraffin paper, a jelly cup with a cover, and a few pieces of wax tops will assist in the making of a dainty lunch.

LEST WE FORGET.

Two years ago, September 25th, 1918, 150,000 American soldiers quietly entered the first line trenches facing the German defenses on the edge of the great Argonne Forest. The French divisions, which had been holding this part of the line, had long been prepared to give way to the Americans. The transfer was made after night had fallen, and was accomplished with wonderful smoothness and speed.

The French soldiers were put on the line that were being sent back to bring other American divisions to the front, and were not again engaged in this sector.

"There was a certain gravity about the French trenches in this sector on this day two years ago were ready for aggressive warfare, and the fact that the Argonne forest afforded splendid facilities for an army fighting on the defensive in no way dampened the enthusiasm of the American soldiers."

"There was a certain gravity among the men," writes an American officer who entered the trenches two years ago, "but there was no flinching from what everyone knew was to be a costly undertaking."

September 25, 1920, the orators of the Republican party avoid any reference to the great battle of the Argonne. They would have our people forget the great deeds of two years ago. The Democratic speakers, who do not consider the war to have been a failure, take a different course.—Louisville Evening Post.

SEPTEMBER REPORT

Prospects Now Indicate the Production of a Fine Corn Crop of 107,110,000 Bushels.

Kentucky's crop prospects now indicate the production of a fine corn crop of 107,110,000 bushels compared to 82,500,000 bushels last year, and a tobacco crop of 412,100,000 pounds compared to 450,500,000 pounds produced last year, according to the September crop report issued jointly at Louisville and Frankfort by H. F. Bryant, Kentucky agent of the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimators, and W. C. Hanna, State Commissioner of Agriculture.

All these forecasts are subject to revision upward or downward later in the season, depending on whether conditions are favorable or unfavorable for proper maturation.

The recent wet weather will have a tendency to increase the tobacco estimate, while the damage done by rust and "wildfire" may tend slightly to reduce it. The excitement over damage from rust and "wildfire" apparently has caused over-estimates of the percentage of crop lost as a whole, although individual losses may be severe, even complete in some cases. The States total tobacco crop for 1920 is estimated to be less than last year, representing a heavy cut in acreage in the Western Ky. tobacco districts and a big increase of acreage in the Kentucky counties. The U. S. total tobacco crop now is estimated at 1,553,812,000 pounds compared to 1,589,458,000 pounds produced last year.

Hogs on hand for fattening in Kentucky are only 90 per cent of the number on hand for fattening at this time last year. In the United States there are now 89 per cent fewer hogs for fattening than last year. Wool production in Kentucky this summer was 3,115,000 pounds compared to 3,211,000 pounds last year.

New Gas for Autos.

A gas obtained by the destructive distillation of wheat, oat, and rye straw is now being produced upon a small scale at the experimental farm of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Arlington, Va. Although an automobile has been operated with the new combustible, it has been used for illuminating purposes as well as for cooking, the possibilities of straw gas are not yet fully determined.

In order to determine the commercial value of the gas, David J. Price, engineer in charge of the new Office of Development Work, a division of the Bureau of Chemistry designed to help commercial and industrial concerns to use new processes and discoveries developed by the bureau, has placed H. E. Roether, Jr., in charge of a series of production tests with the experimental apparatus at Arlington.

Liberty Bonds.

Various of the financial journals have been discussing of late the desirability of sustaining the price of Liberty bonds, and the suggestions made have been anything but well thought of.

The surest way to sustain the price of Liberty bonds is for the government of the United States to live under its revenues, and to apply some of the surplus to reducing the national debt. That is a positively certain method of forcing up the market value of the bonds. It once was known that the Federal government has gone into the market in earnest to buy up and retire its own bonds, and the market will immediately respond.

Everyone knows that Liberty bonds are selling below their real value. All securities are "down." The action of the Federal Reserve Board in putting the ban on market speculation, is, we suppose, more responsible for this than any other one thing.

Mr. R. P. The best conclusion seems to be that he is against the league in any form. In fact, there can be no doubt that the only sure way to get the people of Kentucky to keep a Senator who will vote for the league is to elect Mr. Beckham.—Louisville Evening Post.

Now that the 19th amendment is a law and women are entitled to the same privileges as men, we believe it has become their duty to vote. The thing is certain, all but nearly all of the worst class of women will vote. This renders it essentially necessary for the good women to vote. Their votes will be needed to offset the votes of the class that can be controlled by designing politicians. Counties like Boone have few of the class who can be controlled, but the big cities are full of them. We urge, therefore, that every good woman in the county do her full duty, no matter to what party she may belong.

She was 65 years of age, and was a native of Gallatin county but had lived in Boone since her marriage in 1875. Robert McNeely, her remains were laid to rest in Bellevue cemetery on the following Monday.

BANDITS ROB TRAIN.

Railroad and postoffice officials were checking up their records to determine the value of registered mail taken from northbound Illinois Central train No. 2, known as the New Orleans Limited which was held up last Saturday night by two masked bandits, who escaped. Estimates placed the value of mail taken from six sacks at from a few thousand dollars to $100,000.

The bandits, for whom a search was under way in Chicago and Northern Illinois, today, boarded the train at Tucker, Ill., fifty miles south of Chicago, when it was stopped on a block signal. The five clerks and bagmen almost immediately were taken to the city. There they pulled the bell cord, stopping the train, and leaped into the darkness.

Police said they were working on the theory that at least one of the men was an accomplice of Horace Walton, of St. Joseph, Mo., who was killed by the police after he had taken nearly $100,000 from the same train and the same clerks last May. Recognizing J. B. Strassen, registry clerk, this bandit was reported to have said:

"So you're the one who got my pal shot?"

Finger prints left by the robbers were on the mail sacks. The mail clerks were taken to the police station and there, with two handbags taken by the bandits and bearing the name of one of the clerks, are the clues on which they have to work.

One suitcase brought by the bandits and two others belonging to the mail clerks were filled with packages taken from the registered mail pouches, the mail clerks said, and at Riverdale the bandits jumped off.

Mr. J. F. Cloek, flagman at the Riverdale crossing, told police the mail train was stopped by a waiting automobile which carried them away.

Look at the roads for twenty miles around on a Sunday

THERE isn't any "country" any more. The automobile has brought the most remote settlement almost as close to the center of things as the next county was in the old days.

To hear some tire dealers talk you might think that nobody knew anything about tires except the fellow from Broadway.

That's not the basis we go on.

We give every man credit for knowing what he is spending his money on, whether he drives up here in his small car from ten miles out in the country or is passing through from the capital in his limousine.

That's one thing we like about U. S. Tires.

They make no distinction between the small car owner and the owner of the biggest car in the country.

It's all the same to them. So long as a man owns an automobile—large or small—he's entitled to the very best tire they can give him.

Quality has always been the outstanding feature of U. S. Tires. There's no limit on the U. S. guarantee. All U. S. Tires are guaranteed for the life of the tire.

We have given a lot of thought to this tire proposition. There is some advantage in being the representatives of the oldest and largest rubber concern in the world.

Drop in the next time you're down this way and let us tell you some interesting facts about tires.

TOUGHNESS OF FRUIT SKINS

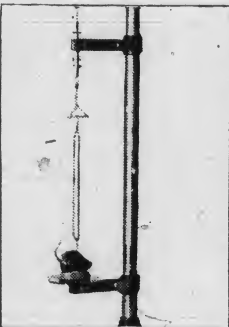

Mechanical Device Proves That It is Preferable to Pick Most Fruit Early in Morning.

Mechanical apparatus has been devised by investigators of the United States department of agriculture which proves scientifically that, other things being equal, it is preferable to pick such small fruit as strawberries, cherries and raspberries in the early morning while it is still cool, particularly if the fruit is to be kept some time or shipped a considerable distance. The advantage of early picking lies in the fact that when cool the epidermis, or skin, of the fruit is considerably tougher, generally speaking, than when warm, and so is less easily bruised, as shown by tests. Similarly the skin of fruit immediately after it has been cooled is more resistant than it is at an ordinary room temperature. However, after fruit has been in an leeches more than twenty-four hours the resistance of its skin is in some cases not so great as that of freshly picked fruit, which has been cooled quickly to leech temperature. It seems possible, therefore, that the storing of fruit tends, after a time, to make the epidermis more tender and more easily ruptured.

The apparatus, while having many distinctive features, is a modified Jolly balance. It consists of an upright metal standard from the top of which an arm projects to one side supporting a sensitive coil spring. Attached to the lower end of the latter is a metal rod that passes through a glass tube, the latter being held in place by an arm attached to the upright. A hair line on the tube and on the metal rod make it possible to determine the point at which tension on the spring balances a given weight. At the lower end of the metal arm a glass rod is attached, to which is cemented a small glass needle with a rounded end.

In operating the apparatus the fruit is placed on the stand of the instrument in a holder, and the stand so adjusted that the surface of the fruit just comes in contact with the tip of the glass needle, when the hair lines on the metal rod and glass tube coincide.

The tension on the spring is released by means of a rack and pinion adjustment permitting the standard to telescope slowly, thereby lessening the tension of the spring. The operator is able to tell the instant at which lessened tension permits the needle to puncture the fruit, because movement of the needle is indicated by movement of one of the hair lines. When this takes place he at once stops the telescoping of the standard. Then, by reading the scale on the side of the instrument, the weight required to balance the tension on the spring is determined. The weight of the glass rod, minus the weight necessary to balance the tension on the spring, gives the pressure of the needle on the fruit at the time it punctures the skin.

A large number of tests were made with fruit when it was freshly picked, and cooled after washing it in tap water, also after the fruit had been kept in a refrigerator for 24 hours and again after cooled fruit had been brought to room temperature.

The tests confirm the wisdom of a practice common in many regions, namely, the picking of berries in the morning when still cool. The presence of dew does not make the berries more susceptible to bruising.

GOOD APPLE-PICKING RULES

Among Other Things Pick By Hand and Cool Before Packing—Crop This Year Is Small.

Good rules to remember when picking apples are: Pick by hand; cool before packing; grade carefully; but only one variety, grade, and size in a package; pack tight; mark on outside the variety, grade, size, and the grower or packer's name. The apple crop this year is small but it will pay just as well or better to pick and pack properly as when there is a big yield. The best grades always pull the highest prices.

DIALECTS MANY AND VARIED

Comics of the Traveling American Daily Go Pretty Well Recognized by His Speech.

A survey just completed shows that "a language" is in daily use in New York, not including three or four kinds of English. There is highbrow English, lowbrow English and the R-R variety, besides the strange, inexplicable cockney kind, which gives all "er" sounds the sound of "ol." We say inapplicable, for we have never seen explained why in certain New York vernaculars "th" is "thol," "bird" is "bold" and "course" is "coise."

Sometimes, somewhere, that enunciation must have begun—whether on the ferry or in Harlem or even in Broadway, nobody seems to know. Was it in existence in 1800? The New York vernacular of that era does not seem to so indicate. The converse of the boot-licks and juvenile street sweepers of the mild and innocuous flection of those days reveal almost a Sunday school diction. "The noise" has been over Manhattan since then. It came with the melting pot and may be part of it, for all we know.

The United States is large enough to contain a number of dialects and already it does contain them, so that one's general is pretty well distinguished by his speech. We know New England by its "loving" and they know us by our "darling." One "Ask" in some parts of the South is as pronounced almost as the "a" in "bake," while still remaining "ask" in Massachusetts.

Our pluribus unum language is slowly that kind, and likely to become more pluribus in the country grows older.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

TOMBS THAT ARE INDIVIDUAL

Meeting Places of Chinese Rulers So Constructed as to Reveal Character of Occupants.

At the Tung Ling, or Eastern Tombs of the Manchus, nature has worked hand in hand with man to produce a harmonious whole, writes Roy Chapman Andrews in Asia Magazine. Most of the trees about the tombs have been planted, but they have been so cleverly chosen and placed that they look as if they had grown just where, in nature's scheme of things, they ought to be. There is nothing glaringly artificial in the appearance of the park.

Although the tombs are alike in general plan, they are at the same time as individual as were the emperors themselves. Each is a subtle expression of the character of the one who sleeps beneath the yellow roof. The tomb of Chien-Lung, the artist emperor, does not far away from that of the empress dowager. Stately, beautiful in its simplicity, it is an indication of his life and deeds. In striking contrast is the palace built by the empress for her eternal dwelling. Extravagantly decorated, valiantly seeking to the world the millions spent upon it, it represents admirably the personality of the iron-willed ruler who in life held her place by force and intrigue and lavish expenditure and who was determined to be known even in death as the greatest of the great. But a hundred years have now when Chien-Lung's mausoleum, like the painting of an old master, has been made even more beautiful by the touch of age, that of the empress will be worn and tarnished.

Young Author Falls Down.

A young author sends me the manuscript of a story. He claims he has a new idea. His "new idea" is this: A young man and woman are married in the usual way, and, during their honeymoon, love each other with great devotion.

That in a year the young man finds he has tired of his wife, from seeing her so much; from too close association. He supposes, of course, that she has not tired of him, and his infidelity does not enter his mind. However, he resolves to be a square man and confess to his wife just how he feels. She also talks frankly, and it develops that the wife is as tired of the husband as the husband is of the wife.

"I am compelled to report to the young author that this is no development of a new fact in life.—B. W. Howe's Monthly.

From Flying to Flying.

Aviation is occupying a great deal of attention in Canada these days. It is highly probable that the helium gas, sent out to the world the millions and other parts of western Canada and used in parts of the country for family cooking will one day be carrying English lighter-than-air flying machines, says Motor Life. It has been reported that there is enough of this gas to supply the entire British Empire for many years. It takes only 99 per cent of the weight-supporting ability of the highly inflammable hydrogen and is equally satisfactory.

Sweets Losing Popularity in France.

France has lost its sweet tooth. Recent official statistics show that, because sugar was unobtainable during the war, children born between 1914 and 1919 have been educated by their parents not to require sugar in their drinks and food.

As a result the consumption of sugar in France has fallen to one-eighth the pre-war mark.

France has become such an unprofitable market for this chocolate that nearly all the big manufacturers are turning their plants to their output to the United States and South America.

POULTRY

KEEP POULTRY HOUSE CLEAN

Excrement Harbors Parasites, Contaminates Air and Breeds Contagion of Many Kinds.

Everything about a poultry house should be kept reasonably clean. As a rule droppings should be removed daily, for the accumulation of excrement harbors parasites, contaminates the air, and breeds contagion. After the dropping boards have been cleaned they should be sprinkled with road dust, coal ashes, or sand plaster, to absorb the liquid excrement, the poultry division of the United States department of agriculture suggests. Nests in which straw or other similar material is used should be cleaned every every three or four weeks, or oftener if it becomes damp or dirty.

The quarters should be thoroughly whitewashed at least once a year. Late in summer or early in the fall. The whitewash can be made by slaking lime in boiling water and then thinning to the proper consistency for applying. The addition of four ounces of carbolic acid to each gallon of whitewash will increase its disinfecting power. The runs should be plowed occasionally in order to bury the accumulated droppings and also to turn up fresh soil.

KILL DEVITALIZING INSECTS

Paint Roosts With Kerosene Oil to Get Rid of Mites—Use Blue Ointment for Lice.

The protection from mites means simply to paint the roosts about once each week with kerosene oil and the lice can be killed off for the summer by giving each bird the blue ointment treatment at the beginning of hot weather. This has been told many times by poultrymen and probably there is no poultry fact that needs more frequent repetition than the best method of killing these devitalizing pests.

CULLING POOR LAYERS

Cull all hens that show:

1. Well along in the molt with combs and wattles dried up.
2. All that have lay bones less than two fingers apart and small capacity.
3. Abdomen and vent dry and puckered.
4. Yellow shank and beak.
5. Apply all the test; don't apply just a part of it—do it right.

DRY MASH FEED FOR CHICKS

Animal Food in Some Form, Preferably Buttermilk, Should Be Kept Before Fowls.

A dry mash feed should be kept before the chicks continuously—a mash feed containing animal protein in some form, preferably buttermilk, meat scraps or fish scraps. These elements of animal protein in prepared mash feeds are profitably dried and do not easily decompose.

GET EGGS FROM TURKEY HENS

Increased Production Can Be Obtained by Feeding Ground Oats, Corn and Other Cereals.

Increase of egg production in turkey hens can be done the same as with chickens, by feeding ground oats, ground corn, kaffir meal, barley meal, wheat middlings, linseed meal, and sunflower seed, in equal quantities. This can be fed dry in hoppers, or mixed with milk or water.

MITE IS ENEMY OF CHICKEN

Insect Does Not Bother Other Fowls to Any Extent—Carried About in Empty Crates.

Chicken mites do not feed to any great extent upon other fowls when chickens are at hand. They are carried about chiefly by the interchange of poultry and in crates and boxes in which fowls are shipped.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

Soup is seasonable the year round in any climate. The following will be found quite worth while:

Hot Soup.—Soak one cupful of bread crumbs in one-half cupful of milk. Add the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs rubbed through a sieve and the breast of a stewed chicken, also rubbed through a sieve; add three and one-half cupfuls of stock, highly seasoned, one and one-half cupfuls of melted milk, and two and one-half tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter cooked together. Season with salt and pepper.

Pressed Beef Flank.—Wipe, remove superfluous fat and roll a flank of beef. Put into a kettle cover with boiling water and add one tablespoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of peppercorns, a small piece of bay leaf and the bone of a shank of veal. Cook slowly until the meat is very tender. There should be very little liquor in the kettle when the meat is done. Arrange the meat in a deep pan, pour over the liquor, cover and press with a heavy weight. Serve cold.

Chicken a la Stanley.—Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one large onion thinly sliced and two broilers cut in pieces for serving. Cover and cook slowly for ten minutes, then add one cupful of chicken stock and cook until the meat is tender. Remove the chickens, rub the stock and onions through a sieve and add one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour cooked together. Add cream to make the sauce of the right consistency. Season with salt and pepper. Arrange the chicken on a serving dish, pour around the sauce, and garnish the dish with sliced bananas dipped in flour and sautéed in butter.

Baked Dressing.—To one cupful of beaten eggs, a mixture of white and yolk, add an equal quantity of mild vinegar. Cook over hot water till thick. Season when ready to use. Will keep for weeks in a jar well sealed and placed in a cool place.

HOT WEATHER DISHES.

There is nothing one may prepare which takes the place of salads of various kinds, especially on hot days.

Simple Onion Salad.—Take the small green-topped onions, slice very thin and serve with a dressing of sour cream, salt and paprika. Served with bread and butter it is a meal with a glass of good cold jelly.

Tomato Jelly Salad.—To one can of strained tomato, well strained, add one teaspoonful each of salt and powdered sugar and two-thirds of a box of gelatin softened in one-half cupful of cold water. Pour into small cups and chill. When ready to serve unmold on head lettuce and serve covered with mayonnaise dressing.

Tomato Salad with Asparagus Tips.—Prepare tomato shells; invert to drain. Cut cold cooked and seasoned asparagus tips in bits and fill the shells after salting them. Season with grated onion, cover with mayonnaise and serve well chilled.

Sweetbreads and Cucumber Salad.—Mix two sweetbreads cut in dice with half the minced cucumber, salt and a half cupful of dried celery. Mix with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Cottage Cheese and Chives Salad.—Mix two cupfuls of well-seasoned cottage cheese which has been enriched with thick cream with one-half cupful of finely minced chives. Mold and serve with a simple boiled dressing.

Cucumbers in Sour Cream.—Peel and slice cucumbers as usual, cover with cold water to which a teaspoonful of salt has been added. Let them stand until well wilted, drain and plunge into ice water. Let stand for a half hour, drain and dry on a cloth. Then cover with a thick sour cream which has been seasoned with salt, cayenne pepper, a dash of mustard and a teaspoonful of sugar. If the cream is not sour enough add a dash of vinegar. Serve well chilled.

Summer Dessert.—Fill a baked pastry shell with fresh fruit, top with ice cream or whipped cream and serve from the table.

HOW SCIENTISTS EXAMINE SOILS

Survey of Important Work of One of Branches of Department of Agriculture.

STUDIED VARIED ACTIVITIES

Bureau Took Active Part With Geological Survey in Nation-Wide Search for Deposits of Nitrates and Potash.

During the twenty years of its existence, the bureau of soils, United States department of agriculture, has studied the chemical constituents of the soils of all parts of the country. It has investigated these constituents qualitatively and quantitatively, showing their relation to one another and to plants, their solubility and permanency, and the manner of their functioning. It has studied the problem of soil—that condition arising where soils contain an excess of soluble salts—and devised methods for measuring the content of alkali in the field and for eliminating it under field conditions. It has studied hardpans, explained the manner of their formation, and suggested the means of improving lands affected with the different sorts. These various activities have involved the making of thousands of analyses and the devising of much apparatus.

Public Given Advice and Counsel.

Advice and counsel is given by the bureau to the public on all matters connected with soil chemistry. The bureau has also investigated the physical properties of soils. It has devised apparatus for measuring the temperature of soils, the movement of water and of air and other gases in soils. The absorption of water, the extent and rate of capillary action, the effect of pressure on the concentration of the nutrient solution, and on the retention of that solution in the soil, the relation of soils to erosion, and many kindred problems have been worked upon.

The bureau has also worked upon the problem of the fixation of nitrogen found in the air in its experimental factory at Arlington, much advance having been made. Carried to its logical conclusion this move will result in supplying easily all the nitrogen the country needs in agriculture and industry.

Soil surveys have been made in all the states of the union. The surveys are of two kinds; detailed surveys on the scale of one inch to the mile usually covering county units, and reconnaissance surveys much more general in character, made on scales of four to six inches to the mile and covering large areas. At the close of the last fiscal year an area of 331,437-

Filter Press, Used in Soil Investigations.

360 acres had been surveyed in detail and 322,700,960 acres on a reconnaissance basis. These surveys involve the identification and classification of the many types of soils found in various parts of the country, a study of their agricultural value, and a determination of their relation to the various crops and systems of agriculture.

Advancement of Agriculture.

The results of the soil survey work form a basis for the logical advancement of agriculture through experimentation of scientific workers in all its varied lines.

The land classification work of the bureau is done in co-operation with the forest service and other departments of the government, and has for its purpose the exclusion, from the national reserves, of lands that are suited for agriculture.

An interesting special investigation in connection with the potash supply has to do with the extraction of this salt from the giant kelp of the Pacific coast. A fully equipped factory has been operated at Seagrind, California, for the last two years, and thousands of dollars worth of potash has been sold to the fertilizer trade or direct to farmers.

The plant will be operated during the coming fiscal year, a careful study being made of the practicability of recovering various by-products, so that the industry may be able to compete with imported potash and the kelp may become a permanently valuable asset of the nation.

Women of Kentucky Know the Issues!

The Republican Party asks the women of Kentucky to vote the straight Republican ticket on November 2nd strictly upon the issues involved in this campaign.

Every woman in Kentucky knows the true campaign issues.

The League of Nations as brought back from France by Woodrow Wilson and endorsed by the Democratic candidate for President is an offense to American womanhood.

It would barter off everything that the American nation and the American home stand for—that right to think and act for ourselves, to live our own lives and to help others as we can.

It would send our sons to war without our consent, to fight for interests which are without our sympathy, at the order of foreign politicians and self-seekers who are not thinking of America or her people.

Instead of keeping us out of war, it would keep us constantly in war, as it would bind us to "preserve the territorial integrity" of every nation.

No thinking Kentucky woman would trade the protecting wisdom of the American constitution for the selfish dictation of a group of European "diplomats."

Kentucky women know that the Democratic Party and its candidates stand for this so-called "peace" with all its obnoxious provisions.

Kentucky women know that the Republican Party stands for an honorable peace, with immediate attention of our President and our Congress to THIS country, its people and its homes, the return to a normal living basis, and the proper distribution of governmental control, with a broad and sympathetic friendship for all nations that neither interfere with their affairs nor permits them to interfere with ours.

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

This week marks the first invasion of Kentucky by Democratic speakers of national reputation during the present campaign.

At Louisville Monday night Mrs. Geo. Bass and Mrs. Borden Harriman addressed a woman's mass meeting at Phoenix Hall Park. It was the first women's political rally of any size ever held in Louisville and also marked the first time that women vice presidents served at the gathering.

Mrs. Bass, who lives in Chicago, is the first woman ever to wield a gavel during a national convention. For a short time at San Francisco she reigned as Chairman Joe Robinson of his duties. Mrs. Harriman is national president of the Cox and Roosevelt clubs.

Another star of the "big-time" circuit was brought to Kentucky this week in the person of Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown, who is spending the entire week in the state. Mrs. Brown was Izetta Jewell, the actress, and made a second speech for the nomination of John W. Davis, at the San Francisco convention that moved the headquarters to play "O. You Beautiful Doll." Mrs. Brown is a speaker of rare magnetism and was the best at either national convention.

Charles H. Brough, former governor of Missouri, is booked for Winchester and Lexington on September 22 and for Harrodsburg and Shelbyville the 23rd.

The influx of speakers from the national speaking bureau will be followed by others. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, who is proving such an attractive candidate to the independent voter, will speak in Kentucky on October 1 and 2. One of the speeches will be in Louisville and two others will probably be made by him in Central Kentucky.

Gov. Cox will make the state on the whirlwind of his long tour according to advices from national headquarters. Joust Shouse and Senator Duncan Fletcher of Florida will also speak in the state.

Senator J. C. W. Beckham and Congressman Ben Johnson have pledged the support of the women of Nelson county. Both are sons of that county up for re-election.

Senator Beckham is on a two weeks tour of the mountain district of the state. He has always been popular in the Republican stronghold of the state because of legislation enacted during his term as governor clearing the land titles to property ripe for development.

"To the Republican machine 'Votes for Women' means votes for colored women," says an editorial in the Louisville Evening Post. "Now that the ballot has been given to all women, it is assuming far too much to believe that the white women of Kentucky will not use it, but will allow themselves to be represented by the 75,000 colored women of voting age in this state."

During six years in the United States Senate Warren G. Harding has missed 1,03 roll calls. He was not absent from Washington, but didn't want to be counted, as spent his time in the cloakrooms "trifling." A slacker in the Senate, it is unlikely that he can be regarded as a man for the White House.

After Thorough Trial a Detroit, Mich., Man Endorses Pe-ru-na

The following letter written from Detroit, Michigan is no snap judgment expressed on the merits of Pe-ru-na, the well-known catarrh remedy, but rather a mature, sober opinion formed after a full year's trial.

This is the way Mr. Michael Fakos of 908 East Palmer Avenue, in the Michigan Metropolitan, writes: "After using PE-RU-NA for about one year I say I have found it a very good medicine for catarrh. It has helped me a great deal and I am very well satisfied. I have gained in weight, eat and sleep well, my bowels are regular and better color in my face."

"PE-RU-NA has done wonders and to me is worth its weight in gold. I shall continue to use PE-RU-NA as long as I live and recommend to my friends who are troubled with catarrh. Nothing can be more convincing than an endorsement of this nature from an actual user. There are many people in every community whose experience, in using Pe-ru-na, has been identical with Mr. Fakos'. It is the standby for coughs, colds, catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders and all catarrhal conditions. Put up in both tablet and liquid form. SOLD EVERYWHERE."

Registration days in cities of the first four classes should not be forgotten. The first day falls on October 5 and where enacted by ordinance the next day is also a registration day.

While a Congressman and a candidate for Governor James M. Cox worked vigorously for the adoption of the present Ohio constitution, regarded as one of the most progressive in the country. Harding the reactionary opposed it and when it was adopted declared "Ohio has cast off her moorings; the Revolution is on." The utterance was typical of Harding's attitude toward all progress.

BOY ORATOR WILL CAMPAIGN FOR COX

HARRIS G. WHITTENBERG.

Something new in the speaking line will be offered Kentucky citizens when the Democrats put Harris Gilbert Whittenberg on the stump later in the campaign.

Whittenberg is the fourteen-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Whittenberg of Jefferson county. His father was former county health officer. Young Whittenberg has made an intensive study of the League of Nations and delivers a clear and interesting oration on this subject. He was formerly a page in the Kentucky Senate and on his election made a speech of thanks to the legislature that was his much appreciated.

The pay of Salvation Army officers runs from $9.50 per week to less than $30 per week. Commander Evangeline Booth, who is in command of the Salvation Army throughout America, had an income of less than $1,000 for the past year, according to the tax man.

President Wilson says, "No one who has watched, even superficially, the work and progress of the Salvation Army, can fail to feel the deepest and most sincere interest in its success."

Sixty influenza patients were taken care of by the Salvation Army during the recent epidemic in Parkersburg. Nearly 170 were nursed through the great epidemic of 1918 in Charleston.

"The efforts of the Salvation Army are worthy of the highest appreciation," says Sir Robert Borden, prime minister of Canada.

Hundreds of colored girls and women have been cured for within the past three or four years at the Salvation Army maternity home for the colored, in Cincinnati, O.

How Indian Girl Won Fame.

The part played by Wisconsin's citizens of Indian descent in the World war has won for them a deserved tribute of widespread admiration. Few people are aware of the creditable achievement, on record at the state historical library of a Wisconsin Indian girl in the pleasant field of constructive civilization. Nancy Skenead was born at Oneda, the Indian reservation near Green Bay, in June, 1861. In 1890 she graduated from a Connecticut training school for nurses and practiced her profession until her death in 1918. In the church entrance at Oneda is a bronze tablet to her memory which states that she was the first Indian trained nurse in the United States.—Milwaukee Journal.

WEALTH IN WEST

Canadian Farmer's Comment of Record Grain Crop.

A Boston banker, desiring to recuperate from a season of strenuous work, did what most bankers do, or should do, took a holiday, away from the confines of the city life. Canada was in his mind. He would make the trip, learn something of the country, breathe of its ozone and return exhilarated both in mind and body. On his return a few days ago, he told the reporter of the Wall Street Journal of the richness of the vast fields of golden grain that he saw on his trip thru the Canadian West. Doubtless he broke his journey into the Canadian Rockies long enough to make an inspection of them. Who could help it, as from the car window were to be seen miles and miles of golden stalks, ranged row upon row away back to the lines of the horizon. He must have done so, for when he got back to the Hub, he was filled with enthusiasm over his trip and what he saw in Canada, and he had to get it off his mind. It was revealed in this way:

"Canada is getting strong, recovering by leaps and bounds from the depression caused by war. While unrest and lack of co-operation seem to be holding things back on this side of the border the Dominion to the north faces an era of unprecedented activity and prosperity. One of the basic reasons for this brilliant comeback is the rich yield of the great northwestern wheat fields. That the crops in Canada, both east and west, are meeting the expectations of the farmers is a satisfying fact, which gives a positive assurance of a yield that will mean millions of dollars to the wealth of the country. There will probably be as much as two hundred million bushels of wheat to export, giving an added wealth to the country of nearly a half billion dollars. In all parts the crop yield promises to be abundant, and with favorable weather from now on there may be expected a harvest that will equal if not surpass that of 1915.

POULTRY MAXIMS.

It is urged that all farmers and poultrymen adhere strictly to the following principal rules in handling their poultry and eggs:

Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens.

Gather the eggs twice daily.

Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.

Market the eggs at least twice a week.

Sell, kill, or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over, so as to produce infertile eggs. The male bird has no effect on the number of eggs produced.

Dispose of the male birds as soon as the hatching season is over, so as to produce infertile eggs.

The absence of the male has no effect on the number of eggs received. Infertile eggs stand market conditions better and are better for preserving for winter use.

Keep the flock free from lice and mites. Whitewash the poultry houses and keep clean litter in them.

Give your feed to pure bred stock and they will repay you many times.

Scrub Sire Not Economical.

The only reason that the average person can give for using a scrub sire in any line of live stock breeding is that they think they are making money by using a cheap animal. They do not figure into the future and see that it is the offspring of this animal which will either make or lose money. The corn breeder does not think of selecting the bunnies with which to plant his corn field. Neither can the live stock man afford to select a sire which will not produce a better and more uniform class of stuff. A glance into the live stock market will convince one that the purebred sire with the proper individual merit will be a paying investment. When common and inferior steers are selling for 9 cents, a better grade of steers in the same kind of flesh are usually selling for from 10 to 11 cents. In addition to this, the better cattle usually will put on gains more economically.

Washington, Sept. 27.—The potato crop this year is a record breaker—412,000,000 bushels—four bushels for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Storing Fruits and Vegetables

Lexington, Ky.—Every year the people are troubled by the fact that large amounts of food stuffs are annually lost if a few simple rules are followed. The College of Agriculture has found that where good ventilation is provided, this can be accomplished in several ways. First, make sure that all the containers, boxes, barrels and crates have openings, so as to permit a good circulation of air. Bore holes in sides and bottom or cut slats in the sides. Second, be sure that some means is provided whereby there will be a good circulation of air in the storage room. Openings are usually found in the top of all cellars or caves but unless some means is provided to admit the cold air to the floor there will not be much ventilation even when there is an opening at the top. Often six inches cut off at the bottom of the door will provide a good circulation of air. This opening can be covered with wire netting to exclude rats or cats. This direct air can also be provided by laying a 10-inch tile from the outside to the center of the floor. Remembering to have the outside opening at least two feet lower than the opening in the floor.

With these simple suggestions followed in providing a means of ventilation, one should be able to keep fruit and vegetables. As a rule the nights are cool in the fall and by opening all ventilators at night and closing them in the day it is possible to keep the storage room very near the night temperature.

"Boys, Get The Money"

There may be some dispute and some debate about the exactness of Governor Cox's figures of the Republican slush fund, but there can be no denial of the fact that he has shown by official Republican documents that commercialism is written all over the Republican campaign—organizing commercialism.

"Boys, get the money" is the refrain that runs through every line of the Republican campaign.

Harding and Coolidge have the confidence of the people—but, boys, get the money. The platform is sound enough to hold the weight of the Nation—but, boys, get the money.

This is simply another example of Republican reaction. It is back to Dudley's "blocks of five"; it's a return to Quay's "shaking the plum tree."

The general staff of the Republican party in their plan of campaign do not rely on appeals to reason, to patriotism and right; they rely on money. The candidate is a great and good man—but, boys, get the money; America first—but, boys, get the money; an understanding among the nations of the world is great and glorious—but, boys, get the money.

Too many American boys have recently died for their country for us to put the Presidency up for sale to the highest bidder this year.

Times Becoming Normal.

"Industry, credit, prices, everything seems to be trying to get back to a more normal level, and even labor will eventually undergo some liquidation."

This was the statement made by Richard S. Hawes, of Saint Louis, president of the American Bankers' Association, in a recent address before the Kentucky Bankers' Association at Louisville.

Mr. Hawes said that the people were now beginning to economize, after an orgy of senseless spending. This is one of the main factors in bringing down prices, and will eventually bring back normal times, but not the pre-war prices for a considerable time.

Some months ago Mr. Hawes, in a signed statement said that for the average investor U. S. Securities were by far the best and safest. If the people will now refrain from senseless spending, and invest their money in Government securities, they will bring back normal times much sooner.

How to Control Hog Parasites.

To keep swine healthy and thrifty, provide them with sanitary quarters and a clean wallow, in addition to proper feed. But when external parasites affect hogs an effective remedy must be used if losses are to be avoided. Lice and mange mites are the two principal kinds of external parasites occurring among swine. The mites are particularly injurious to pigs and poorly nourished hogs. "Hog Lice and Hog Mange" is the title of a new farmers' bulletin recently issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, telling specifically how to identify the parasites and describing effective and economical remedies. Plans of hog wallows and dipping vats, together with directions for building them are given. For information on this important subject, ask the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin, No. 1065.

Compilations made by the R. F. Goodrich Company from reports of Secretaries of State and estimates of its own statisticians show that there were 863,088 trucks in use at the end of the year 1918, as compared with approximately 700,000 for the preceding year. Kentucky has 9,115.

Mr. E. M. Arnold, County Road Engineer, has resigned to accept a position with the Georgia road department at a salary of $2,400 and expenses. Mr. Arnold is a good roadman and the county will have trouble in getting a man to fill the vacancy.

Boone county never had a better or larger crop of tobacco than the one that is being raised.

For best results it is imperative that sheep have frequent changes of pasture, that a "fresh bite" be had, that grass may not be too closely bitten, that worms therefore will be less likely to infest them and that they may have a surer supply of mineral matter as well as organic matter in their feed. Lambs especially must have new seeding each spring. On the sheep-tainted and contaminated pastures they infest themselves with worms. On new grass they escape worms and besides that, find such grass more palatable and easily masticated and digested.

STANDARDIZATION IS ESSENTIAL FOR ECONOMICAL MARKET SYSTEM

The basket on the right may appear to hold more potatoes, but in fact it contains fewer potatoes than the one on the left.

It is generally agreed that if food costs are to be lowered a more economical system of distribution of farm products must be perfected and placed in practical use.

Standardization, say experts of the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, is the essential basis for such a system. This means not only standard grades for fruits and vegetables, but standards for the containers in which they are packed.

Should Sell by Weight.

The bureau of markets is charged with the enforcement of the United States standard container act which provides only for standard capacities for grape and berry baskets used in interstate commerce. The application of this law has resulted in the widespread use of these containers in interstate commerce also, for shippers have come to appreciate the benefits derived from the use of uniform methods of marketing such fruits.

Standardization of larger shipping containers, such as hampers and round-stave baskets, is equally desirable, say the bureau's experts. Of course the best method is to sell produce by the pound, but where it is impracticable to sell by weight uniform containers should be used. Bushel baskets of peaches from Georgia and Colorado should contain the same quantity of peaches. The same is true of any other food commodity shipped in hampers or baskets.

An illustration of how the present methods result in dissatisfaction is the case of a Florida producer who recently shipped potatoes to the New York market in a container with which the trade was not familiar. Although the potatoes were of high quality difficulty was experienced in disposing of them. When they were finally sold the price was considerably lower per pound than that commanded by potatoes packed in the customary manner.

At present there are about fifty types of hampers and over twenty sizes of round-stave baskets in use. Many of these sizes are simply the outgrowth of custom in various shipping localities; others are used for the express purpose of deception. And aside from the confusion and uncertainty that result from the use of dozens of different kinds of containers millions of dollars are annually lost through destruction of produce in transit on account of the weak construction of the containers used.

Would Reduce Number of Containers.

Many large growers, shippers and basket manufacturers appreciate the desirability of reducing the number of these containers, and a nation-wide movement is on foot to eliminate many of them. Co-operative selling organizations are already doing much to promote uniformity and standardization. It means money to them not only because of the familiarity of the trade with the containers used but in permitting methods of loading into cars that reduce the likelihood of breakage to a minimum.

After a careful canvass of the situation the bureau of markets believes, and in this those who have studied the problem are of the same opinion, that five standard hampers and four standard round-stave baskets are sufficient to meet all shipping requirements. The specifications provide for volume, dimensions or shape and strength. In addition to the advantages of uniformity the adoption of these sizes will enable the railroads to work out loading rules that will permit of a more intensive utilization of car space, and which will be bound to reduce to a minimum claims on account of damage in transit.

MOSAIC DISEASE OF POTATOES PREVENTED

Yield of Affected Tubers Is Greatly Reduced.

Illness Is Spread by Aphids or Plant Lice Which Carry Infection From One Field to Another—Means of Control.

Prevention of mosaic disease of Irish potatoes, which decreases yields of affected potatoes 20 to 50 per cent, and for which no satisfactory control measures have been generally adopted, now appears possible as a result of a series of investigations conducted in Maine by specialists of the United States department of agriculture and the Maine agricultural experiment station.

The essential points are that mosaic is carried over from season to season and from farm to farm by planting potatoes from diseased hills. The spread of mosaic in a field is due mainly to aphids or plant lice, which feed upon mosaic plants and then upon healthy ones. The potatoes thus inoculated may show the disease very soon, or it may not appear until the following season, when the progeny will develop mosaic. Mosaic may be spread also by rubbing crushed leaves of diseased plants upon healthy ones, and by injections of the juice of diseased plants.

The percentage of diseased plants in a field may not change greatly from year to year, but the tendency is for the mosaic to increase, particularly when aphids are abundant. Seed from hills that grew near mosaic hills are more likely to yield mosaic progeny, and more so if the parent hill contains only two or three tubers, and as the relative size of the tuber in the parent hill is greater and as the seed-piece is nearer the bud end or is larger.

The conclusions drawn from the experiments are that the first essential is to secure seed stock from fields entirely free from mosaic, or as nearly so as can be found. These potatoes should be isolated from all fields where mosaic occurs and every effort should be made to prevent attack by aphids. Then far, Colorado beetles and flea beetles have not been found to transmit mosaic, nor does the disease live in the soil except in volunteer plants.

WEIGHT OF SILAGE

Frequent inquiries about the weight of settled silage are made to the Iowa agricultural experiment station. The average weight per cubic foot of settled silage to the various depths in a silo has been figured out as follows:

10 ft., 35 lbs.; 11 ft., 35.3 lbs.; 12 ft., 35.6 lbs.; 13 ft., 35.9 lbs.; 14 ft., 36.2 lbs.; 15 ft., 36.4 lbs.; 16 ft., 36.7 lbs.; 17 ft., 36.9 lbs.; 18 ft., 37.1 lbs.; 19 ft., 37.3 lbs.; 20 ft., 37.5 lbs.; 21 ft., 37.6 lbs.; 22 ft., 37.8 lbs.; 23 ft., 38.0 lbs.; 24 ft., 38.1 lbs.; 25 ft., 38.3 lbs.; 26 ft., 38.4 lbs.; 27 ft., 38.6 lbs.; 28 ft., 38.7 lbs.; 29 ft., 38.9 lbs.; 30 ft., 39.0 lbs.

To find the number of cubic feet of silage in a silo find the radius, or one-half the diameter of the silo (inside) in feet; multiply that number by itself and then by 3.1416 and you have the cubic feet for one foot of depth; multiply that product by the depth of the silage in feet and you have the total cubic feet.

THICKEN STAND OF ALFALFA

Labor Involved and Cost of Seed Is Little Compared With Plowing and Reseeding.

While it is not always possible to thicken a thin stand of alfalfa, the labor involved and the cost of seed is little as compared with plowing and reseeding entirely, which makes a trial well worth while. It is worth trying if the old plants are hardy and vigorous, indicating favorable soil conditions. If the old plants are weak it is well to learn the difficulty before spending more money and time to get a stand.

DESTROY LICE IN BROODERS

Excellent Plan to Make Sure That All Vermin Is Cleared From Coops Before Storing.

After the chicks get too big for brooders or coops and are ready to start rooting in the houses, it is well to make sure no lice or mites remain in the coops and brooders before they are put away for next season.

Organization

Is Only Salvation of Growers of Tobacco.

In another column in this issue will be found the proceedings of the Burley Tobacco Growers Association held at Lexington on the 30th ult., at which about 200 farmers from Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana were present, and adopted a charter and by-laws which had been prepared by Judge Geo. C. Webb, of Lexington, who will be attorney for the association. A motion was passed to have copies of the Chairmans address printed and mailed to the county organizations for distribution among the members.

Organization of the tobacco growers of the Burley District is very necessary, if the production of tobacco is to be continued at a profit. The organization which has already been started has gained considerable headway. If the present crop of tobacco goes on the market with every man for account of engine trouble. He himself and devil take the hindmost, probabilities are that most growers will find that this years crop has been produced at a loss. While it is true that the crop of 1921 can be accomplished, some means of curtailing the amount to be raised can surely be had if the growers will organize. The meeting held at Raleigh, N. C., last week in which it was agreed that not a pound of tobacco would be grown by the thousand planters present, until the 1920 crop has been sold at a profit, may point the way to the Burley growers. Certain it is that a universal agreement of Burley growers of a similar character will have a salutatory effect, and when the manufacturers see they are in earnest satisfactory prices will be paid. It is time for the growers to wake up to the conditions which confronts them.

High School Notes.

School is progressing nicely in all the departments with an enrollment of 125. There are about 40 in the High School proper and 10 in the Senior Class.

The Bellevue High school has been transferred to the County High School. This change was due to the fact that the former school was in poor repair. The arrangement will probably be temporary as an effort is being made to secure a principal.

The first regular meeting of the High School Literary Society will be held Friday afternoon, Oct. 15, from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. An interesting program will be given and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The basket ball season has opened with great enthusiasm. The local boys and girls will play the following weeks during the coming week: Petersburg, Union, Independence, Erlanger, Walton and Lawrenceburg, Indiana. A successful season is predicted.

The first basket ball contest was played last Friday with Petersburg. The B. H. S. boys won easily by the score of 48 to 21, while our girls were defeated by the close score of 4 to 2. Petersburg returns the games on Friday, Oct. 15. This will be the first game on the local ground. The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp. Everybody out!

An earnest effort will be made in the near future to organize our organization rather the Parent-Teachers Association. The Burlington schools should have an active and live organization of such kind for our needs are indeed quite numerous. Our boys and girls are entitled to the best and such an association can do much to help us reach that standard.

The classes in expression have been organized and are doing capable work under the efficient supervision of Miss Kreylich. The piano classes will be started this week with an experienced teacher in charge.

It will be our purpose to publish High School Notes each week to acquaint the public with all the school activities. In this way we hope to create a still greater public school interest. We extend a most cordial invitation to all to visit the school at any time.

"Back-to-Normal" SALE

The crowds that have been attending this extraordinary sale this week well demonstrates the welcome that has been accorded our efforts to bring prices "back to normal." Though the break in prices that has been noted in the daily newspapers of late dates are sharp in many instances, they would not influence the present cost to customers owing to the many hands through which the raw material must pass before being offered for sale to the general public.

Coppin's, however, entirely ignore this condition, and offer you the advantage of these price reductions NOW, though the merchandise we offer cost us the old high prices. All brand new fall and winter merchandise of our standard quality, at these sensationally reduced prices is what is keeping this sale.

Growing Greater Every Day

It will pay you to do your entire buying for fall and winter while the opportunity is yours to make this big saving.

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

A Democratic campaign in Kentucky was ever marked by such a galaxy of speakers as is appearing in this State at present. Governor Cox, the Democratic standard bearer, will be in Kentucky on October 7th and 8th, Elizabethtown, Bowling Green, Paducah and Louisville being his principal stops. His running mate, Franklin D. Roosevelt, toured the State last Friday and Saturday.

Secretary of State Coffey will be in Louisville on the night of October 22nd. Coffey is one of the finest speakers in the country, and will no doubt attract Democrats from out in the State as well as in Louisville.

A notable array of the nation's law-breakers will also campaign the State for the Democratic cause. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt is booked in Kentucky for October 18th, 19th and 20th. Senator J. C. Heflin of Alabama is in the State all of this week, as is Congressman Claude Weaver of Oklahoma. Congressman Edward B. Altman of Alabama will campaign the State during the week of October 18th. Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama will also be here on several dates not yet assigned.

An effort of the Republican National Headquarters to line up the churches against the League of Nations is seen in the telegram sent to Dr. E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian Church at Louisville, by Fred B. Smith, a prominent Y. M. C. A. and Inter-Church World Movement worker. Smith asked Dr. Powell to help him invite to clergymen from the Central West to make a pilgrimage to Harding's farm porch at Marion, Ky. Dr. Powell declined to become a party to such a move, and suggested that Smith "place a trumpet to his lips and blow a blast that would rally to the League of Nations every minister in the country." The Church Boards and Councils are already committed to the League of Nations, and this G. O. P. move is an effort to reverse them in their decisions.

Prospects for a Democratic victory in Kentucky never appeared brighter. The first week's straw vote in the Rex all drug stores throughout the State shows a total of 6,130 votes for Cox against 3,508 for Harding. Even in Louisville, which is under Republican control, Cox is running ahead with 363 to Harding's 288.

In a speech made at Baltimore Senator Harding frankly confessed to incompetence for the office of President of the United States, in response to a question from the audience about the League of Nations, he answered, "I am perfectly frank to say to you that I am without a single program constructive in character about an association of nations." After three years of world-wide discussion of the principle of the League of Nations, here is a candidate for President who confesses that he hasn't got an idea on the subject. Can you beat it?

The majority of the leaders of the Bull Moose party, disgusted with the reactionary control of the Republican party, have definitely announced their support of the Democratic ticket, and appeal to all progressives to vote for Cox. Among them are Harold L. Ickes and Antoinette Funk, both of whom were delegates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago; Ben R. Lindsey, Colorado, founder of the Juvenile courts; Francis J. Heney, of San Francisco, who paraded California politics of corrupt corporate influence; John M. Parker, Louisiana, who was Theodore Roosevelt's candidate for Vice President on the Progressive ticket. Their action will influence thousands of independent voters to line up with Cox.

Presiding said, "Lafayette, we are here," Harding echoes, "Lafayette, we have quit."

In striking contrast to Senator Harding's opposition to the Federal Farm Loan Act and his advocacy of one dollar wheat, is Gov. Cox's aggressive campaign to help Ohio farmers buy tractors. In 1918 Gov. Cox deposited two million dollars of the State Industrial Commission money in country banks, so that part of it could be loaned to farmers to buy tractors. He then secured a ruling from the Federal Reserve Bank that notes given by farmers purchasing tractors be discounted on the same basis as agricultural implement paper. By these means Ohio farmers were enabled to buy that year 1,602 farm tractors, doubling the number in the State.

The Republican campaign handbook omits the covenant of the League of Nations entirely. Perhaps they did not consider the League of Nations an issue in this campaign.

"Dollar wheat makes a very profitable occupation to a farmer who farms a farm," Senator Harding. BUT DOESN'T THE MONEY.

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

With the appointment of an executive committee of men and women to guide the policies of the campaign, the Democrats have about completed their organization. Chairman John L. Gray appointed the following men: Judge Alex P. Humphrey, Louisville; Senator George B. Martin, Cynthiana; Judge Chas. A. Hardin, Harrodsburg; Col. P. H. Callahan, Louisville; Senator Chas. M. Harris, Versailles; Hon. W. J. Sparks, Mt. Vernon; Thos. S. Iken, Russellville. Mrs. Samuel M. Wilson, chairman Woman's Department, has appointed the following women to advise with her: Mrs. John B. Casselman, Louisville; Mrs. A. M. Harrison, Lexington; Mr. John Patton, Bardonia; Miss Alice Lloyd, Mayfield; Mrs. Sam R. Watkins, Owensboro; Mrs. Shelby Rose, Cynthiana; and Mrs. J. B. Phillips, Paducah. These two groups contain the leading citizens of Kentucky, and the quality of their attainments and character will doubtless attract the independent as well as the Democratic voter.

William Adams, Jr., adjutant of the Stephen B. Whalon Post of the American Legion, has accepted the appointment as chairman of the Cox and Roosevelt Club in Harrison county. Mr. Adams is a member of the State Executive Board of the American Legion, and is one of the many former service men who recognize in the platform and purposes of the Democratic party those ideals for which they went to war.

Is there any comparison between sixteen dollars a ton coal and the Republican slash fund? The coal operator, as confessed at Chicago that he had collected sixteen thousand dollars from other coal operators to help elect Harding says he was forced to make these assessments. Are the people being assessed so much a ton of coal to help elect Harding? There seems to be a distinct relation between the high price of coal and the high price of elections.

The League of Nations isn't good enough for Warren G. Harding to subscribe to, but it's good enough for him to steal from.

Here are a few of the oratorical heavy artillery who have been collected by chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, Harry V. McChesney, to shell the woods for the Democrats in this campaign: Gov. James M. Cox, Franklin D. Roosevelt, William G. McAdoo, Congressman Heflin of Alabama; Senator J. C. W. Beckham; Senator A. O. Stanley; Mrs. Clara Wilson Stewart; Miss Alice Lloyd; Mrs. A. M. Harrison; Gov. Charles A. Brough, of Arkansas; Holm Bruce, W. W. Davies, Mrs. Geo. Bass, of Illinois; Mrs. Borden Harriman, of New York; A. W. Barkley, D. H. Kitchel, of A. V. Thomas, Jr., Ben Johnson, A. E. Rouse, J. Campbell Cantrill, W. J. Fields.

Mr. H. B. Kinsolving, Jr., of Shelbyville, is another ex-service man who has become actively enlisted in the work of making Kentucky safe for Democracy this fall. Mr. Kinsolving was captain of the Field Artillery during the World War and served as instructor at Camp Taylor and Fort Sill. He has perfected organizations of Cox and Roosevelt clubs in every precinct in the state. His estimate is that there will be four thousand young men and young women Democratic clubs in the state when this work gets under way.

It is the vital duty of all organizations to awaken voters to the necessity of registering in October so that they will not lose their vote in November. October 5 is registration day in all cities of the first four classes in Kentucky and also October 6, wherever fixed by ordinance. It is imperative that every white voter register on these two days.

HARDING WORRIES REPUBLICAN PRESS

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 8.—Wholesome and uninterested support of Warren G. Harding, the Republican candidate for president, is proving a trying effort for many Republican newspapers.

With Senator Harding's attempt to substitute his own plan of world peace for the League of Nations, already subscribed to by twenty-nine of the leading nations of the world, the majority of Republican press finds severe fault.

On this point the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Republican, writes that Senator Harding "will not arouse any tremendous enthusiasm in this practical nation by rallying it to take a stand on the potted platform of the Hague Tribunal, the most pathetic failure in history."

On the same question the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, a Republican paper, disagrees with Harding in his attempt to prove that Poland's troubles can be traced to the League of Nations. The League, it says, is an experiment that is entitled to every chance to make good.

"Four old Marionettes" satirizes the Philadelphia Record. "He has tried to strangle the name of the League of Nations and is clearly doomed to a bad fall."

The Ohio State Journal, Republican, asserts that Gov. Cox makes out a strong case in his slash fund charges that can't be answered by mere denial.

Labor is man's great function. He is nothing, he can be nothing, he can achieve nothing, he can fulfill nothing, without working.—O. Dewey.

DISHES FOR OCCASIONS.

When making cake for company try the following:

White Cake—Take one and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one cup of milk, the whites of four eggs, and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted in one-half cup of flour. Cream the sugar and butter and add one and one-half cups of flour alternately with the milk, beating and mixing until smooth, then add the half cup of flour sifted with the baking powder. Fold in the stiffly beaten white the last thing. Bake in a loaf.

Pineapple Pie—Prepare a rich pastry and line a pie plate. Fill with the following: One cupful of shredded pineapple, one tablespoonful of butter, the yolks of two eggs, one cupful of powdered sugar. Beat the sugar and butter to a cream, add the beaten yolks and the pineapple. Cover with a meringue prepared from the whites, or they may be added before baking and the pie served with whipped cream.

Imperial Muffins—Add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar to one cupful of scalded milk. When lukewarm add one-third of a yeast cake dissolved in one-fourth of a cupful of lukewarm water. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt and one and one-fourth cups of flour. Cover and let rise over night. In the morning fill the buttered muffin rings two-thirds full. Let rise until the rings are full then bake thirty minutes in a hot oven.

Mr. B. Parfait—Beat four eggs slightly and pour on slowly one cupful of hot maple syrup. Cook until the mixture thickens then remove from the heat at once. Cool and add one pint of cream beaten until stiff. Put in a mold, and pack in ice and salt. Let stand three to four hours.

Ginger Punch—Take a half-pound of Corn, ginger, chop and three tablespoonfuls of syrup. Cook together and cool one quart of water and one cupful of sugar 15 minutes with the ginger added; cool, strain, add one-half cupful each of orange juice and lemon juice and one quart of ginger ale. QUICK SOUPS.

There are many occasions when a quick soup is a great convenience. A stock pot is helpful but not necessary and for a small family not practical. A good soup stock can be made of beef extract and vegetable tubules of which the following is good:

Slice a large onion into a deep granite dish, add a slice of turnip cut fine a large carrot sliced, three stalks of celery, including the tops, three dozen peppercorns, six cloves, a stick of cinnamon, three bay-leaves, the same of parsley, sage, thyme and summer savory. Fill the pan with cold water bring to the boiling point and simmer slowly until the vegetables are well cooked—about one and one-half hours. Strain through a coarse muslin and measure the liquid. For each quart add one teaspoonful of beef extract. Dissolve the extract in a little of the soup stock and add to the rest. Boil up once and serve. From this stock soup jelly may be prepared by using gelatin.

For corn soup add one cupful of cooked corn that has been pressed through a sieve to six cups of the stock.

Carrot soup may be prepared in the same way, using one cupful of minced carrots put through a sieve after cooking. Beans, peas, cabbage, onion or any vegetable may be used in the same proportion.

Split Pea Soup—Soak one cupful of split peas over night and boil until tender, then drain. Add a sliced carrot, a sliced onion, and half a turnip. Brown the vegetables in lard with butter, cover with beef stock, boil up rub through a sieve and reheat. A ham bone or a little piece of salt pork may be cooked with the soup.

Peach Soup—Peel, stone and cut fine a quart of peaches. Break three or four of the stones, pound the kernels fine and add to the peaches with sugar to taste. Cover with orange juice and one teaspoonful of almond extract. Let stand one hour, then put on ice and serve very cold in sherbet cups, with cracked ice.

Theford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Theford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

EXCHANGE YOUR LIBERTY BONDS

Holders of Coupon Bonds Must Have Temporary Bonds Exchanged for Permanent Ones.

Many holders of Liberty Bonds, not registered, are failing to have their bonds of the First, Second and Third issues exchanged for the permanent bonds which the Treasury Department is prepared to deliver.

The last coupon on the First Liberty Bonds, 4 per cent, were due Dec. 15, 1919, and the 4½ First bond coupons were due June 15, 1920. The Second coupons, Nov. 15, 1919 and May 15, 1920, and the Third Liberty Bonds last coupons were due March 15, 1920.

While many holders have submitted their temporary bonds for exchange, there are hundreds of holders in the Eighth Federal Reserve District who do not appear to know that the bonds issued them at the close of the campaigns were merely temporary bonds, and when the last coupons attached became due that they were to be exchanged for new bonds.

The last coupon on the Fourth Liberty Bonds are due October 15, 1920, and these may be exchanged for permanent bonds, with the full set of coupons attached, as soon as the bonds reach the Federal Reserve bank. This may not be until the latter part of the year, or possibly the first of next year.

Every holder should make the exchange through his bank. Of course, those who bought registered bonds need make no exchange as their bonds do not change in form.

Some of our good women are saying that they will not exercise the right of suffrage conferred upon them, that they will not cast their votes for the presidential electors for senator J. C. W. Beckham nor for Congressman A. B. Rouse, giving as their reason that they are opposed to woman suffrage. That is not the question, as that question has been settled by the ratification of the amendment to the federal constitution and by the laws enacted by the different states. The right to vote has been given to women and they are to take part in the selection of the public officials, who are to make and enforce the laws of this state. It is not only the right of the good women of the state to vote but it is their duty so to do. They must help select the officials who are to make and enforce the laws, they must do this for the protection of the State, Church and Homes. Forget the suffrage question. Go to the polls, exercise the right of suffrage, take part in the political welfare of our state and country, see that only conscientious and law abiding citizens are selected to administer your laws. Good women, this is a duty you owe humanity.

Some of the leading market men are predicting that eggs will go to $1.00 a dozen this coming winter. This statement is based upon the fact that results show that on Sept. 1st, 1920 there were over a million less cases of eggs than in 1919 and with the increase daily consumption of eggs it means that high prices are to be expected this coming winter.

VOTING PRECINCT CHANGES.

The Voters of Boone County, Kentucky will take notice of the changes in Walton, Florence and Burlington voting precincts. The said changes were made by the following order of the Boone County Court made at its regular September term, 1920.

Boone County Court:
Change in Voting Precincts in Boone County, Ky.

To conform with Chapter 64 Acts 1920, Kentucky, it is now ordered by the court that the Walton voting precinct be divided into two voting precincts.

Beginning at Mud Lick creek where it crosses the Walton and Beaver pike thence easterly with said pike to the center of the Covington and Lexington pike in the town of W. Xon, thence with said pike to the center of the Southern Depot street, thence with the center of said street and extending said line to the Kenton county line.

That part of the Walton precinct north of said line shall be known and designated as Walton Voting Precinct No. 1 and South of said line as Walton voting precinct No. 2. Voting places in both precincts will be in town of Walton.

That the Florence voting precinct shall be divided into two voting precincts the line dividing same being as follows: Beginning in the center of the Burlington and Florence pike in the center of the bridge across Gunpowder creek at Limburg, thence easterly with the center of said pike to the center of Shelby Street in Florence thence southerly with Shelby street to the center of Covington and Lexington pike to Youell street, thence southerly with Youell street to its terminus thence in a straight line by the residence of Wilhoit to the Kenton county line, the residence of said Wilhoit being in precinct No. 2. That part of said precinct on the north side of said line to be known as Florence voting precinct No. 1 and that part south of said line to be known as Florence voting precinct No. 2.

That the Burlington voting precinct be divided into two voting precincts, the line dividing same being as follows: Beginning in the center of the bridge across Gunpowder creek at Limburg, and also the center of the Burlington and Florence pike, thence with the center of said pike to the town of Burlington, thence through the said town with the center of Washington street and thence continuing westerly with the Burlington and Bellevue pike to the prices and as usual the farmer is first to be hit by the drop. This year their wool sold for about half as much as it did last year. Prospects for high priced tobacco are not encouraging. Mules sold Monday at pre-war prices, averaging less than $50 per head. Horses are so low that no one can afford to raise them. Yet the prices the farmer must pay for his implements, for his labor and for everything else needed in the production of his crops are not coming down. The farmer must organize or he must feed on husks.

The clerk of this court will certify a copy of this order to the Sheriff of Boone County, Ky., who will give the proper notice of the above changes by advertisement as the law requires.

N. E. RIDDELL,
County Judge.

I, W. R. ROGERS, Clerk of the Boone County Court, do certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of order as appears from my office.

Given under my hand this 6th day of Sept., 1920.

W. R. ROGERS, Clerk.

As Sheriff of Boone County, and under the law of the State of Kentucky, I hereby give notice of the change in voting precincts in Boone county a set out above.

Given under my hand as Sheriff of Boone County, Ky., this 6th day of September, 1920.

FURTHER PRICE CUTS

Predicted By President of Retail Grocers' Association.

Chicago.—A general reduction in food prices was predicted today by Col. Westerfield, President of the Retail Grocers' Association, who expected only eggs and butter from what he said would be a steady decline. He said high interest on bank loans made price cutting necessary for producers to move their crops.

Mr. Westerfield said canned goods now being packed must be lowered in price for move; that coffee had recently dropped ten cents a pound and that he looked for cheaper bread because of lower flour prices. Fruit was at a minimum in some cases lower than 1914 prices, he said.

"Although it may mean loss to some producers and distributors," Mr. Westerfield said, "the nation as a whole will benefit, and a return to normal conditions will be effected."

Under a measure just introduced in the Chamber of Deputies the Brazilian Government would be given the power to intervene as buyer or seller in commercial markets, to acquire national products and hold them for sale at an opportune time, to make loans to producers on such and to organize special credits for this purpose.

The objects of the proposed measure are stated to be the defense of Brazilian production and the avoidance of the consequences of speculation, lack of transport and other causes which are keeping back the progress of national production.

To carry out the provisions of the law the measure proposes that the government be authorized to make emissions of money and conduct internal and foreign credit operations up to $250,000,000.

It is estimated that such operations are to be employed in the purchase for deposit in the national treasury of all gold from Brazilian mines, the exploration of which will continue to be prohibited; in the purchase of mined or bar gold of whatever origin, for the same purpose, and in the amortization of the domestic and foreign debt by securing bonds at a lower quotation.

How would you like the price of coal to drop as low as your spirits when you contemplate its present price or guess what it will be next winter?

New Legion Commander.

Cincinnatians, without reservation, extend to Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., heartiest congratulations upon his unanimous election to be National Commander of the American Legion, at its second annual convention, held at Cleveland.

It is something of a distinction to be chosen representative head of a fundamental democracy such as the legion has demonstrated itself to be—a democracy which includes a membership of close to 2,000,000 veterans of the World War, and which already has distinguished itself by notable service to the country since the armistice.

The honor which has come to Colonel Galbraith further is emphasized by the fact that the legion stands devotedly pledged to the preservation of law and order, and unalterably opposed to radicalism in all its degrees.

To be Commander of such an organization as the legion is to be the representative of men who, having fought to preserve American institutions, ever will stand ready to defend them, whether against open or secret foes, and to this position Colonel Galbraith brings character, ability and a conspicuous service record.—Enquirer.

Mr. W. A. Mair, of Louisville, will make a political speech in behalf of the democratic ticket at Bellevue, next Friday night at 7:30 p. m. Mr. Mair is an eloquent speaker and should be heard by everyone.

Why Worry?

Northern Kentucky has raised the greatest crop in her history this year. The corn crop is the largest and best ever grown. The oat crop was the finest grown in years. The hay crop was far and away better than any harvested in recent years. Many alfalfa growers report four cuttings when three cuttings is a good average. There has been more garden stuff produced than in the memory of man. The fields are knee-deep in grass and the forage will be ample for all kinds of stock until snow falls. We had a good crop of almost all kinds of fruits and berries. So far as we can see there is no fly in the ointment to annoy the agriculturist in this part of the State. It looks to us as if this year will prove a banner year from every point of view. We can see no good cause for pessimism or grumbling over present conditions. Prices are beginning to drop and we predict that within another six months there will be a rapid downward trend for many commodities. We will probably never go back to the old level of pre-war prices and it is not at all probable that many of wish to.

Funds Needed.

September 24, 1920.
TO THE DEMOCRACY OF KENTUCKY:

The National Democratic Headquarters is imperatively in need of funds with which to finance the present campaign and has appealed to me to offer an opportunity to the Democrats to aid. This I am pleased to do. Every voter, man or woman, who earnestly desires the election of our ticket is requested to give without delay to the Editor of this paper who will immediately forward it to John R. Downing, State Treasurer for National Committee, Citizens Union National Bank, Louisville, such voluntary contribution as he or she may care to make. Same will be forwarded promptly to National Headquarters. Contributions, no matter how small, will be accepted and appreciated.

A hearty response to this call is confidently expected.

Card of Thanks—We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown us during the death of our baby boy, Edwin M. Birkie. We also wish to thank Bro. DeMoisey for his comforting words, the ones that took part in singing and for the floral offerings. Also Mr. Burk for the kind manner in which he conducted the funeral. And the dear little girls that carried our little one to his last resting place. We never will forget them. Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

The woman vote in Boone county is fully as large as the man vote and there are about 3,500 male voters in the county. If 50 per cent of the women vote is polled, there will be around 1750 decided votes. If they vote as the men do, which seems quite likely, the Democratic majority in this county should reach close to 2,000.

W. W. Taylor, of Cleves, O., Thos. Reddington, of Jackson, and Mrs. Roscoe Nickerson, of Madison, Ky., were among the delegates.

IN DARKNESS.

Electric Plant at Walton Destroyed by Fire.

A spark from a torch carried by Harry Bredeon, night watchman at the electric plant at Walton, this county, started a blaze early Saturday that destroyed the plant and plunged the town in darkness. The spark dropped upon the oilskate floor and in an instant the room was ablaze. Bredeon seized the fire extinguisher and worked heroically to stem the flames. At the same time Miss Emma Snow, night telephone operator at the Walton exchange, began to sound the alarm for the volunteer fire brigade. Her work was fraught with difficulty, as the fire soon reached the telephone wires and cut off communication with the different homes. Volunteers who took fire apparatus to the scene of the blaze were unable to work, because the mechanism is operated by electricity and there was no power. A bucket brigade was formed. The plant is owned by Vallandigham Bros. and was a one-story brick building. It is the second time burned in three years that the Walton electric plant has been destroyed by fire. The present loss amounts to $3,500.

This records another disastrous fire on account of matches being thrown around before they have been extinguished. This fire also burned one of the cables of the Telephone Co. leaving part of the Walton exchange district without service.

Scores Harding's

Attack on Army.

A. J. Carroll, one of Louisville's prominent lawyers, scathingly arraigned Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for President, in speech at Hodgenville, Sept. 23, before a large crowd because of the statement made by Harding on his front porch when the Chicago National League Base Ball Club visited him at Marion that "No one can dispute that the American team played badly when it got on a foreign field."

"Do you men and women agree to that?" asked Mr. Carroll "can any American worthy of the name accept that statement? LaRue county was represented in the war by 800 of her sons. Of those young men who went out from among you, seventeen failed to return. Two of them died in training camps in this country and fifteen died in France. Of this 15, one was killed in a railroad wreck going to the front and one died of disease. Opposite the name of each of the other thirteen was written on the roll the words "killed in action." I venture the statement that no county in the state or nation can show a more glorious record. Of fifteen men who died on foreign soil thirteen were killed in action with their faces to the foe leading in the defense of mankind and civilization. Did those boys play badly when they got on a foreign field?"

"Kentucky sent approximately 100,000 to war. Of that number 3012 gave up their lives, three of them being women, army nurses. Did they play badly when they got on foreign fields?"

The following words written by an immortal son of LaRue County to a mother who seven sons were killed in battle in defense of the union: "I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom."

If Lincoln were alive today would he subscribe to the statement that the American team played badly, when it got on foreign fields?"

I appeal to you in no partisan sense, not as Democrats or Republicans, but as Americans who love their country, who glory in its achievements and who remember and honor their dead, to say by your votes that any man who makes the statement that the sons of America did not do their full duty on foreign fields is unworthy to be President of this Republic."

American Legion Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of Boone Post, No. 4, American Legion, was held at Odd Fellows Hall, at Florence, Tuesday night. The meeting was called to order by Post Commander L. T. Utz, after which Rev. H. C. Runyan, of Covington, was introduced and he delivered an excellent Legionaires a short but intensely interesting and invigorating address treating of Americanism and all that pertains to it, as well as emphasizing the importance of the Legion as concerns the future life of the nation.

Next in order of business was the report of the firing squad committee. It is the purpose to form a firing squad to serve at funerals and celebrations and upon calling for volunteers for same about four members signified their willingness to give their services.

The Post Commander then called attention to the fact that the Boone County Red Cross chapter has proffered to the local Post a bronze tablet containing the names of the Boone county boys who made the supreme sacrifice during the world war. After discussion of the proposition it was definitely arranged to accept the generous offer and a committee was appointed to go to Cincinnati the following day to place the order. It is the purpose to secure the tablet before Armistice Day. Nov. 11. The further discussion developed the fact that it is the will of the organization to hold a celebration in Burlington on that day at which time the tablet will be fittingly assigned to a place in the hall of the court house. Committees have been appointed to arrange such details as decorations, securing of a band for the occasion, etc., and the affair gives promise of being something which will long be remembered in the mind of each Legionnaire who attends. It is earnestly requested of each and every member that he be present in uniform.

Post Commander Utz brought the meeting to close with a brief talk in which he stressed the fact that the Legion was in no sense to be considered as a body of one specific party but as a body for the organization believes in policies, not politics. He further added it was the duty of each member to inquire closely in to the record of each candidate giving their support not only to the man who not only has done his full duty to the nation in all respects in the past but whose actions and pledges give promise of a future administration which will serve to forward the interests of the U. S. as the greatest nation of the world for such she is in the mind and heart of every true American.

The regular meeting night for November falls upon election day, therefore, by unanimous consent, the meeting for next month was dispensed with and the next gathering of the Boone County American Legion will be on the 1st Tuesday night of December at which time all members are urged to attend. The meeting place for that night.

Lexington, Ky., October 1.—The House of Delegates at the final meeting elected Dr. J. A. Stucky, Lexington, president-elect of the Kentucky State Medical Association.

Lexington, Ky., October 1.—Dr. William Allen Pusey, of Madison street, Chicago, was in Lexington this week in consultation with Col. James Maret, "father of the Boone Way," for the purpose of obtaining further data regarding the famous Boone Trail, in which he is interested. For three years Dr. Pusey has spent his vacation time in ascertaining the actual location of the old pioneer route over the Alleghenies, known as Boone's Trail, starting his investigations at the block house on Long Island, East Tennessee, the point where the noted hunter and explorer, with his party of immigrants, made their start on their historic march to Boonesboro on the Kentucky river, in the spring of 1775.

Miss Wilmer Price is the postoffice clerk and is the daughter of G. B. Price, former postmaster at New Haven. Miss Josephine Hagan is R. F. D. carrier. She is a charge of W. Press Hagan. She serves over 1,000 patrons, going 25 miles each day. She and Miss Hagan, the postmaster, having attended the highway averages in competitive civil service examinations.

Jailer Hughie Smith of the Covington jail thwarted what was believed to have been a plot for a general jail delivery Monday night. He received a "tip" that a knife was hidden in one of the cells, but knowledge of this was denied by all the prisoners except the one who told of it. The jailer then called to his assistant, Lieut. of Police William Sanford, and they started a search of every cell. Finally one of the prisoners said the knife was in the cell of a prisoner held on a charge of burglary. The knife was found there, as was also a milk bottle filled with wet paper. A beer bottle, also filled with damp paper was found in an empty cell adjoining. In the cell of another prisoner charged with loitering, was found an improvised blackjack, wrapped around heavy pieces of cement. The officials believe the bottles and blackjack were intended to be used as weapons in a proposed attack of the guards. The three prisoners were placed in solitary confinement. There are 21 prisoners in the jail—13 white men and eight negroes.

YEGGMEN BUSY.

A band of safe crackers paid Covington a visit Thursday night of last week, and, going to the offices of the Green Line and Union Light, Heat and Power Company in Court-pl, left their card in the shape of attempts to blow safes of both concerns.

Unlike most visitors the "yeggs" did not live up to the formality of knocking at the front door, but climbed up the Third-st side of the building and forced a second-story window.

Once inside the second floor they made their way to the offices on the first floor of the structure and started to work. Combinations were torn off the Green Line safe and then the intruders went to the other end of the building and applied the "brace" to the Light Co. vault.

Combination on this safe, too, were pried from the vault. An electric drill was brought into play on the Light Co. vault and everything made ready to inject the "soun."

Something went wrong and the yeggs beat a hasty retreat. So speedily did they take to their heels and make a get-away that they forgot a portion of the fuse that was to have been injected into the hole drilled in the Light Co. safe was left behind.

Progress is being made in the matter of taking a poll of the women in Kentucky, but the matter cannot be pressed too hard. Our Republican friends are polling only the negro women; they propose to permit the white women to stay at home if they like. In not another State in America is it as important for women of intelligence to register and vote as will be the case this year in Kentucky.

Very small crowd attended court Monday.

TOD "SANCTIFIED" FOR HER

Not Lizzie's Reasons for Leaving Her Spouse, and Why She Was Not Grieving.

Ann Lizzie, comfortably fat, a widow, and nearing middle age, met her fate in the person of a prosperous negro who owned a plantation and a good home. Her white friends thought she had done unusually well, and were glad. A few short months after the wedding ceremony, however, she came to see a family she had had once cooked for, and when a young member of the group asked about her wealthy spouse, she said: "Law, chile, I done left that nigger. Him and me didn't get along a-tal." Surprised, the girl asked: "What on earth was the matter, Aunt Lizzie? I thought you married a fine man with plenty of money." "Had plenty of money, all right," she replied. "Wardn't but one thing wrong with him—he was sanctified. You know, one of dese here holiness men. He hadn't been married no time before I told me I warn't as good as him. Said I was overgenerous. Den he stopped me from drinking coffee, wouldn't let me wear my wedding clothes, and said he'd quit me if I ever went near one of dese picture shows. And you know, honey, I loves my coffee, my clothes, and when I comes to town my picture shows. So I up and quits him." "You don't look sad about it," the girl said. "Ain't no honey, ain't sad. I got me a lawyer and tuk half dat nigger's plantation way from him. Guess he wished when I done dat he hadn't been so sanctified."

RASMUSSEN TO STUDY ESKIMO

Danish Explorer's Ambition Is Said to Be to Make Thorough Study of the Northern Race.

The remarkable studies carried out by the Danish explorer, Knud Rasmussen, among the Greenland Eskimos are described by W. E. Ekblaw in the Geographical Review. Rasmussen, who is part Eskimo himself, was born and trained in languages and ethnology at the University of Copenhagen.

It is his ambition to make a thorough study of the whole Eskimo race, from eastern Greenland to Siberia, and he has already visited every Eskimo settlement in Greenland. It is said that he knows every Greenland Eskimo personally. Mr. Ekblaw believes it safe to say that no one else has ever come into such direct contact with a whole people as he has.

Late in 1919 he returned from a visit to Ammassalik, on the east coast. He was surprised to find that the east Greenland Eskimos preserve many of the customs of the central Eskimos, who still inhabit the ancestral home of the race about Hudson bay. He found that they are more closely related to the central Eskimos than are any of the other tribes of the entire Greenland coast, and that only recently have they been affected by contrast with the Greenland west coast culture. —Scientific American.

Oldest Living Artist.

Arlington, Mass., claims the oldest living artist in New England. She is Mrs. Mary Dollish Porter, who is now 92 years old. While holding a position high in standing among painters, the woman, peculiarly, did not take up painting until she was more than 50 years old.

At that time, happening to be in Maine on a visit, she became acquainted with a woman who gave lessons. She at once took up the art and immediately made great progress. In fact, in a comparatively short time she was giving lessons herself. In her home there are numerous excellent pictures, and during the last five years she has painted five pictures, considered a good number under the existing conditions which include shortage of materials.

Mrs. Porter was born in Cornwallis, N. S., coming to Arlington at the age of 20 years. She is the mother of six children, and at present lives with her son, Lyander, and two grandchildren. —Boston Post.

Both Treated Alike.

At the local servants' club there were one or two who were trying to preach bothism and the removal of class distinction both in society and on the railway and lots of other nice things.

But they found a strong opponent in a chauffeur who drove the local laundry lady on her Monday round of visits.

"No such thing as stick-uphensness about it," the loyal server insisted. "Well, but don't she order you about?" demanded the disciples of freedom.

"Of course she does," he replied. "But she bawls at me just the same as what she does her husband. She doesn't make no difference between me and him, even if I—Answers, London.

Egg-Hatching Period.

Birds such as the catbird and other perching species, which have artificial young nesting care in the nest for some time, do not incubate their eggs as long as those like the shorebirds and ducks which have precocial young. says the American Forestry Magazine. The eggs of most colonial small birds are incubated for from ten days to two weeks. Those of the fortilike species, such as the ruffed grouse about the same, those of the ducks about the same, and those of the swans, geese and the like, about two to three weeks. —Answers, London.

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

The Democratic Organization in Louisville will probably go into the courts to have itself selected for election officers named in four precincts in the Tenth Ward of Louisville. In two of these precincts no white men live. In two others three or four white men residing there are Republicans.

The Democrats, therefore, asked the election commission to permit the appointment of white Democrats from other sections of the city to serve in these precincts.

The commission, controlled by a Republican sheriff and a Republican election officer, not only declined this request, but instead appointed negro election officers to serve for the Democrats. This action was a clear violation of the law, as none of these negroes were registered as Democrats. It is from this ruling that the Democrats propose to appeal to the courts.

This incident is reminiscent of the carpet-bagging practiced in the South by the Republicans after the Civil War, when negro office-holders were forced on the white people. The whole occurrence is a significant indication of what continued Republican rule in Kentucky means.

The leading negro newspaper of Louisville has put forward a candidate for the Louisville Board of Education. From this it is but a step to mixed schools in Kentucky. The same paper is also exhorting the negro voters of Louisville to vote against the million-dollar issue of school bonds because most of the money is to be used for white schools.

Lacking the courage of Senator Beckham and James H. Hirsch, of Louisville, candidate for Congressmen, on the Irish question, their Republican opponents have given a great exhibition of dodging, following the example so ably set by their national leader, Warren G. Harding.

Beckham and Richmond came out in mainly fashion against recognition of the present so-called Irish Republic. So far Ernst has not had the courage to answer the question and Ogden has straddled it in a six-page letter. "I can not give definite answer," says Mr. Ogden, "because conditions are shifting." True enough, and Congressmen are shifty.

The Democratic State Headquarters at Louisville will shortly broadcast over the state a circular distributed by Republicans of the Chicago convention against Warren G. Harding. Harding is on record in two speeches in the Congressional Record in favor of dollar wheat. "Under normal conditions," says Harding, "dollar wheat makes it (farming) a very profitable occupation." The Farm Defense League of Ohio distributed this handbill in the effort to head off Harding's nomination and is still fighting him all over the nation.

A recurrence of race riots in Chicago, where the negro drive keepers are given special privileges by the Republican administration, proves what a danger to the community it is when any one element is pampered for political purposes. Under Republican rule in Chicago this policy has already led to two serious race riots.

The publication in the Republican organ, the Louisville Herald, of the successful settlement of international quarrels by the League of Nations is a curious contrast to its editorial propaganda that the League will breed wars. This story tells how the Council of the League prevented war between Poland and Lithuania and between Finland and Sweden over the Aland Islands. In both of these controversies peaceful process of mediation prevented wars, fully vindicating the League of Nations.

The first woman Democratic mass meeting ever held in Louisville was such a wonderful success that even Republicans were astounded. The best citizenship of Louisville filled historic Phelps Hall to overflowing and inspired the workers of local and state organizations to new enthusiasm to carry the state for Cox.

It is less than one week until registration day. Every woman's duty it is to register next Tuesday, and she may vote in November to help offset the eighty thousand negro women voters which will be cast solidly by the Republican party for the Republican candidates.

If Harding is elected in November you may have a negro postmistress in your town next year. Last week a delegation of negro men and women visited the Blarney Stone at Marion, Ky., vowing unending support to the Republican party. One of the speakers, a negro, informed Senator Harding that the negro women expected their share of patronage in proportion to the number of negro women votes cast. In reply he promised full rights of citizenship in his colored audience. The appointment of a colored postmaster in your town or a negro collector of internal revenue in Louisville will therefore give no surprise.

WOMEN IN BOTH PARTIES AGREE

While Opposed in Political Campaign They Are United On Kentucky School Problems

Mrs. John W. Langley, Chairman Woman's Division, Republican Campaign Committee, gave her correspondent the following interview concerning the new school laws and the coming election of County Boards of Education in November:

"To my mind the greatest forward step that has been taken in the direction of a higher standard of education was the ratification of the nineteenth amendment to the Federal constitution of placing the ballot in the hands of women, and for the reason that her influence is essentially more constant than that of the men in the home life of the children which is the formation period of their character and the most enduring part of it.

"This is not because women realize any more fully than men do the vital importance to the future of the nation of a good clean school system, but because, as the history of civilization from its beginning to the present shows the mother's influence is greater than that of the father over the children of their household. It therefore follows as a matter of course that this added power to aid in consummating her ideals will be exercised to the maximum by her.

"No one will seriously contend that better education will affect the political alignment of the people. It will only better equip them for deciding how to intelligently cast their votes on any political question. They will continue in the future as they have done in the past to entertain divergent views as to what character of legislation and of administration is best calculated to advance the interests of the state and the nation. The point I wish to make is that the question of education should be entirely divorced from them.

Mrs. John W. Langley.

"We must secure a deeper interest on the part of all of our people in this greatest of all movements, for after all the best said and done, we can not fully prepare the children of today for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship that they might later assume unless we succeed in getting public sentiment crystallized behind all strong school movements.

"I believe this is now being accomplished by the recent legislation which has been put into operation, and that the good results of these laws will continue to grow as time passes on.

"I sincerely believe that the good women of our state are going to put their whole hearts, their minds, and their strength into this movement and use the ballot accordingly. If they do this success is certain and we will have a happier, brighter and better Kentucky."

When your correspondent asked Mrs. Samuel W. Wilson, committee member on the Democratic State Campaign Committee, for her views on the recent school laws, which will become effective next November, she said:

"It gives me peculiar pleasure to express my sense of gratitude for this newest evidence of Kentucky's educational awakening, as expressed in the new school laws passed by the last session of the Legislature. We have hoped and worked for so long to take our schools out of politics and to raise the salary of our teachers, that these new laws creating non-partisan County Boards of Education and fixing a minimum salary for teachers give cause for pride and thanksgiving. There is every reason to hope that they will prove a decided step in the right direction. There is no recent step forward, taken by Kentucky, that can compare in far-reaching importance with the laws passed to improve our educational system. All honor to our Democratic and Republican legislators who passed these laws.

"The newly enfranchised women of Kentucky can be of untold service to our state by electing to our County Boards of Education the highest type of men and women available. Men and women proof against partisan temptation, who can be depended on to select county superintendents worthy to be entrusted with the mental training of the future citizens of our state. It has taken Kentucky a long time to come to a full realization of the discreditable position she has occupied in the educational scale, but there is evidence on every hand that she is now thoroughly aroused. If she will fully realize from this time forth that education can not be promoted without adequate revenue and that the necessary funds must be raised no matter what the cost, I am sure that with the exercise of eternal vigilance on the part of the men and women of the state, with an insistent demand for the best and nothing but the best for the children of Kentucky, and with a conscientious determination to reward our teachers in a way commensurate, at least in some degree (they can not be adequately compensated), with the great work they are doing for our future men and women there is every reason to believe that Kentucky will assume and maintain a position worthy of her in matters educational."

Mrs. Christine Bradley South, the assistant secretary of the Republican National Committee, gave the following statement for publication concerning the New County School Administration Law:

"The seriousness of the crisis through which the world is passing emphasizes the importance of education as the hope of democracy. In so far as is humanly possible, there must be equality of opportunity for education for all the children—rich and poor, native born and foreign born, city and country, white and black, until ignorance everywhere is supplanted by disciplined information. Our children are worthy of better teachers; our teachers are worthy of better pay; democratic education is entitled to the loyal support of all. "Our schools must be forever divorced from politics. The new County School Administration Law, when properly appreciated and properly applied, will accomplish this end. The best men and women in each county, regardless of political affiliation, should be selected for membership on the County School Board. To secure the right of suffrage for women, we have insisted always and everywhere that woman was inclined to feel a more jealous regard for the rights of childhood than man. I know of no more certain way for woman to justify the new privilege and the new responsibility that have come to her than by using her voice and her vote in securing better educational opportunities for the children of Kentucky, and by aiding in the election of county boards that will think in terms of the rights of children rather than in the interest of any party."

HIS HEART WAS RIGHT

An uneducated but honest county superintendent, who lives far back in the hills of Kentucky, recently made the following very unusual and thoroughly pointed speech to a group of people who were interested in the schools:

"Men, when you come to vote for the members of this here new County Board of Education, put more Christianity and less politics into your vote. "You're my friends; but don't think of me in votin', but think of what your vote means to the children."

SWINE RAISERS

Should Watch Herds Closely... Hog Cholera Months At Hand.

October and November are the months when the dread disease, hog cholera, is most likely to appear. During those months and until snow covers the ground swine raisers are urged by the United States Department of Agriculture to be especially observing when feeding hogs in the morning. Any animals in the herd which fail to come to their feed, and particularly those having arch backs and rough coats, should be removed promptly from the rest of the herd.

In some cases hogs sick with cholera die within a few days; in others the disease may assume a chronic form and linger for several weeks. If cholera is suspected swine growers should immediately call a competent veterinarian to make a proper diagnosis and to apply the preventive serum treatment if they are found to be affected with cholera. A post mortem examination of swine that have died from cholera generally will show one or more of the following symptoms: Purple blotches on the skin; blood-colored spots on the surfaces of the lungs and heart; on the kidneys, and on both the outer surface and inner linings of the intestines, stomach, and bladder; reddening of lymphatic glands; enlargement of the spleen; in fatal cases, an ulceration of the inner lining of the large intestine. In the lingering or chronic case of hog cholera, it is usual to find intestinal button-like ulcers on the intestines.

KENTUCKY CAN GROW MORE WHEAT.

According to Government reports, the 1920 wheat crop in Kentucky was only about half as large as either the 1918 or 1919 crop, but that should not discourage farmers in the growing of wheat. If we apply ourselves to proper agricultural methods, Kentucky will grow as much or more wheat as ever.

No doubt, some people think Kentucky should go out of the wheat growing business, but we might as well ask Kentucky to quit growing tobacco.

Kentucky always will and always should grow tobacco. Kentucky always will and always should grow wheat. It will be a mistake to think of cutting out either crop because both play an important part in the agricultural prosperity of the State.

Undoubtedly the season had much to do with the reduced yield of wheat this year. Possibly it was more to blame than the soil, but it must be admitted that wheat growing has been much neglected of late.

During the war the abnormal demand for wheat sent up the price and kept it up and it was natural that we should grow as much tobacco as possible. On thousands of farms the best land was planted to tobacco, and wheat was planted on the poorer ground and given only secondary attention.

But now the war is over and the relative difference between the prices of wheat and tobacco will soon disappear. We must get back to a normal agricultural basis.

Wheat is one of the staple crops of Kentucky. It is essential to the fullest prosperity of the State, even to our cash and other products are essential. It is this right now, for us to think of wheat and get ready for next year's crop. Tobacco ground is splendid ground for wheat and next year may be the best wheat year Kentucky ever had. More attention to the proper planting and fertilizing of the soil will help to make it so.

It is not pleasant to record the truth that there are mothers who have sacrificed motherhood to worldly ambition and the most unhappy women are those who have set aside their time in order to live lives of social triviality and the time comes to all such when the bloom of youth forsakes them and the lines of youth dies out of the eyes.

Democrats of Boone County.

In Kentucky to be a Kentuckian is to be a Kentuckian, ruled and controlled by those who have no real interest in his welfare? This question must be answered at the polls November 2nd, next.

If you believe Democratic success means the restoration of the state to the people who are sincerely interested in its peace, progress and prosperity, then this appeal cannot be indifferently received. That success cannot be attained with an empty treasury.

You know, by even a casual reading of the press, that the Republican National organization has at its command unlimited financial resources. The Republican nominee for U. S. Senator is a multi-millionaire, the "General Manager" of the Kentucky Republican organization is also a multi-millionaire.

In the nation, the Democratic organization has insufficient funds. In Kentucky it is, by comparison, in much worse condition. May we not appeal to you, without transgressing any propriety, to aid us in our endeavor to west Kentucky from the alien hands now in control? Will you not, as a Kentuckian, assist us, with your means, to demonstrate that our State is in truth and in fact a Democratic State and not a hybrid institution for the exploitation of those who have, in reality, no interest in her save for selfish ends?

Hoping we shall have a favorable answer from... I am, Yours for success, JOHN L. GRAYOT, Chairman.

High School Notes.

Two practice fire drills were held, when it was found the school building could be emptied in an orderly manner in about one minute. These drills will continue thru the year.

A report is out that Agriculture is not taught in the Smith-Hughes Act. Since our High School is not now a Smith-Hughes school, however, this subject is offered here in the same manner as in other standard Kentucky High Schools. A year's work in agriculture is offered to any class desiring it.

SCHANKER'S STORE

At Erlanger Robbed of Goods To the Value of $1000—No Clue to Thieves.

Thieves broke into H. Schanker & Sons dry goods and general merchandise store, Garvey avenue, and the Dixie Highway, Erlanger, early last Friday, and carried away merchandise valued at about $1,000. They also rifled the cash register and the safe which is said to have been left open. It is not known how much money was in the cash register, but E. C. Hall, Erlanger county patrolman, was told that it contained most of the receipts of Thursday. The thieves also tried to steal Schanker's auto, which was in the garage, but were unable to do so. County Patrolman Hall was summoned and arrived at the store at 4 a. m. He found that thieves had entered the store by forcing a rear door leading into the garage, and then bent heavy iron bars in a window of the garage leading into the store. The bars were found to be bent by a small man. The side door of the store was then opened and the loot carried out, and evidently carried off in a machine. The thieves were unable to break the ignition lock on Schanker's machine, and then tried to short-circuit the wires leading to the engine, but it would not work. The thieves ransacked the store and threw articles across the roadway from the store, but said he did not hear anything unusual during the night. He had placed his machine in the garage at 11:15 p. m., and at that time nothing had been disturbed. The thieves evidently were watching until the family had retired.

CORN CROP

Is Largest in History—Forecast Shows All Previous Records Will Be Broken.

Washington, Oct. 8.—A corn crop of 3,215,000,000 bushels, or 79,000,000 bushels greater than the record crop of 1919, was forecast by the Department of Agriculture from a condition of 99.1 on October 1.

There was a further falling off, however, in the total wheat crop forecast, production being placed at 750,548,000 bushels, as compared with a forecast of 77,000,000 bushels a month ago.

The spring wheat crop was forecast at 215,007,000 bushels, as compared with 237,000,000 last month. The tobacco crop also showed a falling off, total production being estimated at 1,477,783,000 pounds as against a forecast of 1,553,000,000 pounds a month ago. The crop still remains the largest in history, and the production of 75,000,000 pounds in the forecast during the past 30 days.

Production of oats was placed at 1,441,000,000 bushels, an increase of 2,628,000 bushels during the month.

Petersburg vs. Burlington.

The Petersburg boys and girls basketball team will be here tomorrow (Friday) to play their return game. This is the first game of the season on our local grounds, and it is expected to be a hotly contested one from start to finish. It is hoped a large Burlington crowd will be on hand to cheer our team to another victory. The Burlington team will line up as follows:

Boys: Clore—Forward. Brown—Forward. Rouse—Center. Acra, Owen—Guard. Ernest—Guard. The games will be called promptly at 3 o'clock. Everybody out!

PROTECT CORN AND WHEAT FROM INSECTS.

Every year insects do millions of dollars worth of damage to grain and grain products. Some authorities have placed this injury at 5 per cent of all stored grain. The Department of Entomology of the College of Agriculture, with its family of insects and granaries should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before any wheat or corn is placed in storage. The insects should be removed. The walls and floors and ceilings should be thoroughly cleaned and a liberal application of all-soluble lime should be placed in the corners and edges of the bin but be sure and remove this lime before placing the grain into the bin.

WORK OF RED CROSS.

Washington, Oct. 8.—From the time the United States entered the war until last June the American Red Cross gave aid to the country's fighting men and their families in 7,000,000 cases. The cost approximately was $10,000,000, it is disclosed in a statement issued by the organization.

One thing that keeps some people from giving to the Red Cross is the thought that their gift will be lost. The fact is that the gift is entirely for the good of the country.

LOOK—LISTEN.

Louisville, Oct. 7.—Fifteen hundred negroes met at the Negro Odd Fellows Hall here, and launched the campaign of Wilson Lovett, negro candidate for the Board of Education. Lovett's petition has been filed. It was announced at the meeting with 457 signers, fifty-seven more than the law requires.

Negro ministers urging the support of the negro race for the candidacy of Lovett, and negro politicians expelling how, by single shottings, Lovett, he can be easily elected.

There are four candidates for the Board of Education to be voted on Nov. 2. Two of these candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be seated as board members. By the negro voters supporting only Lovett's candidacy and voting only for him the white vote will be divided among the three white candidates, Mrs. Leila C. Leaning, William Hoke Camp and Robert E. Woods, and Lovett will win a seat on the board.

Make Money By Saving Seed Potatoes.

Every year there are many farmers in the State of Kentucky who will go to the market and buy high priced seed potatoes. They claim that their potatoes have run out and it is necessary for them to go and buy new seed. This may be true but it is known fact that farmers who select their own seed potatoes, will, in a few years, have a better strain of potatoes, especially adapted to their own soil conditions, than it is possible for them to buy in the open market. A few simple rules in making these selections will help to improve the quality and quantity of potatoes. In the first place good hills that have a large number of medium to large sized tubers should be selected and placed in separate boxes at digging time. This is the best way to make it possible to save good seed.

The Key to Progress.

Upon the real home and the strength of the public school system depends the progress of the nation and the character of our citizenship. For the past quarter of a century the general trend of affairs has been to demolish the home as a dweller of the school and school sentiment.

The system has been to go upon the plan of quiting business and to interfere with the home. It requires real effort, study and work to keep it going—style, society and excitement is the national craze. The old time steady going people who have depended upon to fulfill the purpose for which God created them have either emigrated or died and their place has been taken by those who grow the parasite and the parasite.

In each neighborhood must be found a good school sentiment and a desire to improve by earned effort. And when this sentiment or desire is found in man or woman you will have a progressive, desirable citizen. When you find the "lady killer" or the "man charmer" in them you will find a dangerous and unregressive subject to be drawn to the school and to all kind of mischief.

The administration realized the need of education among our boys in the late war and proceeded to organize training classes. The need is just as great today. Men of education and training are getting more scarce each day and thousands of high, skilled positions are open to those who settle down to study and to doing things worth while.

The sentiment must be right and then we will have better teachers and better schools.

State Secures 'Old Ky. Home.'

Steps which assure ownership of the State of the home of Stephen Collins Foster, which inspired him to write "My Old Kentucky Home" were taken today by the State commission, which obtained an option on the property for $50,000. The commission assumed the purchase price until the Legislature appropriates the sum necessary.

The property consists of the historic residence near Bardonia, with its family farm and 235 acres of fine farm lands, which could readily be converted into a great State park.

The estate is situated at Bardonia and visited the home, which is known as Federal Hill, or the Rowan mansion. The owner is Mrs. Midge Rowan Froese, granddaughter of John Rowan, who erected the home.

Thousands of persons have visited it in recent years.

CONVICTS ON ROADS

Five Hundred Convicts Will Be Employed in Road Work Next Spring.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 5.—Five hundred convicts will be employed in road work in Kentucky next spring. The State Board of Charities and Corrections notified Joe S. Boggs, State highway engineer, that the regulation of the Highway Commission for the men has been honored. The request was put in this fall, because Mr. Boggs wished to purchase the necessary equipment for that number of men and he wished to ascertain whether they would be available before investing the money.

It was expected that the board would refuse and invite a law suit in order to test its right to take the men off contract work in the prisons. The contractors now are operating with about three-fourths of the number of men contracted for. It was decided, however, that under the road law the contracts are subject to the needs of the highway department.

It is the purpose to employ convicts on the roads the year around, where there is no grading and labor is the big factor. This conditions exists throughout Eastern Kentucky. This winter seventy-five men will be kept in the State Prison and twenty-five each in Rockcastle, Cumberland and Metcalfe counties. When the latter work is finished that camp will be transferred to Barren.

This will be the first thorough experiment in Kentucky under modern conditions. Taking the men out for seven months and returning them to inside contract work for five each year has expensive and somewhat demoralizing effects on the men, the organization and the contractors.

Under the election laws of this State any person who is residing temporarily in another place may cast his vote at his home. He is required to make affidavit that he is a resident of this state and name the place before an official authorized to administer the oath before a ballot will be furnished. Upon receipt of the application properly made out the county clerk is required to mail him a ballot which will be returned sealed to the election officers of his precinct. There are many absent voters in this county, and many of them have employment in distant places.

There are a great many people in this county who have not purchased their winters supply of coal, and cold weather is upon us. It is not the consumers' fault that this condition exists. People who have money for their coal bins during the summer months are the less fortunate ones can secure their supply, but all are now on the market at the same time. The coal bins are empty and the coal is growing more desperate as winter advances. Something should be done at once to relieve this critical situation.

There are some indications that the political pot in this county is about ready to boil. So far it has been a very quiet campaign but there are indications that things are beginning to warm up under the surface. Both Democrats and Republicans are working hard, their principles are being re-erected to the new voters—the women.

Edgar C. Riley, who motored to Florida with his family the latter part of September has returned, and was in Burlington, last Friday. When asked how he liked Florida, he replied: "I would not give the Petersburg bottom for the whole State of Florida." He expects to return to the sunny South to spend the winter with his family.

The fine weather of the past two weeks has enabled the tobacco growers of this section to get their tobacco in the house in good order and reports indicate that it is curing nicely. Little houseburn is reported and the crop should be the finest ever grown here.

Clifford Hedges, of Gunpowder Heights, brought to the Farm Bureau headquarters, last Friday a very lengthy stalk of corn upon which were two as fine ears of corn as a person would want to see. It is of the Johnson County White variety.

A very large crowd attended W. C. Weavers' sale of personal property last Friday, and everything sold at good prices—horses brought from $10 to $15; cows $2; corn $1 per bushel, hay $3 ton.

Dr. F. L. Peddicord, former Supt. of Central State Prison, is now located at 100 West Fourth Street, Covington, Ky., where he will practice his profession.

Several members of the Bragg Fishing Club spent Saturday night and Sunday at their camp down on Gunpowder.

Judge J. M. Lohman was in Burlington, last Saturday.

day the Grant circuit court was Miss Hallam is a fine speaker and should be heard by all.

Say Mr. Farmer, did you know that Harding said that raising dollar wheat is a very profitable occupation. What do you think about it? If you are willing to raise wheat for a dollar, vote for Harding.

Anyone who drives a Ford can very easily tell the speed at which he is traveling. At 10 miles per hour his lamps rattle, at 15 miles per hour his fenders rattle and at 20 miles per hour his bones rattle.

Mr. Muir, of Louisville, spoke in favor of the Democratic ticket at Rabbit Hash Monday night to a large and appreciative audience.
Mr. Muir is an orator of no mean ability and makes an interesting speech.

Recorder marked up another year.
The said his crop of tobacco is fine and got it all housed in good order.

The road at C. W. Myers corner in Florence is now blocked and all travel to Cincinnati from this neighborhood must go via Hebron and Constance. Quite an inconvenience, but when the road has been completed the traveling public will be well paid for this inconvenience.

Peter Hager, of East Bend, while digging his crop of sweet potatoes, one day last week, found upon one of the potatoes the letters, "C-O-X," which are as plain as if they had been carved there by hand. Mr. Hager believes this is a sure sign that Cox will be elected president.

Sugar prices are still falling. It is amusing to read the Republican campaign circular issued to their speakers complaining of 25 cent sugar, giving as the reason the failure of the government to buy the 1920 sugar crop. The crop was not bought and sugar is not 25 cents. If the government should buy sugar, why not buy from the farmer his grains, wool, and other products?

Women Should Vote.

Since the right of Suffrage has been conferred upon our women it is just as essential for them to vote as it is for the men. If this right is not exercised by the women then they are not doing their duty to their country, church and home. The good women must know that all of those who favor open saloons, the tax enforcement of the criminal laws, a wide open Sabbath, and gambling will be at the polls and cast their votes for the candidates who favor those conditions. Certain sections of our good State are controlled by that element.
If we do not care whether we enforce the laws that are for the protection of our home and property, you should not go to the polls. Every election has its bearing on good government and good order. Think good women, think what the result might be if you do not exercise the right of suffrage.

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

Registration figures throughout Kentucky prove highly encouraging to the Democratic party. Compared with the registration in the Presidential race in 1916 there is a decided gain in the Democratic majorities throughout the state. The only encouragement the Republican machinery received was in the city of Louisville, where the throng of negro office holders and their friends piled up a large total. Despite this fact, Chairman John L. Gray, Chairman Democratic State Headquarters, is highly encouraged by the registration. "These figures," he declared, "indicate clearly what is happening throughout the State of Kentucky."

"The new voters, who are mainly women, have definitely aligned themselves with the Democratic party and the great moral cause it represents in the League of Nations."

"The gains made by our forces in the smaller cities were in many cases remarkable. There is absolutely no doubt that 75 per cent of the women's vote of the state will be cast for the Democratic ticket in November, which makes victory for the Democratic ticket in this state certain."

Characteristic of the Republican policy of taxation is the law enacted by the State Legislature relative to tobacco. This law fixes the burden on the farmer, who, with tobacco in his barn or in a hoghead being fed for a better price, is required to pay a rate of 40 cents on the valuation. The tobacco speculator holding tobacco from the same grade, whether or not it is in hogheads, is required to pay a rate of only 15 cents on the same valuation. The Republican party is no friend of the tobacco farmer.

Governor Ed Morrow has gotten himself in a pretty tangle because of a speech he made, deliberately misrepresenting the League of Nations. This ballyhoo orator told his audience that the United States could be forced to send an army to Siam or Thailand without the consent of Congress. Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who knows his knowledge of geography, the governor answered that he might not know geography, but he certainly does know American history. Whereupon Mr. W. W. Davies gave Gov. Morrow a little lesson in American history, accompanying it with the assertion that the governor knows less history than he knows geography.

Mr. Davies cited at least five treaties made by the United States in which the political integrity and independence of various nations are guaranteed by the United States. This is the exact verbiage of Article X which the Republican side show splinters declare will lead us into wars. Thus the Republican party wants to withdraw from the treaties guaranteeing the independence of Columbia, Liberia, Panama, Hawaii and Cuba. They signed these treaties under Republican presidents and nobody made the foolish claims that they would lead us into wars.

Being Republican candidate for Congress from the Fifth District, Congressman Charles F. Ogden naturally prefers black audiences to white. Last Monday he failed to respond to an invitation to address the Ministerial Association of Louisville, composed of white ministers. A week before, however, he displayed great alacrity in making a speech to an assembly of colored preachers and colored church women. Because of Ogden's non-appearance at this meeting, James H. Richmond, Democratic nominee for Congress, has challenged him to a debate on the League of Nations. He has as yet received no reply.

How long do you want to carry the burdens of the Republican party? The Republican Congress of 1915-20 has appropriated five billion four hundred million dollars to be spent this year. THIS IS THE LARGEST PEACE-TIME APPROPRIATION EVER MADE IN THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Republican Tax Commission in Kentucky has increased taxes to the highest point ever known in this state by boosting all assessments.

The Republican City Administration in Louisville has imposed the highest tax rate and the largest assessment ever known to the citizens of Kentucky's metropolis.

Everywhere the record is the same. Wherever the Republican party administers government, there taxes are unprecedently high.

The Louisville News, a negro newspaper of Louisville, is making a terrific onslaught on Senator Pat Harrison, Chairman of the Democratic Speakers' Bureau, comparing him, of course to his disparagement, with the negroes who were sent to the Congress from Mississippi during the carpet-bagger days. In this connection the paper says: "When negroes ruled Mississippi our delegations were composed of statesmen who kept faith with their oaths to keep the Constitution, who consecrated themselves to the great problems of democracy."

Do you want these negro statesmen retained in office? If so, vote for Senator Harrison, who has promised to give them full representation—black men and black women—in the offices of the country.

LANGUAGE SPOKEN BY ALL

That of Heart Far Outranks the Written Word in the Making of Friends.

There is one language of the tongue and another of the heart, and the second is the more important. The doughty hero in France often found himself unable to exchange words—beyond the briefest greeting or the expression of the elemental needs of life—with those among whom he came, from a far, strange land. But actions were louder and more intelligible than speech. The people knew from his kindly face and his outstretched hand that he had nothing to fear from this American soldier. He came not to steal or destroy; he came to help and to play the part of a friend.

The traveler in a land held by savages is under a constant surveillance. Whether he is the advance agent of a great many more, who are coming to take what through the ages has belonged to them and to their forebears. He is on trial, and the burden of proof rests with him. If he goes with the modest, courteous, considerate demeanor of a Parable traveling through Anaxibia, he has nothing to fear—for he has done nothing to create fear. When Stanley went to Africa or Roosevelt traversed South America or Kinglake made his journey in the East, each of these voyagers encountered no unfamiliar tongues; but there are always ways in which one human being makes himself understood by another, no matter how distant the points from which they came.

ALWAYS THE SAME OLD HUN

Nation Continues to Dream of Victorious War, In the Face of In-glorious Defeat.

The Hun never changes. We read in well-informed magazines everywhere that Germany, unlike any other nation participating in the great war, refuses to forget the war. While in America, in Britain, in France and Italy, the chief desire is to turn full attention to the things of peace and to blot out war memories, in Hunland the converse is true, declares the American Legion Weekly.

The astounding sale of books dealing with military phases of the war and the military lessons taught by the war comes throughout Germany. Germans, old and young, are reading what Von Hindenburg and Von Kluck and Von Sanders think of even the minutest details of strategy and tactics. Clubs have been formed for the study of military questions, and newspapers are full of articles explaining just why Germany fell and just how she could have done better. Some stupid persons wonder if this does not mean "Just how she can do better next time!"

"One would expect the reverse—look for a national revulsion of feeling on the part of beaten Germany leading them to abjure war talk and turn their thoughts elsewhere. But Helicon can neither learn nor forget. Prudence, not pessimism, is the origin of an intense conviction that our sons will some day have to combat the same old Teuton menace."

Teach Value of Foods.

The first laboratory for working out household food problems was installed in Teachers' college, New York city, a little more than ten years ago, says an exchange. The development of science has been extraordinary, the current ideas of the actual value of food in common use have been revolutionized by the work in these laboratories. When the war came, the government accepted without question the results of these investigations and the relations of American soldiers in France were fixed upon them.

One of the most interesting features of the laboratory is a complete flat, including kitchen, dining room, bedroom and bath. Students are selected who need each kind of food and experimented upon for weeks at a time. In this way, many problems of the utmost importance were solved.

Making Wood Fire-Resisting.

Keeping wood wet, injecting certain chemicals, and coating with suitable paints, are the three methods of increasing resistance to fire that have been tested at the United States forest products laboratory. Though not the most effective, painting is the cheapest and most practicable treatment for wood in small amount. Ordinary camelline or whitewash proves to be as resistant to fire as a paint. It is cheap and convenient to use; and while it does not prevent burning at high temperature it lessens the risk of spreading a blaze from burning cigarettes, sparks and matches. A paint of linseed oil, zinc borate and chrome green, which has been tried for outdoor use, retards the fire-resisting properties during more than three years of exposure to the weather.

Furs From New South Wales.

An important export trade in fur skins is being developed in the state of New South Wales, says Consul Edward J. Norton, Sydney, Australia, as indicated by the fact that various fur skins to the value of $2,312,482 pounds, valued at $7,000,000, were exported from Sydney during the six month period ended January 30, 1920, excluding rabbit skins, which constitute a big item of export from Sydney. Fox skins are largely exported, and the foreign demand for kangaroo, opossum, wallaby and wombat skins is steadily increasing.

The KITCHEN CABINET

For each soul has an inner room. Where all alone it seeks the grace To struggle with the sharpest woe, Its hardest destiny to face. To lift the duty that it faces. To love, to trust, through every day.

And not the nearest, dearest heart Goes with it to that inner room. —Anonymous.

FOODS FOR HOT WEATHER.

When preparing the breakfast coffee on a hot morning, add enough to make two or three extra cups, which may be served for dinner at night, or for a cool drink at noon. There are so many kinds of cool drinks, from iced tea, coffee and cocoa, to all the fruit juices which one may put up at home, or purchase in the market.

To make iced coffee, take the beverage of the usual strength served when hot, add ice and sugar and cream as desired for each glass.

A chicken sandwich with a dish of head lettuce with a French dressing, or a more elaborate thousand island dressing, makes a meal with a glass of chilled milk or iced tea, which is sufficiently satisfying for the most exacting appetite.

Lemon Sirup.—Grate the rind of one lemon, add the juice of six, with four cups of sugar and two cups of water. Boil all together for ten minutes; cool and put into a bottle in the ice chest. When serving, pour a little of the sirup into a glass, add chilled ice and fill the glass with cold water. This is such an easy way to have lemonade always ready to serve.

Gelatin Pie.—Bake a flaky crust on the bottom of a pie plate and, when cool, stir in a pint of any flavored gelatin, beaten until foamy and thick. Cover with whipped cream and serve cut in the usual way. Let stand on ice to become firm and ice-cold before serving.

Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cups of sugar, a quart of rich milk and the grated rind of one lemon. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then freeze as usual. This makes a most delicious frozen dish.

Tomato Salad.—Arrange one thick slice of tomato for each cover on heart leaves of lettuce. Over the tomato heap very finely minced celery, cucumber and onion which has been mixed with a French dressing to marinate. Top the salad with a small spoonful of mayonnaise and serve at once.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Of course there is nothing nicer in a corn dish than corn cooked on the cob, and eaten from it with a bit of butter and a dash of salt; but for variety corn may be served in many substantial dishes, furnishing a main dish for the meal.

Squaw Dish.—Some corn will be left to eat, cut the corn from half a dozen ears, put into a frying pan two tablespoonfuls of bacon fat and when hot turn in the corn. Stir and cook, adding salt and pepper, adding more bacon fat if needed. Canned corn is very good served in this manner.

Date Crumbles.—Take two eggs well beaten, one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful each of chopped dates and walnut meats. Mix all together and spread on two greased pie plates. Bake in a slow oven three-quarters of an hour. Crumble and serve in tall glasses topped with whipped cream, or mix with whipped cream and serve.

Raspberry and Currant Soup.—Bring to the boiling point two cupfuls each of raspberry and currant juice, sweeten to taste, thicken with three teaspoonfuls of arrowroot, smooth in a little cold water. Add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and serve cold.

Any fruit such as cherry, strawberry, pineapple or rhubarb may be prepared for a cooling fruit soup. Lemon Soup.—Add the juice and rind of a lemon to four cupfuls of water. Bring to the boiling point and thicken with three teaspoonfuls of arrowroot mixed in a little cold water. Cook until smooth, cool and serve with cracked ice and bits of candied ginger in each glass.

Mint Sangaree.—Crush three sprays of mint with a lemon of sugar. Put into a glass half full of cracked ice. Add four tablespoonfuls of grape juice and fill the glass to the brim with charged water. Shake thoroughly and strain into another glass. Serve garnished with a sprig of mint.

State News.

Franklin, Ky.—A $500 check was sent yesterday by Overton Harris, a Simpson county farmer, to National Chairman J. N. Cannon as a donation to the Democratic Campaign fund. Mr. Harris said he wished to match the donation of President Wilson.

Paris, Ky.—Describing herself as the oldest living female rebel in Bourbon county, Mrs. Nancy Hansbell, aged 83, was the first person to register at precinct No. 2. The election officials on their arrival at the voting place found her waiting. She registered as a Democrat and says during the remainder of the campaign she is going to hold daily conferences with the women of the neighborhood on her front porch in behalf of Governor Cox.

Munfordsville, Ky.—There are 2 miles of the Dixie highway, beginning just three miles north of Munfordsville, that are little "too good to be true" roads. A young man, A. W. Reeling Green, driving a big Stutz touring car, tried the two-mile speed way Sunday at midnight, and not knowing the road was very well, he failed to make proper allowance for one sharp curve and went over into a twenty-foot sink or water hole. He was thrown to the top and wind shield, righted himself and then went to sleep peacefully. At daylight some near by farmers, noticing his lights burning, and thinking it a waste, awoke him and he immediately started the engine to roaring and pulled right out and turned around drove off toward Louisville, Ky. It is thought from the signs left behind that he had made a recent visit to a moonshine establishment.

Frankfort, Ky.—Protection of a person's premises from unlawful search even when evidence to convict that person of an offense is found, was guaranteed by the Court of Appeals, today, when in an opinion by Chief Justice Carroll it reversed the Hardin Circuit Court, because an unlawful search of Roy Youmans' premises by the Sheriff. The officer had a warrant, charging Youman with having whisky in his possession for sale. Youman wasn't home and the Sheriff searched his premises and found whisky. It was used against Youman in his trial. The court said the constitution prohibits search of the person or premises of a citizen without a search warrant. This applies to baggage. The only exception is that articles found in possession of a prisoner, properly arrested, may be taken by the officer as evidence. The court noted growing disregard of this constitutional protection.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 8.—Following the arrest of Edwin Bartelstone, 1072 Nassau St., New York, and David C. Augustus, head of a large local trade company, Federal prohibition officers, today, were busy following every available lead. They believe that there is a plot to obtain virtually all Kentucky whisky held in the State on forged permits for medical use at $92 a case and retail it at a profit of millions of dollars at customary "bootlegging" prices. Alleged forged prohibition permits were presented by Bartelstone, the Government contends, to the Bernheim Distilling Company, here, August 17, and 400 cases of liquor were released on payment of $12,800. The permits purported to be issued by W. W. Hickman, prohibition director of Pennsylvania and called for shipment of liquor to two Pennsylvania concerns. Director Hickman has notified prohibition officials here, that the permits were forged.

Ex-Services Men.

The Republican Handbook not only fails to contain a single word of praise or appreciation of the glorious achievements of the American Army in France, but on the contrary it offers a gratuitous insult to the American service men.

The Republican campaign text book charges that the GOVERNMENT "has not even a day's expenditure for the United States it was estimated was from four to six times the per soldier day cost of France."

Every American soldier who saw service overseas knows how the French poilus lived. They received five cents a day while the American soldier got a dollar a day. It is the Republican party which thinks a dollar a day is too much. Furthermore, France did not have to transport four million men three thousand miles across the Atlantic Ocean, nor did they have to transport the supplies from the sea ports to the interior as did the American army.

Suppose it did cost from four to six times more per soldier per day to maintain the doughboy than the poilu. Wasn't it worth it? After paying their family allotment and the insurance the doughboy had little enough left with which to indulge in pleasure on the few leaves he enjoyed in France, but even this little amount was used to make the Republican campaign managers.

Moving to Town.

Ma says I guess we'll rent the farm and move to town this fall, where it ain't so far to go to church or make a friendly call; we've lived here almost all our lives and now this time I'm sure to put aside these busy days and take a long rest cure, we've got the children married off and money in the bank, so what we need from this time on is a little social rank; I've cooked and baked and sewed and fried and other things performed till I ain't got no more gumption than as if I'd chloroformed; I ain't no great complainer and I like to do my stunts but I s'pose it does feel comfortable to jest sit still and grunt, but that's a thing that can't be done while living on the farm where a hundred thousand duties keep one always up in arms; so I want to go to town to live and have a bungalow with all them fancy fumblings that always haunt me so. I want to turn a facet and have the water run, one that's hot and the other cold and another that both in one; and I want a furnace in the cellar that shoots the heat around, and a bath tub in the bath room that's big enough to do a lot of things and comes to lighting up I want to turn a button that will shoot a ray as bright as day and also fry the mutton. And Pa just gets cantankerous whenever I talk of town and says that folks as old as us don't need to gad around. We're better off he says right here on the old farm. There's plenty of room to move around without a fire alarm. But I've known Pa since I was a girl, and I'll give him my plans all right, he'll come to know his weakest link, and when I have time I think. He's just like lots of other men that skorn around and buster, that a woman's smile and a female leg nile can lick with a feather duster.—Ex.

LEAD ARSENATE.

Paris green, formerly much recommended for biting and chewing insects, such as the Colorado potato beetle, cucumber beetles, cabbage worms, and tomato horn worms, whenever it was known to most farmers and is for sale at drug stores, is being superseded to a considerable degree by other arsenicals, of which the most important is arsenate of lead, or lead arsenate.

The present high cost of copper compounds has resulted in a similar high price for Paris green. Although arsenate of lead has also risen in price it is less costly and is preferable for the following reasons:

1. It serves the same purpose as Paris green against the external leaf eating insects and certain other chewing insects.

2. It is applied in the same manner.

3. It is less harmful to growing plants being less likely to burn delicate foliage.

4. It adheres better to foliage.

5. It is less troublesome to prepare.

6. The white coating which it leaves on the plants after spraying shows which plants have not been reached by the treatment.

Lead arsenate does not kill insects as quickly as Paris green, although the fatal dose is absorbed nearly as soon.

Petersburg and Bellevue played a ragged game of ball on the grounds of the former Saturday, the score was 5 to 8 in favor of Petersburg. The game was won by Petersburg in the fifth inning when they scored five runs on two errors, two doubles and a single. Petersburg scored one in the sixth and two in the eighth. Bellevue opened in the first with one run, one more was made in the fourth on two hits, two errors and two in the ninth. Bellevue had to make nine hits to score five runs while Petersburg scored eight runs on six hits. Rogers, Huch and Ryle were the batterers for Bellevue, Shinkle and Snelling for Petersburg. Podge Alloway and Hubert Brady were the umpires, and they called a good game.

Why shouldn't we feel deeply grateful for the beautiful harvest just gathered? Compared with other less fortunate places, the people of Boone county, from actual experience, do not know what it is to suffer from a lack of food or comfort. It is not a matter of no excuse for wasteful indulgence, but rather, "economy" should be our watchword.

"Wonderful" was the word used by Gov. James M. Cox to describe his reception in Kentucky. It was toward the close of his second days campaigning when hundreds of two to five hundred population had been producing crowds of five hundred to a thousand, that Governor Cox made this comment on the Kentucky touring. "I have never seen anything like it" he said. But what pleased him most was the throng that gathered to hear him in Louisville. Those who failed to hear him outnumbered those who were able to get within hearing distance by a large margin.

CLUB MEMBERS JUDGE STOCK

Contests Conducted to Improve Methods Used in Production and Care of Live Stock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is almost as important to be able to judge an animal accurately as it is to raise one successfully. If a person does not know what constitutes food points in an animal, he is obliged to rely on someone else's judgment in both buying and selling. That is one reason why boys and girls in the clubs supervised by the department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges are being trained in stock judging. At the county, state, and interstate fairs, live stock judging contests are conducted and demonstrations given by club members to interest the public and improve the methods used in the production and care of live stock.

Some of the Club Boys Who Are Learning to Judge Stock and Do It Skillfully.

At the Missouri state fair boys' and girls' club teams judged both beef and dairy cattle. In putting on the demonstrations each member had his particular part to do. The captain of the team introduced one member, who gave the history and characteristics of an ideal beef animal and the same for one of dairy type. Another member compared dairy and beef cattle by using an animal exhibited at the fair to illustrate his points. The captain then scored a beef steer, using a large score card that could be read by everyone in the audience. Each point was discussed and the rating of the good and poor features of the animal were pointed out and scored.

At the Interstate fair, at Sioux City, Ia., the Nebraska live stock judging team won first honors in competition with teams from North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri and Iowa.

RAISE STANDARDS OF STOCK

Activities of Live Stock Association Illustrate Benefits of Co-operation.

The manner in which co-operative buying can further the movement for better stock is illustrated by the activities of a live stock association in northern Wisconsin. It purchased 50 head of fine cattle from another part of the state and also several head from its own vicinity. The association sold these animals individually to various stock raisers. The money netted by the transaction was used in further promotion of the purebred cause by purchasing 8 purebred bull calves. The calves were then distributed by lot among the members of the association. Thus the co-operative activities of the association has made possible the stock standards on which practically the entire county is having brought into the county $10,000 worth of well-bred live stock.

KEEP PUREBRED LIVE STOCK

There is No Danger of an Over-supply and Efficiency Has Been Conspicuously Proven.

There never was a time in history when pure bred livestock of all kinds received more attention than now. The efficiency of pure bred livestock has been conclusively proven. There is no danger of an oversupply.

CONSIDER SHEEP AND GOATS

Animals Worthy of More Attention Than They Receive—They Keep Down Noxious Weeds.

Sheep and goats deserve more consideration than they receive on some farms. These animals are able to eat down the coarse weeds and may keep down noxious weeds in pastures.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Successful lambing is be bred to carry on the best side of the pasture.

If the ground that the chicks, poult, ducklings and geese range over during the summer is grass land, browned by the heat of the sun and scorched by the hot sun, be sure that the youngsters have ample food and one good feed of fresh, green food every day.

POULTRY

FOWLS FOR BACKYARD FLOCK

Not Necessary to Have Hens of Extra Good Standard Quality for Egg Production.

For the backyard flock, kept to produce eggs only, it is not necessary to have hens of extra good standard quality. What breeders of standard poultry call choice utility hens are as good as any for egg production, and cost but little more than ordinary mongrels. Hens of this grade in the medium-sized breeds are usually a little under standard weights, and have superficial faults—such as unsoundness of color, or irregularity of markings or of the shape of the comb—which in no way affect their laying capacity, but make them unfit for exhibition and undesirable for breeding purposes.

Good for Producing Eggs.

When buying hens in person, particular attention should be given to the general condition—whether the bird seems vigorous and lively—and to the appearance of the comb and the condition of the feet. Healthy hens have bright red combs and bright eyes, assert poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture. A slight paleness of the comb is simply an indication that the hen is not laying at the time; but a bird whose comb has either a yellowish or a bluish cast should be rejected, for these are symptoms of internal disorders. The skin and scales of legs and toes should be smooth, and the soles of the feet soft and free from corns.

DUST BATH VERY ESSENTIAL

Best Results Cannot Be Expected If Hens Are Permitted to Become Overrun With Vermin.

If the best results are to be expected from the flock, the hens must not be allowed to become overrun with lice or the house with mites. Usually, there will be a place in the yard where the hens can dust themselves in the dry dirt. In the absence of such a place, a box about 2 feet square and containing ordinary road dust or fine dirt should be placed in the house. A dust bath aids the hens in keeping-lice in check and therefore adds to their comfort. If they are not able to keep them in check by dusting themselves, other measures can be taken.—United States Department of Agriculture.

SELECTING GOOD LAYERS

Keep as good layers:

1. Hens which have been the best layers during the past year should be kept over for breeders for next year.
2. Hens which have not started to molt.
3. Hens that have bright red combs and wattles and bright eyes.
4. Well spread pelvic bones, good depth from lay bones to keel bone and vent soft and pliable.
5. Pale shanks, beak and vent on all breeds which have yellow shanks and skin. Use all of the test to be sure you get the good layers.

SEXES SHOULD BE SEPARATED

As Soon as Young Males Begin to Crow They Should Be Fattened for Market.

The young stock should not be reared among a flock of old birds. They should be kept separate. As soon as the young males nag and worry the females (which is about the time they start to crow) the sexes should be separated, and the males fed an extra allowance of food. The cockerels can be mated to the hens without fear of bad effects from inbreeding.

FURNISH SHADE IN SUMMER

Chicks, Poult, Ducklings and Geese Must Have Ample Shade During Hot Weather.

Calaka, Poult, Ducklings and Geese Must Have Ample Shade During Hot Weather.

If the ground that the chicks, poult, ducklings and geese range over during the summer is grass land, browned by the heat of the sun and scorched by the hot sun, be sure that the youngsters have ample food and one good feed of fresh, green food every day.

BIG MEN ENDORSE NEW SCHOOL LAW

Democratic Senator and Republican Leader In Accord On Welfare of Children

Senator J. C. W. Beckman was seen some time ago by your staff representative who asked the Senator for his views upon the new County School Administration Law. The Senator's very hopeful statement is given in full below:

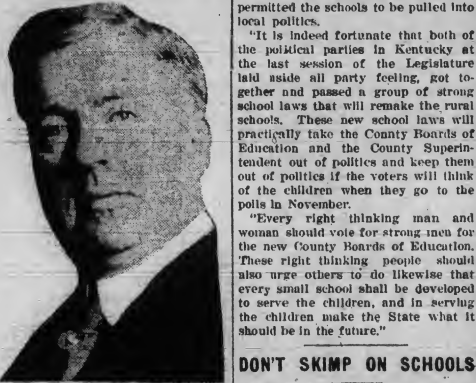

"While I have not had a chance to read the entire school law passed by the last session of the Legislature, I have been informed of its general provisions and am very hopeful that it will accomplish great good for our county schools and enable them to make greater progress than ever."

"It is hardly necessary for me to say how deeply interested I am in the school work in our State, for during the time I was a member of the Legislature, and Governor, I always gave especial consideration to the progress and development of our school system. It is a great work. The rural schools have not, of course, had the advantages of the city schools, and I earnestly hope that the new system adopted under this law may prove satisfactory and successful in every way."

"I understand that under the new law County Boards of Education are to be elected in this state on November 2nd, and I trust that the people of every county will realize the great importance of this election and see to it that the best persons possible to secure for that work shall be elected."

"The success of the law will depend to a very considerable extent upon the character and intelligence of those who make up these county boards."

"There is no more important work in our State than the improvement and development of our schools, and especially the rural schools. I was for three years a teacher in the common schools in this State, and I have always watched, with particular care, the development of our school system, and aided in it whenever possible. I am truly glad, too, that provision has been made for increased salaries for our school teachers. Considering the work they do, so important and so far reaching, training the minds and characters of our children, they have been paid inexcusably low salaries and no class of people deserve increased pay more than they do."

The Hon. A. T. Hert, National Committeeman for the Republican party, sent the following strong statement for publication concerning the election of County Boards of Education under the new law next November:

"Every right thinking man and woman in this enlightened age must realize that good schools for all of the children are the solid foundation stones upon which a republic like ours is erected. Good schools mean an educated public which will think sanely, act sanely and vote sanely at all times and on all questions. That every child, everywhere may be educated, good schools must exist in our cities, in our small towns and in our most remote rural districts.

"Many of our large cities and towns have developed strong school systems which are giving splendid service. A few of the rural districts in Kentucky have done the same thing for their children, but many counties have been backward in giving the country child a real opportunity for a first-class education because of laws which have permitted the schools to be pulled into local politics."

"It is indeed fortunate that both of the political parties in Kentucky at the last session of the Legislature laid aside all party feeling, got together and passed a group of strong school laws that will remake the rural schools. These new school laws will practically take the County Boards of Education and the County Superintendent out of politics and keep them out of politics if the voters will think of the children when they go to the polls in November."

"Every right thinking man and woman should vote for strong men for the new County Boards of Education. These right thinking people should also urge others to do likewise that every small school shall be developed to serve the children, and in serving the children make the State what it should be in the future."

DON'T SKIMP ON SCHOOLS

Every magazine and newspaper in the land is printing editorials concerning the schools of the nation. The Youth's Companion has the following to say concerning the schools in America:

"The schools of America were founded and maintained by sacrifice; only so can they be preserved. The teacher must be convinced of the value and dignity of his service that he will not lightly abandon it for some occupation that offers more ease or excitement or money. And on the other hand the public must stop being niggardly. It must tax itself more heavily for schools than it has been in the habit of doing, and it must pay salaries that do not degrade the teacher in the eyes of the community. Whatever else a country must skimp, let it not skimp on its schools."

ODD-FELLOWS

Plenite Attended by Fair Size Crowd and An Enjoyable Day Spent.

The Odd Fellows plenite held at the Florence fair grounds last Saturday was attended by a good sized crowd. The weather was good—extremely good—and the day was ideal with its bright sunshine and blue October sky. The crowd was estimated at from 300 to 500 people made up of members of Odd Fellows Lodges and their families. There were some disappointments, though.

Grand Master, W. B. Hawes, who was on the program, for a speech, could not attend on account of sickness; Mr. Harry Hartke, who was to speak in the interest of the Farm Bureau failed to show up, as he was called away on other important business. R. G. Elliott, Grand Secretary of the order, was the only speaker of the day, and he made a very interesting talk. The music was furnished by the band and orchestra—composed of seven little girls and one boy from the I. O. O. F. Home. At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was spread enough to feed twice that many people—the dinner and the day was greatly enjoyed by all those present.

The young ladies who composed the orchestra demonstrated what is meant by being realists of the home, they showed that they had been reared in home-like surroundings and that nothing was being left undone. The Odd Fellows are doing a great work in Kentucky and those who have been graduated away from home have been a credit to the order.

High School Notes.

Miss Helen Stephenson, a former graduate but now a Boone county teacher, visited our school Friday.

The members of the Junior and Senior English classes have subscribed for the Literary Digest. They use the magazine advantageously in connection with their class work.

The piano classes were started last week and the work in that department is now progressing nicely. Miss Skillman, a piano teacher of fifteen years experience, is in charge and quite a number of students have already enrolled.

The past week was "CLEAN-UP-WEEK" in the schools. The teachers and pupils worked co-operatively and as a result our school building is "spick-and-span" from basement to garret.

As a result of the candy sale, held by the Athletic Association Friday, the sum of fourteen dollars was realized. This will be applied to the debt left over from last season.

One of our greatest needs has been a first-class cyclopedic. This need was met this week when the High school students, themselves, decided to purchase a Cyclopedic. They agreed to contribute ten cents each for the year 1920-1921. In this manner they will receive a large, personal benefit at an exceptionally small cost.

SCHOOL TAX RULING.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 19.—Cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes and counties are not affected by the decision of the Court of Appeals, which held that the act of the 1920 Legislature providing for an additional fifty-cent levy on each $100 worth of property for graded school purposes is unconstitutional.

So many inquiries have been received by George Colvin, Superintendent of Public Instruction, that he has announced that only independent graded school districts are affected by the decision.

Cities of the first four classes and County of Education have the authority to levy additional taxes for school purposes.

First-class cities may increase the tax $1; second-class cities $5 per cent; third-class cities $10; fourth-class cities, $15, and county boards, 50 cents.

New Officers Elected.

At a meeting of the "Hog Wallow" Debating Society, held on Tuesday last week, the annual meeting of which is held once a week after the autumn frost, the following officers were elected to serve the ensuing year: J. M. Barlow, president; W. E. Weaver, vice-president; Lloyd Weaver, secretary; Tim Sandfort, was retained as janitor. The next meeting will be held after the first snow fall, at which time the new officers will be installed, and all questions concerning the welfare of the county will be opened for discussion from then on.

Jonas Stephenson and his handsome twin, Mary V. Glines and son, Donald Glines, and Templeton Graves, all of Buellville, neighborhood, were calling on friends in Burlington last Sunday afternoon. It is a pleasure to say that Mr. Graves, who has been on the road to recovery Attending Grand Lodge.

J. J. Kirkpatrick is attending the Masonic Grand lodge in session in Louisville this week. The Masons of Kentucky have been trying to raise one million dollars for the purpose of building and equipping a new orphan home, the committee in charge are certain that the goal will be reached at this session of the Grand Lodge. The present home has served its usefulness and being located in the city limits there is no room for expansion, the home is now crowded, there being cared for more than 425 widows and children. The committee has an option on a tract of land, that they think will make an ideal location for a new home, the location will not be made public until the committee make their report to the Grand Lodge. The Masons of Kentucky propose to have a Home that will be a Home in the fullness of the word, not a place where the children of their departed brothers may exist, be clothed and fed, but a place in which all the comforts of a home are provided with the best of facilities and utility at hand. A home that will be a credit to the order and one to which every Mason may point with pride.

AMISTICE DAY

To Be Celebrated by Boone Post No. 4 American Legion No. 11.

The next big day for Boone county will be Thursday, Nov. 11, when Armistice Day will be celebrated at Burlington under the auspices of Boone Post No. 4, of the American Legion.

It is planned to make it an affair that will stem with patriotism throughout. There has not been a time when there was greater need to nurture the true patriotic spirit than now. There is not an organization in the country that can do the job better than the American Legion.

While plans for the big event are only tentative as yet, it will not be long until a definite plan of action shall have been decided upon.

Upon this day a bronze memorial tablet containing the names of the seventeen Boone county boys who lost their lives during the world war. This tablet will be placed in the corridor of the court house, and will be unveiled by a band of music and one or two good speakers will be present and entertain the crowd.

Boost the celebration. Bring to the attention of the entire community that fired your being while these boys were on foreign lands and prove to them that the public is not unmindful of their sacrifice.

One of the most noteworthy events of the occasion will be a parade of all service men of the county, and a number of the twenty-four remaining veterans of the Civil War.

Teachers' District Meeting.

The District Teachers' meeting held in Burlington Friday afternoon was a distinct success from every viewpoint. Practically all the teachers were in attendance and all talks given were interesting and forcible.

Mr. Skillman, of Hebron, Miss Kelly, of Burlington, and Miss Meiner, county nurse. Special mention should be made of the Burlington Grade girls for their singing, or "reading of Miss Skillman's address, by Miss Skillman. All three were well prepared and really enjoyed. A great many outsiders were present and all spoke well for the interest of the public in the cause of education. Supt. Gordon closed the meeting with a few remarks in which he complimented the teachers by stating that the meeting was the most largely attended and the program the best prepared of any during his term of office.

W. F. M. S. Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin Kelly entertained on Monday last week, at their home near Rabbit Hash, the members of the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church from Ring Sun. The visitors were met at the railway by Mr. Kelly who gave them a hay-ride to his home, and the return trip to the city was made in the same way. During the day delicious home-made ice cream was served, and in keeping with the true Kentucky style, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left nothing out that would add to their pleasure of this guests.

Burlington vs Independence.

The strong boys and girls basketball teams of Independence, at which is head of registers Holstein cows sold at prices from $65 to $200; corn, hay and oats also brought good prices. A nice lunch was served at noon, Mr. and Mrs. Busby will spend the winter in Florida, for which place they will leave in soon as he gets his business matters settled. Mr. Busby and wife will be greatly missed by the people of the (dust) powder neighborhood. The (dust) powder was a peace and prosperity in the "dust" South.

THE GAME OF BASE BALL

As Seen By An Old Boone County Boy Who Still Loves The Game.

The following article was written by an old Boone county boy, who fifty years ago was at the head of base ball in this county. The game is still dear to his heart and he writes in the interest of clean and manly action of the diamond. The article was published in a Florida paper and follows:

A radical change must be brought about in base ball, particularly in amateur ball, or the greatest of all American sports will lose its prestige. Whether it is the intense desire of the players to win the money their friends have on the game makes no difference. It has reached the stage now that it is almost impossible to play a game without a wrangle of some sort and frequently a contest in almost every inning over some decision of the umpire.

Umpires are only human and are liable to error, often conscientiously. It is of daily occurrence that when an umpire renders a decision that does not suit the player he runs up to the umpire, followed by eighteen players and a war of words and mad gestures follows. Many things of the moment that would have been thought of except in the heat of passion to be regretted later in their sober thoughts.

Then the umpire is called to be eliminated to keep up the past popularity of the sport, such as players slaming down their bats because the umpire calls them out in three strikes or after they have knocked a half dozen fouls and finally failed to connect safely. Such a display of temper always gets the player in bad with the spectators and even among his best friends.

Boys, you have got to take your medicine sweetly. Nobody loves a sore loser. You have got to be a game player. You will then not only have the admiration of your friends but your enemies as well.

It is remarked at almost every game, by spectators, that they did not come out to listen to a wrangle. The game of ball and if the wrangling is kept up they will save their time and money for some other purpose.

No common remedy? One thing that would go a long way toward remedying the condition would be to select men to manage, or captain the team, that are cool-headed, that have a natural tact that is required to handle their players. They should be men that would not even get into a wrangle.

If they were given the privilege, they would not willingly accord their opponents. Then should a protest arise let the umpire, or managers, alone with the umpire. Should they fail to agree then the decision stands. It is not a life and death affair. No common remedy? One thing that would go a long way toward remedying the condition would be to select men to manage, or captain the team, that are cool-headed, that have a natural tact that is required to handle their players. They should be men that would not even get into a wrangle.

Mr. Thomas Lipton has set a wonderful example. He is one of the gamest sports that ever lived. He has never been out of a whimper and comes again. Lets follow in his foot-steps and drag base ball out of the mire.

PUBLIC HEALTH NOTES.

(BY MISS MEINZER.)

The physical inspection of school children has been started and is progressing nicely. We find the teachers taking a great deal of interest in the Physical Welfare and health of their pupils.

Some common defects found are the tonsils, adenoids, teeth and vision.

Already some pupils have been to specialists having their eyes treated and are now wearing glasses. Also parents who have not yet consulted a physician concerning the defects of their children, have promised to do so as soon as the work on the farm becomes lighter.

We realize that parents do not willingly neglect their children's health. Mothers have their hands full with household duties. Fathers are also busy. And neither are apt to have medical knowledge when a child is ill when a child needs attention.

The County Nurse acts as a scout to warn parents of the approach of danger to their children's health.

Large Crowd at Sale.

A very large crowd attended L. H. Busby & Sons sale last Thursday at which is head of registers Holstein cows sold at prices from $65 to $200; corn, hay and oats also brought good prices. A nice lunch was served at noon, Mr. and Mrs. Busby will spend the winter in Florida, for which place they will leave in soon as he gets his business matters settled. Mr. Busby and wife will be greatly missed by the people of the (dust) powder neighborhood. The (dust) powder was a peace and prosperity in the "dust" South.

A. B. Renaker was called to Georgetown one day last week on account of the sickness of his wife. Mrs. Renaker was in the hospital and was operated on for appendicitis.

"Cox Unbeatable."

Henry Watterson, veteran editor from Kentucky, who has been in New York for the last two weeks gave out the other day the following interview:

"Write it 'Cox and Unbeatable.' He is a journalist, and that means a good deal. The lawyer is a controversialist, a logician, a master of doctrines. The journalist is an all-round man of affairs. That is what we require in a President of the United States. Cox is a man among men. He has shown himself ever to be a practical man, a man of sense and judgment—who at the saying puts it, 'has studied the cue paper' and ascertained the difference between hawk and buzzard."

"We want—we need—the sort of a man in the White House. Now comes the chance for the Democrats to get together, to eliminate the old crowd, with a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether, to line up once more on the Resolutions of '98 and fifty-four or fifty-five. Better get aboard the band wagon, boys."

NEGRO WOMAN TALKS TO REPUBLICANS.

The following news item appeared in the Richmond Register of October 2nd:

Republican leaders of Madison county were being well-pleased with the result of the speaking at the court house last night when the wife of a negro named Banks of Winchester spoke to a large gathering.

The lower court room was crammed to its capacity for the occasion, fully 90 per cent of the audience appearing to be negroes, both men and women. The speaking had not been publicly advertised and there were very few white persons in the room.

The speaker urged the negroes of Richmond to vote the Republican ticket, and against the League of Nations, which she declared violated the Magna Carta, a declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

In urging the negro women to go to the polls she declared that she was not a white woman, but a white woman who clerk in stores, operate in telephone exchanges, or otherwise work for living and they should avail themselves of their privilege the same as the white women. Her speech contained many of the standard arguments which the Republicans use in their efforts to win votes.

County Court Does.

Judge N. E. Riddell had the first case ever tried in the juvenile court in Boone county, before him last Thursday. The proper home for the children of Joe and Kate Ratliff was before the court.

The children are now in the custody of the father, and the mother charged. The home was improved. A number of witnesses were heard and some very interesting testimony was offered. It is the duty of the court to look to the children of Joe and Kate Ratliff and not the whim of the parents. The court announced that it would have an investigation made about the home and associates of the children before rendering his decision.

Mr. G. T. Ralsky, of Walton, was transacting business in Burlington last Thursday.

The forcible detainer case of Halley Day was on trial last Thursday and was decided for the plaintiff.

Why She Is for Cox.

Mrs. George Phillips of Jefferson county voted for Cox because of the personal of party platform, editorials and speeches of both Republicans and Democrats. I have decided that I shall vote for Cox because he has many of the admired characteristics of the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

I shall vote for Cox because he has enforced laws in Ohio.

I shall vote for Cox because he has lessened taxes in Ohio, and our Republican Congress has not lessened them in the U. S.

I shall vote for Cox because he knows what he will try to accomplish after election.

I shall vote for Cox because he indorses a League of Nations, a stepping stone towards the needed "peace on earth."

I shall vote for Cox because he will not send our boys to war without the consent of Congress.

I shall vote for Cox because he does NOT advocate sending our boys to Mexico.

I shall vote for Cox because he does not advocate a separate peace with Germany.

I shall vote for Cox because he has a specific program in regard to international problems.

I shall vote for Cox because he is not M. M. B. (Bobbie) or W. B. (Walter) as "dirt" as Harding.

DEFEATS PETERSBURG

Boone High School Team Making a Good Record.

By defeating Petersburg Friday the local High School basketball team maintained its clean record for the present season by beating their third consecutive victory. A clean sweep was made of all three contests engaged in, namely, Petersburg's first teams of both boys and girls and second boys' team of Hebron.

The major contest was that with the Petersburg boys and it has to be admitted that Prof. Carter certainly knows how to get excellent results, comparative, from raw, and in some respects, mediocre material. The result of the game was rather a foregone conclusion as admittedly Burlington has the stronger five but a game struggle was put up by the visiting team which finally went down to defeat by the score of 36 to 19. Matthews was easily the predominating figure of the Petersburg five as concerning both defensive and offensive playing but in young Nixon they have a forward who gives great promise of doing things in the coming season.

The game between the girls was a hotly contested affair and the first two ten minute periods resulted in a scoreless tie. A third period of ten minutes was allowed to them and Burlington, through Marjorie Tanner, scored a goal during the first two minutes of play and the remaining time resulted in nothing more than the passing of the ball up and down the field with a few intermittent goal shots and the ultimate score was 23 to 19 in favor of the local team.

The boys' second team found little trouble in defeating Hebron the score being 19 to 3.

Rouse at Center and Brown forward, were the shining lights of the team for Burlington. In the scoring and while Acra put up his usual good game as guard. Much improvement could be noted in the work of the local team as compared to their last game but there still remains a great deal for them to accomplish in perfecting their play, especially in the matter of the passing system which would obviate so many long shots. A game is scheduled for next Friday with the strong team of the local team and all devotees of basketball should be on hand for a good hard-fought game in certain to be staged. And of course the locals will be hanging on to the long end of the score when the final whistle blows.

Can't Vote in Primary.

The question has been asked, if a person votes for the Republican election, Republican ticket, at the coming election, can he vote in the primary election to be held next August, and vote for the Democratic candidate? The question is as follows:

In order to vote in a primary election the person desiring to vote must possess the qualifications required of voters at a regular election. The primary election law provides that in addition to those qualifications "He shall in addition to such qualifications be a member of the party for whose nominees he intends to cast his vote, and shall have affiliated with said party and supported its nominees, and he shall be deemed to have affiliated with the party in whose primary he seeks to cast his vote, if he voted against the nominees of such party at the last regular election." It will readily be seen that under the law, if a person votes the Republican ticket at the coming election, he will not be entitled to vote for the Democratic candidates at the August 1921 primary, but he will be required to vote for the Republican candidates, if he be any one is not entitled to receive a Democratic ballot. You are classed as a Republican or Democrat according to the party you voted at the last regular election preceding the date of the primary. As you vote November 2nd you will be so classed.

MERCHANT GETS BAD FALL.

W. M. Green, Jr., dry goods merchant, met with a severe accident a few days since when his right arm was broken in two places, and his collar bone was also broken. Mr. Green was assisting his best clerk, Mr. Green, in arranging some newly arrived goods at the store, and was standing on a shelf dusting when he was cautioned about the shelf not being strong. Mr. Green left the store room to clean the dust when he heard Mr. Green fall. He was found in an unconscious condition on the floor and a physician summoned, after which he was removed in his home. It was at first feared that his injuries might be serious but broken bones are all that have developed.—Ohio County News.

It Will be Remembered That a few months since the Recorder announced the stealing of $18,000 worth of diamonds from the store of S. P. Tiley at Clearwater, Florida. The thieves who did the job have been captured and given six years in the penitentiary but refused to divulge what they did with the diamonds. The thieves entered Mr. Tiley's jewelry store during business hours and swiped the diamonds.

Democratic Speaking

Senator J. C. W. Beckham will speak at the Florence Fair Grounds at 2 p. m., Saturday, Oct. 23, 1920. Other speakers will also be present. Come Everybody.

G. C. RANKIN, County Chairman.

Only eleven days until election day.

Take your county paper. $1.50 the year.

Boothman's new store at Idlewild, is nearing completion.

Herbert Kirkpatrick made a shipment of iron to the Cincinnati market last Saturday.

Edgar Acta, of Middle creek, has purchased a Ford and is now ready for all comers. Ladies, especially.

The population of the Continental United States is shown by the 1920 census enumeration, is 105,653,103.

Grover Snyder wife and mother spent last Friday on Gunpowder, fishing. Fishing good, catching not very good.

Go to Florence fair grounds Saturday, October 23, and hear Senator J. C. W. Beckham. Speaking begins at 2 p. m.

Quite a number from here attended the speaking at Walton, last Friday and reported an enthusiastic crowd and fine speeches.

J. M. Barlow is having erected on his premises a new barn and garage. Hubert Beemon, of near Limburg, is doing the carpenter work.

At a recent meeting of Bullittsville Christian church congregation E. K. Stephens was ordained Elder and Charles Riley and Albert Willis, Deacons.

Mooby Pope and A. D. Williams, of the Beech Grove neighborhood, were transacting business in the county court last Saturday. Mr. Pope was appointed guardian of Adrene Frederick.

The annual year book of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been issued and a few copies have been received. The book contains quite a lot of information useful to the farmer.

Sheriff L. A. Conner and Deputy Hume report that they have a pretty good clue to the robbery of the Powers store in Walton. They hope to have the guilty parties behind the bars before long.

H. S. Tanner, from out on R. D. 3 attended the basketball games at the High School campus, last Friday afternoon, and while in town called at the Recorder office and had the date on his paper moved up another year.

J. M. Barlow, Ed. Rice, W. C. Weaver and Lloyd Weaver spent the day, last Saturday, on Woolper creek trying to persuade the finny tribe to bite—nothing striking. While down there W. C. Weaver called on his uncle, Jasper Uts.

Every day or two some one adds to the display of farm produce at the Farm Bureau Headquarters. The last brought in was a large pumpkin—quash by Tim Sandford, raised from the seeds furnished by G. B. Powers, of Walton.

The annual election of officers for Boone County Chapter, A. R. C., will be held at Florence, Saturday, October 23rd, immediately after the political speaking and at the same place instead of at the Christian church as announced last week.

The road from Burlington to Cincinnati via Hebron, is one hour and a half long, and not in the best of condition. The traveling public can look to better things when the concrete road thru Florence and Erlanger has been completed.

A good sized crowd attended the sale of the personal property of T. C. Adams, last Saturday, and stock and other articles brought fair prices. Cows sold for $20, corn brought 25 cents a bushel. Mr. Adams and family will move to Erlanger in a few days.

Some of the loose leaf tobacco warehousemen throughout the State have notified the growers that where they strip their crops they must sort and grade them, as there will be none of that done after it is delivered, claiming this will do away with a big expense that has been carried as an item on the grower's bill.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKING

The Democratic speaking at Walton last Friday was well attended. The speaking was held in the Christian church, an ideal place for a public speaking. Hon. Chas. Strother presided and in a few well chosen words introduced the first speaker Congressman A. B. Rouse, our own Arthur, who discussed the issues of the campaign in an able manner, showing that he is fully conversant with the political condition, his remarks were delivered in a clear and forceful manner. Mr. Rouse introduced Hon. Webb Venable, who discussed the peace treaty and League of Nations as the principal theme of his talk. The speaker showed that he is no novice, his argument was unanswerable and he is an orator or no mean ability. The next speaker was Miss Alice Hallam, who was introduced by Mrs. J. C. Bedinger. Miss Hallam is the daughter of the late Theodore Hallam, and she has inherited the oratorical abilities of her father. Miss Hallam is an enjoyable speaker and she presented her subject in the very best manner. Miss Hallam is one of the best political speakers on the platform and no one should lose the chance to hear her. Walton should be proud that a public speaking was held there and that the committee had secured the presence of three such high class speakers as were present.

They batted twelve times and made the Taylorsport pitcher hunt tall timber in the seventh. Taylorsport put over five runs as the game ended 13 to 5 in favor of Petersburg. Petersburg has already won during 1920. Look out for them in 1921.

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

Registration figures in the Fifth District, announced officially by County Clerk, prove more encouraging to the Democrats than the unofficial. A total of 112,921 registrations were divided as follows: Republicans, 55,236; Democrats, 46,701; Independents, 10,981.

This gives the Republicans a lead of 8,535. As the majority of the Independent vote is expected to line up behind the League of Nations, the race in this district will prove to be very close. It appears as if the district will not go more than two or three thousand either way.

In his effort to keep the public from learning the true elements within the Republican party, the Jefferson County Clerk did not separate the negro registrations from the total. As an auditor of fact, about 25,000 negroes in Louisville and Jefferson County registered Republican, which shows that the whites are divided, 10,000 Democrats, 20,000 Republicans, and almost 11,000 Independents. Were it not for the black voters there would not be a chance for the Republican machine in the New York Tribune, August 2, 1930, Mr. Taft said: "I believe that the issue of the League transcends in its importance any Democratic issues, and would justify and require one who believes so to ignore party ties and secure this great boon for the world and this country." Mr. Taft says that he believes so, but instead of ignoring party ties to achieve this great result, he is actively campaigning for the weakest presidential candidate in the history of the Republican party, who proposes to reject the entire League which Mr. Taft regards so vital to the welfare of the world.

Former President Wm. Howard Taft has recently given advice to others that he doesn't think worth following himself. In defending Article X in the League of Nations in the New York Tribune, August 2, 1930, Mr. Taft said: "I believe that the issue of the League transcends in its importance any Democratic issues, and would justify and require one who believes so to ignore party ties and secure this great boon for the world and this country." Mr. Taft says that he believes so, but instead of ignoring party ties to achieve this great result, he is actively campaigning for the weakest presidential candidate in the history of the Republican party, who proposes to reject the entire League which Mr. Taft regards so vital to the welfare of the world.

Republican criticism that United States was unprepared for war is offset by their own argument that the Democrats were too much prepared for war.

The Congressional "Smelling" Committee, headed by Congressman Graham, Republican, has made the astounding discovery that almost every war move made by the United States had been planned for months before war was declared by President Wilson's Advisory Commission, four members of which are Republicans. In the same breath the Republicans condemn the Democrats for the work of this Commission's labor of preparedness, and then condemn the Democrats for unpreparedness.

Negroes of Louisville are in an upsurge of indignation because they are not going to be permitted to sit among the white people at the Gypsy South revival to be held in the monster Tarnacle.

At a recent meeting of colored ministers Rev. M. P. Hunt (white) informed the negro preachers that seventy seats had been set aside for them on the platform. Bishop Archibald J. Carey (negro) asked whether these seats were scattered around or whether they were segregated. The Rev. Mr. Hunt replied that separate arrangements had been made, to which Bishop Carey answered, "Not for us." Negro newspapers of Louisville are up in arms at what they call the Jim Crow Gypsy South revival meeting.

The defection from the Republican camp of Herbert Hoover, former Republican National Committeeman; Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent; J. O. Thompson, former Collector of Internal Revenue of Alabama under Taft and Roosevelt, and the Chicago Evening Post, a paper owned by the owner of the Louisville Herald, can be traced back to the treatment of the Progressives by the Republican party. In the reconstruction of the G. O. P., the Progressives were completely ignored. They were not given any honors in Congress nor offices throughout the nation. Speaker Gillette of the House; Floor Leader Mondell, of the House; Senator Lodge, Peurson, and the others in control of the Upper House, are all deep-seated members of the high protectionists' old guard.

Contrast this with the progressive element in the Democratic party. Bainbridge Colby, who was Theodore Roosevelt's right hand, was Wilson's Secretary of State; Victor Armistead, leader of the Kansas Bull Moose, has been appointed by President Wilson to the Interstate Commerce Commission; John M. Parker, Progressive candidate for Vice President, was elected Governor by the Democrats of Louisiana and is now supporting Cox and Brownell. Small wonder that the former Bull Mooseers are turning to the progressive Democratic party when Warren G. Harding termed their leader and idol, Theodore Roosevelt, "a fakir and crook, and second Benedict Arnold," and called Hiram Johnson "a fakir and a blackguard."

Two of the most noted speakers in the campaign, Bainbridge Colby who is in Louisville on October 22nd, and Wm. G. McAdoo will speak in Louisville on November 1st.

GOOD THINGS TO TRY.

Several years ago prune whip was a common dish well liked; here is a good recipe to revive:

Prune Whip.—Take three-quarters of a pound of prunes, stew, and when soft put through a colander. Add four tablespoonsful of sugar, the whites of four eggs well beaten and one-half cup of nut meats. Add the sugar, then the nut meats, then the prunes, folding all carefully into the eggs.

Flavor with vanilla or serve with whipped cream flavored to taste.

Tapoca Pudding.—Take one-fourth of a cupful of tapoca, cover with cold water and soak overnight; drain well.

Beat the yolks of two eggs with one-half cupful of sugar and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt; add this to tapoca and return all to the double boiler.

Cook three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and add the stiffly beaten whites; flavor to taste.

Oatmeal Cookies.—Take a scant cupful of lard and two cupfuls of sugar, cream together and one cupful of sour milk, three eggs beaten, four cupfuls of oatmeal, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon, soda and salt, one cupful each of nuts and raisins, four cupfuls of flour. Mix the raisins with the flour. Drop from a teaspoon on baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven.

Maple Spoons.—Beat one cupful of brown sugar and one-half cupful of hot water to a syrup. Soak one-half package of gelatine in one and one-half cupfuls of cold water. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add one cupful of pecan meats. Soak the gelatine while the sugar is boiling, then beat well.

When the gelatine begins to stiffen, add the beaten whites of the eggs. Serve with whipped cream.

Marshmallow Pudding.—Take one tablespoonful of gelatin soaked in one-half cupful of cold water; add one-half cupful of hot water. Beat the whites of four eggs and into this beat dissolved gelatin a few drops at a time; add gradually one cupful of sugar.

Drain a can of grated pineapple and beat into the mixture. Color one-half pink, the others any desired color. Mold in cake pans. Serve with whipped cream.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Human life, modern house life, is complex. Grass makes a cow, but the cow is not of a sprightly intelligence, neither is the sheep. A handful of dates feeds the Arab, a cucumber the Turkish puer, a strip of raw blubber the Eskimo; but the needs of civilization call for other facilities than are possessed by these—Helen Campbell.

A SYMPOSIUM OF SALADS.

For a good salad which will take but a short time to prepare, try this new cabbage combination:

Cabbage Salad.—Shred a firm head of cabbage and let it stand in cold water until crisp, then drain well and toss on a towel to remove all water. Dice marshmallows and pineapple; shred blanched almonds and add to any good salad dressing; add whipped cream and pour over the cabbage.

Combination Salad.—Take one envelope of gelatin, add one-half cupful of cold water, then pour the juice from a small can of pineapple heated over the softened gelatin, add the grated pineapple, juice of two lemons, one cupful of sugar, one medium-sized onion and two cucumbers put through the meat grinder; mix all together and mold. Serve on head lettuce with mayonnaise.

Pineapple and Pear Salad.—Lay a slice of pineapple on lettuce and half a pear on this with blanched almonds and a few nuts. Serve with dressing to simulate a pretty party.

Put the peach with this a good dressing mixed with cream. Sprinkle with yellow cheese, finely grated.

Peach Salad.—Lay one-half peach in a nest of head lettuce, hollow side up. Cut long, thin strips of white celery and fennel, the ends in the peach to look like a handle. Fill the peach with salad made of white grapes, cherries, nuts, marshmallows cut fine and a macaroni cherry on top. The fruit should be mixed with a thick, rich dressing.

Another Pineapple Salad.—Take one large can of pineapple, drain the juice, beat two eggs, add three tablespoonsful of sugar and two tablespoonsful of cornstarch well mixed. Mix and stir into the heated juice. Put into a double boiler and cook until thick.

Dice pineapple and stir into it before it is quite cold. Just before serving add a pint of cream whipped stiff, one-fourth of a pound of diced marshmallows and one cupful of nutmeats. This is enough to serve in generously.

The Truck and the Road.

The world is being motorized. The fact was a mighty factor in determining the issue of the late war. It is a mighty factor in its effect upon business, trade, farm and city life have been revolutionized by the chariots of the new age.

But a note of protest and alarm is heard from many quarters with reference to the growing use of trucks. The Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, calls attention to the importance of maintaining improved highways, which, it is said, the trucks do much to impair. Something of the tremendous volume of automobile traffic may be gathered from the published estimate that there is a present total in all the states of the Union of 7,585,448 registered motor cars, including cycles and trucks.

But the truck is here to stay. It has helped to solve the problem of transportation. It is the farmer's friend. It is welcomed by the small business men of the village. It is a veritable car of progress. Certainly the roads should be maintained in repair. If they were not neither truck nor limousine could function properly. This should not be so difficult in view of the additional revenue paid to the state and local Government progress of the nation.

Along with the development of inland waterways, the development and maintenance of a vast system of enduring highways is of supreme importance to the industrial progress of the Nation.

Let the trucks run and rage; let the swift pleasure cars devour the limitless distances; they are inspiring and useful factors in the life of the most progressive of nations. To keep the national highways in a condition of proper repair is economic sense. Any expenditure so applied will be well invested.

KY. OCT. CROP REPORT.

With the growing season almost ended, except for very late tobacco and a small amount of the late corn that is now maturing, Kentucky's crop prospects now indicate the production of approximately 194,005,000 bushels of corn compared to 82,500,000 bushels last year, and 438,374,000 lbs. of tobacco compared to 456,500,000 pounds produced in 1918. The United States entire tobacco crop this year is now estimated at 1,478,748,000 pounds, compared to 1,389,458,000 pounds last year, or about 6.4 per cent increase.

The United States Department of Agriculture warns housewives against the use of any preservative powder or canning compound in home canning. Their use encourages careless and uncleanly work, and in large amounts they may have serious effects upon digestion and health. It is entirely practicable to put up fruits and vegetables so that they will keep indefinitely by processing the products with heat. There is no reason for risk by the use of canning powders.

Boric or salicylic acid is the basis of most canning compounds on the market today. The directions on the packages usually call for one teaspoon of the compound to each quart of fruit or vegetable. The use of boric and salicylic acid, since they may be harmful to health, is regarded by the Department of Agriculture as a violation of the Federal Food and Drug Act. The laws of many States also prohibit the sale of foods containing boric or salicylic acid.

Boone county farmers have safely housed one of the largest crops of tobacco they have ever raised, and with the splendid warm weather of the past month they report it to be curing slowly. Some that was cut too early and was green has been hoaxed, but the major part of the housed crop is now in splendid condition and much of it is of high grade.

To Cut Down Milk Losses.

To develop better methods for handling and shipping milk from the farms to the city market is the object of an investigation of practices in various milk plants, which is being made by the Dairy Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Milk losses during shipment have a marked effect upon the price that the consumer must pay for the product, and upon the price that the farmer receives for the product. The losses are of two kinds; those resulting from milk souring in transit, and those from theft, spoilage, and leakage. Both are believed to be avoidable if the farmer, country dealer, and city dealer will work together.

Dealers are being asked to give information on various subjects, such as the methods used for transporting milk from the farm to the dealer, the protection provided for milk while in transit between the dealer and the city market, and the relative efficiency of different types of refrigerator cars.

Lillie Davis Riggs.

Mrs. Lillie Davis Riggs, 54, wife of Calvin A. Riggs, died Sunday Oct. 10, of pneumonia at her home on Hubert Ave., Erlanger. She was the daughter of J. W. Davis, who some years ago was a prominent business man of this county. Her demise was hastened by grief over the death of her daughter, Beatie Davis Riggs, which occurred May 26. She is survived by her husband, one son, Orville M. Riggs, and a sister. The funeral was held from the residence last Wednesday afternoon.

President Wilson has directed that on Sunday, Nov. 11th, the American flag be displayed at half mast on all public buildings and naval and military posts "as a token of the nation's participation in the memorial services held for the heroic American soldiers, sailors, marines and others who gave their lives to their country in the World war."

SCHOOLS STAND STILL

Everybody and everything appear to move forward while the rural school stands still. Few people ride in buggies or surries these days; but the children go to pretty much the same kind of school their parents attended.

That this tendency to let the schools stand still is the same in many portions of the country can be seen from the following extract from a letter written the Bureau of Education at Washington by Governor W. L. Harding, of the great and progressive state of Iowa:

"I spent a week last September visiting one-room country schools. I was amazed at the small progress that had been made in the last 20 years in these schools. I was equally amazed at the interest manifested by the people who supported these schools, doing whatever was necessary to improve them."

AUTOS OR SCHOOLS, WHICH?

Even big, rich New York City is beginning to realize that her schools and her teachers are not getting a fair deal. Here is a statement recently published in School Life. It does not speak of rural schools; but the reader can mentally change the figures to suit his or her local conditions and the shoe will fit all right.

"Of the 2,000,000 new automobiles of the pleasure-car type, valued at approximately $2,000,000, that will be sold in the United States during the present calendar year, it is conservatively estimated that New York City alone will purchase 50,000, valued $50,000,000. It is estimated that there are in the city of New York 100,000 chauffeurs, whose salaries will amount to approximately $150,000,000. Garage charges (there are 240,000 cars, approximately, in the city) will be not less than $25,000,000, probably much more. Certainly a community that can afford to pay nearly a quarter of a billion dollars a year for pleasure-car service can manage to provide the teachers of its 800,000 children with decent living. Really, the $36,000,000 paid our teachers for the year 1919 is a bagatelle by comparison."

The Better Club Won.

That the better team won the world series will be admitted by all who saw the seven games and followed them closely. It was a great surprise when the Indians took four straight games on their own lot of the Cleveland Indians won the odd in the three games played at Ebbets Field, but Speaker's club earned the quarter of victories so decisively that they established themselves as a really great team. A team that can come back as the Indians did after losing two out of the three first games and still win with opponents all the rest of the way is some ball club.

One big surprise to the National League men was the far superior form shown by the Cleveland pitchers, two of whom, Covelack and Mails, were easily the class of the hurling department. It was claimed for the Robins all along that they would win with their great pitching staff. It is true that Marquard, Grimes and Sherrod Smith pitched great ball in the first three games, but Smith repeated with a fine exhibition in Cleveland on the day he was beaten one to nothing by Walter Mails. But Grimes was a huge disappointment in Cleveland and the other right-handers on Robbies' staff could never get under way.—Equi-rer.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 15.—Five tobacco barns in different localities of Christian county were destroyed by fire last night, bringing the loss of this fire season up to $6. A small spark among the leaves will start a blaze in the inflammable tobacco, with consequent loss of barn and leaf.

BETTER SCHOOLS IN NORWAY

Some of the nations on the other side of the Atlantic are pushing ahead in the practical education of their children. Besides school work, children are taken on long excursions so they may become acquainted with what other people are doing in other localities. All of which proves conclusively that we in America must make our schools real schools for real 20th Century Children.

The following extract from School Life will give the reader an idea of these excursions which are being developed for school children in Norway:

"Excursions of pupils which were much in vogue before the war are again conducted and on a much larger scale than formerly. During the summer vacation many of the school buildings are opened as 'travel bureaus'. The seats and desks are moved out or placed out of the way, and the schoolhouse is equipped as a pupils' hotel. 'Folksholen' reports that an arrangement like the following has been found satisfactory: A certain schoolroom in Stockholm is furnished with 22 cots, mattresses, pillows, and blankets, and 6 washbasins. These arrangements accommodate a group of 20 pupils, with the 2 teachers in charge. Towels and sheets are brought by the travelers themselves.

"Every school in the cities is furnished with a school kitchen. Pernis sign is given to the travelers to use this and the cooking utensils in preparing breakfast. The midday meal is taken at some of the inexpensive, and yet very good, hotels that are found at all principal points. All arrangements are made beforehand, so that each bureau and hotel knows when every party is to arrive.

"Boys and girls travel separately. If the trip is short, it is made on foot; if longer, the boys use bicycles. Trips to more distant parts requiring 10 days or 2 weeks are made by rail or steamboat. It is always possible to get very much reduced rates for a school excursion. Pupils from different countries visit each other in this way: the present season will bring pupils together from Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Holland and Germany."

Fall Sowing of Oats.

The principal varieties of oats suitable for fall sowing in the South are the Red Rustproof, Fulghum and Winter Turi, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The Red Rustproof and Fulghum should be grown in the Gulf States, Georgia and the Carolinas, and the Winter Turi in Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

Fall oats should be sown on well prepared land with a grain drill at the rate of 2 to 3 bushels to the acre. The date of seeding varies from September 15 to November 15, according to the locality. Only clean, plump seed should be sown.

Herbert Parsons of New York, Republican National Committee-man, was for Senator Harding. But now he is for Governor Cox.

The Des Moines speech in which Senator Harding turned his back on the League of Nations and mulctored something about making some other plans some other time was too much for Mr. Parsons. He quit the Senator cold.

When a man of the prominence of Mr. Parsons bolts his party he gives a reason. The reason given by Mr. Parsons was: "Everything Senator Harding says is mush."

Fall-sown grain crops in the South provide a winter cover for the land, thus preventing washing and leaching. They also provide winter pasture and grain and forage for work stock and may be grown to advantage in rotation with corn and cotton. The oat crop is one of the best for fall sowing where it withstands the winter.

The following editorial appeared in the Toledo Pioneer in 1890: "Of Sept. 14th, 1890, the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution, intended to guarantee to the Negro people the full enjoyment of their political and civil rights, have been made secure in the exercise of those sacred rights and high privileges. These provisions of the organic law of the country have been utterly ignored, and Colored people in Ohio and other states have been subjected to the greatest humiliation thru unfair, unjust and unlawful discrimination against them because of color.

The Constitution recognizes the Colored man as the equal of the white man. He has been denied civil equality during all the years that have elapsed since the emancipation proclamation was issued by the immortal Lincoln. These rights conferred upon the Colored man were written into the organic law of the country by the blood of 400,000 men, brave and true. They have not only been denied him, but he has even been unable to secure redress in the courts of this state.

Political party orators each recurring year recount the progress and achievements of the Colored race. They pay tribute for their surprising advancement in education, finance, professions and trades. They likewise commend their loyalty and service to the country in its hour of need, but they have failed to right the wrong done the Colored people as a race by the enactment of laws which would enforce these rights.

The Colored people have made wonderful progress. No race has ever equalled them. But their progress has been retarded by the inhuman, ignominious treatment accorded them by the whites. In suit after insult has been heaped upon them, all because the whites have failed and refused to yield obedience to the Constitution by recognizing the fixed rights of the blacks. Yes, the Colored people have made wonderful progress since their ancestors were liberated from bondage a little more than a half century ago.

This property accumulations aggregate millions and millions. They have taken high rank in art, literature, science, politics, religion, education, finance, business, and the professions and trades. Robert G. Ingersoll once said that he was glad he "had lived long enough to see a Colored man occupying the seat in the United States Senate formerly held by his master." He referred to the late Senator Bruce, who was a credit to his race.

Booker T. Washington reached a high place in education and the affections of the American people. Others have achieved fame and a place in history along other lines. The Colored people are asking no special favors, no special dispensations in their behalf as they ask is the privilege of exercising the rights that belong to them. The resentment in their hearts against the treatment accorded them is not only natural, but justified, and the day of reckoning is not far distant.

We have been a patient, long suffering people, but our opportunity is here, and the coming election. If the Colored voters men and women, stand together in the coming November election we may be able to secure in this state the full fruition of the rights guaranteed us as a people under the Federal Constitution. Six members of our own race have been nominated for the membership in the Ohio General Assembly, three in Cuyahoga-co., two in Franklin county, one in Hamilton county.

The Colored voter, man or woman, who votes against any one of these men will not only be disloyal to his own race, but a discredit to his race. For the reason that if these men are elected to the Legislature one of them can introduce a duplicate of the Beatty bill in the House two years ago and if defeated in the Senate, which, if it had been enacted into law would have prevented this unjust discrimination against the Colored people.

Six men in a legislative body may hold the balance of power, and force the majority to come to terms. The Beatty bill had been introduced in the Legislature which it would have imposed against Colored people seeking admission to hotels, theaters, places of public resort and amusement, tea cream parlors, bathhouses, barbershops, public libraries, hospitals, billiard and pool rooms, schools, colleges and universities, pleasure resorts and often times public conveyances on land or water, would soon have put a stop to this injustice to the Colored people.

not make any pre-election promise, but what is in his heart will be written into law if he is supported by a Legislature in sympathy with him.

More than that, we will have the moral support of our candidate for the presidency, Senator Warren G. Harding. In his speech of acceptance at Marion when he was notified of his nomination, he spoke out unqualifiedly in favor of the rights of the Colored people. He said:

"I believe the Negro citizens of America should be guaranteed the full enjoyment of all their rights, that they have earned the full measure of citizenship. I believe that their sacrifices in blood on the battlefields of the republic have entitled them to all freedom and opportunity, all of the sympathy and aid that the American spirit of fairness and justice demands."

His words are an eloquent endorsement of the spirit and letter of the Beatty bill, the purpose of which was to insure to the Colored people their civil rights by imposing heavy penalties upon those who would deny them these rights. In other words, they would have the right to choose the hotel at which they might stop, the theater which they might attend, or the place of amusement and recreation to which they might go, with no questions asked and no insults offered. The Beatty bill provided penalties of $100 to $500 fine, and thirty to ninety days imprisonment or both, within the discretion of the court.

The enactment of such a law by the Ohio General Assembly, with its right enforcement, would have the effect very soon of bringing the Colored people into the full enjoyment of all their rights, which Senator Harding says "the American spirit of fairness and justice demands."

With six of our own race in the Legislature, backed as they would be by Governor Davis, and with the moral influence of the incoming national administration of Warren G. Harding, we do not see how we could fail to put over a measure similar to the Beatty bill.

The duty of Colored people living in the counties which present these Colored men as candidates for the General Assembly is to vote for them to a man. And that reminds us that women are going to have the right to vote at the coming November election. It is their duty to vote for these men. With the Beatty bill enacted into law, Colored men and women will be privileged to go where they please, and when the night is enforced the white people will have more respect for you. This is our opportunity, and mustn't let it pass.—Toledo Pioneer.

THE FARM BUREAU

Has It Accomplished Anything For the Farmers of Kentucky?

"Has the Farm Bureau accomplished anything for the farmers of Kentucky?" is a question very frequently asked and for these men. With the Beatty bill enacted into law, Colored men and women will be privileged to go where they please, and when the night is enforced the white people will have more respect for you. This is our opportunity, and mustn't let it pass.—Toledo Pioneer.

(The Pioneer is owned and published by Negroes.)

—Political Adv.

The Farm Bureau is comparatively new in this state—in Iowa there are more than 110,000 members. The Kentucky organization, you see, is in its infancy. But—baby that it is—the Kentucky association has already accomplished what farmers working without united effort were not able to achieve in fifteen years of endeavor.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation is the organization. Capital upon which to work it will have if you and your friends join your County Bureau.

And make no mistake, friend, the farmer will never come into his own until there is organization and capital with which to work.

Listen to what one State did more than a year ago:

Consider Illinois.

A Legislative Committee was maintained at the State Capital which saw to it that the farmers got a square deal from the legislature.

They succeeded in passing every bill which they approved and they likewise succeeded in killing every bill to which they objected.

This is what your own County Farm Bureau would do if you furnish the money. It would do the means with which to do it. Is there any good reason why you should not join your County Bureau today?

All requirements for you to sign YOU GIVE—

A nominal fee.

YOU GET—

Protection, justice, association, inspiration, satisfaction, better living, better business, better life.

Objects and purposes of the County Farm Bureau:

To act as a body in matters of county importance, such as:

Protection against fraudulent agents.

Quarantine against live stock diseases.

Encouragement of the live stock industry.

Maintenance of soil fertility.

Development and distribution of improved seed.

A fair price for all products of the farm.

The building of good roads and road maintenance.

The exertion of a united influence on legislation.

Potato production is more evenly distributed among the various sections of the U. S. than is generally supposed, if the early as well as the late crop is taken into account. In the average of the four years 1916-1919, the North Atlantic States produced 28 per cent of the crop, the North Central States east of the Mississippi River 22 per cent, those west of that river 18 per cent, the Rocky Mountain and Pacific States 16 per cent, the South Atlantic States 10 per cent, and the South Central States 8 per cent.

CLOTHES FOR THE WEE TOTS

Green Apparently the Popular Summer Color for Gingham and Chambray Garments.

Warm weather is bringing out some charming little wash frocks for the wee tots' summer wardrobe. These are different, too, from the wash frocks which little girls have been wearing under heavy winter coats. There are new gingham, for instance, with straight lines or long-waisted effects of green and white check, the skirt made straight and the bodice on the bias or vice versa. Green seems to be the popular summer color for gingham and chambray.

Organdie is more popular than ever. It is made now in a brilliant red—"Palm Beach" It is called—and relieved with white net footing, or white rickrack braid. So dainty are the little frocks, and so simple that one forgets red is not usually a popular summer color for children.

There is a great deal of colored embroidery used on fine white voile, batiste and linen frocks for little girls. Pockets are added and sleeves are curtailed.

Dainty is much used. In orchid it is particularly dainty and cool looking. In rosebud print it is adaptable. Even tiny tots who have not yet given up bonnets for sun-protecting hats are wearing these dainty colored organdies and dainties, with inverted pocket ruffles at the neck, yokes of fagoting and sashes of organdie.

Little girls who are in the bonnet matches the frock and is cut mushroom with tam crown or in true bonnet shape, with ruffles and strings under the chin.

NOW USING LACE AND LINEN

Materials Find Way Into Various Attractive Articles Necessary for Home Decoration.

This year, says Delineator, lace is used in boudoir for chaise-longue covers, for boudoir pillows and bedspreads. It is used, too, for the table. A very sensible style has decided that old pieces of old lace can be made up into a sort of patchwork cloth or set of dollies.

Linen is in good taste, also the unpretentious substitutes that modern housewives are using these days of limited materials and curtailed help. There are crocheted dollies, easy to launder, and the embroidered natural-colored linen sets, consisting of two oblong pieces that are simply laid one across the other at right angles, the one with the center design on top, forming the centerpiece, and cleverly shaped individual dollies that fill in the spaces left by the centerpiece, which extend out to the table edge.

The most practical of all are the oblong pieces of hand-painted enamel cloth, which is not very far removed from the old-fashioned oil cloth of our grandmothers' time.

The magnificent sum of $25,000 awaits Ed. Morrow, Teddy Roosevelt, Chas. F. Ogden, or any other of the falsifying Republican orators who can make good their assertion that the League of Nations deprives the United States of any of its sovereignty. This sum has been offered for such proof by the organization of pro-league Independents and Republicans, of which Prof. Irving Fisher is President. Will Hays and Geo. White, the National Committee, will be permitted to select the jury of twelve, and if any of our glib Timbuctoo orators can convince them they are telling the truth, they will be given the $25,000.

Louis Seibold, veteran correspondent of the New York World who is making a tour of the country writes as follows:

"The race issue is destined to play an important part in deciding the November election in Missouri as it unquestionably will in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Oklahoma. The Republican National Committee is conducting a systematic canvass of the cord vote in these states, in the conviction that race have no cause for complaint of lack of attention. They are apparently proving most guileless victims of the most cunning and persuasive orators of their own race who are working under the direction of the Republican State managers with profit. Some of the documents held out by these organizations are appointment to office and social recognition at the White House.

On next Tuesday the people of the United States will elect a President of these United States and the managers of both parties are claiming certain victory for their candidates. The East, with her wall street and unlimited campaign fund, may cast their votes for the Republican party, but the West has the Republicans guessing as in 1916 if the Republicans can not defeat the Democrats with all of their money and things in their favor, they just as well hang up the coon skin and quit the game. Kentucky seems to be safely in the Democratic column for President, but Senator Beckham will stick with the head of the party on account of his stand on the liquor question. Kenton and Campbell counties will not give him the same vote that they gave Cox.

The women of this place are wide awake in regard to our next election, as this is a time when we are hanging between a testing time in the great crisis of our good women; as they will be somewhat timid to come out and vote—but to stay away means defeat. So we must urge our wives, mothers and dear old grandmothers to vote or the league will catch our rooster, that has been standing on the highest peak of any test ever known in the history of the world, while he has been trying to time in the last eight years and brought this nation, state and county of Owen through without money panic and starvation. It is most worthy trust in the hands of the Almighty and by his Divine guidance, we know if to be faithful to let stand by the one that will rule us over the trying times—Owen County Democrat.

Governor Morrow in his campaign for Governor of this good State of Kentucky proclaimed from the Sandy to the point and from the Ohio to the Tennessee line that if he should be elected Governor he would correct certain wrongs of the Democrats. It was that he would reduce taxes. Look at your tax receipt and see if your tax has been reduced. You will find that it has increased. Officers were abolished, 300 or more, some of these were abolished but others were created, and when the officers were fully shuffed we find more officers than before. These new administration created more as well as other counties. All time has been employed by the Democrats in this office. The new administration is another new one. Even the dog tax was increased as was automobile tax. The tax on the horse has been increased as well as when they were in power.

The new neighbors of one of his neighbors. He had a horse and a dog. The horse was a good one and the dog was a good one. The neighbors were very happy and the dog was very happy.

Market and Labor Conditions.

The cut in commodity prices has "merely begun," says the Nashville Banner.

No doubt this is true, but it would be a mistake to expect too rapid a decline. The thing of first importance is to determine if the advance in prices has definitely been stopped. Several times during the past 18 months intelligent people have believed this to be the case, and events have confuted their predictions. And, indeed, the majority of economists thought prices would begin to recede with the ending of the war, whereas they continued to mount rapidly for many months thereafter.

This time there can be no mistake about it. In nine out of ten cases the advance in commodity prices has stopped, and the decline has begun, for prices are never stationary; they must either go up or come down, although of course, the changes may be rapid or gradual. We may expect, therefore, a further decline, but the Evening Post is of those who believe the decline will be gradual, and our people will do well to say what they really need without hesitation.

Turning to the labor market, we may say at the outset that we are not of those who consider labor a commodity. But, of course, labor of all kinds, brain workers as well as manual workers, is affected by changes in commodity prices. The period of advancing wages has ended as surely as the period of advancing prices for commodities. Labor's great problem will be to maintain the present level of wages in an era of declining prices.—Evening Post.

The Wide Ways of Nature.

The golden days of autumn are come. Just now, with October smiles of sunny beams irradiating the earth, one needs little imagination to see old Silenus come riding down the panoramic aisles of the painted forests with troops of maenads and bacchantes following with riotous laughter.

This is the season when the man or woman who is able to walk really senses and enjoys the beauty and glory of life. It is the season which invariably recalls the lines of Milton: "O earth, how like to heaven, if not preferred more justly."

Who can not enjoy a five or ten mile walk at this season never realizes the wider good which may come to mortals. But walks of lesser distances are good; only walk, and look, and listen! The robins still are here, the blue birds are singing. In these days of early autumn the woods and fields and roadside ways are luminous with the brightness of many flowers. True, the leafage is falling from green to gray; but far and near, as the fairies of the frost perform their artistic ministry, the world is donning robes of crimson, gold, maroon, amber and multiple tints impossible of description. The mold is soft and aromatic, the minstrel crickets busy with their contraction. In sheltered nooks the ferns still glow greenly, but soon will take on the twilight tones of shadow. About the trees the greenish-yellow moss and the gray lichens cling. The bobwhite calls his love-note to his brown mate across the fields. The jays scream. A chipmunk runs along a vine-clad fence. A rabbit scurries before the advance of an unknown tread. The air is misty, shot with amethyst and blue, the wild geese purples. The sunbeam flames. The primrose rails the pasture away. It is autumn, and the winter is not far away. Go out of doors, not for the sake of health, but for the wider good, the spiritual uplift, the aesthetic delight. Brown October invites you.—Enquirer.

Milton, Ky.—Geo. W. Williamson, over whose head ninety-six summers have rolled, and his wife, Mrs. Lucinda Williamson, twenty years his junior, living near Monitor, this county, are said to be the oldest married couple in Trimble county that will vote the same ticket at the coming election. Mr. Williamson has always voted the Democratic ticket and Mrs. Williamson is a strong advocate of the League of Nations. On November 2 they will go to the polls and cast their votes for Cox and Roosevelt.

Hodgenville, Ky.—A piece of timber from Hodgenville Mill, the first in the boundary now embraced by Larue county, has been dug up from the bed of Noll creek, by a farmer. The mill was built about 1805 of white oak lumber, hand hewn. The piece found in the water is perfectly preserved.

Lexington, Ky.—Articles of incorporation of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, an organization composed of persons engaged in producing burley tobacco, were filed today in the office of County Clerk B. Higgins Lewis. The association which will have its principal offices in Lexington, has no capital stock and "no private pecuniary profit is to be derived," the articles recite.

The purposes are listed as the promotion, fostering, encouragement and advancement in the manner of the growing, cultivation and production of burley tobacco. The highest amount of indebtedness is $100,000.

Lexington, Ky.—The permits to prescribe whisky of 24 Louisville physicians were revoked today by State Prohibition Director Jas. H. Combs, as the result of an investigation by W. B. Starnfield, State Prohibition Agent, following charges that the physicians had been guilty of irregularity in practice, and issuance of emergency prescriptions.

Lexington, Ky.—Two hundred cases of whisky on two trucks, consigned from the T. B. Rippey distillery, Tye, to a Shenandoah, Pa., firm, was seized last night at Versailles by Mayor Harry Tyler and Chief of Police William White, who communicated with Chief Prohibition Agent Paul Williams and held the liquor under guard. Investigation of the records of J. H. Combs, State prohibition director, it was said failed to reveal any record of a permit from Pennsylvania having passed through his office.

Logansport, Ky.—Word has been received here of the death of her Mrs. Elia Rice at the home of her father, Fred Stacy, of Ghent. Mrs. Rice, who was the sister of Mrs. J. Wood Yager of this place, had been in poor health for several years.

Frankfort, Ky.—No more contracts for road-building will be awarded by the State Highway Commission, State Highway Engineer Boggs said Monday, until there is a reduction in price. Bids for construction in Whitley, Barren and Laurel counties were rejected on that account.

"A Post Sings."

A post sings: "There's a time to part and a time to meet, there's a time to sleep and a time to eat. There's a time to work and a time to play, there's a time to sing and a time to pray. There's a time that's glad and a time that's blue, there's a time to plan and a time to do. There's a time to grin and to show your grit, but there never was yet a time to quit." Yes, but how about a time to come and a time to go, and a time to quit when the whistles blow?—Cynthiana Democrat.

Pendleton Co. News.

The Pendleton County Grand Jury after being in session Monday and Tuesday, adjourned for the lack of business. The jury returned only two indictments. This is quite an improvement over conditions of twenty years ago, when the grand jury could not finish the business during the session. Judge Fryer is right when he says our people are getting better all the time.

Almost every farmer in Pendleton county has cane patch, and has made or will make up a batch of sorghum molasses. Much of these molasses are being placed on the market as "Big Sucking Sorghum." They are as fine quality and flavor as can be made in any section of this country, and find a ready sale. Nothing is better or will stick to the ribs closer during the cold weather. Sop a few and see if we are not talking easy.

A stranger in our city who recently attended a lecture here was greatly annoyed and at the same time amused at hearing the chatter and cracking of peanuts by the "audience" during the lecture. He said that it put him in mind of an occasion when he was in South Africa. He took a trip out into the desert to study the life of a day of rest and quiet and to study the unexplored nature; but the chatter of the monkeys in their innocent pastime of cracking coconuts absolutely spoiled a whole day's pleasure for him.

Thousands upon thousands of blackbirds are congregating in and about Falmouth, preparatory to taking their trip south, where they spend the winter. These birds return here in the spring, mate and spread over the country, mostly along the streams and raise their young. In the fall they flock together from far and wide and remain for a few weeks and then go south. There is much complaint coming in from our farmers that these birds are destroying a great deal of corn. The enormous crop of these birds remind the old-timers of the wild pigeons going south 50 years ago.

TAX-FREE BONDS.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 21.—Chief Justice Carroll of the Court of Appeals today sustained a motion to dissolve a temporary injunction obtained in the Jefferson Circuit Court by Henry Christman against the State Board of Agriculture, restraining the board from issuing $300,000 worth of bonds.

Judge Carroll holds the bonds may be issued free from State, county, road, school and other taxes imposed in taxing districts. Christmas sought to prevent the bonds from being issued, but the board could not issue bonds as tax-free obligations. In his opinion Judge Carroll said:

"We think that the provisions in Section 171 of the constitution as amended, declaring that bonds of the state, county, municipalities, taxing and school districts are not to be subject to taxation is broad enough to and does embrace the bonds herein proposed to be issued."

Sitting with Judge Carroll and concurring in the opinion were Judges Hurt, Sampson and Settle.

Busy Hunting Auto Thieves.

Sheriff Conner and Deputy B. B. Hume have been very busy the past few days looking after automobile thieves. Parties have been in Boone and Grant counties taking machines, one was left in this county that had been stolen from a party in Grant Co., another was taken from Carl Anderson from the barn of Hugh Carey on the Lexington pike and it looks very much like the same parties stole both machines. Do not think that your machine is safe in your garage unless it is locked and some protective device. If any more machines are stolen the same medicine sent on auto thieves might be tried on auto thieves.

The trouble with most young men is that they do not understand the dignity of manual labor. They do not realize that honors and fortune may be more readily gained outside of the so-called learned professions than in them; and that it is just as honorable to swing a hammer or hold a plow as it is to make a speech in court or amputate a limb. The reason young men should be taught as early as possible is that it is not so much what they do but how they do it, and that manual labor is as honorable as any other.

The RECORDER has perfected arrangements whereby all of the election returns received up to 8 a. m., November 3rd, will be published that day. We hope to be able to have sufficient election reports by that time to give the name of the next President.

The last presidential election held in the balance for more than a year in the election. This was accounted for in part to the number of tickets that were voted in the different states, and also to the eloquence of the vote.

Good women, go to the polls and vote. Do the best you can. Use the same common sense and judgment that you have used in other avenues of life. Who is afraid of what those good voters will do for politics? Only the sneaking, selfish politician who even now hears the scratch of the pen signing his death warrant.

"NONE SO BLIND—"

"Super-government" is the by-phrenated bugaboo set up by Senator Harding and his managers to affright those who favor world peace. They would picture the League of Nations as controlling America and overthrowing the Constitution of the United States.

They could see the truth if they would, but they seem to be blinded by their unwillingness to observe fairly. Possibly, too, they are confused by their own attempts to obscure the facts. The truth is obvious.

To state the case clearly the League is an instrument for maintaining peace. It would be directed by its members and it could not assume to direct its members.

The League is the creature, not the creator, of the nations. It would be used as a means whereby the world would block any attempt to break the peace between nations. The only conceivable compulsion exerted against any member would be in case one country should commit the crime of aggression against another.

Senator Lodge, the "arch-conspirator of the ages," tells his hearers that the League's findings would inevitably draw this country into war unless the agreement should be violated. He says, too, that breach of faith by this nation is "unthinkable."

Because bad faith is "unthinkable" no doubt Senator Lodge would argue that Senator Harding's plan of deserting the Allies and making separate peace with Germany is commendable. Because bad faith is "unthinkable" he feels justified also, no doubt, in recommending the repudiation of America's promise to the soldiers and the soldiers' mothers that wars must end by world agreement.

But there is no agreement to abide by findings of the League. There is no agreement to bind Congress to declare war at the behest of the League. The inference certainly is that if the forty-odd representatives should decide unanimously on a policy for peace then Congress would probably approve, but it is only inference. The Representatives and Senators would retain their constitutional right to exercise their judgment in any and all cases.

The alternative to the League plan is equivalent to no plan at all. Senator Harding, if elected, would either "turn his back" on the League or he would put forward an undefined scheme for maintaining peace without the use of force. His world, court, like the Tribunal of The Hague, might express an opinion, but it would have no effect because it would have no power of enforcement.—Louisville Times.

Sweet potatoes make a superior table and cooking sirup, say chemists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Thus far no large commercial use has been made of the discovery. The department is prepared to tell how to make sweet potato sirup at home and how to use it in cookery and candy making.

HARDING AND COOLIDGE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

It Is Predicted Marion Man's Plurality In New York To Reach the Million Mark

EARLY REPORTS SHOW REPUBLICAN VICTORY

Pennsylvania and Illinois Give Leads of 700,
000 Respectively

New York—Senator Warren G.
Harding is elected to be President of the United States and Governor Calvin Coolidge, of Massachusetts, to be Vice President by the largest popular plurality to have been recorded. The people, by their ballots, have given to them a Congress with a working Republican majority in both Houses. The majority in the Lower House will be more than 50 and in the Senate at least four. The Harding plurality in New York State reached the stunning indicated figures of 1,000,000.
James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Republican, goes back to the United States Senate. The fight for the Governor-ship was in doubt at a late hour. The Democrats claimed that Alfred E.
Smith has been re-elected by 50, 000, but the Republican State Committee refused to concede it. In territory absolutely essential to Democratic success the Republican party was not to be denied and swept into office many Senatorial and Congressional candidates who otherwise would have been beaten.

Predictions Are Surpassed.
It is a Harding landslide in all of New England and the Middle States.
Harding has by 700,000 and Pennsylvania by 750,000, the latter
rose's most optimistic prediction, and tuning also going Republican heavier than was expected. The only states carried by Governor James M. Cox, according to latest returns, were the Solid South, which gave decreased Democratic majorities, and the border state of Kentucky, West Virginia, Oklahoma and Tennessee. Few of the states west of the Mississippi River were heard from definitely up to a later hour. Dispatches from Dayton, Ohio, stated that Governor Cox's newspaper, the Daily News, had issued an extra edition, conceding the election of Senator Harding. Announcement that the extra would be issued was made at the Governor's newspaper office at 10:15 o'clock. Early precincts showed George White, Democratic Chairman, announced he also had conceded Senator Harding's election.

Harding Leads in Iowa.
Des Moines, Iowa.—Senator Warren
G. Harding was leading Governor Jann M. Cox by approximately three to one. Early precincts gave to Harding 61,000 and to Cox 21,000.
Senator A. B. Cummins, for re-election, had almost a two-to-one lead over Porter, his Democratic opponent, in early returns. For the Governorship, Kendall, Republican, was leading Terrell, Democrat, 29,000 to 17,000 in early returns.

Oklahoma Result Close.
Oklahoma City, Okla.—Complete returns from 651 precincts out of 2,685 in Oklahoma, scattered over 67 of the 77 counties of the state, indicated that the state vote for the office of President and United States Senator would be the closest in the state's history.
These precincts gave to Cox 57,232 to Harding 54,242. For the Senatorship, 680 precincts gave to Scott Ferris, Democrat, 58,728, and to J. W.
Harrell, Republican, 55,400.

Solid South Broken.
Marion, O.—Harry M. Daugherty, a member of the Republican Campaign Committee and close adviser of Senator Harding, declared that Harding had carried every northern state, and the border states of Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri and probably Oklahoma.

G. O. P. Wins in Tennessee.
Knoxville, Tenn.—Unofficial returns compiled from about 90 counties in Tennessee gave Harding a plurality of 15,000 over Cox and Alfred Taylor, Republican, a lead of 29,000 over Governor A. H. Roberts, Democrat, in the gov-ernatorial race.

Chinese Factions Reunited.
Peking.—The Peking Government has issued a proclamation declaring there has been a reunion of North and South China, and calling for the election of a new Parliament on the basis of the old election regulations. The proclamation cites an announcement by General Tien Chun-Huan Chief of the South military Government, of the dissolution of that Government and the reunification by the provinces of Kwang-Tung and Kwang-Si of their separation of independence.

OHIO REPORTS
HARDING IN LEAD

MAJORITY OF 300,000 CERTAIN ON BASIS OF MOUNTING RETURNS.

Vote Near 2,000,000, Officials Estimate —New Crabbe Measure Opposed By Voters in Buckeye State, Late Tabulations Indicate.

Columbus—Returns from nearly one-half of the 7,269 precincts in Ohio showed Senator Harding leading Governor Cox by more than 153,000 votes.
If the returns continue, the Democratic Headquarters claimed the result in the state for the national tickets would be doubtful and asserting that Kootz,
Democrat, would win the Governorship
over his two opponents, Morgan, Republican, and Montgomery, non-partisan candidate, by a substantial majority.

Leaders at Republican headquarters contented themselves with the statement that both national and state tickets would win by sweeping majorities, but no figures were advanced. The official returns so far received gave Harding a lead of approximately 15,000 and Morgan a plurality of approximately 14,000. At that hour
15 precincts out of 116 in Kanawha county, in which Charleston is located, showed Harding to have received 4,459
and Cox 2,283 votes. For the Governorship, Morgan had received 4,023;
Kootz, 2,004, and Montgomery, 871
votes.

The Democratic State Committee has conceded the election of Frank B.
Willis as Senator by at least 50,000.
Returns from 474 scattering precincts gave a plurality of 12,000 against ratification of the Crabbe prohibition enforcement act.

The cities are rolling up a big vote against the act, and many of the early returns from rural localities also showed a vote against the measure.
The vote stood: For the Crabbe act, 41,362; against the act, 53,970.

Travelers Are Warned.
Washington.—Travelers bound for Europe were warned by the State Department to take with them enough money to pay their way back, if they intended to return. The statement was prompted by reports from Consuls that Americans who have returned to visit their families frequently found themselves to be stranded and appealed for assistance. Consuls are not provided with funds for that purpose, the department's announcement said.

Borah Issues Statement.
Washington.—Senator Borah, of Idaho, one of the irreconcilable opponents of the League of Nations covenant, issued a statement, saying: "I regard the election as the triumph for nationalism and the death of the League of Nations."

Cost Plus Plan Leads.
Toledo, O.—With 150 city precincts none from the "Miller-cost-plus" street car ordinance was leading three to one over the municipal ownership ordinance to bond the city for $7,000, 000 to purchase the traction system.

Some Difference Here.
Jackson, O.—With 23 precincts heard from Harding leads Cox in Jackson County, Davis has a lead over Donahay in four precincts and Willis over Julian in the same territory.

Ballots of Wilsons Cast.
Princeton, N. J.—The ballots of President and Mrs. Wilson arrived here and were cast in the Seventh Election District. They had been mailed from Washington.

Widow Penalized.
Washington.—Great Britain has agreed to a settlement of the claims against Mexico growing out of the killing of William B. Benton, a British subject, near Juarez, on February 17, 1914. Mexico is to pay $10,000 cash to Mrs. Benton and a pension of $250 a day as long as Mrs. Benton remains unmarried. Onward Cummings, British representative in Mexico, concluded the agreement with the present Mexican Government. It was learned in official circles.

MORGAN WINNER
GOVERNOR OF W. VA.

CHOSEN OVER HIS TWO OPPO-NENTS BY A SUBSTANTIAL MAJORITY.

Democratic Headquarters Claims the Result in the State on the National Tickets Would Be Close, Declaring Outcome Still Doubtful.

Charleston, W. Va.—With reports still coming in slowly, indications were that West Virginia had gone for the Republican national ticket by from 30, 000 to 35,000 majority. Democratic headquarters claimed the result in the state for the national tickets would be doubtful and asserting that Kootz,
Democrat, would win the Governorship
over his two opponents, Morgan, Republican, and Montgomery, non-partisan candidate, by a substantial majority.

Leaders at Republican headquarters
contented themselves with the statement that both national and state
tickets would win by sweeping majorities, but no figures were advanced. The official returns so far received gave Harding a lead of approximately 15,000 and Morgan a plurality of approximately 14,000. At that hour
15 precincts out of 116 in Kanawha
county, in which Charleston is located,
showed Harding to have received 4,459
and Cox 2,283 votes. For the Governorship, Morgan had received 4,023;
Kootz, 2,004, and Montgomery, 871
votes.

ELECTION DISPUTE BLAMED

Six Persons Killed When Race Riots in Florida.

Tampa, Fla.—In a pitched battle between negroes and whites at Ocoee, Fla., four whites and two negroes were killed, according to reports relayed to Tampa from Winter Garden, Fla. Four white men, wounded when fighting, have been taken to Winter Garden for medical attention. The negroes, it is said, are barricaded in a house, and it is impossible to reach the dead.

Two hundred men from Winter Garden have gone to the assistance of the whites at Ocoee, a prosperous town of 1,000 in the citrus-growing region, located in West Orange county, Central Florida. One-third of this population is composed of negroes. A report from Crown Point, two miles from Ocoee, states that men from that point have gone to the scene of the fighting, which is said to be midway between the two towns. No information had been received except that the negroes are barricaded in the house of a negro named July Perry.
In a telephone conversation Benjamin Ewing, of Ocoee, stated that the fighting had started as a result of a dispute on election returns soon after the polls were closed.

Harding in Lead in Illinois.
Chicago.—Harding maintained his early rate, as the count progressed, 600 of 6,000 Illinois precincts, including 475 in Chicago, giving him 218,000 against 78,000 for Cox. McKinley (D.)
for Senator, had a plurality of 57,000 over Waller (D.), and Small (R.) was leading Lewis (D.) nearly two to one for Governor, according to early reports.

Mitchell Estate $247,151.
New York.—John Mitchell, former President of the United Mine Workers of America and later head of the New York Industrial Commission, left an estate valued at $247,151, according to the appraisal filed in Surrogate Court.
Since his death in September, 1910, the estate has increased in value because of advanced values of coal mining stocks included in it. Mrs.
Mitchell received a life interest of $11,377.25, while the four children received $55,000 each.

KENTUCKY CLAIMED BY DEMOCRATS

GOVERNOR COX SHOWS A MAJORITY OVER SENATOR WARREN
G. HARDING.

According to Early Reports Senator
Beckham Leads Ernst in the Senatorial Race—Gilbert Leads Swope in Congressional Race.

Louisville, Ky.—Unofficial returns compiled from two thirds of the voting precincts of Kentucky gave to Governor James M. Cox a majority exceeding 20,000 votes over Senator Warren G. Harding, the Republican opponent for the Presidency.

The Republican candidate, with three precincts missing, was leading in the Fifth District—Louisville and Jefferson county—by 14,300 votes, and indications were that the returns from the eastern section of the state would reduce the Democratic candidate's lead.

Senator Selden, secretary of the Democratic State Committee, claims a Kentucky majority for Cox of from 25,000 to 30,000, based on returns from 105 counties.

He also claimed the re-election of Senator J. C. W. Beckham by 20,000 to 25,000, the re-election of all seven Democratic Congressmen and the election of Ralph W. Gilbert, of Shelbyville, Democrat, over King Swope, by 4,000 majority.

Chester H. Searcy, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, said he was not prepared to give out a statement.

He also claimed the re-election in the Fifth Appellate District of W. Rogers Clay, of Lexington, over his Republican opponent, H. N. Dean, of Clover Bottom.

The votes on United States Senatorship called closely with that on the Presidency, although in Louisville and Jefferson county R. P. Ernst, Republican, led his ticket with 16,864.

Kentucky's representation in the House of Representatives, early returns indicate, probably will be eight Congressmen as against seven in the Democratic party and three Republicans in place of four.

In Louisville indications are that the two bond issues for $1,000,000 for the University of Louisville and for $500,000 for the war memorial auditorium, had been defeated.

The apparent Congressional line-up from Kentucky on available reports appears to be as follows:

First District—Allen W. Bagley, Paducah, Democrat.

Second District—David H. Kinche-low, Madisonville, Democrat.

Third District—Robert Y. Thomas,
Democrat, or J. H. Gilliam, Republican (still in doubt).

Fourth District—Ben Johnson, Democrat.

Fifth District—Charles F. Ogden, Republican.

Sixth District—A. B. Rouse, Democrat.

Seventh District—J. Campbell Cantrill, Democrat.

Eighth District—Ralph W. Gilbert, Shelbyville, Democrat.

Ninth District—W. J. Fields, Owee
Hill, Republican.

Tenth District—John W. Langley,
Republican.

Eleventh District—J. H. Robinson,
Republican.

Nine of the members are incumbents returned to office.

Women Vote in Big Numbers.

The entrance of women into the political field and the results showed that they had gone to the polls in great numbers.

No serious disorder was reported anywhere in the state, and all dispatches told of the heavy vote being handled without difficulty.

Both John P. Haswell, Republican, and Johnson, Democrat, were claiming the Fourth District in the race for Congress.

Two Women Deceased.

Columbus.—At least two women candidates for office apparently have been defeated by men opponents, according to incomplete returns. Mrs. Dora San-doo Buchanan, Independent, of Columbus, running for Judge of the Common Pleas Court, was one, and Mrs. Ella Freeman Lane, of London, Madison county, Democratic candidate for the Legislature, was the other.

OPPOSES GOV'T OPERATION

Canvass of 5,154 Editors Shows
4,466 Communities Against Socialistic Experiment.

OPPOSITION GROWING

Eighty-seven Per Cent in 1920 as Against 83 Per Cent in 1915
Think Public Is Opposed to Socialism.

The American public is more intensely opposed to Government operation than it was a year ago, according to the newspaper editors of the country. Out of 5,154 editors replying to a questionnaire sent out by the Press Service Company of New York, 4,466, or 86 per cent, gave it as their judgment that the people of their communities were overwhelmingly against the Government competing in business with its own citizens.

In 1919 the Press Service Company conducted a similar canvass of editors on the government operation of railroads. That questionnaire showed that 83 per cent of the editors considered their communities against Government operation of public utilities.

Apparently, then, if editors estimate public opinion accurately, that opinion in a year, considered by communities, has swung 3 per cent farther away from socialistic experiments.

Eleven Million Circulation.

The combined circulation of the papers whose editors replied is 11,428,817, which means, according to the usual estimated ratio between circulation and readers, a constituency of at least 44,000,000. And this constituency is pretty evenly scattered through out the country, no considerable section of any state being unrepresented. The estimate of opinion based on this thoroughly diffused 44 per cent of the country's population may, therefore be considered a fair representation of the people as a whole.

Another feature of the result is its evident lack of partisan bias. The major political affiliations of the papers represented are fairly evenly divided, being 1,857 Republican and 1,850 Democratic. There are also 1,438 independent and 402 miscellaneous including labor organs, etc.

How little the results are affected by the politics of the papers is shown in an analysis by sections. In the Southern section, for instance, where replies came from 65 Republican papers and 389 Democratic, the percentage against Government operation was 88; in the Great Lake section with conditions reversed, 473 Republican and 153 Democratic, the opposition was 87 per cent.

Replies from the West, Middle West and Southwest show that it is a mistake to consider those sections vastly more favorable to radical Government experiments than the East. The radical leanings can get little comfort out of the 89 per cent of thumbs down—2 per cent above the average—in the South west, including Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Texas, once supposed to be much given to Government regulation experiments, returned 92 per cent of unfavorable replies. Out of the 244 editors replying from that state only three edited Republican papers. The 82 per cent opposition of the North west, including Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming, and the 83 per cent veto of the Far West group, including Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Idaho, Oregon, Colorado, Utah and Washington, are significant of the prevailing conservative sentiment on this question even in the more radical sections.

Judgment Apparently Unbiased.

The questionnaire closes with a request for the editor's personal opinion on certain concrete cases as follows:

"Do you personally believe that the Federal Government should own and operate competitive industries to provide: (a) Fertilizer? (b) Clothing? (c), Automobiles? (d) Farm implements? (e) Foodstuffs?"

Substantially all the editors who gave estimates of their readers' opinions also expressed their own by replying to this last question. Proof of considerable effort to avoid personal bias is found in the fact that in many cases the editor differed from the opinion he credited to his community. The percentage of "no" ran: (a) 78; (b) 83; (c) 86; (d) 82; (e) 76.

While the questions were based on general principles involved in the Government participating in competitive business, the so-called Muscle Shoals Bill now before Congress was used as a concrete example of a Government operation scheme. Under this bill a Government-owned corporation would be given broad powers to operate and develop Government plants and properties. It would produce at Muscle Shoals various fertilizer products and sell them in competition with producers and merchants in the fertilizer business.

The strength of the opposition to Government operation is indicated by the replies from Alabama, where the Muscle Shoals was plant is and where, of course, there is intense interest and local pride in getting its expected power-time operation under way at the earliest possible date. Fifty editors from that state replied, of whom 40 were opposed to Government operation, 10 in favor and 4 doubtful.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Characterized by many of the old "tuplers" as having "a distinct bearish movement on the whisky board of traders," liquor disguised, labeled, and billed as scotch, coming from Canada, made its appearance here today, according to Federal officials. The liquor, said by imbeciles not to have the strength of "the old stuff," sold "cheap." A carload arrived on the "market" today. Federal officials declared.

The discovery of a draft for $21,000 on a Louisville bank may disclose, Federal officials said today, the purchaser of the recent shipment of whisky into Chicago which was delivered, to the saloon-keeper "customers" and almost immediately thereafter stolen from the "customers" through the connivance of men posing as city policemen.

Complaints to police and Federal officials as a result of this "cheft" led to the present Federal court whisky investigation. Federal officials discovered that the $31,000 draft was for the purchase of 1,000 cases of whisky which corresponds to the amount of the shipment forming the chief feature of the investigation.

When Joe Koepke was found guilty yesterday in Judge Landis' court of having liquor in his possession, the judge sent the case back with instructions to indict him on a charge of selling it as well. Koepke's attorney remonstrated.

"Why pick on him?" he said "There are hundreds of other people who are getting away with much worse stuff than Koepke. Why don't they get the higher ups?"

"Wait a minute wait a minute," interposed Judge Landis. "Just you wait about two months, months, and you'll have a surprise—until that the big fellows aren't going to get away with it any more than the little ones."

Hanover, Ind., Nov. 4.—Hanover College is seeking an addition of $500,000 to its endowment resources, that it may become "not a bigger but a better school." The authorities of the institution announce that this sum is necessary to keep its educational standards abreast of modern requirements.

Hanover has been an educational pioneer in the Great Northwest; the day its first class of six met in a log cabin on the shore of the Ohio river in 1827, it has blazed new trails. Instituted to train men for the Presbyterian ministry in a section of the country then in the making, it broadened the scope of its work in 1833, becoming a liberal arts college, from whose walls have been graduated nearly 12,000 men and women, scores of whom have won places of distinction in the ministry, in education, in the arts and sciences, and in the business world. Of these graduates 17 have been college and university presidents; 100 have taught as professors in such institutions, and 125 have been public school superintendents or teachers.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Wholesale prices of beef and pork declined substantially during October, said a statement issued tonight by the Institute of American Meat Packers.

"Selling prices of carcass beef throughout the country showed an average decline of approximately 13 per cent at the end of October, as compared with the first week in September," said the statement.

"Fresh pork declined heavily. In the domestic trade from October 2nd to October 26th, the wholesale prices of light pork loins, whence come pork chops, declined about 21 per cent.

"Between October 2 and October 26, pork shoulders declined about 10 per cent and smoked hams and standard bacon fell slightly less than 10 per cent."

New York, Oct. 29.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana declared a stock dividend of 150 per cent according to dispatches received in the financial districts yesterday. This has been expected for some time, but it was anticipated that the distribution would not be in excess of 100 per cent.

Stockholders of record Dec. 17 will receive the dividend. Each holder of a fractional share is to be paid an amount of stock equal to one and one-half times his fractional holding.

The present outstanding capital of the company is $30,000,000, but the authorized capital is $100,000,000, so that there is ample stock available for the stock dividend without further increase.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Only two bids, both of which were rejected, were received by the Shipping Board for the great Hog Island shipbuilding plant, near Philadelphia.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation of New York, bid flat $1,000,000, and the New Jersey Machinery Exchange, of Newark, bid $1,250,000. As the plant cost the Government $700,000 when it was built during the war, the bids were regarded by Chairman Benson as entirely inadequate.

Control of Garden Insects.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 22.—Since insects multiply very rapidly in their active season, any measures that can be used during the fall and winter and spring to reduce their number, should be used. In gardens where insects annually do millions of dollars worth of damage it is a known fact that clean culture, deep fall plowing when practical, and allowing poultry and hogs to run in the garden after the crops have been removed, will to a large extent serve as a means of control for some of the insects that do most damage in the summer to the growing vegetables. Many of these insects hibernates, or pass the winter in the soil or under trash and rubbish and when poultry and hogs are allowed to run in the garden they will destroy large numbers. When trash and rubbish are cleaned up and burned, many will be destroyed. Some of the more common ones that do the most damage are: grasshoppers, cutworms, white grubs, bugs, suckers from plants, root and bulb maggots, cucumber beetles, etc.

DAM NEARLY FINISHED.

Completion of the Government Dam No. 43, below West Point, by the middle of November, and of the canal improvement work and new locks at Louisville two weeks later, and the departure from Cincinnati on November 20th of a steamer which is to be the forerunner of restoration of river packet service between the upper Ohio River reaches and New Orleans, are high spots of interest just now for rivermen and local business houses which use the water transportation routes when ever possible.

When the river projects mentioned are completed, they will represent the expenditure of approximately $10,000,000 and five years of work.

Announcement also was made that plans will be drawn this winter for a new dam at Louisville or reconstruction of the old dam. In either event, it is thought the dam at present and a new dam will be constructed with consideration of water power possibilities. Government men point out that the new canal locks and gates here are the largest in the United States.

FARM WOODLAND CAN BE MADE PROFITABLE

Erroneous for Farmers to Saw Up Choice Timber.

Many Valuable Logs Go Into Cross Ties When They Would Bring Much More Money if Sold as Saw Logs—Other Hints.

It is a mistake to saw up choice logs of white oak, ash, cherry and yellow poplar for rough use at home or to use clear black walnut for gate boards or split up white oak butts for fence posts. This fact is emphasized in many ways in a new publication, "Forestry and the Farm Income," issued by the forest service, United States department of agriculture. Farmers are told that many valuable logs go into cross ties when they would bring the owner much more if sold as saw logs. Likewise, large numbers of rapid growing trees are cut which produce only one small tie, whereas, if left to grow for from three to five years, they would yield more than double the profit. To avoid making such mistakes, owners of farm woodlands should familiarize themselves with the uses for which each kind of timber is best adapted.

Timber that is cut in the late spring and summer months should be handled with special care to avoid injury, because freshly cut wood is then more likely to be attacked by insects and fungi than during the colder months. Seasoning proceeds more rapidly during the warmer season and may cause excessive checking, which is not beneficial to the timber. If rightly handled, posts, poles and logs may be cut at any season without their durability being affected. In no case should wood be allowed to lie in direct contact with the ground. The opportunity for insect attack and decay can be reduced to a minimum by peeling the timbers and open-piling them off the ground in a shaded but dry place. This, however, does not retard checking of the wood.

Logs are sometimes stored under water, in the hot season, to prevent blue stain, checking, insect attack, and decay. Painting the ends of logs with a yellow ochre or barn paint will very materially retard injury by end checking. Painting peeled timbers with creosote will prevent sap stain and decay.

NEW SEEDINGS FOR PASTURE

Sheep Better Suited for Grazing Than Horses or Cattle—Rye Favored for Fall Pasture.

New seedlings of clover and timothy should be pastured lightly. Sheep are better suited for this purpose than horses and cattle, but care must be used to prevent them grazing the new meadows too closely. Stalk fields, from which the corn and stover have been removed, furnish considerable feed in the form of greenness, weeds and an occasional stalk and ear of corn. It is well to allow the stock to clean up this feed that would otherwise go to waste. In order to provide more good fall grazing it is a good plan to sow rye at the last working of the corn crop.

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS

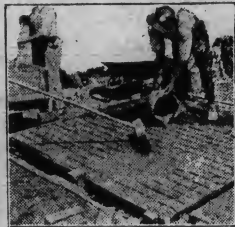

ADAMANT HIGHWAY IS NEEDED

Present Roads Won't Withstand Truck Traffic and Builders Must Plan Heavier Roads.

The time is near at hand when main line highways must be built more substantially than in the past, according to William A. Brush, chairman of the good roads committee of the Detroit Automobile club.

Because of the tremendous growth in commercial traffic on the highways the road builders must soon look ahead and plan for heavier loads.

The railroad strike, which caused industries and commercial houses throughout the country to resort to motor transport to move materials and finished products, helped to prove that our highways are inadequate as now constructed, said Mr. Brush. Even our most substantial roads showed the effects of this additional traffic and the more cheaply built thoroughfares began to deteriorate rapidly, in fact so fast that it was necessary for highway officials to exercise their rights under the state laws and limit the weight of loads.

The highways we have been building in recent years, even the permanent types, are not heavy enough to carry the ever increasing commercial traffic. Engineers realize now that the roads must be considerably thicker than at present and that they must be wider to give room for the additional vehicles being placed in service.

Another phase of the commercial traffic problem is that of tire equipment. It is going to be necessary to equip all trucks with pneumatics eventually in order that the highways may be protected as much as possible. The pneumatic tire gets away from the constant pounding that is evident with solid tires. They absorb the shock, no matter how minute, and thereby save the pavement from the pounding of the heavy load and give longer life to the mechanism of the vehicle.

Experience is the only teacher and experience has shown to all the big road engineers of the country the folly of building a good-road too light. The surfaces must be thicker in order to stand the shock of the heavy loads passing over them.

MUCH CRUSHED ROCK NEEDED

Program for Road Building in Minnesota Calls for 667,000 Tons of Material.

The proposed road-building program in Minnesota this year will require about 667,000 tons of crushed rock or gravel, or nearly 20,000 carloads of aggregate, according to information secured by the bureau of public roads, United States department of agriculture. The figures give some idea of the magnitude of the road-building program now being carried on in many states. Largely on account of a shortage of crushed stone or gravel 58 miles of road which were to have been built in 1919 were not completed. These roads are to be completed this year, while about 180 miles of new construction requiring crushed rock or gravel have been authorized. This makes a mileage of 250 scheduled for 1920.

EQUALIZING COST OF ROADS

States Which Have Constructed Highways Should Be Given Credit for Improvements.

In some of the states where highway construction has been a part of the state policy for a period of years, much work has been done on highways which would naturally become a part of the national system. It is proposed that in these cases states and counties should be allowed compensation which will give other highway mileage equal in value to that constructed. Such highways would not be maintained by the government, but would be turned over to the state while the government undertook the cost of maintenance of the national system.

Register Wear on Material. Machines in the road testing laboratory of the engineering experiment station, Manhattan, register as much wear on road material in a few hours as would be registered by actual use in from 50 to 100 years.

Represent Liabilities. Bonds that will not be of any service when the bonds that pay for their have matured represent liabilities instead of assets. Such bonds usually should be and in many places is being stopped.

Tobacco Stripping On.

Following the showers the first of which brought the first frost, bacco in case, some growers have set to work to strip out their crops. There seems to be an almost feverish anxiety on the part of many to test the market, regarding which there has been and is at present so much uncertainty. This is accounted for by the radical change in prices during the slump in the market last year, which closed so much lower than it was during the middle of the preceding season when unusual and unprecedented high prices ruled the sales.

It is the general opinion in the middle part of the State that good tobacco this year will sell around 30 cents a pound. This would, it seems, imply that the inferior grades will be lower, in proportion, probably bringing as low as from 5 to 10 cents per pound. Last year many crops sold for very fancy prices—all the way from 60 to 100 cents a pound. This year, that last year sold for 75 and 80 cents is not going to be any pleasurable or alluring prospect to the growers.

While, as a matter of fact, the county crop of last year sold at an average of even 15 cents or less, caused by the great drop in prices about the first of the year, the memory of that is not so acute today in the mind of the average grower, as is that of the high fancy prices and also of the correspondingly low ones. Tobacco at an average price of 15 cents cannot be produced without a loss today, when costs of growing the crop and preparing it for market are considered, and any effort on the part of the tobacco trust to make that the ruling average price is going to be presented by the growers to the degree that a combination of interests for the protection of the grower will likely cause.

While the United States laws no longer countenance a pool in tobacco, they do not stipulate that a man has to sell his tobacco at a price prejudicial to his own interests, and in him inheres the rights of individual ownership to the degree at least that if he wants to keep his tobacco in the barn and hold it for a better price he can do so. This course will likely be adopted on the part of many growers if the opening of the market means a tendency on the part of the tobacco buyers who get the crop for practically nothing.

SKELETON EXHUMED.

The skeleton of a man, almost intact, was exhumed by Thomas Morris and a party of workmen on the South Fork road near the home of Mrs. Mary Rider one day last week. The body of this skeleton was just about as it was when the body had been buried and only the skull was crushed, this being done by a croker from a pick in the hands of one of the workmen, who was digging out the trench along the side of the road. This body had evidently been buried there in a regular coffin or box of some description, for there were fragments of the box sufficient to have preserved its outlines, visible. Mr. Morris says he has no doubt the body was buried there 75 years ago, as he can remember as far back as 65 years, and he recalls no instance of the kind within the days of his recollection.

A telephone pole had a few years ago been set on the identical spot where the body was found, the workmen at that time not going deep enough to come in contact with the interred object. Warsaw Independent.

On account of the warm, dry weather of the past month or so the roads in this county, barring a few holes and rough places, have been in fine shape for travel, but before the winter and spring months are over we fear that some of them will be almost impassable. One feature that tends to make it hard to make a permanent improvement to the main roads is the fact of their extreme narrowness. On this account all vehicles have to use the same track at all times and this soon cuts a deep trench in each side of the road, causing the water to stand there and wash away the surface. If the roads were wide enough to permit of this trenching of the vehicles that pass over them being done at different locations in the roads, then the result would be different and the roads could be maintained for a much longer period at less expense. But, there will have to be some way provided for more revenue before the roads in the county can be put in the proper condition and kept that way.

To be aroused from your slumbers in the night by some unusual noise is very trying on the nerves of many a human, and on last Saturday night about 10 o'clock the citizens of Burlington were given just such a shock by the ringing of bells blowing of horns, beating of drums and firing of guns. When first awakened some thought it was an alarm of fire, but after crawling from their warm beds, and in night attire, facing the chilly October air as it came thru open windows and doors, the thought dawned upon them that it was only a charivari party paying their respects to Thomas Walton and bride, they lost no time in returning to their warm beds, and were again soon wrapped in the arms of sweet sleep.

Since E. House, from over on Gunpowder, was a caller at this office last Thursday and told that he would be one of the first at the polls on election day to cast his vote for Cox and the entire Democratic ticket he is a Democrat of the old school.

HOGS PAY BIG MONEY

Mr. Pete Wing of Hawk Point, Mo. made a lot of money out of his hogs. He says: "I fed them Dr. LeGear's Hog Prescription. It has given wonderful results in putting gains on them with less feed. They were on heavy feed for only a month; averaged a gain of 24 pounds daily, and were only 7 months, 10 days old, when sold."

Mr. Wing profited by the advice of Dr. LeGear, Graduate Veterinarian and Expert Poultry Breeder of 28 years' standing.

Dr. LeGear's Hog Prescription will put weight on your hogs also, because it expels worms, purifies the blood and conditions them so that they gain flesh on less feed.

It makes no difference what ailment is prevalent among your stock or poultry, it is money in your pocket to get the proper Dr. LeGear Remedy from your dealer, on a satisfaction or money back offer.

To sell Willys Light in this territory. Willys Light is the most complete electric light and power plant for farms on the market. Uses the famous Knight sleeve-valve engine which eliminates vibration, valve and carbon trouble, and is backed by the same resources that have given the Overland and Willys-Knight Automobiles world-wide markets. This is an opportunity to establish a money-making business of your own with no investment required. Address DODD BROTHERS, Willys Light Distributors, 128 E. Third Street, Dayton, Ohio.

The revenue officers at Cincinnati have been confiscating quite a lot of whisky that was removed from Government warehouses on forged "For Medical Use" warehouse orders. Only two ways are now open to get genuine whisky one is for medicinal use and the other is to steal it from the warehouse, and the Government authorities have arrested those who have been engaged stealing the liquor from a Government warehouse and upon conviction they have been severely dealt with, stiff fines and imprisonment. Bootleggers are selling what may be called moonshine but what in fact is a concoction that will kill a mule and the chemists of the country who have analyzed this say that it is very dangerous to human life and we see daily reports of people who have died from the effect of these concoctions made to foster on the public under the name of whisky, any man who drinks bootleg liquor cares nothing for his life.

Eilerman's Price ADJUSTMENT SALE

A Startling Price Revision Downward In All Departments

There cent praise-worthy effort by our Government and the public press for permanent lower clothing prices has brought on a condition in the clothing industry which we know sooner or later, through co-operation of the growers, spinners, weavers, clothing manufacturers and retailers, WILL BRING DESIRED RESULTS.

However, as a matter of fact, the merchandise offered by us this season was manufactured months ago at the high cost then prevailing—and there are no means by which the recent drop in prices of raw materials and manufactured woolsens could reach the public in the form of lower clothing prices now.

So beginning tomorrow, the purchasing power of

The coldest weather experienced in this part of the country since last April greeted the citizens of Boone county last Friday morning when the mercury had declined to 30 degrees above zero—2 below freezing. When upon arising Saturday morning, from their nights sleep, and finding the ground and roofs of buildings covered with frost, resembling a young snow, quite an epidemic of "shivering" was indulged in by the shivering citizenry.

Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, 1920, will be a big day in Burlington, Ky., and in order that all may attend the two Banks have decided to close at noon on that day. Deposit Bank, will please transact same before noon, as part of the banking force in each bank are members of the Legion and want to take full part in the proceedings on that day.

In eradication the cocklebur, remember that it carries a double-barreled gun. Every bur carries two seeds, only one of which sprouts the first year. Even when the product of that seed has been killed the other will be in shape to make trouble the next season. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has a circular on the cocklebur—how to get rid of it.

Jas. P. Ryle and Clarence Mitchell from over on Gunpowder creek, were over in Indiana, last Saturday, making a tour of the Miami bottoms in search of corn. Mr. Ryle wanted to buy 1,000 bushels but did not make a purchase as the farmers were holding their corn at $1 per bushel.

Notice.—All transfers that have been made and people dealing to the personal property separated from the real estate on their tax list will please come in and have this done at once. These lists must be all paid at one time. A. A. CONNER, Sheriff Boone County.

State News.

Many northern Kentucky Pythians are mourning the death of Colonel Robert L. Slade, 59, former Grand Chancellor of the Kentucky Grand Lodge—Knights of Pythias and later superintendent of the Pythian Home, Lexington, who died Monday, Oct. 25th, after a lingering illness of pneumonia. Because of failing health Colonel Slade resigned the superintendency of the Pythian Home August 1 last, and since had made a game fight to regain his vitality, but rest and quiet failed to restore his strength and he gradually declined.

Colonel Slade was born near Falmouth, Pendleton county, but had been a resident of Lexington for twenty-five years, coming here to make his headquarters as a commercial traveler. He early became identified with the Knights of Pythias and was for some time an organizer for that order. Later when a division of the uniform rank of the order was organized in this district, he was made a colonel on the staff of the brigadier general, hence his military title. Colonel Slade passed thru all the chairs of the Pythian Grand Lodge until he reached the highest office in Kentucky—that of Grand Chancellor, which he filled with credit to himself and the order, increasing its membership and extending its influence of Pythianism into new territory by his energetic and enthusiastic efforts, particularly in Eastern Kentucky.

The defendant, who is 79 years old, was locked up in jail on the rendering of the verdict.

Fight Insects Now With Plow.

Fall plowing is the most universally effective way of controlling the insect pests that annually cause great losses to the grain farmer. It is much easier and cheaper, says the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, to prevent an insect outbreak in this manner than to stamp out the infestation once it is fully developed. The Hessian fly, so destructive to wheat, is one of the insects that can hardly be eradicated once it is established in the crop. Fall plowing is recommended because it breaks up the soil and destroys the grubs and pupae of many insects by exposing them to the sun and air.

Farmers' Bulletin 835, prepared by the Bureau of Entomology, tells how to control the most common and dangerous of the grain farmer's insect enemies. It gives briefly the life histories of the Hessian fly, army worm, cutworms, grasshoppers, the white grubs, billbugs, corn-root aphids, and wireworms, with authoritative data describing the characteristics of each pest, and the best practical remedies for control. The bureau advises the grain farmer to plow in the fall, if possible; to keep a supply of insecticides and a spraying outfit on hand; to watch the crops carefully for an outbreak, and to report all outbreaks to the county farm adviser or direct to the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Penn, Mrs. W. L. Riddell and George Porter attended the Home Coming services at Richwood Presbyterian church last Sunday. A large congregation was present among which were quite a number of members from a distance. Rev. Hill, who has served the congregation so faithfully for several years, conducted the morning service, delivering an interesting and instructive sermon. In the afternoon Mrs. Cochran, of Quick Sand, Ky., made a very interesting and instructive talk on Woman's Work. At the noon hour an elegant dinner was served consisting of a long list of most daintily prepared articles of food.

Feeding The Laying Hen.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 23.—There has been much discussion and many experiments conducted in an effort to prove that a hen should be fed in order to prove the maximum amount of eggs. These experiments have varied and various results have been obtained. The Poultry Department of the Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky., has just completed the third year of experimental work in its feeding of cottonseed meal in a laying ration for hens. They have found out in this experiment that as a rule, the farm flock receive sufficient grain to make the yolk of an egg; but unless they are fed some special feed, like tankage, buttermilk or commercial meat scraps, they do not have sufficient animal protein to make the white of an egg.

Heatless Light.

Although scientists have for years been seeking to discover the secret of the familiar firefly or lightning bug, and although they have isolated the cellular substance in which the light is supposed to be gathered, they are still a long way from obtaining such knowledge as might remove the duplication of this light which is devoid of all red rays, possible.

Reata, however, have proved that this light is produced with about one four hundredths part of the energy which is expended in the flame of a candle, says "Boys Life." Considering the strength of the feebleness of the firefly, this light is believed to be the most efficient illumination in use today. If this method could be understood and put to work it is calculated that the energy exerted by a boy in driving a bicycle would be sufficient to run a powerful dynamo or light miles of street lamps.

The light of the firefly is practically heatless, and it is believed and among scientists that the future of the lighting industry of the world depends upon the discovery of a heatless light.

Damage to Shade Trees.

Ten million dollars damage annually is done to the shade trees and hardy shrubs of the country by shade tree insects, according to estimates made by the Bureau of Entomology, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

It is very difficult to estimate the money value of the shade trees and shrubs of the country, but a very conservative estimate would place their value at $1,000,000,000. These figures were reached after extensive correspondence with the forestry and other authorities of States and municipalities. A more definite census is assumed, but the figures are taken as dependable for general purposes. They are based on the value of trees to cities, parks and private property, and have no reference to the bare intrinsic value for wood or lumber. An old tree which, because of its condition is not worth $2 for lumber, may add $500 to the value of the city lot on which it is located.

The shade trees and ornamental plantings of parks and streets, grounds of health and pleasure resorts, public institutions, and of city, suburban country, and farm homes, represent a form of wealth, recreation, enjoyment of the home, and the increased value of property.

There is a constantly increasing demand for information on insects injurious to these growths, and the Department of Agriculture is eager to be of assistance in reducing losses.

WAKES 'EM UP.

Memphis, Tenn.—In the middle of his sermon at Madison Heights Methodist church, Rev. T. W. Lewis observed that a number of his congregation were asleep in their seats. The preacher stopped and offered a broad hint, but the sleepers slept on. For a moment the minister looked baffled—but only for a moment.

"Let's all stand and sing Jesus Lover of My Soul," came the request from the pulpit.

There were some embarrassed faces among the sleepers when they were awakened by the sound of the music. After two verses had been sung, Rev. Lewis resumed his sermon and thereafter the drowsy ones kept awake.

Madison Heights church congregation includes many of Memphis' wealthiest and most prominent families.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

CONSERVE WINDFALL APPLES

Culls and imperfect fruit can be Canned for Home Consumption During Entire Year.

Apples that fall off the tree or are imperfect may not keep well nor find a ready sale, but they can be used satisfactorily to make apple products. These products are available for home consumption throughout the entire year, which is an advantage worthy of the consideration of apple growers.

The following recipes recommended by the United States department of agriculture will utilize the windfalls and culls. Do not can any decayed part nor allow apples to become overripe before canning.

Wash the apples, which must be reasonably firm. Remove core and blanch (if desirable when for immediate use). Place whole apples in blanching tray or blanching cloth and blanch in boiling water for two minutes. Remove and plunge quickly into cold water. Pack in large, empty glass jars or gallon tin cans. Pour over the product a hot, thin sirup of about 18 degrees density. This is made in the proportion of 2 1/2 pounds of sugar to 5 1/2 quarts of water. Place rubber and top in position. Seal partially, not tight. If using tin cans, cap and tip completely. Process half-gallon or gallon containers 20 minutes in boiling water in homemade or hot-water bath outfit; 15 minutes in water-seal; 10 minutes in steam-pressure outfit, with 5 pounds of steam pressure.

Remove jars, tighten covers, invert to cool, and test joints. Wrap in paper and store. The time of heating will have to be varied according to ripeness and condition of the fruit. Use just enough time to sterilize perfectly, and yet not enough to change the color or reduce the pulp to sauce.

Firm and tart apples may be cored and peeled first, then canned by the above recipe. Apples canned whole may be used for the following purposes:

A breakfast dish, with cream and sugar added; baked, like fresh apples; apple salad; a relish with roast pork—the apples may be fried in the pork fat; apple dumplings, deep apple pie.

Packing Apples in Yakima Valley.

and other desserts in which whole apples are desirable. The sirup of canned whole apples can be used for puddings sauces or fruit drinks.

SIZING HOPPER FOR FRUITS

Saves Much Hand Labor and Increases Value of Product—Plan for Building One.

A simple sizing hopper for small fruits and berries saves a world of hand labor and raises the market value of the fruit. A frame, built like an ordinary screen with back and sides of eight-inch board, should be three feet wide at the large end and taper to 18 inches. Make the slatted bottom of any suitable material. The width of the front apron depends upon the size of the product to be sorted. The jiggle can must be of hardwood. As the crank is turned the slatted section vibrates up and down separating the fruit into large and small sizes which run into different barrels.

GOOD COLD STORAGE HOUSES

Should Be So Constructed as to Maintain Practically Uniform Temperature for Apples.

Cold storage houses should be so constructed and equipped as to maintain a practically uniform temperature of from 31 degrees to 32 degrees F. for the successful storage of apples. There should be sufficient spaces to permit a free-air circulation and to render each lot readily accessible to inspection and withdrawal. Containers should be clean and strongly built.

DAMAGE BY CURRANT APHIS

Loose Buds Sap and Curls Leaves—Can Be Controlled by Spraying With Oil Emulsion.

The currant aphid, a form of plant louse, sucks the sap and curls the leaves. It is easily controlled by spraying with an oil emulsion spray of a nicotine solution. The insect is found clustered on the lower surface of the leaves.

FARM ANIMALS

BEEF ANIMAL FOR HOME USE

Unprofitable Cow or Heifer That Does Not Promise to Be Good Producer May Be Killed.

The farmer buys more beef than he takes from the farm. Only about 10 per cent of meat furnished by the average farm is beef. In the North and West the average consumption of beef per family is nearly 300 pounds and in the South it is less than 100 pounds. The beef animal killed for home use, suggest specialists of the United States department of agriculture, may be a beef steer or an unprofitable cow, or a heifer that does not promise to be a good producer and would not bring a good price for beef on the market. Very little veal is killed on the farm for home use. Much of the beef bought by farmers is bought in the summer from village butchers who operate meat wagons or cars in the country. On the average, farm there are no facilities for keeping fresh meat during warm weather.

STEER-FEEDING EXPERIMENT

Cottonseed Meal and Velvet Beans Used With and Without Addition of Shelled Corn.

In a steer-feeding experiment conducted last year on the government farm at Beltsville, Md., four lots of two-year-old steers were fed. The purpose was to compare cottonseed meal and soaked velvet beans when used with and without the addition of shelled corn.

The addition of corn to a ration composed of corn silage, cottonseed meal and wheat straw did not pay. The addition of corn to the ration of velvet beans and corn silage was profitable.

The lot receiving corn silage and soaked velvet beans with a small quantity of cottonseed meal as an appetizer produced the most economical gains and showed the greatest profit, even though the daily gains and the selling price of the cattle were lower than those of any of the other lots.

TO DOUBLE VALUE OF STOCK

President of Michigan Association Wants Every Farmer to Agree to Use Only Purebreds.

St. Joseph county, Mich., plans to double the value of its live stock within three years. Current activities to accomplish the purpose are described by William T. Langley, president of the St. Joseph County Live Stock Breeders' association, in a statement he has furnished the United States department of agriculture.

"We want every man," he declares, "to give us a pledge to use nothing but purebred sires."

"We have a sign in the making that reads 'Purebred Sire Farm' that we want posted on every farmyard gate.

"We want nothing but high-grade and purebred females."

A general association has been organized that includes the members of the various breeding associations and also all breeders of grades that pledge to use only purebred sires.

GROUND RYE BEST FOR PIGS

It is Better Mixed in Equal Parts With Middlings, Ground Oats, Barley or Corn.

It is generally recommended that rye be ground for feeding to pigs. It is best mixed in equal amounts with middlings, ground oats, ground barley or corn. If the mixture is placed in the self-feeder, care must be taken to see that there is a good supply of water available for the pigs. They should have continual access to salt also.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

The higher the breed of cattle, the better is the beef.

There is no danger of a good grade of lambs spreading hog cholera.

A good bull is just as good as a steer as far as market value is concerned.

Horses are as poor as their feet. Always examine this section of their anatomy when a trade is in prospect.

NEED QUALIFIED SHEPHERDS

Important That Sheep Raising Be Encouraged Where Conditions Are Suitable for It.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"I am not convinced that a general campaign to increase the number of small farm stocks of sheep is thoroughly wise unless the field for such an effort is first prepared," said Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, in an address before the More-Sheep-More-Wool association. "There must be established a popular understanding of principles which experienced shepherds are likely to take for granted."

"With dairy herds we find that best methods of production seldom prevail when only a few animals are kept. The owner of a very small herd is not often interested in better breeding, feeding or disease control. He is not a dairymen. But when he has a herd of a dozen cows or more he becomes a real asset to a great dairy business."

"So with sheep. We must aim, it appears to me, not so much for an increase in the number of flocks as an increase in the number of sheep kept by men who are real shepherds or have the qualifications and desire to become shepherds. Nor should we forget that farmers in general may not be versatile enough to add a profitable flock of sheep to their present live stock. It is, therefore, important that sheep raising be encouraged chiefly where the land and other conditions are suitable for it."

MANY ASSOCIATIONS FORMED

One of Purposes is to Eliminate Scrub Sires and Replace Them With Purebreds.

Fifty-nine live-stock breeders' associations, with a reported membership of 1,524, were organized during the last fiscal year with the help of the United States department of agriculture extension specialists. In addition numerous club clubs were organized among the boys and girls. Much of the work is being done in regions where the beef-cattle industry is practically new.

One of the purposes of beef-cattle extension activities is to eliminate scrub bulls and replace them with purebreds of good quality. The federal workers co-operate with the state agricultural colleges through their extension divisions and particularly with county agents.

SILAGE FOR LITTLE CALVES

Heavy Ration Fed to Young Animals Has Tendency to Cause Repeated Scouring.

Young calves under a year old do not benefit from a heavy silage ration, because on such young animals it has a tendency to cause repeated scouring. It can, however, be satisfactorily fed to calves between six months and one year old, provided it is limited to a small part—say not more than one-third—of the weight of the entire ration.

GREATEST DEMANDS ON EWES

Impartative That Animals Be in Proper Condition Prior to Lambing for Best Results.

It is during the suckling period that the greatest demands are made on the ewe, and in order to have the ewe in condition to stand this drain on their systems it is necessary for us to see to it that they are in good condition of flesh prior to lambing.

MAKE PROFIT OUT OF LAMBS

Young Animals Must Be Fed for Period in Dry Lot on Harvested Feeds for Top Price.

While it is entirely possible to make money out of lambs by feeding on thistles in the field, yet to make market toppers they must be fed for a period in the dry lot on harvested feeds, some feeders combining sold feeding and dry-lot feeding at the same time.

"COMMON COLDS" THEIR CAUSE AND TREATMENT

Issued By The Scott County Board of Health.

More people probably suffer from common colds than from any other single ailment. What is more inconvenient, annoying and irritating than "that heavy feeling in the head," the "running nose," the watery eyes, the continued sneezing, and disinclination to work or enjoy oneself socially. There is a mild epidemic at present in Georgetown at present, and this is more or less true of the country at large, except perhaps in the dry western area. If the sum total of suffering, inconvenience, retardation to development of other diseases, and the actual money loss, resulting from common colds could be obtained, this apparently trivial disease would be at once pronounced to be one of the most serious diseases.

A common cold is not merely a congestion, it is an infection as well. As proof of this, everyone knows that a cold is "catching," that a violently sneezing, coughing child may produce a similar condition in a number of children in the school room for example.

Cold weather in itself may not necessarily cause a cold. Artistic explorers rarely ever have colds until they return to fellow-men infected in warmer climates. A cold may be transmitted rapidly through a household, a school, or a factory. If a man went around town hitting every other man in the face with his fist just once, let us assume for the sake of argument that he would be cramped on immediately, he would probably do less damage to the citizenship than by going about coughing and sneezing in everybody's face as is often the case.

Common colds it might be said are more dangerous as a rule during the winter months. If people would take care of themselves by remaining in bed the first three days and call in a doctor they would not only benefit themselves but would greatly assist in preventing the contagion. It is always a hardship to take a child out of school, yet by doing so for a day or two by sending the coughing, sneezing child home much discomfort and loss of time by others would be saved.

Colds in themselves are never fatal, but their complications and the many deaths of these are the result of pneumonia, diphtheria, pneumonia, kidney disease, and a depressed vitality which invites general and chronic diseases.

The treatment of colds lies largely in their prevention, not only of the original attack, but of "catching more colds" as the popular saying goes. Correct treatment is not a question merely as to what is going out and buying patent syrups and candy.

Prevention lies more logically in keeping the resistance up, especially with children (good clean milk, or cod liver oil, fresh air and exercise will do this). Second, avoid contact with people who have colds. Many colds are due to lack of cleanliness, and proper sanitary habits. The common drinking cup, the common towel, pencils, food, fingers, and the lack of control of coughing and sneezing by a handkerchief are the usual causes. Drafts are not as dangerous as many think—a draft after all is merely a moving current of air. To prove this, engineers and firemen in open cars "catch cold" less than their passengers behind in stuffy, hot closed coaches.

It is also true that children with bad tonsils and adenoids are often susceptible to colds and other diseases too for that matter. The medical inspections of schools in this county by the way, shows many children suffering from such conditions which in fairness to the child should be removed.

The story of the common cold has been only told in part here. Books have been written on them and their results.

The whole problem really sits down to these two items:

Take care of yourself and make "the other fellow" see that he does not carelessly infect you.

The Silver Lining.

It is a fact that every cloud has a silver lining. Last spring, when the farmers of Boone County were feeding $50 a ton and selling $3 tobacco, with every item he had to buy higher than it had ever been in history, we must admit that a very heavy cloud of economic ruin hung over the prospects of the Boone county farmer.

But how different today, since we have been blessed with the greatest season in twenty years. Our farms are full of fine corn and tobacco of the finest quality. The fields full of fine corn, and the cellar fairly bulging with fruit, vegetables and good things to eat. And the price of the clothing and shoes the farmer wears seeking a level with the returns from his products.

This is the winter to carry over some yearling cattle to graze next summer, feed is cheap and cattle are low.

BOND ISSUE

For Electric Lights at Walton Won By a Vote of 268 to 58.

The citizens of Walton voted overwhelmingly in favor of electric lights. Their town by a bond issue. 267 votes were cast in favor of and 58 votes cast against the proposition. It is now up to the Walton Board of Trustees to supply the citizens with current, either by the building and operating of a local plant or by purchasing current from outside sources. Walton had about a 20-hour service, and that required their citizens to use other sources of light. The time of the trustees should provide the citizens with 24-hour service under any contract that they may now enter into.

Every 31 Minutes.

The toll of life being taken by the vehicular traffic of America is appalling. Cold figures prove that one auto victim dies every 31 minutes. The latest statistics for 1920 estimate that 110 for every 1,000,000 inhabitants.

Unless public opinion can be aroused to cope with this situation, the slaughter must continue. Why should there be so much of haste and so little of safety? Drivers of cars in congested districts and pedestrians both are to blame. The growth of fatalities from nine per every million population to 100 in 1919 is a startling fact. The increase to 110 for each million of inhabitants in 1920 is no Asteroid still. "What a human being dies every 31 minutes as the result of accident as matters now stand" may be expected in the near future. The day of the tremendous death tolls under the wheels of multiplying machines?

There seems to be no way by which this awful destruction can be curtailed except thru safety education. To this end every man, woman and youth in the country should labor. Life is too sacred, too valuable to be jotted out as now is happening on a large scale. Hurry is the curse of the age. To correct this fatal tendency there should be, in addition to every personal precaution, organized and developed public safety committees in all communities.

The public psychology should be stimulated; schools and churches should give to this matter their earnest attention. The streets and highways should be safe, but they are not. It is the duty of the public to see to it that they are made safe. The killing of valuable men and women must be stopped. The killing of little children must be stopped. It is better to miss an engagement, to experience material loss, than to kill a worth-while man or woman.

Drive carefully, walk carefully; keep your eyes on the other fellow. Do every useful thing to reduce the appalling numerical list of auto killings.—Enquirer.

The Burlington Postoffice is no longer one of the Fourth Class. On account of the increase in business at this office it has been increased to Third Class. Since the rural routes have been established the mail received and dispatched from this office is very large. The establishment of the parcel post system also has materially increased the receipts of the office and has also been a great accommodation to those who live on the route. The new mail is now very popular and certainly very accommodating to the patrons of the route.

BOONE COUNTY BANKERS

Hold Very Interesting Meeting At Florence, Last Thursday.

The Boone County Bankers held their regular meeting at Florence last Thursday afternoon. Representatives from Walton, Verona, Hebron, Union, Florence, Erlanger and Burlington were present. Rates of exchanges for collection of drafts were discussed and it was the opinion of those present that a fee of 25 cents should be paid for presenting and collecting this was to be considered as the exchange for all sums of $100 and under and over that amount an additional charge of 10 cents on each $100 or fraction thereof should be charged. The representatives also discussed the question of overdrafts and how to prevent them. This is always a very serious question with banks, and they will have to eliminate the overdraft. The rights and liability of the bank in certifying checks were under discussion and a concrete case was presented to the association. A stranger presented to the Florence bank and requested that a draft be issued in place of the several checks, which he had, and the cashier of the Florence Bank knew they were genuine checks, and while the association was in session and it was the opinion of those present that as the acceptance of the checks and issuing draft in their place without identification was practically the same as the payment of the checks and the cashier refused to certify the checks or issue his draft in their place. Other subjects were discussed and a very interesting meeting was held.

After Election Reflections.

Bellevue voters take their politics straight—no scratching done there.

Mrs. J. M. Barlow was taken to Florence, a distance of six miles to vote. Mrs. Barlow is helpless because of the rheumatism and occupies a wheelchair chair at the time. She was taken to the polls in an automobile by B. B. Hume, and enjoyed both the ride in the automobile and the privilege of voting.

About 20 negro women voted in Burlington precinct.

The white women seemed to have turned out pretty well in the county, and in most instances voted as did their husbands.

Congressman A. B. Rouse was selected by a tremendous majority as everybody knew he would be. He is the only hope of the Democratic party next time as its candidate for the presidency.

The immense crowds that turned out to hear Jimmy Cox speak evidently went to see the man they intended to vote against.

If at first your count does not win, why, count, count "agin."

Kentucky has struggled and wobbled so for the past few years that she does not know where she is at politically.

When the Republicans spring a second count the Democrats have grounds to suspect that something is "rotten in Denmark."

Senator Harding and a bunch of friends will go to Texas that the Senator may have a rest and escape the festive office-seekers, but he will be disappointed as to escaping the office-seekers as they will pursue him even though he leaves the country.

The Salt River expedition was the largest and came nearer being unanimous than any like expedition following a general election.

Union precinct cut 48 Republican votes. The time was about forty years ago when it was hard to find enough Republicans in that precinct from which to appoint officers of election to which the party there was entitled.

Constance sustained her rep. as the only Republican precinct in the county.

Senator Harding will have a big job on his hands when he undertakes to scrap all the Democrats have accomplished in the last eight years, and put over the numerous schemes his party will demand carried into law.

The colored vote in this county was lined up in splendid style. It was lined up as well as after it did their work well.

According to the Vote in Ohio the "wets" can not look for any future encouragement from that State.

"You, as a physician, have attended members of my family, and I have represented you as counsel and we are close friends, but you will serve in jail just the same," announced Judge L. L. Hanson in Corning, Ky., Police Court last Friday, when he imposed a sentence of three days in jail and a fine of $50 and costs on Dr. P. T. Abrams, 38 years old, 262 Southern Ave., South Covington, on a charge of reckless driving.

GREAT "SERPENT MOUND."

The most important earthwork left by the moundbuilders in Ohio is in Adams county. The "Serpent Mound" is the name of the earthwork. It is 1,000 feet long and of religious origin. Here the ancient peoples of Ohio gathered for worship, after having built their altar in the form of a serpent, which was a predominant symbol of religion among many primitive peoples. The mound was purchased by Prof. F. W. Putnam of the Peabody museum, Cambridge, Mass., in 1897. The head of the serpent rests on a rock platform, which presents a precipitous face to the west, about 100 feet in height. The jaws of the serpent are widely extended in the act of swallowing an egg represented by an oval enclosure about 120 feet long and 50 feet in width. This enclosure consists of a ridge of earth about five feet high and from 18 to 20 feet broad. The body of the serpent winds gracefully toward higher land, making four large folds before reaching the end. The tail tapers gracefully and is folded in three complete and close coils. The height of the body of the serpent varies from 4 to 5 feet, and its greatest width is 30 feet across at the neck.

High School Notes.

The High School Literary Society will give its next program on Friday afternoon, Nov. 12. This will be a Thanksgiving program and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Rev. David Blythe called at the school Thursday and delivered a very interesting address to the High School on the subject of "Americanism." His talk and visit were greatly enjoyed by all.

The boys' first and second basketball teams journeyed to Elsberry Friday and defeated those teams by a score of 15 to 6 and 8 to 2 respectively. They go to Elsberry Saturday and will probably be their hardest game of the season.

Two new lists of cases and about 150 volumes of reference work have been received. Most of these books are second hand, but in first class condition and, if purchased now, would cost between $300 and $500. That there was great need for such books is evidenced by the fact that they are in continuous use during the school year.

The hall-way up stairs has been fitted up as a library and reading room. It also serves as the principal office. The books and cases have been moved out there and a neatly varnished reading table has been installed. The room as a whole, makes a welcome addition to the High School department.

We are in constant need of suitable magazines for our reading table. Students as a rule, enjoy reading any standard magazine even though it is a month or two old. This is a good kind from the public would be greatly appreciated. If you will send such magazines to the principal, he will see that they are taken care of and properly used.

The Boone County High School is backing a Lyceum Course for this season. The course is being energetically selling tickets. The Lyceum Bureau is located in Louisville and is responsible and well recommended. The course is practically every town of anyone sequence in Northern Ky., and Burlington is glad to be on the list. There will be six numbers and the course will be a success. The Lyceum will be considerable. For this reason the High School will probably not make much, if any money, on the course. Our principle motive, however, is to provide for the student body and general public, entertaining and instructive attractions for the coming winter.

Vastness of Agriculture.

Very few people realize how closely agriculture is intertwined with every character of business, and still fewer realize the vastness of its scope," said Edward J. Winslow, of Topeka, Kan., who bon-tended "Business men have to realize their dependence on the farmer and stock raiser, and even the bankers and transportation companies, who benefit largely thru the product of the farm, do not understand sufficiently the needs of the farm, nor do they tend to properly sympathetic to the needs of the agricultural men who wrest a living from the soil. Business men and manufacturers should know these facts and realize the importance of co-operation with agriculturists in all parts of the country, a state that would quickly lead to vast mutual advantages."

In the towns and villages and on the farms, the people of the river in this county the people are in a bad row for their winters fuel in so far as coal is concerned, and there are no prospects of any improvement in the conditions. At some points drift wood is being gathered by those living near the river, while Dr. H. B. Martin, Jr., building for W. A. Galbraith & Son, a new room residence on their farm just south of Burlington. A large dairy barn was constructed on the farm, and Mr. J. H. Hayes will operate a dairy there.

WHY NOT ENLOW YOUR CEMETERY

A Little Extra Added to The Price of Your Lot Will Care for It Forever.

The Petersburg cemetery like many of the other cemeteries is not cared for as it should be. Some individuals take care of their own lots but with the passing of years many who now care for them will be here no more. The Cemetery Board at Petersburg purchased additional land this spring and is charging enough extra for their lots to create a fund, the interest of which will care for the new lots forever. Now the public is to look after the old lots. A number of the owners of the old lots are anxious to have their lots put on the same basis. An investment of $3 for a small lot will cost $50 for the largest ones will care for them forever. Several of the owners have given me the sums, which we have decided would be proper and already the money has been invested in government bonds, the interest of which is to be used each year to keep the weeds cut and to get the lots in grass. Any who are interested in this proposition and all owners of lots should be at the cemetery at Petersburg or see me when I am home some time. Many take care of their own lots but now who will do this after these have gone?

EDGAR C. RILEY.

Secretary of the Board.

The same plan should be adopted by a number of other cemeteries in this county, as this is the proper way in which to create an endowment plan.—ED.

Future Prices on Tobacco.

Many questions are today disturbing the minds of the thinking public among which no more important one is the future of the welfare of people than the price to be paid at the coming tobacco markets.

Our farmers have grown a larger crop in this county than ever before. The crop is being favored by a kind providence, the crop is of better type than is usually grown, and it has been a very favorable season for a good tobacco will go up instead of down on account of an actual shortage of these grades, but on account of the medium of exchange with foreign nations, whose citizens use our low grades the price of type of tobacco will be very low for some time.

Granting that the above is true and it is vouched for by those who seem to know, then the farmer who has tobacco cannot grow these better grades should quit the planting of tobacco until conditions adjust themselves which shall not do within the next few years.

Were the rates of exchange with foreign countries adjusted so that the foreign nations could get a more favorable price when buying our tobacco the prices on our low grades would immediately go up.

Agricultural Yield

Generally Satisfactory.

In a general sense, the agricultural year of 1920 in the Fourth Federal Reserve District has been very favorable, wheat being the only principal crop below the average. The year has been a strong undertone of dissatisfaction among farmers at the present time over the price situation. Their general sentiment seems to be that while the prices they are receiving for their produce have declined, no such reduction is reflected in the prices of the things they have to buy.

The bulk of the corn crop is now safe from frost, and the especially favorable weather during October has ripened a lot of corn which was thought might not mature. Harvesting of corn is in full swing, and silo filling well advanced.

The potato crop, which is fairly large, and which might have been affected with late blight, which will cut the yield to some extent. This is particularly true of the commercial potato districts.

Seeds of winter wheat is later than usual, and there are indications pointing to a reduced acreage.

There are numerous complaints of the difficulty in gathering the fruit crop, especially apples, at prices that will pay the cost of handling.

A Painful Accident.

Garnett Tolin met with a very painful accident last Wednesday. While removing the glass from the tail light on his automobile the spring that holds the glass in the frame broke loose and struck Mr. Tolin in the left eye, blinding him for a time and it was feared that he might lose the sight of the eye. He was taken to the hospital where the eye has not been seriously injured.

J. J. Kirkpatrick, Elia Poston and Henry C. Martin, Jr., building for W. A. Galbraith & Son, a new room residence on their farm just south of Burlington. A large dairy barn was constructed on the farm, and Mr. J. H. Hayes will operate a dairy there.

Local Happenings.

County Clerk Rogers has received his 1921 dog tags and is now ready to issue the licenses.

The local trucks are kept pretty busy hauling live stock to market for the farmers in this neighborhood.

Galen S. Kelly, Newton Sullivan, Jr., and Geo. Porter, went to Cincinnati, last Thursday night to see "The Bird of Paradise" at the Lyric Theater.

Lewis Beemon, wife and son, Mrs. Emma Brown, and Miss Mary Everett Rous, convalesced a theater party at the Lyric Theater, last Friday night.

Boys this is the year to get the money for the masks and opium skins—and for every odd kind of a fur that you can catch in your neighborhood.

John Kahr, of Hebron neighborhood, was a business visitor to town last Saturday, and called at our office and renewed his subscription to the Recorder.

NOTICE—All members of Union Baptist church are requested to be present at a special meeting to be held at the church Saturday afternoon Nov. 13, 1920, at 3 p. m.

Dr. M. A. Yelton and family, L. R. McNeely and wife constituted a theater party at the Lyric Theater in Cincinnati, last Thursday night and enjoyed "The Bird of Paradise."

O. C. Hafer, of Hebron, called on the Recorder last Monday, and sent an advertisement for the sale of fifteen head of high grade Jersey cows. Read his advertisement in another column.

Work in the third degree will be conferred by Burlington Lodge No. 109, K. of P., next Saturday night. This is the first work of the season, and a large number of the brethren will be present.

Intelligent people, who have the good of their neighborhood, their county, or their State at heart, should be very slow to circulate any campaign talk calculated to arouse class or race antagonism.

Drive a nail into the bark of a tree and you change the whole course of its life. The warp in the lives of some folks puts a warp into the lives of everybody that come in contact with them.

L. B. McCrander, of Patriot, Ind., formerly of this county, in submitting for the Recorder, says if he does not want to be the old Boone County Recorder any more. Enclosed you will find check for $150 for another year.

What has become of the O. F. editor, who at about this time of year use to put over something like this: "The melancholy days have come; the time of the year; too hot for whisky punch, too cool for larger beer?"

County Road Engineer Baldon is a very busy man. He does his best to get to all parts of the county, where there is any work being done, in order that he may know what he is getting value received for the money he is spending.

Miss Bessie Kirkpatrick, who has been one of the local telephone operators will go to work in one of the Cincinnati exchanges in a few days as she has accepted a position with the Cincinnati Bell Telephone Co.

L. C. Weaver planted last summer in this corn field, what he thought was pumpkin seed, but he finds he has very fine melons, one which he enjoys while husking a very fine crop of corn and says he will match it against any crop in the county.

The contractors who are constructing the road from Florence to Erlanger are expecting to get all that part of the road in Boone county completed before they have to close down for the winter. If the weather is favorable, the concrete will be in place by about the first of the fair ground gate by December last, and if the contractors make that point it will not be necessary to the difficulty in gathering the fruit crop, especially apples, at prices that will pay the cost of handling.

Sidney Thatcher, who was in the Rising Sun, Indiana jail charged with burning three barns and murdering his brother, Floyd, broke jail and escaped last Wednesday evening. The jail used implements' maul from fixtures in the jail, part of a spray pump and small wedges and mauls made from a post being the kind. From all indications he had been working on his means of escape for several days. The crimes of broke jail and escape have not been charged against him, but he is being held at Downs Corner, near Rising Sun, and terror reigned in that neighborhood when word reached here that Thatcher had escaped. The feeling predominates there that instead of attempting to get away he will go back to the scene of his other crimes to wreak other vengeance.

Claude Hume, having been a partner of the latter in the purchase of tobacco at Patriot for several years. Mr. Hume is at present employed in a railroad office in Cincinnati on night duty.

W. L. H. Baker of Newport, who is spending several weeks on his farm near Big Bone Springs, on account of his health, spent Monday here with friends. Mr. Baker is an attaché of the post-office force at Newport and is considered one of the most efficient in the service. His health has been poorly the last several months and he is endeavoring to recuperate it on the farm.

Rev. Edgar C. Riley of Petersburg, filled the pulpit of the Walton Christian church, preaching a very able sermon and delighting his large congregation with his excellent discourse. Rev. Riley has been appointed Field Worker in Kentucky by the Christian church and preached at Walton last Sunday at the request of the pastor Rev. A. C. Brooks who was also present, and the unanimous request of his congregation to remain as the pastor for another year.

Elizabeth Glenn, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ralph Edwards, fell into a cistern at the residence of A. R. Hance last Saturday, and had a narrow escape from death. The cistern was covered with tin and the little girl in playing ran over the tin which gave way and precipitated her to the bottom of the cistern, a distance of about 12 feet. There was only about two feet of water in the cistern and the accident being promptly discovered Lloyd Johnson quickly put a ladder down into the cistern and rescued the little girl.

An informal meeting was held last Friday night relative to the rebuilding of the Walton Electric Light plant, and a very feasible plan was presented by an electrician from Louisville, that would insure a satisfactory local plant at an outlay of about $10,000, and it appears as if this method will be adopted upon at a final meeting. The $10,000 bond issue recently voted by the people to cover the expense of a municipal plant and the bonds can be retired at the rate of $500 together with the interest annually on the present rate of fifty cents and a premium on the property valuation of the town of Walton, approximating about a half million dollars. The next meeting to more fully determine the matter will be held next Friday night, Nov. 12th, at the town council chambers.

Monday evening the police authorities of Covington telephoned to Walton to keep a lookout for an automobile that had been stolen there that afternoon and probably had gone toward Walton. Charles Campbell overheard the message and shortly afterwards in going home met a machine answering the description given of the stolen machine, and he quickly turned around and beat the machine to Walton where armed with a gun, he commanded the three thieves to stop, and giving the order no attention, Campbell fired two shots at them, and then securing a machine started in pursuit. The stolen machine was found on the bridge at the back end of Walton where the thieves had abandoned it, and Campbell took it in charge and telephoned the owner to come after it. Later all three of the thieves were captured at Bracht Station, Kenton county, and taken to the Covington jail. The automobile was the property of Attorney Lewis Brown, of Covington.

The Loose Leaf tobacco market will open in Lexington Jan. 3, 1921, and in Walton about Jan. 10th. The exact date will be announced in due time. Prices will amount to about $500 for the best.

Attacked By Jealous Lover and Badly Beaten.

Miss Rosie Peeno, who teaches school near Constance, was returning to her home last Thursday afternoon and when about half way down the river hill on the Bullittville and Dry creek pike she was attacked by Earl McNulty and struck in the face and upon the head by him several times, causing her much pain. McNulty is partially demented and is jealous of Miss Peeno, and attacked her because as he stated, she did not care for him. Sheriff Conner and Deputy Hume were called and went at once to Constance but were unable to find McNulty. A warrant will be issued for his arrest and he will be arrested within a short time.

Isn't This True?

A child is born in the neighborhood; the editor gives the lad a long and the "happy parents" a send off and gets $5. It is returned and the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $5. The editor pushes and tells a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride. The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake and the editor gets $5. In the course of time she dies; the doctor gets from $15 to $100; the minister perhaps gets another $5; the undertaker gets from $75 to $150; the editor publishes a notice of the death, an obituary two columns long and a card of thanks and is expected to notify game wardens of any violation of game laws and are urged not to destroy whole covens of quail and to feed birds during the winter.

Only Three More Days.

Open season for game in Kentucky is only three days away. November 15th, it will be lawful to shoot and according to rules set out by the Ky. Game and Fish Commission, as a warning of what is permissible. Hunters may shoot deer, wild turkey, imported game, quail, woodcock and rabbits, but must not hunt on other land than their own without a license. Not more than twelve quail nor six woodcock may be killed in a single day. Rabbits may not be snared at any time. It is unlawful to kill any song bird or any insectivorous bird. Hunters are expected to notify game wardens of any violation of game laws and are urged not to destroy whole covens of quail and to feed birds during the winter.

Press Comment.

New York Evening World (Independent)—If Cox had been elected the United States would have gone into the league. Inasmuch as Harding was elected the United States must go into the league. This still is a great issue. By electing a Republican president the country had not changed its fundamental duty toward the greatest peace movement in history. Hoover and Taft have held that Harding, if elected, would turn out to be their Harding, and not the Borah-Johnson Harding. They have elected him. Now let them prove him. The final phase of the great fight has just begun.

New York Times (Independent)—Now that the election has been conducted it remains true, as we pointed out in January, that it cannot be said that the contest was decided upon the treaty issue. It was anything and everything but that. The country's desire for a change exerted its often recurring and powerful influence. Dislike of the Administration and of the President, systematically aroused and sustained by the Republicans, was an important element; but the controlling factor in producing these mountainous majorities was the passionate desire of millions of the electorate that Ireland be freed, that Germany be treated as though she had not brought on the war. The Democrats were forced to make the League of Nations their chief issue—they had no other. A campaign of defense and extension of the League of Nations, in which we inevitably must accept membership, may not be altogether the issue that Mr. Wilson favored, but there will be a League and we shall join it. Senator Harding cannot accept his election, even by these vast majorities, as a mandate to array himself with Borah and Johnson.

New York Evening Post (Independent)—Warren G. Harding has been elected to be President by enormous majorities over Woodrow Wilson. The names of the unsuccessful candidate reads otherwise on the ballots on Tuesday, Nov. 2. But it is not James M. Cox that was repudiated. Any Administration that had conducted the war now would be the target of the howling of a number of protests that merged yesterday into one gigantic protest. There entered into Harding's majorities yesterday the votes of those who were against war with Germany, in 1917 and the votes of those who were for war with Germany in 1914; the votes of those who think the peace imposed upon Germany too crushing and the votes of those who think the treatment of Germany too drastic enough; the votes of those who resent the restriction upon the liberties of the American people resulting from the war and the votes of those who resent the Administration's supposed tenderness for Bolshevism.

Baltimore Evening Sun.—The Republican party, with an abundance of money and a highly efficient organization that has been building for years, merely capitalized all the "grouches" combined all the discontent from every source, made vague and large promises and kept rubbing the sore spots and abusing Wilson. What they will do with their victory now is to be seen.

Chicago Daily News (Independent)—The victory shows by its overwhelming nature that there has been a growth in Harding sentiment steadily thruout the campaign. The eleven-hour efforts of Mr. Cox to escape the paralyzing effect of the inextinguishable fire of the League of Nations referendum were of no avail. Nothing could stop the drift of the great administrative errors of the real leader of the Democratic party, President Wilson. In making his official record their party's chief issue before the voters, the Democrats forfeited all chances of success.

Probably the oldest flag hung out in Lawrenceburg last Wednesday in celebration of the Republican victory was the one at the residence of Walden R. Smashey on East High street. The flag was made by hand in 1854 by Mrs. Sarah W. Bradford of West Union, Ohio, an aunt of E. S. Smashey, and given to him by her a few years before her death, which occurred in 1908. The flag contains only thirteen stars, its colors are as bright now after sixty-six years as if the emblem were new. Has any one in Dearborn county a flag older than this?—Lawrenceburg Press.

Farmers, as a rule, are highly individualistic in their methods, and farm business conditions vary widely. Accordingly, ready-made systems of farm accounts seldom bring out all the facts that the farmer ought to know. Systems must be developed to fit each man's requirements, and efforts to shape ones made according to a prepared system not based primarily on these needs will almost inevitably result in failure. Write the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin 511, containing an outline of the principles of simple farm bookkeeping.

Very few votes were cast for members of the school board because five were to be elected. There was only five names on the ballot. The school board will be composed of the following: C. E. Ryle, R. E. Redinger, C. E. Ryle, R. E. Redinger, C. E. Ryle, R. E. Redinger. The gentlemen will select the Superintendent of Schools.

The Crime of Being President.

After eight years of most exacting labor, Woodrow Wilson sits broken and weary in the White House, his work reviled and his character subjected to the most venomous attacks. Is it after all a crime to be President?

The evidence indicates that it is. The man who was elected on Tuesday Nov. 2nd, promptly as he takes the inauguration oath, will become a maligned and despised figure.

The history of the President of the United States testifies to the startling conclusion that in the eyes of contemporaries the President is always a contemptible man, more sinning than sinners against.

The men who have reached what should be the pinnacle of honor have always been condemned and exoriated in the bitterest fashion. Their private lives have been the food and drink of scandal-mongers; their motives in performing their duties have been suspected.

Washington, revered as the father of our country, was the target of the most scurrilous attacks. Lincoln, loved of all men in 1920, was a fiend in 1863. Scorned by his own Cabinet, branded as a traitor and an autocrat, he was finally murdered by "an avenger of the people."

Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, impeccable in its English and lofty in its sentiment, was termed by a newspaper of that time a partisan political pamphlet.

The daily life of a President is that of a slave goaded by a lash. He is sought by thousands upon thousands of soldiers, sailors, officers, curious ones, cranks, upon his shoulders is the sickening responsibility for foreign and domestic policies, aims and troubles. He is daily pressed for solutions of grace and intricate problems. He must entertain, be entertained, make speeches, pardon convicts and grant favors.

His person is surrounded by guards whose duty it is to accompany him wherever he goes. In order to be alone he must elude these men, and by so doing lay himself open to the possibility of assassination.

Mr. Wilson has lived thus for eight years. His problems in affairs in war, in peace, in regular have been coming in their scope. From the moment he was elected in 1912 his fortune has been to treat the most delicate matters of State, Labor, trade, the Mexican situation, the agonizing period between 1914 and 1917, the momentous decision of April, 1917, and the arduous months in Paris at the Peace Conference were his lot.

When the major work was done he returned to America and found himself criticized and repudiated. The Peace Treaty, the fruit of the war, was rejected. Mr. Wilson's pledge to our allies in war, that we should operate with them in peace, had not been fulfilled. During the Presidential campaign he has been denounced and cursed as a wicked man.

The next President will not escape. He too, must run the scorching gauntlet of abuse for the next four years. The crime of being President will be impressed upon him each passing day. He will be treated as a felon rather than as an honorable man. And whether he retires quietly like George Washington, is brutally killed like Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, or must be put in an invalid's litter like Woodrow Wilson, he will realize that the honor and glory of the Presidency is a fiction which is recognized only by posterity.—C. J.

Out in the State. Madisonville, Ky., November 6.—Sheriff Richard Scott Hunter, who was shot down by Lee Ellison, negro, at the residence of Ellison's home to arrest him on the charge of cutting his wife's throat, died at six o'clock this morning. A mob, who had hunted the negro all night, was still searching for him in the railroad yards and negro settlements this morning. The temper of the crowd is such that things are feared if they should capture the slayer. Hunter was a brother of Mayor R. W. Hunter, member of the State Racing Commission, who hurried home on the night of the killing of the crime. The Hunters are close friends of Gov. Morrow.

In his utterances from Des Moines, forward, Senator Harding gave the distinct impression that his plan of international association precluded the resumption of the Treaty of Versailles and made necessary an attempt to call another Peace Conference. This was and remains manifestly impossible, and so the effort must be based on the present Treaty. Mr. Harding will probably go through a few motions toward his "association" but, it can be no more than a political gesture. There is no further hope of Article X in its present form; that is one clear result of the elections. Poor boys of straw, the winds of the ballots blew it away with all its imaginary evils and dangers. But with Article X eliminated, there is readily available a meeting-ground for common purpose.

Mr. Root must make his promise good. Mr. Taft, Mr. Wickersham, Dr. Lowell and the other prodigious must do likewise. In the campaign they said to the people: "Mr. Harding doesn't mean what he says. He is merely saying these things to keep Johnson and Borah in line. He has to keep them in line to win the election. You want a change, and therefore you want to keep them in line. So bear with him, yet awhile, and we pledge to you that you shall have the League."

The burden of proof and performance rests of them. Only by success can they lift from their shoulders the weight of treachery to the League which they helped largely to construct. Wilson is punished for greatness. Eight years of Democratic government are ended. The changes have been ordered. Revenge has wrought its will.

Now, gentlemen, make good!—Louisville Times.

PENDELTON COUNTY NEWS.

In a letter to the Bracken Co. Review, Sam Tegarden, who on the Spring Hope, N. C., tobacco market, says: "Tobacco is ailing good here now. It is bringing from 5 to 10 cents, and the farmers are better satisfied and it is going higher."

A gentleman from Sakersfield, Cal., visited the Butler and Boston Station section of Pendleton county last week and decided to drill an oil well, provided he could get as much as five thousand acres of land leased. N. H. Licking Valley. He left $500 at the Butler Bank, to defray the expenses.

While in Cincinnati on Friday of last week, C. D. Ashbury and Joe Federer bought a car load of cattle—33 head. They got the pick of three car loads, long yearlings, averaging about 800 pounds each, at 7.75 per hundred. The cattle were in fairly good condition.

Abe Harding, of Bradford, pike, brought to the Outlook office last Saturday a potato vine with 22 small potatoes and one seed pod on it. The potatoes grew on the vine above the ground. They were perfectly formed, and the same color as the variety of potatoes they grew from. The seed pod was green and contained many little potato seeds.

Ed. R. Colbert, extensive farmer and dairyman of Boston Station, has just completed the erection of the first concrete silo in Pendleton county. The silo is 13x3 feet and has just been filled, requiring 12 acres of very heavy corn to do the job. The corn that went into the silo was from 19 to 18 feet high, and will feed thirty head of stock for five months.

Beasie Davis Goodridge, Orville Riggs, John W. Davis and Walter Davis have sold and conveyed to John H. Manning, about twelve acres of land on the North Bend road just north of Hebron. Consideration, $3,000.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Pain! Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried everything I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her."

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. I am sure I can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists. - E 55

All well and hearty, and no deaths since the Republican landslide. We have the assurance of a long and prosperous life.

The man that tells you Col. Graddy voted the Democratic ticket, is mistaken, he is generally on the popular and winning side.
The number of regenerating from the number of protracted meetings that have been held in the last month. The Christian church closed a meeting a couple weeks ago with 14 additions, the Baptist church last week with six additions and the M. E. church starts this week, and that is left if they will out number both of the other churches.

There was a Republican town feast and jubilee held at Idlewild last Saturday night. There was an abundance of good things to eat and drink, and the evening concluded with a brilliant display of fireworks.

O. K. Willson, of Verona, was appointed Administrator of the estate of Susie P. Griffith. Settlements were filed in the county court last Monday as follows:

An error was made in James E. Gaines' ad in our last issue. Mr. Gaines is selling Ben Davis apples at $1.00 per bushel while the advertisement quoted the price at $1.50 per bushel.

Elmo Gaines who was connected with the Auditors office at Frankfort for eight years prior to the election of Governor Morrow, was visiting friends and relatives in Burlington last week.

James P. Ryle, of Gunpowder neighborhood, has just finished digging a crop of 600 bushels of Early Rose potatoes. He is putting them on the market. Mr. Ryle is a good farmer and a money maker.

Burlington is without a board of trustees and the County Judge has asked a number of her citizens to accept the appointment on the board and they have refused. The streets in the town must be repaired and other work is necessary, unless something is done the streets in town will be impassable.

T. Z. Roberts, a Middle creek pioneer, was a business visitor to Burlington one day the latter part of last week. Mr. Roberts resides on the farm where he was born and raised, and is a man of rare genius, but no other locality has ever developed an attraction for him equal to that maintained by the fertile and wild hills along the river rippling and rattling stream of Middle creek.

Edgar Hensley and Jesse Eddins and family while driving their automobile out of the Bellevue bank a few days ago, had a peculiar accident. The machine, without any apparent cause, ran off of the road and down a steep bank, but Mr. Eddins who was at the wheel, so controlled the machine that it was stopped without any injury to the occupants. Upon examination a radius was found to be bent which accounted for the trouble.

A mud-splattered dough boy slouched into the Y hut where an entertainment was in progress and slumped into a front seat. Firm, kindly and efficient, a Y. M. C. man approached him, saying: "Sorry, buddy, but the entire front section is reserved for officers."

Wearily the youth rose. "All right," he drawled, "but the one I just got back from wasnt."—American Legion Weekly.

We do not see why any Democrat should regret the fact that the new President will be supported by a Congress of his own political faith. There are few things as bad as for the Presidency to be held by one party and Congress by another. That usually means deadlock, with neither party trying to do much, and each blaming the other because great things are not done. The Republican party will be responsible for the government after March 4, next, and may be held accountable by the country for what takes place.—Louisville Evening Post.

A Washington Dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer dated Nov. 5, says:

A Democratic winner in last Tuesday's election showed up in Washington today. He was Representative Arthur B. Rouse, of the Covington, Ky., district. He announced that as a member of the House Postoffice Committee he will reintroduce legislation at the coming session to pay a bonus of $200 a year to postal employees. Rouse was accompanied here by John M. Leasing, of Burlington. They returned home late today.

That a number of breweries, including two of the larger plants in Cincinnati, will close down and go out of business because of the reported ratification of the Crabbie prohibition enforcement act at the referendum last Tuesday, was a report current yesterday.

The ratification of the Crabbie act, it is contended, removes the last hope for permission to manufacture and sell 3% percent beer. It has been pointed out that Congress might not change the Federal prohibition act as to permit the sale of light wines and beer, but with the Crabbie act in force such action would be without effect in Ohio.

GET MORE BUTTER

Mrs. Hattie Meece of Gleen, Missouri, says: "I was not making enough butter from my cow's milk production for a family of two. After using Dr. LeGar's Stock Powders a short time, she gave a half gallon more milk a day, and a pound of butter a day."

Dr. LeGar's Stock Powders give to milk cows just what it is needed to keep the digestive organs in proper condition, so that they get the most possible good from their feed. Give equally wonderful results when used for horses, dogs and sheep, because they are a tonic, appetizer and worm expeller.

It matters not what ailment you may have among your stock or poultry, it will pay you to get the proper Dr. LeGar Remedy from your dealer. They are the Doctor's personal prescriptions, compounded during his 22 years of Veterinary Practice and Expert Poultry Breeding. They must satisfy you, or your dealer will refund your money.

FOOLISH AND SCURRILOUS.

Louisville Times.

The following brief editorial appeared in "The New York World on election day:

Gently but firmly we must refuse to permit the esteemed Herald to leave on the doorstep of the Democratic party the responsibility for the scurrilous story about Senator Harding's ancestry.
That particular yarn is of un-
Republican origin and of un-Republican ancestry.

It first came into politics, we believe, in 1908, when some of the Foraker managers in Ohio were engaged in making political responses against Mr. Harding, then a State Senator, for his desertion of the Foraker candidacy and his alliance with Charles P. Taft. It was revived in this campaign at the Republican national convention at Chicago, where it was circulated by supporters of a rival candidate for the nomination.

Now that Senator Harding has been made the victim of a whispering campaign of slander quite as degraded as that which was directed against President Wilson, it may interest the Herald to know that in both cases the vilifications were the spawn of Republican politics.

The narrative is interesting, and the facts are unquestionably as the World gives them. This foolish and scurrilous story, so far as this year of 1918 is concerned, unquestionably did make its first appearance at the Republican convention at Chicago, altho, then, in the Presidential contest, few people paid any attention to it. As the World says, it ranks with the mendacious gossip concerning President Wilson in 1912, and it had no more effect on the election than did the scurrilous libel of 1912.

This character of reports are too freely indulged in within the parties and given to the opposition to be used afterwards.

All-Fired Mean Trick.

An editor down in Georgia, in charge of a column of righteous indignation, denounces a pious citizen who he alleges sought to rob him of his hard-earned board money, which was hidden in a drawer in his desk.
The editor is a bachelor, and from time to time hides away a trifle of his weekly income to pay his hotel bill. Some of his barbed wire sentiments relative to the incident are: "Now to steal at all is a crime, but to steal from an editor is the height of human degeneracy. To hold up a banker or a plumber or some other sort of plutocrat is excu-sable under certain circumstances.
The person who will deliberately attempt to separate an editor from real money is a brute, with a soul no larger than could be increased in the appendix of an especially diminutive mosquito. A little lying and slandering we can stand, but even if the smallest sum of money is stolen from us we are broke."

The beautiful should exist in the school life of the child. The school building and the grounds should portray the artistic and beautiful. Those things which adorn the tasteful home should embellish the school property—the lawn, terrace walks, trees and flowers. Within should be neatness and refinement. A neglected school house is a terrible demor-alizer. Place a child at a mutilated desk, put in his hands torn and soiled books and we find an almost irresistible temptation to continue the destruction with a knife and pencil. Place the same child in a neat, clean room with suitable and beautiful furniture and we immediately remove the temptation for destruction.

Mr. Lewis Weaver, a well-known citizen, aged 73 years, died Monday morning, of Bright's disease, at the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Belle Weaver, after having been confined to his bed for seven weeks. Deceased had been for many years pumper at the survived by his grand daughter, Mrs. Effie Underwood.

The relatives and friends of S. P.
Tilley regret to hear that he is seriously sick at his home in Clearwater, Florida. Mr. Tilley and wife spent part of the summer in

morning, having been advised by telegram that Mr. Tilley was gradu-

The county clerk reports that he has not issued as many hunting license as he had this time licenses and do not wait until the last minute, the cost is just the same.

A recent postal ruling makes it possible to ship packages sealed, by parcel post, prepaid, at the fourth-class rate. This is a great advantage in the present uncertain condition of freight and express shipments.

The local lodge of Masons has in charge of the funeral services which were held at the residence,
Rev. F. W. Eberhart officiating.
The burial was at Georgetown cemetery—Georgetown Times.

Mr. Weaver was a son of the late Ephraim Weaver, and a half brother of Joseph Weaver, of Union neighborhood. His many friends in this county are sorry to hear of his death.

nham at Golden Pond, Trigg county, for several weeks, returned

A Royal Thanksgiving Feast

R. Ray Baker

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Ralph Slocum was a determined, resourceful young woman, she was stumped. It seemed that she was destined soon to be a widow, if she had not already reached that stage in life's journey.

Yes, it was a gloomy Thanksgiving day, although the sun was shining blisteringly. Her husband had disappeared, and the chances were 100 to 1 against ever seeing him again.

She sat on the deck of the stannu yacht Crystal and tried to reason a way out of the dilemma—a happy way out. One course would be to hoist anchor and steam away. But that would not be the happy way, because it would leave Ralph in the clutches of the cannibals.

The event that had brought her to distraction occurred the previous afternoon about 4 o'clock. They had just arrived at the island and Ralph had insisted on going ashore.

Margaret realized a sense of foreboding as her husband set off in the little boat with Samson Brown, one of the sailors.

Margaret saw her husband land and help Samson draw the boat where the waves could not touch it; then they both disappeared into the forest. She sat on the deck and watched and waited, still harassed by that feeling of foreboding.

The sun was a half circle on the horizon when she saw Samson stagger out from among the trees and push the small boat into the water, leaping in. This action seemed to take the last ounce of strength, for he sank to the bottom of the skiff and lay there apparently helpless.

That was sufficient excuse for Margaret to sound an alarm that brought the crew of the Crystal stumbling and tumbling to the deck, where they at once comprehended the situation and set out in another boat to rescue Samson, whose craft was being tossed back on shore.

"What's happening? Where's Ralph?" breathed Margaret, as Samson was carried on deck, but he answered simply with a glassy stare and was taken to his bunk. He rolled his eyes queerly and opened and shut his hands repeatedly. Presently he seemed to get a grip on himself and managed to articulate:

"Cannibals got him."

While Margaret steadied herself against the wall, growing deathly pale, he went on, talking laboriously:

"We spent some time getting our bearings before he sent me to find a spring of water, while he went in a different direction to dig some relic your father left two years ago. I found water and was starting after him on the dim path he had taken when I heard unearthly screaming from the direction he had taken. I hurried and soon arrived at the scene of trouble. About fifty black men were dancing round him, shouting and stinging, and he was tied to tree with thongs. I knew I couldn't fight whole gang, so hid behind another tree and watched for opportunity to cut him loose. It didn't come, for they took him on into woods. I was scared almost to death and didn't know what to do, but thought it best to return to yacht and get help. Hope you don't think I did wrong."

Samson sank back in the bunk, sighed heavily and closed his eyes. All night he was delirious, and Margaret's condition was not much better. She realized the unfeasibility of sending the men ashore to fight the cannibals, especially at night, but was determined that some action be taken in the morning. When morning came, however, the crew refused to go—although Joe Laren, the cook, who said he'd be willing to wade a river of blood to help Ralph.

Four out of five men and one woman among the crew of cannibals did not seem practical, so she sat on deck and thought, and thought.

"Perhaps Samson went crazy and dreamed it," she told herself. "Maybe Ralph will turn up all right. He's the most resourceful person in the world."

But the inactivity drove her nearly to distraction. Finally she told Joe to get ready and row her ashore. The others protested, saying she was taking her life in her hands. But she was determined.

"All right, ma'am," one of them said. "It's up to you. We'd be glad to go along and help, only the odds are too heavy."

Joe rowed her ashore and they followed a faint path into the woods. The underbrush was not so dense as it appeared from the deck of the yacht, and they made fair progress, presently arriving at a clearing. Here they paused, for the ground showed signs of a struggle, with numerous prints from bare feet.

She was kneeling to examine these prints, when Joe suddenly cried:

"Look out!"

The next instant she and Joe were the center of a howling, cavoring vor-ous of black humanity. Their arms and feet were tied and they were carried into the forest.

Swung across the shoulders of a black man, Margaret gave herself up for lost; but she didn't care much. "If Ralph's dead I don't want to live," she told herself, and hoped it would soon be over with. The only thing that made her shudder now was the thought of being served at the king's Thanksgiving feast.

After being carried about two miles through the jungle, the party emerged in an immense clearing dotted with bamboo huts, with an exceptionally large one in the center. The prisoners were placed in a hut on the outskirts and guards with spears stationed at the doors.

Presently the black man who had been the leader of the captors appeared, cut the thongs from their feet and surprised the prisoners with these words of English:

"Now me take you to king."

In a short time they were ushered into the largest of the huts, in which was a ruler of the captives, about which were grouped several natives in fantastic costume, made of skins and feathers.

The king appeared through the door, walking with a Broadway stride. He mounted the throne with a majestic mien and surveyed the captives, about which were grouped several natives in fantastic costume, made of skins and feathers.

He stepped back down from the throne and looked up at him, wondering.

He was clad like the natives, only his attire was more fantastic and picturesque.

"It means," he said, simply, "that I pulled a few stunts in magic that showed the king up and he lost his job—and I am now ruler of Kondo Island. I had to either be a king or be eaten by one, and it didn't take one long to decide. I'm about to resign, though, as soon as we have our Thanksgiving feast."

The moon feast was first proclaimed a thanksgiving festival in 1908 at Wuchang, where the large church was filled with a well-ordered crowd of Chinese, celebrating for the first time the newly appointed thanksgiving day.

The sacred building was beautifully adorned with offerings of staple articles of Chinese diet, like beans, rice, millet and other grains, not to speak of pomegranates, pears, apples, wine, salt and flour.

Wuchang is a great city of nearly a million inhabitants, situated far up the Yangtze-Kiang, in the heart of China. Its central position, among the teeming myriads of heathen Chinese, renders it a good point for the spread of helpful and uplifting ideas and truths, and in view of the readiness of the Chinese at home to adopt the best things presented to them for their own good, it is expected that the old moon feast will be gradually adopted, in its newly baptized form, as the national thanksgiving day among the 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 of Chinese at present under the influence of Christianity, and in this way also gradually become the national thanksgiving day among the votaries of Buddhism, Confucianism, and Taoism, in the course of their emancipation from the grosser features of these time-honored religions.

The Glad Old Days.

Ah, for the age of Colonial holiday, Oh, for the time when Thanksgiving was young! Don't yet pine for the old way and jolly way. Tinkle of tankard and spurring of bung! Didn't the welkin resound with a bonny gay. Didn't the freight vanquish the snow?

The Center of a Howling Vortex of Black Humanity. Thanksgiving dinner—and a royal one it is, it's in the next but!

She grimaced.

"Cannibal stew?" she inquired.

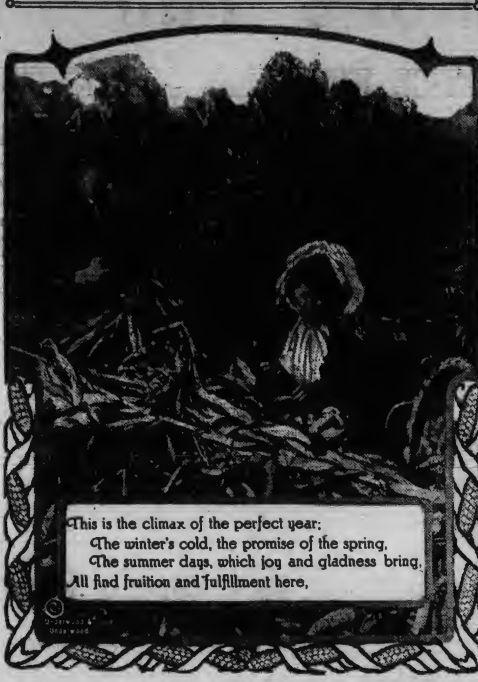

"No, wild turkey. I ordered them prepared when messengers brought word that a white woman and man had been captured. Come to the royal feast—you and Joe—and we'll discuss a way of disposing this kingdom."

The Bigger Half of Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving is the bigger half of Thanksgiving. If the face shines and the voice has a cheery ring, and little acts of helpfulness and kindness are as natural as breathing, a song of praise is continually rising to the Father in heaven. Words of gratitude mean very little if the life and the lips are not in accord.

Harvest Time

This is the climax of the perfect year:
The winter's cold, the promise of the spring,
The summer days, which joy and gladness bring,
All find fruition and fulfillment here.

CHINESE HAVE DAY OF THANKS

The moon feast is one of the most popular and widely spread of all the Chinese pagan festivals. It has many of the characteristics of the ancient moon-worship ceremonies of Syria and Phoenicia, and it comes as near to being a thanksgiving festival as any heathen feast could ever expect to be, celebrating the ingathering of the harvest. To the masses of the Chinese, however, there appears to be but a faint idea of genuine thanksgiving connected with this moon feast. It is simply the remnant of an ancient institution, coming down from the remotest antiquity as a meaningless act of nature worship. It is possible that in the beginning, among the early Chinese people, the moon festival may have been less pagan and more characterized by feelings of thankful rejoicing than it is at present. However, that may be, no wiser choice could have been made by the missionaries in China toward establishing a genuine national thanksgiving feast than the selection of the day of the popular moon feast.

The moon feast was first proclaimed a thanksgiving festival in 1908 at Wuchang, where the large church was filled with a well-ordered crowd of Chinese, celebrating for the first time the newly appointed thanksgiving day. The sacred building was beautifully adorned with offerings of staple articles of Chinese diet, like beans, rice, millet and other grains, not to speak of pomegranates, pears, apples, wine, salt and flour.

WEALTH WAITS THE GARNERING

To every man there will come his daily bread in answer to his daily prayer, though it come from the mill-lug of wheat or be the salmon caught at the falls of the Spokane, without let or hindrance from any power of earth. If there is food in plenty in one region, as by the fall of an avalanche down a mountain, it is certainly seek consumption in another region. And this the American boy and girl owe to the good Providence and to the brave men who made this country one and have kept it one.

It is too much the blindness of our time to speak as if such a simple business as daily food came to us as a matter of course. There is, indeed, a careless habit in which Americans often speak.

Fourth of July orators and street-corner braggarts alike talk of the natural products of this country almost in the tone of the emigrants who expect to pick up a dollar upon the sidewalk. One is tempted to ask such braggarts why the country did not produce such wealth 100 years or 200 years ago.

Why was Dakota then a desert? Why were the hills of Alabama only a hiding place for a few thousand Creek Indians? Why did they not forge the iron under their feet? Why did not the Ironclads in western New York pick from their trees the potatoes and the pears such as have been growing there this autumn?

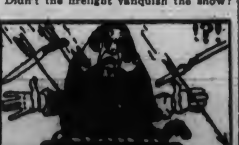

The answer is this: All the wealth of America comes to her from the work of her men and women. The victory which yields it is their victory. It is the victory of spirit conquering matter. It comes in the daily miracle of daily life, where children of God, led by God, taught by God, alive in his life and fellow workers with him, carry out his designs and subdue the earth.

It is neither sensible nor grateful to speak of teeming granaries, of increasing trade, of new mines, of oil, of iron or of gas as if these things were wealth in themselves.

They are only wealth when man strikes the rock and its waters flow. And this man must be not the savage man who cares only for his own personal appetite. It must be man, the child of God, seeking a future better than today, determined to bring in a soldier age than that which he lives in.—Edward Everett Hale.

The Glad Old Days.

Ah, for the age of Colonial holiday, Oh, for the time when Thanksgiving was young! Don't yet pine for the old way and jolly way. Tinkle of tankard and spurring of bung! Didn't the welkin resound with a bonny gay. Didn't the freight vanquish the snow?

Don't you feel sore for the bright days of yore? Rejoice for the truth must alight a NO. Those, to be sure, were the days of festivity. Days when they dared to put brandy in their hats, however, was but one activity. Wolves were at door and the Indians' friends.

Somewhat the time didn't make for longevity. Thanksgiving dinner went off with a whoop. For as the carved bird a commotion was heard, And showers of arrows came down in the soup.

Those were the times when they hadn't runabout. Rolling them swiftly from theater to club. More were six, and there wasn't much fun about. Dodging the bear cat while hunting for grub. A murderous blunderbuss, weighing a ton about. Went with them always on purpose to stay.

Each triquetra with manners ananym—In short, we prefer to be thankful today.

Share Your Blessings. That is not true gratitude which does not seek to share its gifts with others.

"Blessings in the Lord always," says the Bible. Thanksgiving is a good day to begin this habit.

ARMISTICE DAY WAS OBSERVED

Large Crow Attends Ceremonies as Tribute to Soldier, Sailor and Marine Dead.

Address Delivered by Rev. J. F. Herget, of Cincinnati.

Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1920, will long be remembered by those who attended the exercises conducted by Boone Post No. 4, American Legion. The day was just a little cool for the outdoor exercises, but all present seemed to enjoy the program. Hon. Ed. O'Hara, who was on the program for an address, but on account of sickness, was unable to be present. One hundred and fifty of the soldiers were in uniform and formed in parade at the High School campus and marched, preceded by automobiles containing veterans of the Civil War, to the center of town, where a platform had been erected and an address was delivered by Rev. John Herget, who was a chaplain in the army, and is now pastor of the Ninth Street Baptist church in Cincinnati. Rev. Herget stated that when war was declared on Germany he at once enlisted in the National Guard, as he was beyond the age limit to join the regular army, and when the National Guard was taken into the army he went with them, and his organization was one of the first to go to the front. Dr. Herget told his church that he had enlisted and that they could either accept his resignation or grant him an indefinite leave of absence, to continue during the war, that it made no difference to him what they did. His church granted the leave and paid his salary during all the time he was on foreign lands serving his country. Although Dr. Herget's address was delivered in the open, with a cold wind blowing, he held the attention of the assembly address that he delivered.

Thursday, Nov. 11, brought Armistice Day, with all it meant to the American people. It marked the cessation of the greatest conflict of times, a respite from the carnage, bloodshed and horrors of war. And it will serve to keep fresh in the minds and hearts of the people the noble deeds and heroic sacrifices of the nation's young manhood, all of whom gave much, and many their lives in their country's cause.

The local post must be commended for obtaining a speaker of the ability of Dr. Herget, who is one of the best pulpits orators in this part of the country. At least fifteen hundred people from all parts of the county attended the services. Commander L. T. Utz, has charge of the exercises and is to be commended for the way in which he arranged the program.

The memorial tablet was presented to the Local Post by Mrs. Bernard C. Gieseler and on behalf of the Red Cross and was accepted for the post by Wilford Mitchell, of Florence, Chaplain of Boone Post. The Tablet had been in the back room of the front door of court house hall where it will remain for all time. The Ludlow Military Band furnished music for the occasion, which was enjoyed by all present.

The names of veterans together with their respective ages that were present follows: Elijah Parker, 80. D. H. Brown, 76. Milton Beamon, 81. Add Robbins, 82. T. C. Adams, 67. J. E. H. Brown, 76. W. T. Evans, 80. G. G. Hughes, 77. Moses Scott, 76. Geo. Smith, 77. L. L. Stephens, 76. R. A. Brady, 79. Elijah Hodges, 81. James Ogden, 79. W. W. Grimsley, an old Confederate soldier, was not present, but knew that it was impossible or he would have been on hand.

The tablet contains the following inscription: Erected in grateful memory of the men of Boone County, who died in the World War, 1914-1918, that others might live.

Frank J. Bell. Benjamin C. Cason. Benjamin C. Cook. Thomas E. Coyle. Charles E. Farrell. Thomas J. Harrison. Samuel Holt. William Jackson. Pearl Kite. Jacob B. Morris. Harvey B. Rusche. Joseph Smith. William Snow. Allen Blaylock. Charles Walters.

NOTES. Every person met in the county was represented.

Only 16 out of the 34 old vets in the county were able to be present.

It has been many years since the old town had such a large crowd.

Among those who composed the band were four former Boone county boys.

The music made by the Ludlow military band was highly complimentary to the crowd.

350 automobiles were parked on the streets of Burlington during Armistice Day exercises.

Elijah Parker was the only old soldier present in uniform. He wore the Confederate gray.

Many residences along the line of march were decorated with flags floating from the windows.

All automobiles were kept about 300 feet from the speakers stand.

The boys in uniform were given quite an ovation by the crowd along the streets as they marched.

A number of our citizens decorated their residences and business houses with flags and bunting.

Many relatives of the boys who made the supreme sacrifice were among the large crowd in attendance.

The merchants were all kept busy Armistice Day, and most of them had on an extra force of clerks.

The combined ages of the old veterans present is 1259 years, making an average of 78 1/2 years to the person.

The speakers stand in the court house yard was tastefully decorated with bunting, the United States flag and the Post colors.

The color bears and guards represented all branches of the service. The color bearers were: The County Red Cross nurse, Miss Meiner, who served overseas, marched in the parade as a representative of the Nurse Corps.

When the national anthem was played it was noticed that quite a number of men did not remove their hats. When this anthem is played all men present must not fail to remove their hats.

Reminiscences of the Civil War were arranged by the old veterans, who gathered in the court house to participate in the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the memorial tablet.

On account of illness Hon. C. E. O'Hara, of Williamstown, was unable to appear for his part on the program, which was regretted greatly, as Mr. O'Hara is one of Kentucky's most gifted orators.

Bareheaded and facing a cold breeze from the northwest, Dr. Herget spoke for more than an hour and at the conclusion of his address his voice was apparently, in as good trim as when he began.

Some thought that Dr. Herget should have spoken in the circuit court room, but that would not have done, as the court room is a fourth of the crowd would have been able to hear his magnificent address.

The Recorder suggests to the people that they preserve and take good care of their uniforms as there will be many occasions in the future on which it will be an honor for them to appear clad in khaki.

In true army style, the speakers stand and decorations were removed from the court house yard and everything set to rights in a very short time after the program had been completed by the soldier boys.

The Legion boys are justly proud of the neat tablet erected in commemoration of those who made the supreme sacrifice for the cause of democracy. The tablet is in honor to the Red Cross, the organization which presented it to Boone Post No. 4.

W. T. Slott, of Petersburg, was present and he had with him an old Confederate coat worn by his uncle, F. M. Carson, who was a First Lieutenant in Capt. Terrill's Co. In the pocket of the coat is a part of a twist of tobacco that his uncle had left in the coat when he received it in 1864.

One of the features of the parade and one that attracted considerable attention, was Wesley Underhill, carrying his old rifle and bayonet, blue overcoat, revolver and tin canteen. These old pieces are in excellent condition—being as clean and as the day they were delivered to him.

MANY THANKS.

American Legion, Boone Post wishes to express to the citizens of Boone county their appreciation for the loyal support and cooperation in making our Armistice Day program a success.

We also desire to express our thanks to the citizens of the town of Burlington, for their help in the arrangements and decorations for the Armistice Day exercises of the Legion. We are indebted for their suggestions and help in the arrangements.

We regret the fact that our program was late in beginning, which was due to the failure of the one speaker to attend and band arriving late, the Legion having the parade formed at least forty minutes before the arrival of the band.

We were especially glad to be honored with the presence of nearly all of the veterans of the Civil War. Their presence added much to the occasion and we hope to have them with us at all of our public programs.

We wish to remind the public that they are to remove their hats when the National and Post flags are passing. This was not done Thursday, but we attribute this to the cold weather, which was due to the failure of the one speaker to attend and band arriving late, the Legion having the parade formed at least forty minutes before the arrival of the band.

The large attendance exceeded our expectations and we feel more than repaid for the expense of the day. We invite you to any of our future patriotic exercises and may it be in the same loyal spirit that you attended and help make Armistice Day the largest gathering of patriotic citizens ever held in Boone county.

L. T. UTZ. Commander Boone Post American Legion Department of Ky.

13,983 is Ronse's Plurality

Congressman Arthur B. Rouse was returned to Congress by a very handsome plurality—13,983. This is at least double the usual major league vote in this district. He was defeated in the primary by a vote of 6,000 mark in years past, and the fact of there being but twice as many voters this year brought the expected increase in majority. This shows that Mr. Rouse has not lost any of his popularity in this district, for the number of voters who voted for him this year was more than double the number who voted for him in the primary.

Thomas Walton and wife were given a surprise shower last Wednesday night. The shower was given by the friends of the couple. Mr. Walton and wife knew nothing of the party until the guests arrived in a body bringing with them gifts, refreshments and were served by Mesdames Gully and Pettit and all departed wishing Mr. Walton and wife a long, happy and prosperous life.

New State Guardsmen.

A number of new units of National Guardsmen will be organized in Kentucky. It has been announced, following a conference among officers of the Fifth Military Corps Area, composed of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia at Fort Banham in Harrison, Adj. Gen. Jackson Morris and Maj. Thomas W. Woodyard from this State attended. Plans to organize two divisions of National Guardsmen in the State were made. Kentucky's quota of 3,900 men—300 for each Congressman and Senator—will be divided among several branches of service. It was stated, and the exact organization will be announced when the plans made at the conference have been approved by the War Department at Washington.

ATTEND SCHOOL.

No parent desires his children to grow up in ignorance, yet many of them act as though they did not care for their children to work away from home each night to attend some attraction and go to school each morning with lessons properly prepared or with the proper feeling for good solid study. And yet we know mothers in this county who bundle their children up at least three nights a week to stay out until late at night. Those parents who fail to see that their children study at night are responsible for the present lack of school sentiment. The teacher who is always ready to take advantage of every half day away from the school room during the term will make but little success as a teacher. Time should be spent in visiting the parents and in studying their conditions and in getting them interested in the proper school work.

Those children who miss a few days from school should be drilled in all the past lessons and in fact every very shoddy hand review of the work so that the lessons past are known. Tropical outlines of all lessons will help each one review period and those children who are thoroughly taught and made familiar with all work gone over will be found to take a greater interest in school, and will attend more regularly. To take proper reviews takes industry and study on the part of the teacher, many of whom do not care to review the work properly and are largely the cause of the non-attendance.

The Morning Cometh.

The second anniversary of Armistice Day is notable because political parties have with the Peace of Versailles, and we may now look for ratification, peace and an international agreement against war. Today last year was a national campaign regularly for affirmative action could come. Happily that period has ended. The League has served its political purpose.

It is conceded that a new League or "association" was merely a preposterous campaign device. In the Republican party, as in the nation, there is over-whelming agreement with Elihu Root who cabled to Marion during the early autumn that agreement must come on a modification of the existing League. Reports from various parts of the county indicate that there will be possibly more game to hunt this winter than there was last year.

This increase is noticeable chiefly in the number of rabbits, for which there seems to be a big crop this fall. As to birds, so much cannot be said. Not many coveys of birds have been reported this fall, and it looks like the scarcity of quail, which has been so marked for the past five years, will still be a part of the hunting season.

The applications for license to hunt this year at the county clerk's office have been less than usual.

Waste No Straw.

Now is a good time to look at your straw stack. Turn up the stack by raking down the sides and properly topping so as to shed the fall rains. By spending a day on your straw stacks now you will save many a ton of straw which can be used in replacing considerably expensive hay next winter.

In some States most of the corn is cut, shocked, and husked out by hand later in the season. Why not let a shredder do the husking and have left the greater part of which will be relished by the cattle? The shredded fodder, which is refused by the cattle, makes one of the very best bedding materials.

Corn fodder, while it is good roughage, is not an economical one. There is a very large waste in handling. A large percentage of the leaves are lost, and the corn itself is about all the cattle get from the entire corn plant. Run your fodder through a shredder, feed the ear corn separately, and the greater part of the corn plant will be utilized. Corn fodder, however, can be put to advantage at the beginning of the feeding period in the fall or early winter. Range cattle that have never seen corn will eat grain of any kind can be put on feed more rapidly by starting on green or cured corn fodder. This kind of cattle will begin nibbling at the leaves and gradually get to eating the corn. On the other hand if ear corn was placed before them it would be days before they would begin to eat it.

The use of legume hays, where grown on the farm, will obviate the use of high priced protein concentrates. Legume hay, however, is high priced and should be fed in such a way as to avoid any waste.

Corn stalks in the field, after the corn has been removed, should be utilized by turning a sufficient number of cattle on them to clean them up completely before severe winter and snows come.

LIQUOR SEIZED.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—In the first of a projected series of city wide night raids, Federal prohibition authorities last night and early this morning descended on five saloons and one still. They captured nearly $25,000 worth of liquor.

The still belonged to Jos. Fargo, who with four employees were arrested. There were four stills with a total capacity of 120 gallons a day, 230 gallons of the finished product, large quantities of mash, and four oil stoves. It was believed by the raiders to be the fountain head of much of Chicago's moonshine.

In the saloon of Joe Rush, the Federal officers secured five cases of beer, a gallon of moonshine, and evidence of the sale of the same. At other saloons empty whiskey bottles, evidence, and secret compartments containing moonshine were found.

One raid was made where forty customers were assembled. "We should worry," one said, "Judge Landins will soon be in the baseball business and we won't have to worry about him."

Sow Rye in Garden.

Lexington, Ky. — Every year many farmers store vegetables in the ground. A new method of handling this is to take an ordinary barrel, lay it down on its side, leave one end open. This barrel can be covered with alternating layers of straw and dirt so as to prevent the vegetables from freezing. The barrel can then be filled with vegetables and all the dirt and straw will be kept away from them through the season. Another point in favor of this barrel system is that several different kinds of vegetables can be placed in the same barrel. After the barrel has been filled the head, which should be in one piece, is properly fastened and the barrel covered with dirt. When it becomes necessary to open this pit, remove the dirt from the head and take out what vegetables are needed. Place the head back in position and put the dirt back in place. The vegetables will keep well in this manner and they will be free from dirt and also it is not necessary to destroy the entire pit in order to remove part of the vegetables.

Klopp-Shank Wedding.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized last Wednesday, Nov. 10th, at 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Evans, corner Pleasant and Greenup, Covington, Ky., when their niece Miss Beatrice Klopp, and Mr. Paul Shank, both of Brookville, Ind., were united in marriage by the Rev. R. H. Carter, of Petersburg, Ky.

The wedding march was rendered by Mrs. W. T. Berkshire, of Petersburg, Ky. The bride never looked prettier than in her gown of white georgette over silk, with veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids Misses Miriam Klopp and Galitha Evans, looked very pretty in their dresses of blue and yellow georgette, with bouquets of pink roses.

The groom was attended by Messrs. William White and Carson O'Brien. A reception followed the ceremony.

Only the immediate relatives and few friends were present. The bride and groom departed the following day for Des Moines, Iowa.

Rev. Miles Smith, son of Henry Smith, of Boone county, has been called to a pastoral call by a large New York Baptist congregation. The salary paid by the congregation annually runs away up into the thousands.

Mrs. J. A. Riddell Dead.

Virginia Frances Riddell, wife of James A. Riddell, died at their home in Hebron neighborhood at 3:30 p. m., on the 9th inst. She was born November 13th, 1845, and was a daughter of John Henry Smith, and lacked four days of being 75 years old at the time of her death.

She was united in marriage to James A. Riddell on Dec. 23d, 1864, and their long married life was most congenial. To them twelve children were born, two of them dying in infancy. The husband and ten children survive, the children being Marcellus, of Burlington; William T., of Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. Elmer Beall, of Hamilton, Ohio; Mrs. E. J. Aylor, Mrs. Corey Uts, C. B. Walter, and Emmett, of this county, and J. N. and Lewis Riddell, of Ludlow.

Her illness was protracted but she bore her suffering with a christian fortitude and was prepared to answer the call of her Maker, having been a faithful member of the Burlington Baptist church for many years. She was admired and loved by those who knew her and her heart was filled with love and kindness for all, and besides her family she will be missed by a very large circle of friends.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Campbell, assisted by Rev. O. C. Omer, at Hebron Lutheran church last Friday at 2 o'clock p. m., the large auditorium not being capable of accommodating the congregation of friends and neighbors who assembled to pay their last tribute of respect. The discourse delivered by Rev. Campbell was a beautiful tribute to the character of the deceased and full of consolation for the bereaved family and friends. Interment in the family lot in Hebron cemetery.

Card of Thanks.—We desire to extend our heartfelt thanks to all those who were so kind to us during the illness and at the time of the death of our loved one, Mrs. James A. Riddell. We desire to especially thank Revs. Campbell and Omer for their consoling words, the friends who contributed the beautiful floral offerings, and Mr. Bullock, undertaker, for his splendid service.

Before Selecting Your Light Plant, Stop and Think What A Light Plant Is.

A real light plant is only purchased once in a life time, and the SILENT ALAMO are of these plants.

The motor to a light plant is like a horse to a wagon.

Selecting a light plant is a proposition of selecting the right kind of a motor; for the motor has the work to do in lighting your home, running washing machine, pumping your water, running your separator, sweeping your house, running your electric iron, running your electric fan, and can be used for many other purposes.

No oil tanks to care for; no oil can to carry around, no concrete pillars to be made; no vibration—as you see this little ornament sitting here. Touch the button and start the motor and it will take care of itself automatically.

Read this ad carefully, and study it over before selecting your lighting plant.

GET MORE BUTTER.

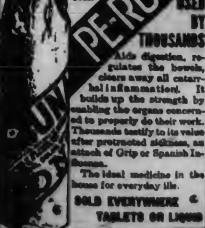

Mrs. Hattie Meece of Gleen, Missouri, says: "I was not making enough butter from my cow's milk production for a family of ten. After using Dr. LeGear's Stock Powders a short time, she gave a half gallon more milk a day, and a pound of butter a day."

Dr. LeGear's Stock Powders give to milk cows just what is needed to keep the digestive organs in proper condition, so that they get the most possible good from their feed. Give equally wonderful results when used for horses, hogs, and sheep, because they are a tonic, appetizer and worm expeller.

It matters not what ailment you may have among your stock or poultry, it will pay you to get the proper Dr. LeGear Remedy from your dealer. Local Happenings.

Robert E. Patrick and family, of Bromley, were visiting relatives in and near Burlington last Sunday.

The fence in front of Senator Tolins' dwelling has been removed, which improves the appearance of his property.

Chas. Helm, an old confederate, of Bullittsville, was unable to attend Armistice Day exercises last Thursday.

Last week Gov. E. P. Morrow appointed Mr. Geo. Penn, of this place, as a delegate to the Farmers' National Congress which met at Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday, the 16th, and will be in session three days.

Mrs. Nannie McAtee was called to her home at Elwood, Indiana, last Friday on account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Ada Coulter, accompanied by her daughter Mrs. McAtee, and will spend a few weeks with her.

Asa Cason, who lives out on the East Bend road, about three miles south of town, fell down a flight of steps and injured himself quite badly last Thursday. His daughter, Mrs. Leslie Goodridge, of Walton, was called to his bedside.

When a man takes his money out of a bank and buries it in the garden, or gives it to a friend to keep in a boot leg for him, it generally turns out that somebody finds the spot in the garden or the friend takes a sudden notion to emigrate. The most absurd thing one can do is to draw money from institutions that are managed by honest men and hide it about the house or trust it to someone else.

Ex-Governor James D. Black has resigned as Chief Probation Inspector of Kentucky. His resignation took effect Nov. 1, but was not announced until confirmation of the appointment by J. Sherman Porter, of Lexington, to succeed him, was received from department officers at Washington. Mr. Black will resume the practice of law at Barbourville. He has been in public service since his inauguration as Lieutenant Gov. under Governor A. O. Stanley in 1916.

Ice harvested from ponds on the farm saves many dollars a year to milk producers and provides the wherewithal for many home comforts. The United States Department of Agriculture, in Farmers' Bulletin 1778, which may be had upon request, tells how to build an ice house in the back-lake fall season and how to store it economically and securely. One and a half tons of ice properly stored will serve to cool the milk from one cow for a year and leave some for family purposes.

Our poor human race has had it hard enough. Man goes forth assaulted all through life. Indeed, the attack begins in infancy and the cradle is bombarded with croup, and scarlet fever, and whooping coughs, and the cradle that survives is in some respects like the ark of bulrushes in which the infant Moses rode forth out among the crocodiles. But because he has survived the infantile diseases, let not man think he is to escape further assault. Pneumonia takes after his lungs, and diphtheria after his throat, and ophthalmia after his eyes, and rheumatism after his muscles, and neuralgia after his nerves, and toothache after his jaws, and deafness after his ears; and all his life a man must be on his guard, or positively in battle against physical ailments.

What Ought To Happen.

The man who can see no good in his fellow man ought to fall off this earth and go to his place. There is no guess about where he ought to be and where he will go when he leaves here. The milk of human kindness has soured in him, his better nature has become perverted, his eyes inverted and his whole moral being being turned awry. He has lost confidence in men, has no real respect for women, looks on God as a tyrant and death as an escape from thrall-dom. He is too cowardly to destroy himself, too object to be honorable, too small intellectually to bother about the weightier problems of life, too contemptible to be noticed and too apt to live out all his days. Such men may be classed the "bad filth of life," calculated to annoy their betters, foment strife, run discord, and bring misery on mankind.

Quail Crop Normal.

Kentucky's colonies of quail, almost depleted in the abnormal winter of 1917-18, have again filled up with the aid of two mild winters and dry springs. Larvae county stands practically alone in reporting a quail shortage, although Jordan reports no increase. John Warba, while Gov. James M. Cox has hunted for several years, said that Gov. Cox wanted to come to Kentucky to hunt this season, but had been advised not to come on account of the shortage. "Our birds have never recovered from the hard winter of 1917-18," Mr. Warba said, "and while there are more birds this year than last there are still too few to make first-class sport."

Extra Session Of Legislature

Although an extra session of the Kentucky Legislature was strongly advocated by Lieut. Gov. S. Thurston Ballard in an authorized interview, in which he declared he wanted laws enacted immediately that would make the Republican administration a "red letter" one, Gov. Edwin E. Morrow has reached no decision in the matter which he is ready to announce at this time. Mr. Ballard believes there should be early tax legislation to take the place of the 50 cents-a-gallon tax on whisky, knocked out by the Court of Appeals, which was said the State highway system.

Mr. Ballard said he intended to have a conference with the Gov. immediately in which he would discuss with him the desire he has for the Governor to do "something for Kentucky." Mr. Ballard will make it plain that a special session of the Legislature to consider funds for building roads should be called.

This fund would be arranged, he said, through a tax on coal and oil, and while he estimates a tax of 10 cents a ton on coal, to net the State about $3,000,000 annually, he has not made up his mind on the amount of the tax to be levied on oil, except that he said "it should be plenty" in view of the high prices charged for oil.

How to Get Winter Eggs

Lexington, Ky.—One of the most important objects in the production of winter eggs is the fowls themselves. You cannot expect eggs from an ill-kept mongrel. Blood will tell the tale. A pure bred chicken will pay if given a half chance on any farm. For winter is always the best among the young chickens and if the farmers have culled their flock and eliminated the early molters and undesirable, those that are left combined with the early hatched spring pullets will make a very satisfactory farm poultry flock for the production of winter eggs.

It is a well established fact that certain kinds of feeds must be fed to poultry if the hens are going to be able to lay eggs. This food should consist of a dry mash, certain amount of grain of various kinds, and some form of protein feed, namely, milk, tankage or commercial meat scraps. When these things are given careful consideration it will usually be found that the farmers will secure a goodly number of eggs in the winter time when the prices are high.

Board Members Appointed.

Washington, November 1.—Re-appointment of Rear Admiral William S. Benson as chairman of the Shipping Board was announced at the White House. At the same time announcement was made of the appointment of six other members of the new board authorized by the merchant marine act.

The other six members are: Frederick I. Thompson, Alabama Democrat, term of five years; Joseph M. Teal, Oregon, Democrat, term of four years; John A. Donald, New York, Democrat, term of three years; Chester H. Rowell, California, Republican, term of two years; Guy D. Goff, Wisconsin, Republican, term of one year; Admiral Benson is appointed from Georgia and his term is for six years. The appointments are recess ones and the nominations under the law are subject to approval by the Senate.

Slackers Will be Rounded Up

Washington—A round-up of Kentucky draft deserters on the most sweeping scale, participated in by Federal, State and county officials, members of the American Legion, representatives of patriotic societies, will take place in the near future. This round-up is being arranged chronologically so that it will take place immediately after the publication of the list of draft deserters by the War Department. This list of names of deserters is now undergoing process of revision, so as to eliminate as many as possible of the names of those who are now incorrectly listed. When it is purged as far as is humanly possible, it will be put out for publication, and simultaneously all police and patriotic agencies will swing into operation to accomplish the arrest of the alleged deserters.

EFFICIENCY OF FARMER VARIES

Some Are Able to Defect and Eliminate the Low-Paying or Losing Enterprises

OTHERS SHOULD MAKE MORE

Information Obtained in Keeping Records is Valuable in Assisting Farmer to Secure a Balanced Business for Next Year.

Farmers, just like other business men, vary widely in the degree of efficiency displayed in running their businesses. Some are able to analyze the farm business and thus to detect and eliminate the low-paying or losing enterprises. Others, lacking the knowledge of how to make a systematic analysis of the business as a whole, know that their profits are not what they ought to be, without knowing how to go about it to increase them. They may be able to find and correct the obvious errors in the small-sized farm business, but in handling a business of considerable size they often fail to spot the enterprises that are losing money for them. Such men may or may not make money, but at best they fall short of making as much as they might. A farmer may be making a large net profit on his potatoes and losing it all by keeping low-producing cows. Similarly a man may be making money on his cows and losing part of the profit on another enterprise. Hence the paramount importance of records to the farmer.

Farm Returns Studied. Careful studies made upon a large number of farms enable the office of farm management of the United States department of agriculture to make some interesting statements in this regard. For instance, they find that only 10 per cent—usually less—of the farms studied are managed so as to secure better-than-average returns from all four factors—size of business, yield of crops, live stock, and labor—while from 20 to 30 per cent of the farms considered have only one factor better than the average. It must be understood that no one of these factors will determine success.

The figures given which relate to the labor income will prove most interesting to farm employers. The analysis has reduced the labor cost of farm work to figures. An acre of hay, on an average farm, costs the labor of one man and one horse for a ten-hour day to cut, cure, and harvest it; oats, wheat, and barley; one and a half days of man labor and three of horse;

GOOD ROADS

INTEREST IN FARM MOTORS

Government Schools Give Special Instruction in Operation of Tractors and Trucks.

The government in calling attention to the increased use of automobiles and motor trucks on the farm, has laid its finger on the one big factor that is going to not only make farming an attractive business proposition, but will increase the number of productive farms and make life on the farm more attractive.

The government schools teach men how to operate farm tractors successfully, thus creating a new business or profession, that of the farm mechanical operating expert—a man who can take hold of the production activities of the farm and through the correct operation of tractors, motor trucks and other motor-driven implements and appliances can double and treble the production and distribution of farm products.

The automobile insures quick individual transportation from one field to another on the farm, or from the farm to the nearest shipping point or city. The motor truck likewise insures economical and dependable transportation of produce and live stock, from farm to shipping point or city. With the tractor insuring equal efficiency in production of farm produce, the farmer of today will be the equal of his city brother in the matter of employing time, labor and cost saving equipment that not only increases production but makes the actual work more attractive and remunerative.

Without a doubt, the farmer of a few years hence will employ motor-driven equipment on nearly the same scale that the manufacturer does in the city, insuring the same benefits, increasing his products and decreasing his farm depreciation.

ROADS TO DEVELOP COUNTRY

OF 2,500,000 Miles of Rural Roads in United States, but 12 Per Cent Has Been Improved.

There are today some 2,500,000 miles of rural roads in the United States. Of this amount perhaps 12 per cent could be classified as improved, while only about one-quarter of 1 per cent can be said to be suitable for the carriage of heavy-duty motor trucks. And in the face of this condition it can be said without contradiction that the future development of the United States rests upon the road.

WHAT POOR ROADS INDICATE

Generally Seen in Dull Neighborhood Where Houses Are Run Down and Everything Dead.

Where one finds bad roads, he generally finds a dull, poor and thinly-settled neighborhood. The farmhouses are generally run down, the vehicles are shabby and everything shows that a dead community prevails, while on the other hand where good roads exist the farmer generally has some pride about himself, and tries to bring his business up to the standard of other conditions.

GOOD ROADS BENEFIT FARM

Bring Markets to Rural Sections and Make Possible Development of Productive Land.

Good roads mean better and more productive farms, bringing markets to remote rural sections. By providing something which makes possible the development of farms we perform a service of incalculable value to the country as a whole.

Boosters, Now Amazed.

Good roads boosters, who a few years ago were puzzled to find some method of arousing public interest in bond issues for road improvements, are amazed at the ease with which appropriations are passed by city and state authorities.

Poor Roads Isolate.

Poor roads mean isolation, which in turn means decreased possibilities for ventilation, fewer opportunities for wealth, lower real estate valuations as well as increased costs of supplies.

POULTRY CACKLES

MAKE SURE EGGS ARE FRESH

Method Generally Employed by Commission Houses for Purpose Is Known as "Candling."

When supplying a fancy trade with eggs, or on receiving eggs from outside sources, it is often desirable to determine their freshness. The method generally used by commission merchants for this purpose is known as "candling," and consists in holding the egg between the eye and a light so as to note the contents. This should be done in a darkened room, using one of the egg testers on the market or simple home-made tester.

The air space in a perfectly fresh egg is very small, and as the egg loses part of its contents by evaporation this air space increases in size with the age of the egg. Fresh eggs should appear clear and bright, showing no dark spots. Those accustomed to "candling" soon learn to detect stale eggs with a good degree of accuracy and rapidly.

Another method employed by some who have not a great number to test is to put the eggs in a basin of water. If good they will lie on their sides; if bad they will stand on the small ends. The older the egg the more upright it stands, and if very old it will be suspended in the water or even float on the surface.

TURKEYS EAT GRASSHOPPERS

Fowls Take Bulk of Their Food From Field Insects, Devouring Millions of Bugs.

Turkeys range far afield and prey upon insect forage that escape hens. From the time the young are old enough to begin foraging for themselves, perhaps early in June, until near frost, turkeys take the bulk of their food from field insects, devouring millions of grasshoppers and other injurious forms in meadow and pasture, says the United States department of agriculture.

In regions where wooded areas are still fairly extensive must is an important item in the diet of the turkey. When the insect stores begin to fall, Turkeys Must Have Free Range to Thrive.

the mast larders are beginning to be filled. Feeding on acorns, chestnuts, beechnuts, and the like, turkeys will go a long way toward fattening themselves for the Thanksgiving or Christmas market and will not require much feeding from corn or other grain to finish them. Generally speaking, turkeys will require a larger feeding of grain than chickens to fit them for market, but, as they utilize forms of waste that hens and their broods would not reach, the keeping of a fair number of turkeys is good economy.

BEST BROILERS FOR MARKET

Squabs Should Weigh When Dressed From Three-Fourths to One Pound Each.

The market demand is for broilers of three sizes: Squab broilers weighing, when dressed, from three-fourths to one pound each; small broilers weighing from one to one and one-fourth pounds each, and large broilers weighing from one and one-half to two pounds each.

At the age of six months the increased weight is slight and the quality poor. As the age of the cockerel increases above 12 weeks the quality decreases materially.

POULTRY NOTES

Mites help to keep cost of eggs high.

There is no room for poor birds on the farm.

Heat is the great enemy of eggs both fertile and infertile.

Of the infectious diseases of turkeys, blackhead is the most destructive.

Mites multiply more rapidly in warm weather, so that war should be made on them now.

Be sure that the early hatched pullets on which you are depending for winter eggs are making steady growth.

When we consider the fact that the cock is the giver of so many birds we may be impressed with the importance of a good male bird.

corn for the silo, three man days and five and a half days for a horse; onions, sold in bunches, require about 38 days of man work to only ten for the horse; dairy cows take 18 days of man time every year and two days of horse time—so on through a list that includes about every item of farm effort. This information is valuable both in securing a balanced business and in assisting the farmer to estimate his labor needs for the coming year. It is contained in a new publication of the department of agriculture, bulletin 1188, "A Method of Analyzing the Farm Business."

Advice of Experts Available.

With the bulletin go blank forms for the purpose of preparing the analysis. Upon these blanks the farmer can inventory his business and then, if he feels unqualified to abide by his own judgment upon the results shown, he may secure the advice of experts by submitting the data gathered to his county agent, or to his state agricultural college, or he may send it directly to the department of agriculture to have the analysis made.

Improve Your Seed Corn.

Lexington, Ky.—Many farmers in the State of Kentucky have selected their seed corn in the field and this is an excellent practice, this corn should receive good care during the following winter if satisfactory results are to be obtained. The selected seed should be dried as soon as possible and placed in a granary or attic where it will not be subjected to the sudden change of temperature during the winter. It is possible to select the corn and leave it in a sack or basket in the barn or crib and have this corn germinate satisfactorily the following spring. However, this does not mean that even if this corn does germinate well that it is going to produce well. It then happens that the seed will be injured by sudden changes of temperature to the extent that it will not grow and produce good stalks capable of bearing two or three ears. This damage to the seed itself may not effect the germination, consequently, if the germination test in run in the spring and high percentage found, the farmer will be inclined to believe his seed corn is in perfect condition. As an example of this various tests have been run and it has been found that wherever the seed corn was placed in a good dry storage it had yielded much better than when left in the crib under ordinary conditions. In one case 400 ears were divided into two equal parts, one part being well cared for and the other placed in the barn. The well cared for seed giving an increased yield of 10% over the seed stored in the barn. This is undoubtedly sufficient increase to warrant the farmer in giving this selected seed corn good care during the following winter.

The spring of 1918 we had a serious shortage of seed corn and the farmers of Kentucky learned to appreciate the value of the germination test. As an offset to prevent the recurrence of this trouble farmers should make sure to select their seed corn early, dry it and place it in a dry storage so that it will come thru the winter in the best possible condition.

"Selling Organization"

Boston, Nov. 1.—The establishment of "nation-wide selling organization which shall fix the price of farm products" if the farmer does not receive "the same pay for the same hours work that others receive," was predicted today by Sherman J. Lowell, of Fredon, N. Y., master of the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, in opening the annual convention of the grange.

"We are willing to have a fair understanding of values the farmers receiving the same pay for the same hours work that others receive, no more, no less," he said. "If no attention is paid to this now by bankers, manufacturers, railroads and labor organizations, and if the Government continues to use its great power to import raw material free of duty to reduce costs, then the grange will be the first to help organize nation-wide selling organizations which shall fix the price of farm products."

Tumulty Tipped For Life Post at $10,000 Yearly.

New York.—According to information emanating from a well-known source, Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, when the time comes for him to relinquish that place, will become Presiding Judge of the U. S. Court of Customs Appeal. Appointments to this post are made by the President and are for life. The salary is $10,000 a year.

This tribunal was created by a special act of Congress in 1909. The court is composed of a presiding Judge and four associate Judges, all five drawing the same salary. The court sits in Washington.

It is the court of highest resort in disputes arising out of customs appraisal dealing exclusively with questions of law involved in the classification and appraisal of goods.

Robert M. Montgomery, who was Presiding Judge of this tribunal, recently died. His place, it was said, is being kept open by the President for Mr. Tumulty.

A wife will insist that the husband shall not go out of the house on cold raw days without two undershirts, a liver pad and muffler on, in addition to his regular clothes. Yet as soon as he is safely down town she will rush out of the hot kitchen bare-headed and bare-armed to hang out clothes so as to get ahead of the woman next door; or she will tramp off down town, and from house to house to work up some society or church enterprise with nothing on her head but a little masquerade of a hat, and shoes not much thicker than a newspaper. Last this so!

Beather Payne, the pastor, will conduct a Thanksgiving service at the local church, beginning at 7:30 a. m., which all are cordially invited to attend.

INHERITANCE TAX

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 18.—An appeal in the suit of the Commonwealth of Kentucky against Harry Burgoine, administrator of the L. V. Harkness estate, involving approximately $7,500,000 in back taxes for the State, will be heard down the first day of the Payette county session in December.
County Judge Frank A. Bullock, announced.
The suit seeks to set aside a judgment rendered in 1916 by which $238,000 in taxes and penalty were collected, and to assess the Harkness estate for the years nineteen hundred and eleven, nineteen hundred and twelve, '13, '14 and '15. In his original petition the plaintiff, T. C.
Coyne, revenue agent for the state at large, alleged the estate was valued at $100,000,000. Defendants in the case, besides Harry Bur-goine, are Hogan L. Yancey, Payette county attorney, and Mayor Thos. C. Bradley, Lexington, who was Sheriff when the compromise settlement was made in 1916.
Arguments were completed yesterday. Judge Alex. F. Humphrey Louisville, one of the attorneys representing the defendants completed his argument just before the noon recess.
No action has been taken in the case since it was filed more than a year ago because of the difficulty in serving summons on beneficiaries of the Harkness estate and other legal barriers.

"INDEPENDENCE BELL" RUNG AT VINCENNES.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 18.—Armistice Day was announced here at sunrise today with the ringing of a small silver bell, one of the old historic relics of the early days of the old Northwest territory, which is said to have been rung first in celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776.
The bell hangs in the tower of the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, which is recorded here as the oldest church in the Northwest territory. It was given to the French missionaries who found the church by friends in their home country.
Two years ago today, the morning of the signing of the armistice ending fighting in the World War, the Rt. Rev. H. Joseph Chartmard, of Indianapolis, was reading a midnight mass, and it was through the ringing of the historic bell that the people of this city were notified that the armistice had been signed.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED

A warrant charging embezzlement of State funds, was taken out for Ray Blackburn, Nashville, Tenn., bookkeeper in the office of the State Board of Charities and Correction at Frankfort. The action followed a meeting of the board here Wednesday.
In a formal statement issued by Edward W. Hines, chairman of the board, it was charged that Blackburn obtained funds, "not exceeding a few hundred dollars," by changing indorsements on checks in the board's offices.
Members of the board stated, however, that the exact amount of alleged embezzlement will not be known until a thorough investigation has been made by Harry E.
James, State Inspector and Examiner.
Blackburn was arrested in Cincinnati and has been returned to Kentucky for trial.

CRISIS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Washington, Nov. 18.—A crisis hunting coat at the home of a friend, and forgot what had become of it. Last Monday the two hunted all day together, the friend wearing the coat. The loss was discussed several times dur-recognized his coat until the friend at the close of the day thanked him for the use of the coat.

PROCLAMATION INVOLVES WORK

It has been customary in recent years for the President of the United States to draft each Thanksgiving proclamation.

After the draft has been O. K'd by the President it is handed to the State department's expert penman, who in his copper-plate chirography writes it upon a large sheet of excellent parchment, which is sent to the President for his signature, and then returned to the State department to be signed by the secretary of state. Next it must be impressed with the great seal of the United States, whose custodian will refuse to place it even upon so important a document unless authorized to do so by a formal warrant signed by the President, for the use of the great seal or the possession of an impression thereof without the Chief Executive's written authority is a grave offense, punishable by law. Indeed, the great seal—which was made by a jeweler at a cost of $10,000 and which is kept locked in a great rosewood case—is the most sacred instrument used by the government.

Having had this hallowed cipher of the republic pressed into it, the new Thanksgiving proclamation is fled away in the State department archives, later to be bound in its chronological order, with other accumulated proclamations.

Uncle Sam takes all of these technical pains merely to retain the handsomely written proclamation as his own souvenir. But before the instrument has been fled away a typewritten copy is sent to the State department's official printer, who has a shop of his own in the basement of our foreign office. His printed copies are given to the newspapers or to anyone who wishes.

Each of the state governors must also be sent an exact copy, but the department's strict code of etiquette demands that these copies must not be printed. They are typewritten and signed by the President's and secretary of state's own hands. Each governor then sends this move of the President in appointing the annual feast day of thanks and prayer, and in their turn, the mayors of cities now generally second the move of their governors. By such indirect means does the prompting of the nation's thanks theoretically reach the people, who actually receive it directly from the President himself through that eliminator of red-tape delays—the daily newspaper. In some localities the bishops receive the proclamation from the governors and hand it down in circular form to the lesser clergy, who read it from their pulpits upon the Sabbath following its issuance. In parts of New England it is still the custom to read the proclamation from the pulpit on two successive Sundays. These infinite pains are taken, despite the fact that there is nothing in the federal statute authorizing a President to set apart such a holy day. But the proclamations make the holiday legal.

Right Thanksgiving Spirit.

We once saw a little card tucked up before the eyes of a busy man. He could see it every time he raised his eyes from his desk. On it he had written: "Get your pleasure out of your work or you will never know what pleasure is." That attitude will help us to get the right Thanksgiving spirit into our hearts. Let's forget that we have pictured happiness in terms of idleness and sloth. It's just the other way. This Thanksgiving day will be a good time to get the new angle of vision—Farmers' Guide.

Carry Thanksgiving Cheer.

Carry a little Thanksgiving cheer into some home less fortunate than your own between now and Thanksgiving. Besides the circle of relatives and intimate friends who are to be your guests on Thanksgiving, invite some lonely girl, too far from home to think of returning to the family festival. Make a happy Thanksgiving for others and you will have a happy Thanksgiving.

BLESSINGS MORE THAN MATERIAL

In other times a Thanksgiving editorial was a motley of statistics and boastfulness. We had grown so many million bushels of grain; our cattle on the thousand hills had increased so many hundredfold; our clearing-house statistics had never been surpassed; our per capita wealth was the greatest in the world; indeed, our thankfulness was lost in the glorification of the gift. We were like the people of whom the Prophet Habakkuk spoke, who "caught much fish, nets and gathered them in their drag, therefore they sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their drag; because by them their portion is fat, and their meat plentiful." Of gratitude to a Giver, of thankful recognition of forces which we did not create, but without whose co-operation we should have been as nothing, there was less than ought to have been.

All this was due, of course, not so much to human ingratitude as to human thoughtlessness. To Thank is to Think. The farther back we think, the farther back we thank. If our thought ceases with our own contribution to our welfare, our thanks cease with ourselves. If our appraisal stops with our material increase, our thanks become material and insensitively change into boasting. We sacrifice unto our great industries and burn incense unto our skill, and there our homage rests.

But in this Thanksgiving day we have such incentive to thought as the world has never seen before, and the blessings which challenge us are such as do not lend themselves to material appraisal. The chief blessings of the day are spiritual; their very names put them a world apart from the things which are quoted on the market or measured in the scales of physical worth. Justice, Righteousness and Peace, these are the exalted values in which we feel our true riches to be, and for these the entire race of men, whether they keep Thanksgiving today or not, are most devoutly thankful—Exchange.

NOVEMBER'S COME.

Hey, you swelled-up turkey feller! Struttin' round so big and proud, Pretty quick I guess you beller. Won't be goin' quite so loud. Say, I'd run and hide, I bet you, And I'd leave off eatin' some. Else the chop-lick 'll get you—Don't you know November's come?

Don't you know that Grandma's makin' Leads of mince and pumpkin pie? Don't you smell those goodie cookin'? Can't you see 'em? Where's your eyes?

Tell that rooster there that's crowin'. Cuts folks now are keepin' mum: They don't show how fat they're growin' When they know November's come.

"Gobbles gobble!" oh, no matter! Pretty quick you'll change your tune; You'll be dead and in a platter. And I'll gobble pretty soon.

"If I was you I'd stop my puffin'." And I'd lose most aural plum—Hope they give you lots of stuffin'! Ain't you glad November's come?

The Court of Appeals of Kentucky has laid down the law of Kentucky in regard to permitting chickens and other fowls trespass on the premises of another. It is the duty of the owner of chickens and other fowls to confine them on their own premises. One who sustains a loss through the trespass of fowls of another, may recoup his loss, even through his premises are wholly uninclosed, because it would be well nigh impossible to fence against such animals as have the power to mount on wings. This is the first time this question has been before the Court of Appeals of Kentucky.

It is suggested that the 40 State Supreme Judges be empowered to choose from among their number five, seven or eleven jurists to serve as supreme industrial judges for life, removable only for cause.

There may be objections, legal and otherwise, to this suggestion. But it seems to be sensible. Something like it must be developed if the nation is to avoid continuance of friction between employers and employees. Could something like this be done, could

Despite the fact that rabbits—due to better protection—are more plentiful this year in the fields than for many years past, the dealers are putting up a cry for a higher price, which virtually will make rabbits a rare delicacy.

Instead of the very common food product they should be. Time within the reach of anybody, even the poorest, and if the dealers seek to profiteer with the tremendous supply of rabbit flesh now in reach the consumer should retaliate by letting the dealers keep their rabbits. The day of being ring-nosed by everybody and the food dealers should be made to recognize the fact. There is no time like the present.

Some one removed from the steering gear on the road roller, the bolts that held it to the frame, and if this had not been discovered by the engineer before he started to move the engine, a very serious accident would have occurred, as there was no way in which he could control the movement of the roller. The engineer, discovering that these bolts had been removed, undoubtedly, piked, vented the roller from near wrecked and the engine was badly killed. The party who had removed these bolts should be severely punished for this act. I good sure.

Frank Walton, of Bellevue, was transacting business at the court house last Monday.

R. S. Cowen was the first in this neighborhood to kill his hogs for his coming year's meat.

L. L. Eddins and family, of Idlewild neighborhood, were guests of Ed. Rice and wife last Sunday.

Hunters are not permitted to shoot quail in Ohio. They have been put on the song bird list.

The first snow of the season was in no hurry about melting and remained on the ground several days.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Shearer, of Newport, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hall.

The first day of December will soon be here when a six per cent penalty will be added to all unpaid taxes.

A. C. Porter entertained with a big dinner last Sunday at which several of his children and grandchildren partook.

Wallace Green, who resides on the Petersburg and Bellevue road near Bellevue, was a business visitor in our town last Monday.

Judging by the small number of people of Boone county who are going to Florida to spend the winter, we are to have a mild winter.

A town never loses anything by extending a royal welcome to every deserving stranger who appears in its midst. Hospitality is a pretty gem but it costs very little.

Delivering 32 cent wool such as was Thursday of last week did not leave a very good taste in the grower's mouth, especially one who had been receiving 60 or 70 cents the last few years.

Cincinnati stock yards were overrun with hogs and cattle about the middle of last week and the farmer who desired cattle to carry through the winter was able to secure them at very reasonable prices.

From the way many of the men from different parts of the county are tipping their hats and smiling at the women, there is going to be a very large field of candidates for county offices at the Democratic primary next August.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Penn and Mrs. W. L. Riddell and Geo. Porter attended the bazaar given by Union Presbyterian Church last Saturday evening. Numerous handsome articles were on sale and found ready purchasers. A very appropriate menu was served.

James N. Perkins, President and cashier of the National Bank, Rising Sun, Ind., his daughter, Mrs. Harry Perkins and daughter, Wm. Burns, wife and son, spent a few hours in Burlington last Sunday, leaving old friends Mr. Perkins cheerily resided in Burlington.

Charles Westbay has accepted the position of boss farmer for Fred Morris on the East Bend road. He has been on the job a week or more and is delighted with the menu with which he is confronted three times a day. Morris & Westbay are a strong team.

Geo. Raines, 75, of Bellevue neighborhood, was committed to the Central States Hospital at Lakeland, last Monday. George (Dumpy) Raines has been a resident of Bellevue neighborhood for a number of years and has been gradually losing his mental faculties.

Last week four banks in Kentucky were robbed. This is the time of year that the bank burglar does his work. The nights are long and people are not moving about as much as they do in warmer weather, which gives the burglar an opportunity to work without being discovered. Keep a look out for strange and suspicious characters in your neighborhood.

Theodore Carpenter, who lives about one mile north of Richmond on the Dixie Highway, has a sale of his entire herd of grade Holstein cattle advertised in this issue. Mr. Carpenter will devote his entire time to breeding pure bred registered Holstein cattle. He has one of the best equipped dairy farms in the county. If you want good Holstein cattle, do not

Christmas Circus

Crepé paper offers any number of good opportunities for making Christmas gifts, especially for the children. Printed figures of wild, or of domestic animals, are cut out to make messengers or familiar barnyard friends, that delight the youngsters. The pictures are pasted over stiff cardboard and then cut out, following the outline of the animal, but leaving a straight piece to provide a support.

Anna Kendall Utz.

The remains of Mrs. Anna Kendall Utz, 76 years, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. S. Stevens, of Mt. Joy, Ohio, were interred in the Geo. E. McGlasson lot in the cemetery east of town last Thursday. She was the widow of Calvin O. Utz, who has been dead many years and a daughter of John Kendall and wife, and was born and reared where Leslie McMullen resides one mile south of Burlington. She had to recall the many pleasant hours spent in the delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. Kendall and now mourn the departure of the splendid old lady. Mrs. Utz had been a sufferer of hardening of the arteries for some time and had gone to visit her daughter, Mrs. Stevens, when the disease took a sudden turn for the worst and she survived only a short time. The body was brought to the home of her son-in-law, Geo. E. McGlasson, of Burlingtonville neighborhood, with whom she resided from where it was buried. Mrs. Utz is survived by the following children: Mrs. Stephens of Mt. Joy, Ohio; Mrs. Gary, of Detroit, Michigan; and Misses Clara and Nellie Utz, besides a large number of grandchildren; among them Lieutenant Archibald McGlasson, of the U. S. Navy, and now stationed at Philadelphia. The wealth of floral offerings that conceal the grave and good portion of the burial lot are a beautiful testimonial to the esteem in which Mrs. Utz was held.

Reversing the Boone Circuit Court in the case of Jane A. Craven's Committee against S. W. Tolin, the Appellate court reduced the amount of fee allowed to Tolin for having served as Mrs. Craven's guardian ad litem from $1,000 to $600, a commission of 5 per cent on the $12,000 said to have been saved by the efforts of the guardian.

M. Sabel & Sons, Louisville, Ky., received the pooled wool in Burlington last Wednesday. About 15,000 pounds of wool was graded and nearly $5,000 was paid the farmers. The wool netted the producer 32 cents per pound. This was the first time that the farmers delivered their wool when the ground was covered with three inches of snow.

C. C. Hughes is the only Republican of Burlington who attended Senator-elect Richard P. Ernst's big barbecue last Saturday afternoon in Covington. It is said Mr. Hughes has cast his anchor to the windward, and, in all probability he will be Burlington's next Postmaster.

Lexington, Ky.—Ray Blackburn, former bookkeeper for the State Board of Charities and Corrections at Frankfort, was arrested last week in Cincinnati, was indicted by the Fayette grand jury on a charge of having uttered a forgery. Blackburn is in jail here. His bond was fixed at $2,500.

Munfordville, Ky.—Walter Cottrell, World War veteran, was cut to pieces on a circular saw a Tom Wilson's plant about fifteen miles from this place, where he was employed as engineer. The sawyer thought he had struck a spike and told Mr. Cottrell to shut off the power. He thought he had shut it off completely and straddled the saw to make an examination. It started and he was terribly mangled, dying in two hours.

Destroyed By Fire.

The two-story eight room residence and nearly its entire contents belonging to H. H. Cleek in Beaver neighborhood, were destroyed by fire last Sunday morning. The fire was discovered by a neighbor, Clay Littrell, while Mr. Cleek was at the barn milking. By the time assistance arrived the fire was beyond control, and those present turned their attention to the saving of the contents of the building, but were unable to save anything from the upper story. It is thought the fire was caused by a spark from the chimney falling on the roof. Mr. Cleek estimates the loss on the building at $4,000 on which he has $1,000 insurance. The loss on the contents Mr. Cleek says he cannot estimate, and the valuation he places on his residence is very modest. The loss in the upper story consisted of nearly all their family clothing and the entire stock of canned goods Mrs. Cleek had put up for the winter.

There will be preaching at the Burlington M. E. church Sunday Nov. 27th, at 11 a. m., by the Presiding Elder, H. C. Erbels. Business meeting at 3:30 p. m.

Before Selecting Your Light Plant, Stop and Think What A Light Plant Is.

A real light plant is only purchased once in a life time, and the SILENT ALAMO is one of these plants.

The motor to a light plant is like a horse to a wagon.

Selecting a light plant is a proposition of selecting the right kind of a motor for the motor has the work to do in lighting your home, running washing machine, pumping your water, running your separator, sweeping your house, running your electric iron, running your electric fan, and can be used for many other purposes.

No oil tanks to care for; no oil can to carry around, no concrete pillars to be made; no vibration—as you see this little ornament sitting here. Touch the button and start the motor and it will take care of itself automatically.

Read this ad carefully, and study it over before selecting your lighting plant.

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH.

It would greatly simplify the industrial and social problem if everybody would grasp the fact that the great function and purpose of all legitimate business is to supply the needs and wants of the population, and that the success of business should be to increase constantly the supply. The effort should be to meet the constantly expanding wants of the people. There is no limit to them. There is no danger of over-production, so long as production is kept in balance, so that everybody has something to offer in the exchanges that is in demand, says Nation's Business. Every class and group in the population is interested in increasing production, so that the standard of living may be constantly raised. When this general function of business is understood and all classes concentrate upon it, the test of every policy will be the effect it has on production. It will soon be discovered then that there is no other employment for capital except in production for the public market and in distribution thereupon, and therefore, that accumulations of capital are beneficial to the entire community, no matter who owns them.

The arrival of two thousand pounds of grapefruit from Florida by airplane brings to mind the runners of the larks and the fresh fish that they conveyed from the sea to the palaces on Auden summits. Measured by the effort it required the fish was the greater luxury of the two, though by the criterion of distance or speed the grapefruit has it. So long as material progress continues, the luxuries of the day foretell the comforts of the morrow, says New York Sun. The other day a party of rich men flew to the end of Long Island, in order to save a few minutes for golf. It would have been equally good spenders twenty years ago to keep an automobile for running out to the golf links. For the present the luxurious use of the airplane deserves encouragement. In this case, as in others, luxury serves as the scout for common use.

A bequest made by a Frenchman of 500,000 francs to the French government for the benefit of blind and crippled French soldiers, was accompanied by the comment that they were victims of the barbarous German emperor who had caused the war for his own ambition. It is natural for the nation hardest hit by the war to feel this bitter resentment against the ex-kaiser, but any desire for revenge ought to be amply satisfied by the sight of the would-be Napoleon, a forlorn and broken old man, spending his days in exile, and knowing that he is despised and almost forgotten even by the people who in the days of his power hailing him as a demi-god, says Baltimore American. To a man of his insatiable vanity, this fate must be worse than death itself.

A friend of animals has made a plea in a long letter to the department of parks for the licensing of cats, as dogs are now licensed, says Rochester Post-Express. The writer argues that if the cats were licensed, collared and belled, it would be easy for the humane society to pick up stray cats and dispose of them. Those which were properly belled would not be a menace to bird life. The writer of the letter thinks people who own cats should be as proud and considerate of them as those who own dogs, and that in taking out licenses for them they would show their pride and at the same time a desire to be considerate.

The dangerous crossing is taking its full toll as usual. The curve from which approaching trains cannot be seen, the unguarded one, the rushing automobile across the tracks, the absence of safety devices at danger spots, combine to show in tragic fashion how largely avoidable are the accidents which constantly happen.

There is one important difference between a pessimist and an egotist. A pessimist may predict disaster, and still rejoice if it fails to materialize; an egotist will predict it and be miserable if events write him down a fool. The war proved there are some of that kind in the country, too.

It's all right, about the Paris fashion show and what is approved there, but a good many of the fashions hereabout are made at home, as the eagle eye of almost any woman will detect by a glance at the clothes of other women.

Some scientific expert asserts that women are happiest after they are thirty-five. This leaves the happiest time still indeterminate to those whose only source of judging is to learn a woman's age from herself.

If we were that one or the other candidate is holding back a tea-stroke for the eleventh hour in this campaign of equal rights. It will probably mean an announcement that he crochets.

Furbelows for Maids

Many a fair maid will rejoice in such new and smart furbelows of ribbon as are pictured here, when Christmas brings her remembrances. Here is a collar, vestee and girdle with a bag to match that are irresistible. This garment for the waist is made of striped ribbon—showing the glowing colors in Roman stripes.

The girdle is knotted at the left side and hangs in two pointed ends. The bag is drawn up and suspended by narrow satin ribbon, has a silk ornament, like those on the collar, at the bottom.

Gift Muffs and Furs

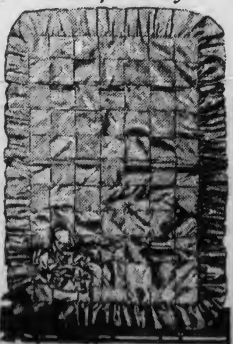

Those wonderful plushes that are now known as "wool furs" make neckpieces and muffs that are just as warm, just as handsome and more durable than those made of skins, and they are not at all hard to make. A set made of sea plush is shown here.

Gifts for Baby

Christmas brings to the baby many dainty gifts. A pillow of wash silk and a little jacket of pink flannel are shown in the picture above, both of them glorified by trimming of narrow satin ribbon. A small oblong pillow of down is provided with a silk cover, having loops of ribbon set about the edge. A gulling of satin ribbon finishes the edges of the jacket.

Robe for Baby

When his majesty, the baby, rides out in state after Christmas, he may find himself possessed of something splendid in the way of carriage robes, like the rich affair shown in the picture. Satin ribbon makes the robe.

While digging the other day on the farm owned by his son, J. M. Woolums dug up an old axe which is supposed to have belonged to a family named Lyons, former owners of the property. It has been many years since that family owned the property and the tool is said by many to be at least a hundred years old or more.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Dr. W. D. Pryor, while making a professional trip to Garrard county, was presented with a turnip weighing six pounds by Hiram Ray, a well known resident.—Richmond Register.

A bunch of gypsy horse traders passed through here a few days ago and sold Gape. Allspice one of their best horses for $10 and in a few hours the horse died. Gape got the Assistant Constable and overtook the band of gypsies camping on the roadside and arrested the fellow and returned to Hogeville for trial. The prisoner was taken before Judge Allspice, a distant relative of Gape's, who, after hearing the evidence in the case, decided that Gape was a greenhorn and had no resource. This bad trade just about cleaned up the surplus money in Hogeville.—Madison County Messenger.

Twenty years ago this week the following item appeared in the Paris Democrat: "A 1 1/4 h purchased of Ed. F. in 1894 a 150 acres item does not seem so remarkable, but there is a story back of it that seems like a fairy tale. Mr. Simms was financially embarrassed, and was compelled to dispose of the land. But such an arrangement didn't discourage him. He had the pluck, brains and good judgment to work out his own vocation. He went to Texas, invested in oil fields, and today is worth more than $300,000.—Paris Democrat.

Mr. I. D. McGowan of Lexington, formerly of this city, and who is the guest of Mr. A. S. Hines, is still a nimrod altho 33 years old. Mr. McGowan has been a life-long lover of the sport and is a fisherman of rare ability. Years do not count with him when it comes to fishing and he is always ready for either a day's sport or several weeks' camping.—Bowling Green Times-Journal.

Mrs. Jennie Rice, widow of John T. Rice, of this county, in thirty-nine years pieced and made 99 quilts and during that time reared a family and did her own housework. She said Tuesday that she believed she could make ninety-nine more quilts.—Woodford Sun.

Several automobile drivers have disregarded the block and watchman on the concrete road at Florence, and removed same, driving over the new road before it had been opened for public travel. An investigation is being made and when the guilty parties have been found they will be prosecuted. Every one wants a good road, and why any one will attempt to use a road until it is ready for travel, is beyond comprehension. These roads belong to the people and instead of damaging the road or using it until ready for travel they should assist in guarding and preventing its use. The county, state and Government is spending a large amount of money to make this road permanent, and it is your road. Why will you do damage to this property any more than you would to your home, barns or outbuildings? The use of the road before it is opened for travel may so damage it that it would be beyond repair.

A large automobile driven to the Idlewild neighborhood the day the hunting season was inaugurated got a short circuit and was badly damaged by fire. The parties who drove the machine had with them a fifty dollar hunting dog which they lost. This turnout was from the city.

Beginning a Perfect Day

The Christmas tree is rooted deep in love,
Its verdant branches tower far above;
Its fruits are emblems of a fairer clime,
Its odors whisper of a happier time.
'Tis planted in all lands to spread and grow,
And faith and hope among its treasures glow,
Till the green Life Tree in our midst shall stand,
And earth once more becomes an Eden Land.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

Where peaches are plentiful a most delicious dessert may be made as follows: Fill a deep pie plate with sliced peaches, or canned will do as well; cover with a biscuit butter, adding enough flour to make a drop batter. Put into the oven to bake. Invert when done. Add sugar if needed, cinnamon, butter and a dash of salt. If nutmeg is preferred, use that in place of the cinnamon.

Peach Pie.—Spread a plate of pastry over an inverted pie plate, prick with a fork and bake until brown. Set aside in the plate. Press cooked peaches through a colander, heat in a double boiler; beat the yolks of two eggs, add the sugar needed and stir into the hot fruit. When thickened add one tablespoonful of butter, a little salt and a grating of nutmeg. Fill into the pastry shell. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and spread the meringue over the filling. Cook in a moderate oven ten minutes; the last two minutes the meringue should brown.

Pears Cardinal.—Cook canned pears in a sirup of sugar and water flavored with vanilla until scalded. Cool and set on oblongs of sponge cake. To the pear sirup add a handful of cinnamon candies. Pour this over the pears and sprinkle with shredded almonds.

Baked Potatoes a la Yellowstone.—Select smooth, large potatoes and bake until done; make two cuts across the potato at right angles; in a towel crush the potato to loosen the pulp and release the steam. Serve with a generous portion of butter in each, sprinkled with paprika.

Chestnut Croquettes.—Shell, blanch and cook in a good broth a pint of chestnuts. When tender, cool and cut in slices. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add the same amount of flour, salt and a dash of pepper; cook until smooth, add one cupful of rich, well-seasoned broth and half a cupful of cream, when boiling, add one and one-half cupfuls of the chestnuts. Mix and cool. Shape and fry as usual.

The world is old and the world is wide,
And who shall be wise to say
If the webs which are woven on every side
Are threaded with gold and gray?
Who shall be wise to judge and say
That life has been lived in vain?
We only see sin's cloak of gray,
Not the heart, and its hidden pain.

GOOD THINGS FOR OCCASIONS.

For a change from the usual method of cooking chicken try:

Creele Chicken en Casserole.—Roll the pieces of chicken in seasoned flour and brown in a little hot fat. Do not have the fat too hot nor cook the chicken too brown. Transfer the chicken when cooked to a casserole, add a sliced onion and a shredded pepper with a pint of tomato puree (left over from a soup), one cupful of boiling water and let stand on the top of the stove until the liquid boils, then cover and set into the oven to cook. Let cook very slowly, the time for cooking depending upon the age of the chicken. When ready to serve, melt one-quarter of a cupful of butter, add the same amount of flour, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and pepper and the liquid drained from the chicken; stir until well cooked, then return to the casserole. Serve from the casserole.

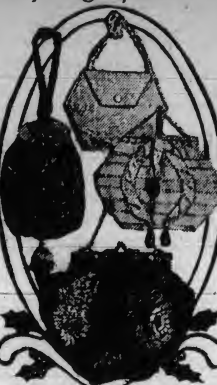

Cherry Duff (University of Wisconsin).—Two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-quarter cupful of butter, one-half cupful of sweet milk, one egg, one-half cupful of flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt and one cupful of canned sweet cherries. Bake in well greased gem pans and serve with Cherry Sauce.—One cupful of cherry juice, thickened with a teaspoonful of cornstarch, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of butter added just before serving, with a few drops of almond flavoring, or, if preferred, vanilla.

Mock Crab Toast.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a shallow butter; add half a pound of cheese and a tablespoonful of anchovy paste, half a teaspoonful of mustard, the yolk of an egg, stir vigorously until the cheese is melted, then add the beaten yolks of two eggs diluted with half a cupful of cream; continue stirring until the mixture becomes smooth and thick. Serve on toast or toasted crackers.

Harding's Opportunity.

The accuracy of certain forecasts during the recent campaign by the Courier-Journal is made plain by the following letter from George Sylvester Viereck to the Springfield Republican:

In your issue of Nov. 5th there appears under the heading, "Felicitations," my message to Senator Harding. This message was dictated over the phone. It seems to me that either the stenographer or the telegrapher sadly mixed up my sentences. I certainly did not say that six million Americans of German descent cast their votes for Harding and Gov. Cox. I did say that I rejoice that six million Americans of German descent cast their vote for Harding, as I foretold in my message to Harding and Cox.

I also rejoiced in the fact that Harding enters the White House a free man, under obligations to no group, ethnic or economic. I know of no American of German descent who voted for the Wilson-Cox ticket.

"No one," says the Republican "will dispute him (Viereck). The election returns indicate that 6,000,000 Americans of German origin voted against Cox meaning Wilson * * * Hindenburg, two years after the armistice, is quoted as saying American attacks in the Argonne * * * actually won the war."

"What Hindenburg credits America with having done explains in part the huge piracy of Mr. Harding."

* * * These 6,000,000 voters, whose spokesman Viereck professes to be, began their political reprisals in the congressional elections in 1918.

President Wilson is the first American President to be stabbed to death with the powerful aid of hyphenated Americanism. It is a fact of historical moment and a political portent of which the last has not been heard."

President-elect Harding should not feel indebted to the 6,000,000 hyphenates for their vote. It was a vote cast for revenge; cast against Woodrow Wilson rather than for Warren G. Harding. Therefore Mr. Harding should not feel under obligations to "any ethnic group." He has an excellent opportunity to prove his Americanism by showing that he recognizes no obligation to 6,000,000 voters whose ballots were cast to record venom against America as a deciding factor in the defeat of Germany.—C. J.

KENTUCKY CROPS.

Kentucky's 1920 tobacco crop is estimated at 420,750,000 lbs., corn 96,614,000 bushels, and potatoes 6,732,000 bushels in the November crop report for Kentucky issued at Louisville and Frankfort by the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. Other crops reported for Kentucky are: sweet potatoes 1,680,000 bushels, apples 5,780,000 bushels, pears 588,000 bushels, clover seed 52,500 bushels and sorghum sirup 5,888,000 gallons. Last year Kentucky's production of these crops was, tobacco 456,500,000 pounds, corn 82,500,000 bushels, potatoes 5,040,000 bushels, sweet potatoes 1,680,000 bushels, apples 1,480,000 bushels, pears 128,000 bushels, clover seed 38,000 bushels and sorghum sirup 2,542,000 gallons.

The decrease in tobacco production in Kentucky from 1919 is due to decreased acreage in Western Kentucky which was not fully off-set by the increased burley acreage. The damage by rust and "wildfire" also helped slightly to reduce the average yield per acre. Quality of tobacco in Kentucky is reported as 80 per cent compared to 81 per cent last year. The United States tobacco crop this season is estimated at 1,476,444,000 pounds compared to 1,389,458,000 lbs., last year.

It is estimated that approximately 5 per cent of Kentucky's acreage of corn was put into silos this season, the average yield per acre being about 7 tons. There was comparatively little frost damage to corn in this State but some being reported as chaffy and not well matured. The average yield per acre this year in Kentucky is 34½ bushels compared to 25 bushels last year and a 10-year average of 27½ bushels.

Huns Decline To Be Bound By Colony Clause In Treaty.

The German Government no longer considers itself bound by the clause of the Versailles treaty by which Germany surrenders her colonies to the Allies, according to an official note of protest which has been presented to the League of Nations.

The note declares that the Allies have not fulfilled their undertakings regarding the clause of the treaty concerning the allotment of the German colonies and mandates.

It adds that, having signed the pact of the League of Nations, Germany understood she would be admitted to the league and consequently take part in the allotment of mandates, but that she no longer considers herself bound by that clause of the treaty.

The Berlin Government claims it is illegal for the Entente Powers to distribute these mandates among themselves.

A large of coal was unloaded at Bellevue last week, every lump was hauled direct from the barge to coal houses. This barge did not supply that immediate neighborhood.

87 Years Old And Still Active.

Ninety-seven years old and yet as active a member of the American Red Cross and taking a keen interest in the Fourth Roll Call, which will continue through Thanksgiving Day.

The distinction of being the oldest member of the Red Cross in Lake Division—Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana—belongs to Mrs. Hulda Oglebee, Bellairs, Ohio. She is a member of Bellairs branch of Belmont County Chapter.

Mrs. Mary Jane Kreiger, of Cleveland, who is 85, thus takes second place among the oldest Red Cross members in the division, but she still is entitled to the honor of being the first woman past the sixth milestone in life to renew her membership for 1921.

KENTUCKY'S OPPORTUNITY.

Lexington, Ky.—The Crops Department of the College of Agriculture believe that Kentucky has a wonderful opportunity in the production of soybeans for seed, and with unfavorable prospects for large returns from tobacco, the soybean is coming into more prominence every year as a cash crop in Kentucky. There are some counties in the State, like Ohio, that are already producing large quantities of soybeans that are being sold for seed. The Harbinger variety, that is displacing all the other medium and early varieties in the State at the present time, and there is a greater demand for soybeans for planting to be hogged down with corn in the corn belt states than can be supplied. The demand for Harbinger is the greatest of all varieties. From the geographical position and the nature of the soil, Kentucky easily becomes ideally located for the production of enormous quantities of soybeans to be used for seed thruout the corn belt states.

Former Senator Johnson N. Camden, Versailles, Ky., scored the highest honor in the American Royal Livestock Show when he won the Kansas City Stockyards Company Trophy, a $250 silver cup for the best ten head of Hereford cattle shown in an entry list of 4,000 head. E. H. Taylor, Frankfort, Ky., scored the highest honors in the fat Hereford show, competing with fifteen head. He won two firsts and three head. He won two firsts and the grand champion steer honors.

Anderson Johnson, 75, one of our oldest colored citizens, died Monday afternoon. He had been complaining for several days and took to his bed Saturday afternoon. He came to this country from Virginia, where he has lived for more than fifty years. He was married twice, and is survived by his widow and several children. Funeral services were held Wednesday, the colored Masonic lodge having charge.

WHY JIMMY PRAYED SO LOUD

Dick and Jimmy were visiting their grandmother. One night when they were saying their prayers Jimmy voiced his petition for Christmas presents in a tone that seemed to be heard a mile off.

"Why do you pray for your Christmas presents so loud?" interrupted Dick. "The Lord ain't deaf."

"No," whispered Jimmy, "but Grandma is."

PENDLETON COUNTY.

The theft of automobiles is increasing every day, and it is astonishing how many get away with the goods in the face of the telephone and telegraph service. These thieves only go a few miles until they fall out of sight, as they secure assistance from crooks who parade around as reputable citizens. They disguise the machines and sell them to unsuspecting buyers. Get rid of the fence and there will be few automobiles stolen.

We see many old automobiles dumping around, but what is bothering us is that we have never located a bone-yard. It might be that they are like the salt mill at the bottom of the sea—they just grind on forever and a new piece is attached now and then. We know of one Ford car which was purchased about 1911 that every part of the machine has been replaced by new parts from time to time excepting the steering wheel.

The roads in Pendleton county are growing from bad to worse, with no relief in sight. If some citizen would come forward with a practical plan to improve our roads, the people will be willing to vote a tax. Something will have to be done besides kicking to improve conditions. Let some wide-awake citizen advance a plan. The columns of the Outlook are open to discuss the subject.

The time is about up to go into winter quarters on road repairing, and so far as we can see or hear there has been nothing done except on a select few roads for the pleasure of the general public of the State and other States, to the neglect of most of our county roads for which all of our taxpayers pay taxes to keep up. There is sure something wrong with the whole road management and if the farmers of our famous county don't get together and demand something to improve our roads we will lose our fame and still continue to pay increased taxes.

Ye Country Editor.

Most any man can be an editor. All the editor has to do is sit at a desk six days a week, four weeks a month, and 12 months in a year, and edit such stuff as this:

"Mrs. Jones, of Cactus creek, let a cat open her slip last week and let herself in the pantry. Joe Doe climbed on the roof of his house last week looking for a leao and fell, landing on his back, porch. Harold Green was escorting Miss Violet Wise from the church social last Saturday night, a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. Green on the pubic square. Mr. Frank, while harnessing a broncho last Saturday, was kicked just south of his corn crib."—Yarmouth Light.

Lexington, Ky.—Knott, Floyd and Lee counties, in one of which the State Daughters of the Revolution will establish and endorse a school for the education of mountain boys and girls, will be visited by a committee of members soon to determine which county shall have the school.

This was decided at a meeting of the committee, of which Mrs. Christopher D. Chensult, of Lexington, is chairman.

The first of the three counties which are to be visited within the next two weeks.

Treating sheep for parasites saved one Monongahela County West Va., farmer $50 this year. The United States Department of Agriculture is advised, during a two weeks' period the Farm Bureau of Boone County, West Va., had more than 700 head of sheep treated for parasites without fatalities.

Crop Prices Decline.

Prices paid farmers for principal crops at the farm dropped 9.1 per cent during October, the Agriculture Department announced.

Discouraged by these falling prices, farmers are carrying out their threats to curtail production, according to other reports to the department, despite the fact that present prices average 14.8 per cent higher than those of the pre-war period.

In Ohio 60,000 workers quit farm labor during a 12-month period, just ended, according to reports of a survey which was forwarded to the Agriculture Department. The survey which was made by the Ohio State Agriculture Department also showed that there are 29,000 vacant farm houses in Ohio, compared with 19,000 a year ago.

From Iowa, Illinois and other agricultural states similar reports are being received, showing that farmers, discouraged by prices they believe are below production costs, are slowing up their labors.

Wholesale prices continued to decline during October, as compared with September, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced. The average decline in price level was 7 per cent.

Farm products declined 13 1/2 per cent; food, 8 1/2 per cent; clothing, 7 1/2 per cent, and miscellaneous, 4 per cent from the September levels.

The Republican Evening Bulletin of Philadelphia is disturbed by the size of its party's majority in Congress. Here is its plaint:

"Such a majority in the lower chamber is too big. It is likely to be unwieldy, hard to manage, productive of a rash or overbearing spirit, and vexed with the tomfooleries of the large number of freshmen who have been unexpectedly floated in by the great flood-tide. The leadership in the present House is by no means skillful and forceful. In the next House there will be special need of a pretty strong set of parliamentarians and disciplinarians if the huge majority shall not become more a demoralizing drag-weight to the Republicans than a thing of practical advantage."

But it is too early to be downhearted. It is not impossible to coordinate and unite even such a conglomerate majority as that. Already there is a promising plan to do it by a proposition for a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether on a bill to increase their salaries to $12,500.

The law passed at the latest session of the State Legislature taxing gasoline one cent a gallon, was modified and dealers are not required to pay the tax, but the tax will be collected from the gasoline companies selling their product to the dealers. At the same time, however, dealers are required to keep a report of how much gasoline they buy and from companies, and to file this report with the County Clerk of their counties.

The largest amount of snow fell Monday and Tuesday last week early in the season, according to the weather bureau. Three inches of snow on the 17th day of November was a novelty to our old-timers. The farmers were not prepared and they had to hurry their stock to shelter. In some places the snow was so deep it drifted that the roads were blocked.

United States Assistant District Attorney, Richard Dickerson succeeded in securing a conviction of a merchant for selling flavoring extracts that were used for beverage purposes. Dealers must not sell flavoring extracts for beverage purposes, and must be certain when a sale is made that the extracts are for household uses. If a customer wants to purchase any of these extracts, jamacia ginger or any preparation containing a large percentage of alcohol, in quantities more than one bottle you should be certain that they are to be properly used. The merchant who makes the sale is liable to a fine and imprisonment under the United States law. Mr. Dickerson is the son of Hon. W. Dickerson who practiced law in this county.

It has been reported that several parties have paid no attention to the barricade on the new concrete road near Florence. One party even went so far as to break the lock and chain and drive through. An investigation is being made and the guilty parties will be made to pay the penalty. It is a shame that some people pay no attention to blocks on roads, they would rather destroy the road under construction than go to any additional inconvenience. The road builder gets disgusted, instead of receiving assistance from the public, every thing is done to discommodate him and delay the construction of the road.

Good Investment.

Liberty Bonds have got down now to a price where they net in some instances better than six per cent. Did ever anybody see a greater investment bargain since this Government was founded?

L. S. Deemon, of near Linaburg, raised a turnip that weighed two pounds and 15 ounces. Enough for a meal for an ordinary family.

On account of defaultation of their officers, the banks in the United States insured in one large Surety Co., lost $2,811,432.24 between January 1, 1921 and January 1, 1920. A large part of which was covered by insurance.

Tax Questionnaire.

What kinds of property are taxed for State purposes?
All kinds except that which is exempt from any taxation.
What kinds of property are taxed for county purposes?
Real estate and nearly all kinds of tangible personal property.

What kinds of property are taxed for city and town purposes?
Real estate and tangible personal property, the same as that which is taxable for county purposes.

What kinds of property pay the most taxes?
Property in towns and cities.

Why is this?
Because property in towns and cities must pay for town and city expenses and in addition for county and State expenses.

Is this fair?
Yes, because property must pay for the benefits it receives. Real estate and personal tangible property are benefitted because of their location.

What kinds of property pay State taxes only?
Bonds, stocks, notes, accounts and money. Agricultural implements, manufacturing machinery and raw materials.

Why are stocks, bonds, etc., not taxable for county and town and city purposes?
Because they receive no benefit from their location.

How is this proven?
They are worth no more when owned in cities or towns than when owned in the country.

Why are agricultural implements etc., not taxable for local purposes?
Because they encourage industry and create other property to tax.

Are real estate and tangible personal property benefitted by taxation?
Yes, as more than half of the taxes paid on all property is expended on schools, roads and public improvements which add to the value of real estate and tangible property.

Are bonds, stocks, notes, accounts and money benefitted by taxation?
They are not, as taxation actually diminishes their value by reducing the income.

Sufficient Cause for War.

Tokio.—Two thousand university students met here to discuss the question "Shall Japan Fight America?" The debate lasted four hours and was marked by vehement oratory, but the audience remained in good humor. The managers of the meeting, out of deference to the police, decided not to take a vote on the merits of the question. Apparently the audience was equally divided as to the expediency of war between the countries. Speakers taking part in the debate agreed that the action of California in legislating against Japanese owning property in that State furnished sufficient cause for to hang him on a sour apple tree in Washington.

No Secretary of War, no War Department, no country in Christendom, or in Pagandom, ever was guilty of beating up an army so extravagantly large and buying for that army so many millions of tons of supplies.

That Secretary Baker, as well as others, was guilty of this outrage, Von Hindenburg and Wilhelm Hohenzollern of Doorn, Holland, and George Cylvester Viereck cordially agree.

That nearly half of the computed cost of the war will be turned back into the Federal Treasury may surprise, even disconcert, the cavaliers, but the surprise and disappointment cannot be as great as the surprise and disappointment of the forces behind the Hindenburg line when the American Army got into it.

The College of Disinterested Americans are glad to hear that $1,000,000,000 is to be saved from the $25,000,000,000 which, as Mr. Baker says, "Congress provided with an unstinting for the supply of our soldiers."

Care Should Be Given In Selecting Brood Sows.

Lexington, Ky. — Selecting sows to breed for the spring litter is a matter of considerable importance. The College of Agriculture recommends that it is usually a mistake to kill the mature sow that has raised a good litter of pigs. She should be retained in the breeding herd unless there is some good reason for discarding her.

It is well to study a sow very closely before deciding to breed her and when she has raised a good litter she should be further developed and retained if she shows that sows on the average, farrow and raise more and better pigs in the second and subsequent litters than they do the first. After she has weaned her first litter she will make easy and fairly rapid gains if properly fed, and should continue to gain in growth and weight up to the time she farrows her second litter. Considering the present price of corn the average farmer should produce a reasonable quantity of hogs.

"THEY SAID I HAD T. B. AND WOULD NOT LIVE THREE MONTHS"

Mr. Harold W. Schmidt, Box 98, Breese, Clinton Co., Ill., believes he has reason to praise Dr. Hartman's Remedy for Catarrhal conditions.

"I had Perna eight months for Chronic Bronchitis. I do not get tired, feel like a giant, am six pounds over normal weight and able to work every day. In March, 1918, I contracted a severe cold with glands and took to my bed. They said I had T. B. and would not live three months. After taking a couple bottles of Perna and a box of Mag-A-Sin Tablets, could walk around and in seven months went back to work. My trouble was due to Chronic Catarrh of the nose and throat, which I had ten years, extending down into the bronchial tubes. 'Perna' was my life savor."

NOTICE.

The regular meeting of the directors of the Boone County Farm Bureau, will be held in their office in Burlington, Saturday December 4th 1921, at 1 O'Clock. This will be the last meeting for this year, all are urged to be present.
J. Colin Kelly, Sec etary.

Here it is the first of December and pastures are green.

Many persons who had been in the habit of having turkey for Thanksgiving day had to be satisfied with rabbit.

A. B. Renaker and wife spent Thanksgiving day with his mother and other relatives at Dry Ridge, Grant county.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Alford, of Salvia, Mercer county, came up last Friday to spend a few days with their relatives in this county.

James M. Barlow has about completed the new buildings he began erecting on his town premises soon after he moved thence.

Several of the Burlington neighbors had intended spending all of Thanksgiving day with gun and dog, but on account of rain some did not venture from their own fireside.

Thursday was a very unsatisfactory Thanksgiving day to those who had planned a big rabbit hunt. It was alright for eating turkey, but turkey dinners were few and far between.

Edgar Berkshire does not like to acknowledge it, but it is nevertheless a fact, his wife beat him fishing for the season just closed, the record being about 7 to 5 in favor of Mrs. Berkshire.

A number of persons took advantage of the cool weather of the past ten days by killing hogs to save corn. Some were afraid to kill for fear the weather might turn warm and cause them to lose their meat.

County Clerk Rogers expects to be a very busy man during the month of December as it is during this month dog licenses and automobile licenses are to be issued, and there will be an occasional marriage license.

J. O. Richards, of Florence precinct, was transacting business at the court house last Friday, and called at this office and boosted his subscription up another year. Mr. Richards is one of the best farmers of that neighborhood.

The sheriff's office has been one of the busiest places in town for the last few days. It looks like all the taxpayers had waited until the last minute to pay their taxes in order to avoid the penalty.

Among those transacting business in Burlington, last Friday were Jeff Williamson, of Walnut neighborhood and Walter C. Gaines, of Flickertown neighborhood. Both made this office a pleasant call and left donations to help swell the editors' purse.

Congressman Cantrell in a public letter gives some valuable advice to the tobacco grower. He says to strip out your crop and market the grades that are selling the best, and if the low grades are not worth selling, keep them in your barn until the price justifies a selling thereof.

People who have been wondering when, if ever, there was going to be an appreciable reduction in the cost of living, need only scan the newspapers to discover that seats in the New York Exchange, one day last week, dropped from $125,000 to $95,000. Now will you quit your grumbling?

Poor ventilation causes many deaths. Fresh air twenty-four hours of the day is one of the greatest medicines in the world. Only anyone can get fresh air. A good walk in the daytime and circulation of fresh air in the house and office both night and day, are great disease preventives.

J. M. Wilson, one of the hustling young farmers of Union precinct, was doing business at the Sheriff's office last Friday, and while in town made the Recorder office a pleasant call. He said that he has had a letter with the Tax Commissioner at 12c a pound brought him 9c cents a few days before.

The large merchandising business for the past year or so conducted in Petersburg by Berkshire & Riley has changed hands, possession to be given in a few weeks to Ralph and Cam White being the purchasers. Robert Berkshire, of the firm of Berkshire & Riley, has bought the large black store building, White Bros. buying nothing other than the stock of building. White Bros. buying nothing in the bank at Bellevue. The old cashier, which position he surrenders to engage in the store work.

The sheriff's office was a very busy place last Saturday, caused by the rush of property owners to pay their taxes before the penalty was added. According to Sheriff Conner there are more delinquent taxpayers up to the present date than at any time since he has been sheriff. Tuesday was the last day to pay taxes before the penalty was added, and those who failed to pay had no one to blame for the extra costs, but themselves, as they have been given ample time and notice.

A good many people who had paid their taxes this year were considerably annoyed to find that their taxes were much more than usual. This was caused, partly, by the increase in the school levy which was necessary to meet the increase in teachers' salaries. Another reason is that the county assessed valuation was raised by the board of equalization last year.

Read and Heed.

Every small town and village is prone to listen to a certain amount of scandal. Frequently this scandal reflects upon the characters of some of the best people in the community. As a rule most of the tales told connecting different parties with more or less shady transactions, if traced to their source, would be found to have no basis in fact. This makes little difference to the scandal mongers, however. Start a tale and some one else will keep it going, and the longer it is kept going, the bigger it grows. Sometimes scandal started in small communities is successful in wrecking the lives of innocent people. Sometimes its basis of truth is apparent on the surface, but if one goes under a little he does not find all this matters little to the scandal monger. He only has to start the thing going and it keeps going and growing. There isn't any moral in this that we know of, but it is a safe plan not to start anything you cannot stop.—Grant

This notice should be read very closely by some of the citizens of Burlington.

Notwithstanding last Saturday was a bad day for an out of doors assemblage of people, a very large crowd attended the sales of the personal estate of T. J. Griffith and wife, of Verona neighborhood, who died within a few days of each other last month. There was a large quantity of very excellent household furnishings on hand, and that which was not distributed among the relatives sold at good prices. Everything was in excellent condition. Among the furniture sold were 57 chairs, Corn bread for $3.85 to $4 per barrel; a bunch of ewes brought $3.10 a head. Lunch was served.

In many localities typhoid and other fevers are raging and while this locality has been practically free from these diseases, it will pay to look after the system and use an ounce of prevention. We have had a warm fall and one calculated to breed disease before the crisp wintry winds come to purify the air. A free use of lime and chlorine and other purifiers around the place and good blood cleanser for the body will clear up a bad situation.

While in town last Saturday, Mr. E. G. Cox, of Petersburg precinct informed the Recorder that he has a cow-part Holstein and part Jersey, that had given birth to four calves in 11 months, and that he had sold the calves for $111, which had netted him clear of all expenses, $101, besides the milk and butter. A herd of cows like the above would be a better revenue producer than a gold mine.

About the only prospect we can see for higher prices for tobacco is organization and a reduction of the acreage to be planted in 1921. Better far cut the crop in half next year and get a good price for the crop grown this year, than raise another big crop next year and get less for both crops than this year's crop can be made to bring.

The play "Mrs. Tabbs of Shantytown" at Locust Grove school house, last Wednesday evening, was well attended. There being more than a hundred persons present, $32.40 was collected at the door. The children who took part in the play did credit to themselves as well as to their teacher and the community.

All reports to Lake Division headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, indicate that the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call, which has been under way since last August 1st, Nov. 11, will be the most successful ever conducted in the three states of the division—Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

McDonald Birch Co., a trio of talented artists in Magic, Mirth and Music at the court house on Thursday evening at 8 p. m. This is the first program of the Lyceum Course, and will be a high class entertainment.

Mike O'Hara, of Florence, one of the Recorder's oldest subscribers, was transacting business in Burlington last Monday. He called on the Recorder while in town and moved his subscription up another year.

A large containing about 6,000 bushels of coal, landed at the Petersburg wharf on day last week, and the citizens of that neighborhood were not long unloading it.

Frank Aubrey Milner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Milner, of Constance, and Miss Grace Trueman Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Powers, of Walton, were married, on the 30 ult. The Recorder joins with many friends in this community in wishing Frank and his young bride a long and happy married life. The young couple will make their home at Terre Haute, Ind., where the groom has a good position in a large paper mill.

Before Selecting Your Light Plant, Stop and Think What A Light Plant Is.

A real light plant is only purchased once in a life time, and the SILENT ALAMO is one of these plants.

The motor to a light plant is like a horse to a wagon. Selecting a light plant is a proposition of selecting the right kind of a motor; for the motor has the work to do in lighting your home, running washing machine, pumping your water, running your separator, sweeping your house, running your electric iron, running your electric fan, and can be used for many other purposes.

No oil tanks to care for; no oil can to carry around, no concrete pillars to be made; no vibration—as you see this little ornament sitting here. Touch the button and start the motor and it will take care of itself automatically.

Read this ad carefully, and study it over before selecting your lighting plant.

MONEY A TRUST FUND.

It would be a tragedy of wisdom and safety if every man should regard the money he possesses in the light of a trust fund. The honest custodian of funds held in trust feels a grave responsibility. He seeks to do intelligently his duty by the owners of the sums in his charge. Now every man with capital, small or large, is virtually a trustee for somebody—for his dependents or for himself. He should, therefore, be as careful as possible to make good employment of the money he has acquired. A poor investment reacts adversely on the individual. It lowers his morale, sours him, lessens his account as a citizen, while it may impose suffering on those whose protector against want he should be. On the other hand, a paying investment makes one more of a man and a better factor in the community, while it may add to the happiness of many besides the investor. Says Leslie's Weekly. One of the essential steps in making the world better and brighter is to teach men and women what to do and what not to do with their money.

The bath is the sign and substance of civilization. The clean are conscious of superiority. Physical dirt endured too long encourages mental dirt. The morale of the staunchest patriot will break if he is kept too long from his tub. A nation may be judged by its per capita consumption of soap, and the degree of soap played a small part in the breaking of the military machine that was Germany. The hot bath that flourishes among us on Saturday nights and leaves the nation with that peaceful, pious feeling on Sunday mornings is an institution distinctly American, writes Robert Quillen in Saturday Evening Post. In no other portion of the known world do five score million humans set aside business and pleasure, lock themselves in their homes and indulge in this rite with soap and brush at the close of the week's activities.

In these days it sometimes seems as if all the world was motoring. This condition has brought into the ranks of automobile users a great number of people who have had no previous experience in the care of vehicles upon the highways. They have not had, for example, the training in driving horses which has proved of assistance to many a man when he has first undertaken to guide a motor car. These new drivers constitute a serious problem in themselves. Arbitrary action taken against them as a class would be unfair and would defeat its purpose, says Boston Transcript. How to educate those among them capable of becoming skillful drivers and how to eliminate the unfit are questions which will call for careful consideration.

It is refreshing to read that all but one partner in a certain Philadelphia concern refused to profiteer in sugar. The one partner has been called to account by the United States government, and, consequently, is getting a large proportion of the newspaper publicity. This fact is an ironical commentary on things as they seem to be, says Christian Science Monitor. Unquestionably there are thousands of honest men who are content with a fair profit and who see business in the light of service rather than as an opportunity for exacting "all the traffic will bear." Still, that great majority too often receives scant mention, while those mixed up in anything undesirable get "preferred positions" on the front pages.

When paleolithic man scurried back to his cozy cavern and laughed defiance at the saber toothed tiger that had leaped for him and missed, he was acquiring agility that proves invaluable to his dependants of today who have to step lively across boulevards infested with speeding motor cars.

"Put the loafers to work," exclaims the Atlanta Journal. Nothing doing. The energy that might be expended in that hopeless undertaking could accomplish much in productive industry. The loafer is a loafer and a good-for-nothing scamp at every stage of the game.

The naval governor of Guam, who prohibited whistling under penalty of a fine, has been relieved. "It is stated the whistling" after had no bearing on this act. If it had not, it ought to have had, as such orders border on arbitrary government.

It is claimed for monkey glands that they correct criminal tendencies in the young and restore youth to the aged. Looking at monkeys in the casual way, one would never think their glands held such beneficent and beautiful possibilities.

The Krupps have applied for English patents on a number of new military devices. The program of reconstruction has to some extent wandered away from its original objective.

Outing the word "obey" out of the marriage vow is fully as important as excising the "I" from "I do."

Care of Seed Corn.

Lexington, Ky.—If the present snowfall is an indication of the weather to follow, the Agronomy Department of the College of Agriculture recommends that seed corn be dried and stored as soon as possible. Corn containing about 13 per cent of moisture should withstand any temperature that comes into Kentucky during the winter season. Most of the corn that goes into the crib now will have from 15 to 20 per cent of moisture and it is very evident that with this high moisture content the seed corn should be given special care in order to have it come through the winter in satisfactory condition. Seed corn placed around a brick chimney in the attic with a living room above below or similar warm place will produce a higher yield per acre than corn that has not been so well dried; for all the undried seed will germinate and produce a good stand in the spring.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Theodore's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Theodore's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theodore's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theodore's.

Millions of bushels of grain, fruit and vegetables and a big tonnage of cotton were lost to American farmers last year by plant diseases, according to figures compiled by the plant disease survey of the Department of Agriculture. The survey said that the statistics indicate that lack of prompt application of known measures of control was largely the cause of the loss.

Home Town Helps

PRAISE YOUR HOME TOWN

Unwise Policy to Let Visitor Go Away With Impression That Citizens Are Dissatisfied.

A well-known Washington writer, who has been traveling around the country, announces as an original discovery that if you want to be taken into the confidence of a city and given a private view of its closest skeletons all you have to do is to praise it, and the citizen you happen to be talking to will at once point out its unpleasantness. Criticize the city, on the other hand, and every one will at once rise gallantly to its defense.

He illustrates his point by the case of Detroit. One reason, he says, why Detroit attracts so much tourist travel is that it advertises itself so pleasantly, and it really has a charm which is appreciated by none quite so much as by Detroit. The only way you can say anything but enthusiastic eulogy of the place, he says, is by yourself pretending a violent infatuation for it.

The writer in question has discovered nothing new and it is not impossible that he might find Indianapolis also an illustration of his theory, for its citizens are sometimes given to "knocking" when they talk about this city to visitors. They will mention some of its good features, but will offset them by calling attention to the things it does not, but should, possess. The visitor may notice these lacks by himself if left alone, but he may not, and it is poor judgment to bring them to his notice.

The old saying that the best foot should always be put forward is as applicable to a city as to an individual. The mother of a defective child endeavors to draw attention to his merits and away from his defects, and the policy is good as to a town. If fault must be found make it to persons so much interested as yourself in seeing improvement made. Let the stranger go his way with the feeling that the residents like their home city and are happy in it, and that, therefore, it must be a desirable city to dwell in. It is the best possible way to advertise a town and nothing is gained by depreciation of its merits. If a man can not honestly say a good word for the town he lives in he should go elsewhere—Indianapolis Star.

JOY IN OWNING OWN HOME

Not the Least Factor is the Ability to Have Things According to One's Own Ideas.

Among the genuine comforts of life is the sense of ownership of the home in which you live. For this reason, I have made it a practice to own my home whether I regarded it as a good investment or not. But it usually has been.

The delight that comes from not having a landlord to contend with, or worry about, cannot be lightly estimated. Perhaps you want things a little different in the house, and everybody has ideas of his own as to lighting, heating and plumbing and 40 other things. How comfortable to be able to go ahead and do with them as you like, instead of having to worry about the loss of whatever you put in, or of being compelled to restore property to the condition in which you found it.—Robert Lincoln O'Brien in Boston Herald.

Practical Boniface.

Hon. Charles A. Enlow, a well-known Wisconsin lawyer, was recently making a trip from New Orleans to Washington. While in the smoking car of a Southern railway train he was talking about ambition.

"Yes, gentlemen," he said, "real ambition starts in childhood. And if we obey its impulses we not only attain to it, but we actually go far beyond it. Yes, our ambition is gratified beyond our wildest dreams."

"Yes, gentlemen," said a military-looking gentleman who was also a passenger, "I had in my childhood an ambition. I desired to become a pirate."

"Well," said Lawyer Enlow "you are pretty close to it are you not? I believe you are General Amer, manager of a hotel in New Orleans."

Benefits Under State Law.

Massachusetts has a law framed for the purpose of giving assistance to widows, orphans and all unmarried persons who hold only $1,000 worth of property or under, whereby these persons are exempted from paying any tax to the state. As a result, a woman in Lowell, a mill operative, unmarried, who has an automobile in which she goes pleasure riding, is exempted from paying any tax on it because she says it is the only property she has, and its value is only $200.—Boston Globe.

ROAD BUILDING

PACIFIC COAST GOOD ROADS

Interest Centers Particularly in Highway Extending From California to Washington.

(By HERBERT MUNN, State Highway Engineer of Oregon.)

The Pacific coast is particularly interested in our national highway; that is the Pacific coast highway, extending from California to Oregon and Washington. This when completed will have approximate length of some 1,400 miles, and the large part of it is now completed or nearing completion.

Mr. Fletcher of California stated to me that his state had completed 525 miles, extending from Los Angeles north to Sacramento, and we are now under contract to complete the road. Oregon now has under contract on this road some 400 miles of construction, all of which will be completed by the middle of next year, 200 miles of which will be paved and the rest macadam or gravel. Washington has completed this road to Seattle, and next year its entire length will be complete.

I am unable to say at this time just how much more was expended during the year 1919 in the three states, but in Oregon approximately $7,000,000 was expended. The three states, however, are pretty well financed financially.

California has a new bond issue for $40,000,000 and previously has expended some $33,000,000. Oregon has some $32,000,000 available and roads to cost $19,000,000 to $20,000,000 under construction. Washington has less money. They failed to carry the bond issue there this year, but have between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 available for next year.

The eastern connections with the Pacific highway are the Santa Fe trail, the Lincoln highway, and the Midland road. I think the Santa Fe is pretty well cared for. It connects with southern California. In Oregon we are connecting with the southern highway and with the Columbia river highway. Labor conditions on the Pacific coast are about the same as in the East.

Improved Road in Oregon.

The pay is about $4.50 with $7.50 for teams. We don't expect better labor conditions next year. Material conditions are better. In Oregon we have sufficient local material and don't require much rail transportation. Washington is fixed similarly. So is northern California. Southern California is in worse condition as to transportation.

MOTORTRUCK IS INSISTENT

War Brought It Into Prominence as Commercially Practical Form of Transportation.

The value of the motortruck as an aid in the war, sprang into prominence as a commercially practical form of transportation and while the fighting has ceased, the need for the motortruck remains with us, more insistent than ever before. Within certain limitations the freight car of the highway is more efficient than the rail carrier, and, because it is, it may be taken as a permanent form of transportation and one destined to have a large influence on the movements of trade in the future.

PUSH GOOD ROADS BUILDING

Construction Work Retarded by War Should Now Be Resumed to Facilitate Transportation.

Good roads construction retarded by the war should now be pushed vigorously and nothing should be permitted to interfere with the expansion and development of these important arteries of transportation and trade which can serve to materially reduce high living costs by facilitating the movement of foodstuffs from the farm to the table.

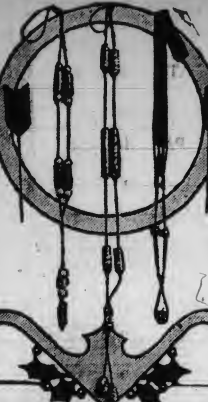

Significant Auto Fact.

Observers are said to regard it as significant that the states which will spend most freely for better highways and which manufacturers depend upon to buy the most motortrucks in 1920 are states in which farming is the predominant occupation.

Value of Motortruck.

The value of the motortruck as an aid in marketing farm products is now well established. In bringing this about improved roads have been an essential factor.

Christmas Novelties

Among the best of the novelties introduced for Christmas gifts are the handsome beads made of sealing wax. They are strung on silk cord with or without glass or steel beads. The wax is heated over an alcohol flame, the colors combined and the beads shaped over a knitting needle while the wax is soft. Pretty hatpins are made in the same way.

"I Got Real Mad When I Lost My Setting Hen," Mrs. Hannan.

"I went into the henhouse one morning and found my favorite setter dead. I got real mad. Went to the store, bought some RAT-SNAP and in a week I got six dead rats. Everybody who raises poultry should keep RAT-SNAP." Three sizes 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Guiley & Pettit, Burlington, Ky.

The KITCHEN CABINET

All great deeds are built of small efforts upon a foundation of labor. The ancient fathers lived on frugal fare—Roots, cresses, herbs—avoiding viands rare—Gauls.

SOME TOOTHsome DISHES.

It is customary to allow the following salad to stand for an hour or season, but as the dressing with the cucumbers and draws out the moisture from the tomatoes, it is preferable to serve at once:

Andalusian Salad—Cut a stale bread into slices and the slices into half-inch cubes. Sprinkle a layer of these cubes in a salad bowl and cover with French dressing, using three tablespoons of oil to one of vinegar; add very thin slices of Spanish onion, ripe tomatoes, and cucumbers; pour on more dressing, add some sliced red peppers and another layer of bread cubes and vegetables. Finish with cubes of bread over the top.

Molded Custard—Soften one-fourth of a package of gelatine in one-fourth of a cupful of cold milk. Make a soft custard with three egg yolks, one-third of a cupful of sugar and half a teaspoonful of salt. Add the softened gelatine, stir until dissolved and let cool; add half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract and strain into a mold.

Caramel Marshmallow Parfait—Cut twenty marshmallows into four pieces each; add one-third of a cupful of marshmallow cherries cut into thin slices; pour over them four tablespoons of marshmallow sirup and let stand an hour or longer. Cook two-thirds of a cupful of sugar to a caramel. Add two-thirds of a cupful of water, cover and cook until a sirup is formed; uncover and cook until reduced to one cupful; add two tablespoons of sugar, and when dissolved pour the whole in a fine stream, beating constantly meanwhile, on the white of a stiffly beaten egg; beat occasionally until cold; fold in the marshmallows and cherries and one and one-half cupfuls of cream beaten stiff. Turn into a three-pint melon mold; cover with paper and press the cover in place over the paper, which should extend on all sides. Pack in ice and salt, equal measures, and let stand three hours.

THERE'S MONEY IN IT.

Let the man who haggles over the giving up of membership dues in the Farm Bureau ponder for a moment what Farm Bureau members have saved in recent months. Kenton County Farm Bureau is not the largest in the State by any means. YET.

Approximately $1500 was saved to members in the feed order recently placed. The deal represented over three hundred tons and all members who took part were well paid. Not only did members get a reduced price, but it served to lower the price in general among dealers.

Allen County Farm Bureau reported that they have handled $85,000 of business at a saving of over $13,000 for their members.

Carroll county reports a business of $18,699 with a net saving to members of $3259.

The following from the news letter of the Kenton County Farm Bureau regarding the feed order is illuminating and should be read by every farmer:

"Before the Farm Bureau members placed their recent order for feed, the market price on feeds was almost out of reach. No sooner was the order placed with the low bidder who was considerably lower than the existing market at that time, than the other dealers began to cut and cut and cut until they had the price of their feeds equal to the price offered to the Farm Bureau."

"Why did they not cut their prices before. Why did they wait until a large order of goods had been placed by the Farm Bureau before they began to cut? There is a reason. They wanted the trade and they needed the business. And they were ready to reduce the price even below the other dealer to get it back."

School Notes.

The schools have had a better and more regular attendance thus far this season than any other term since we have been Superintendent. This is attributable to the vigilance of the Attendance Officer and the cooperation of the teachers. This is a good forecast for better things in the school and we can look forward to a time, and that not far distant, when patrons shall not look upon school attendance as a hardship, but as a very high privilege for the child.

We think we see better things ahead for our children from this most important element in school life. A pupil can not make progress when away from school any more than a business man can succeed, who is away from his business. School is the child's business and he should be taught the lesson of punctuality and regularity in order to succeed in the future part of his life.

As to the Charts which the different schools were expecting to get, several schools have had their gatherings in the way of entertainments and have succeeded handsomely. One school in particular, viz, Victory had its gathering and cleared the sum of $57 and some cents. It was a victory in truth. Is there any other one room school that can beat or equal this record? The Charts cost only twenty-five dollars, so Victory has a nice surplus to start a library. We have received and sent out six sets of charts to different schools and have ordered six more, and these have been spoken for. Let the good work continue until every school shall have at least one of these charts. If the program has not been arranged for the gathering why not have a Christmas entertainment of some character in the school house? Christmas eve is on Friday this year, all things seem propitious. More anon.

J. C. GORDON, Supt.

When the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Howe Cloek, of Beaver, was destroyed by fire, mention of which was made last week, Mrs. Cloek lost a very large stock of pantry supplies which she had prepared and stored in the upper part of the residence. A few days after the fire some of Mrs. Cloek's lady friends conceived the idea of giving her a fruit shower. The event was properly arranged for and carried out to perfection in the minutest detail, and at the conclusion of the event Mrs. Cloek had preserves, jellies, jams and canned fruit galore—more than she knows what to do with. This very substantial acknowledgment of sympathy is fully appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Cloek, and the generosity of the donors will never be forgotten by them.

Thanksgiving day was observed by both of the local banks.

Mr. Harry Klassner attended the wedding of his cousin George Klassner, at Oakley, O., Thanksgiving day. Geo. Klassner is a son of James Klassner, now living in Oakley, but who is a native of Constance.

Mrs. Pope Sandford Dead

Mrs. Sarah Dell Sandford, 84, life long resident of Covington, died Sunday at her home on Dixie Highway, near Ft. Mitchell, following a lingering illness.

She was a cousin of Wm. Sandford, veteran of the Covington Police Department. She is survived by her husband, Pope Sandford and one son, Alexander Sandford.

Mrs. Sandford was a daughter of Houston Perry, wealthy Kenton county land owner.

Mrs. Sandford was the mother of nine children, and is survived by her husband, six daughters and one son.

Further Price Reductions

Further reductions in the whole sale prices of certain styles of shoes were announced by two shoe manufacturers here.

A general reduction of ten per cent. was made by the McElroy Sloan Shoe Co., officials of that firm said.

The Brown Shoe Co., announced that men's calf skins were reduced from $7.50 to $5.60, enabling a retail reduction from $11 to $8. Women's calf skins, the announcement added, were cut from $8 to $6, enabling the retail price to decline from $8 to $6 or $6.50. Work men's shoes were cut to $2 from $3.85, which it was said, would allow the retail price to fall from $6 to $4.

Prices generally are declining, and some articles have reached pre war figures. Clothing has declined over thirty per cent while cotton goods show a reduction of about 35 per cent. Shoe prices are just a little lower in price, but the shoe men are expecting about a thirty per cent decline within a short time. You would not know from the price you are required to pay for what cattle and hogs are selling for about the same price as in 1906. Iron and steel is the only commodity showing a strong market with advances on some lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Phelps and two children, of Cincinnati, spent several days last week with relatives in and near Burlington. Mrs. Phelps is a daughter of Mrs. Otis Rouse and J.O. Huey.

DISCRIMINATION DENIED.

Figures to demonstrate what has been done by the State Tax Commission in the way of assessing coal property are in course of preparation by the commission. The information will be made public as soon as the data are collected, but until then the commissioners will have nothing to say.

"It would not be becoming to me to make a statement before I had discussed the matter with the Tax Commission," Gov. Morrow said when his attention was directed to an editorial in the Courier-Journal relative to coal producing counties which are in the dependent class.

"It is a big question and I would not speak offhand or assume anything but that the commissioners have assessed the coal property just as high as any other."

"I don't feel that we are put on the defensive in this matter," Chairman James A. Scott of the commission said. "And I don't intend to respond in that vein. I am doing this, however: I am having the assessments of a number of typical coal producing counties analyzed, and the same thing done with as many typical agricultural counties in different parts of the State, and when this information is all assembled in the next few days we can get, perhaps a real basis for comparison. I don't pretend to say myself how it will come out."

"Coal property, under the law has been assessed like all other real estate, the last two years 50 per cent of what it would bring at a fair voluntary sale for cash. Included in this is the mining equipment just like improvements on a farm, but we have been valuing the equipment separately to get a higher valuation on it. There is taken into consideration whether the property is being operated, its accessibility to railroads, the likelihood of its availability for immediate development or the remoteness of its prospects and all the factors that increase or decrease the value of coal."

"The County Tax Commissioners assesses coal property in its county and the State Tax Commission reviews his recapitulations of these assessments along with the other schedules."

There is no one in the field force under the commission designated as a special coal expert. Chairman Scott himself is from Pike county and probably is better acquainted than any one of the others with that kind of property.

Chairman Scott has been on the commission since its organization. Commissioner Rainey T. Wells, Murray, had his appointment last winter in time to participate in the review of a few of the 1919 assessments. Commissioner L. M. Davis, Hopkinsville, has been in office only about two months.

KEEP SUITABLE FARM ACCOUNTS

Farming Is a Profession and Must Be Conducted in a Businesslike Manner

HELPS CREDIT AT THE BANK

Once the Principles of Bookkeeping Are Understood a Simple System Can Be Developed to Meet the Farmer's Needs.

Farmer Jones desired to negotiate a loan at his local bank.

"Just what is your financial condition?" the banker asked him.

"Why," said Jones, "I own a house and land, and a couple of horses and some cows and live stock, and an orchard and—"

"Have you a detailed inventory showing the value of these things?" the banker interrupted him.

"No—o," the farmer replied. "I haven't time to bother keeping books."

"Good gracious, man!" exclaimed the banker, "anyone can keep books. The way the thing's worked out nowadays it doesn't require more than five minutes' work a day. Then when you come here for a loan you could produce a sheet of paper and say, 'Here's what I've got, here's what I owe, and here's what I'd have in cash if I sold out tomorrow.' As it is, I'm afraid I can't let you have the money until I have this information."

This conversation takes place in hundreds of towns every day, according to specialists of the office of farm management and farm economics, United States department of agriculture. Of course farmers are very busy men. They haven't the time to study complicated accounting methods. But, according to the federal specialists, once the principles of bookkeeping are understood and all farm conditions studied, a simple system of bookkeeping can be developed to meet the farmer's needs.

Show Assets and Liabilities.

The foundation of any set of books is an inventory showing the farmer's assets and liabilities. The assets include real estate, live stock, machinery and tools, produce, feed and supplies, cash on hand and in bank, and accounts receivable at the date the inventory is taken. Each item under these headings should be listed separately. Real estate should be valued at what it can be sold for under normal conditions; live stock, feed and farm produce at market prices, less cost of marketing; farm supplies at cost; machinery and tools at a price allowing for annual depreciation. The liabilities should include mortgages, notes and accounts payable. The sum of the liabilities deducted from the total assets will show the farmer's net worth.

Classification of Accounts.

While an inventory is generally the first thing a banker asks for when making a loan, he also wants to know the sources of income. By going just a little further the farmer can keep records that will enable him to know his profits and losses. This requires a classification of accounts in which certain principles should be followed. The precise classification to be used is determined by the prevailing conditions on the farm in question.

Full details regarding the various phases of farm bookkeeping are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 511, "Farm Bookkeeping," Farmers' Bulletin 572, "A System of Farm Cost Accounting," and Farmers' Bulletin 782, "The Use of a Diary for Farm Accounts." These bulletins can be had upon request of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

APPLICATION OF PHOSPHATE

On Poorly Managed Farms a Mixed Fertilizer Can Undoubtedly Be Used With Profit.

"Knowing that corn receives much manure and usually follows clover on well-managed farms, a logical investment," says Prof. F. H. Bear of the soils department of the Ohio State university, "is in a larger application of phosphate." On farms that have been poorly managed, a mixed fertilizer can undoubtedly be used with profit. He says that until such a time as the price of potash is materially reduced, it would appear that it is wise for the farmer to invest liberally in phosphate, phosphate and clover

HINTS FOR BUILDING ICE HOUSE FOR FARM

Erection of Structure Depends Much on Local Conditions.

Size of Building and Difficulty of Obtaining Ice Are Important Factors—Other Details Must Be Considered.

Construction of a farm ice house depends to a great extent upon local conditions, the size of the house, and the difficulty of obtaining ice. These factors help to determine the sum that may wisely be spent for such a building. Where ice is expensive or hard to obtain, a better constructed and insulated and therefore more expensive ice house is advisable. Where natural ice can be harvested and stored cheaply a cheap structure is usually satisfactory and the loss from melting ice is a small consideration.

The cost of harvesting and storing the interest on the money invested, and repairs and depreciation on the building are to be considered in relation to the ice loss from melting; and the type of house to be built depends upon these factors. It never pays to build permanently in other than a substantial manner, and careful thought should be given the matter before erecting a cheap makeshift that will not give adequate service.

Various types of ice houses, how to build them, and other phases of the subject are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1078, "Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm," which can be obtained free of charge from the United States department of agriculture.

A Good Ice House, Well Filled, Is a Real Asset to the Modern Farmer.

When we consider at the opening of the game season this year that many hunters return without any birds, and a dozen quail in one day is considered a big day's sport, a paragraph from the files of the News of November, 1919, reads almost like a romance. The item in question says that quail and rabbits in the vicinity of Rineville were doing such great damage to the grain that the whole population organized to rid the community of both quail and rabbits as a pest. The merchants offered to pay twelve and a half cents for rabbits and 10 cents for birds and that night after one day's hunt over a small territory the hunters turned into the stores 467 quail and 399 rabbits. — Elizabethtown News.

LET US MAKE FRUIT CAKE.

In the fall, when the nuts are fresh and the thought turns toward the cool weather to come, when rich cakes are enjoyed, is the time when we look over our stores to see if all the ingredients are present; for a fruit cake well made and baked is a treasure like a bank account, always ready to be called upon in an emergency. In the following group, if you cannot find one which you will be urged to try, you will be hard to.

Wedding Cake.—Take one pound of butter, one pound of sugar, twelve eggs, one pound of flour, two teaspoons of cinnamon, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, allspice and mace, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, three pounds of raisins, seeded and cut in pieces, one pound of currants, one pound of citron, thinly sliced and cut in strips, one pound of figs, finely chopped, three tablespoonfuls of vanilla, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and beat thoroughly. Separate the yolks from the whites of eggs, beat the yolks until thick and lemon colored, the whites until stiff and dry and add to the first mixture. Add flour (excepting one-third of a cupful, which is reserved to dredge the fruit), mixed and sifted with the spices, vanilla and lemon juice. Less vanilla may be used and any rich fruit substituted. Then add the fruit, except the citron, dredged with the reserved flour. Dredge the citron with flour and put it in layers between the cake mixture when putting in the pan. Steam three hours in deep tin-lined pan, well covered with greased paper, then bake one and one-half hours in a slow oven. Cake cooked this way is moist and keeps well without becoming dry or soggy.

Cakes, if to be frosted, should never have the frosting put on until the day before using. Fruit cakes of this kind is much better six weeks or even months after baking, as the spices and flavors have then had time to flavor the whole mixture.

At last, Covington is to have a new passenger station. The C. & O. and L. & N. railroads have announced. The new station will be erected on north Adams Pike street, opposite the present station. A new station should have been built in Covington several years ago as the present structure is a disgrace to the city.

Gifts That Please

Of all the practical gifts that are sure to please there are none more dependable than good-looking waste baskets. There are many kinds to choose from but, valued most, are those made at home of fabrics, as cretonne, saten, tapestry, matn, colored oilcloth and other things. Foundations of heavy cardboard or light wood are covered with these materials. Two attractive baskets are shown in the picture above, one of tapestry and satin and one of heavy saten. The latter is provided with a handle of braided cord for hanging.

Most markets can always find use for a good quality apple, no matter what its shape or the color of its skin may be. It is probably unreasonable to say that one market will take only certain varieties while another will take other varieties. Conditions are always changing preferences. For instance, due to the fact that there was in a certain year, a noticeable increased demand for box-packed fruit in some cities known as barreled apple markets. The certainty of securing uniformly sized, highly finished fruit at extremely low prices was the only reason given for this condition. The statements of the banks in this county, together with the statements of the two banks at Erlanger, are published in this issue. These statements show that all of the banks are in the best of condition, although money is not as plentiful as it was some months ago.

"What is equity?" was the second.

Before Selecting Your Light Plant, Stop and Think What A Light Plant Is.

A real light plant is only purchased once in a life time, and the SILENT ALAMO is one of these plants.

The motor to a light plant is like a horse to a wagon.

Selecting a light plant is a proposition of selecting the right kind of a motor: for the motor has the work to do in lighting your home, running washing machine, pumping your water, running your separator, sweeping your house, running your electric iron, running your electric fan, and can be used for many other purposes.

No oil tanks to care for; no oil can to carry around, no concrete pillars to be made; no vibration—as you see this little ornament sitting here. Touch the button and start the motor and it will take care of itself automatically.

Read this ad carefully, and study it over before selecting your lighting plant.

A crime wave has extended from coast to coast, and from the lakes to the gulf. Every day the daily press records robberies and burglaries. The police officers seem to be powerless to prevent these crimes, some of which have been committed during this day in the center of large cities.

The meat shop and grocery of Berry Rubb was entered and a safe containing $5,000 worth of Liberty bonds, $100 in cash, and $2,500 worth of land notes were stolen at Mayfield, Ky., one night last week. The Liberty bonds are not registered and are easily cashed or replaced while the land notes can be replaced. The safe was carried away in an automobile. No clue has been found.

Forty-five barrel of whisky, valued at $100,000 disappeared from a warehouse owned by Wm. Schneider, Campbell county, Ky., on Friday. Schneider says it was stolen from the warehouse some time ago, but he made no report to the Government officials until they were checking up this warehouse. The government officials charge him of disposing of 45 barrels of whisky without a permit. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Young man, you had better go to school while you now have an opportunity and thus secure an education that will command more than ordinary wages when you grow up to manhood. It is the fellow who plays "hooky" in their boyhood who will grow the most about hard times and work for a dollar a day. Go to school and go there to learn and not for the purpose of acting cute in order to attract the attention of the "big girls."

We regret to see a disposition on the part of a few of our young people to quit school. Stay at school another year or two, and don't be ashamed of what ought to be your glory, that you want to learn more. Step from the district school to the High school, from the High school to College if you can. Get a business education by all means you will never learn as much. If you desire to become a mechanic instead of an engineer or farmer, an education will not unfit you to become either. It will always be a guarantee of a large income of interest.

F. F. Robinson and wife, of Richmond, entertained a number of guests at dinner Thanksgiving, being the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Robinson and her grand son, Eli Franklin. Among those present were Albert Robinson and wife, D. Grinnickson wife and daughter, of Ludlow; Earl Robinson and wife, L. G. Robinson and wife, Chas. W. Hauck wife and daughter, of Cincinnati; Walter Robinson and family, Mrs. G. B. Robinson, Robert Robinson wife and son, Leslie Barlow and family, Ben Northcutt and family, C. W. Carpenter and family, Mrs. Eli Williams.

He was driving a four mule team hitched to a ration wagon, and he lost his way in the night and mist and drove right through the American trench line, which was not continuous at that point, and started rumbling along an old road which led across No Mans Land. He had gone a few rods when a doughboy jumped up out of the listening post and began to signal with both hands. "What's the matter?" shouted the driver.

"Hush," said the doughboy in a low and agonized whisper. "You're heading straight toward the German lines. For God's sake, turn around and don't speak above a whisper."

"Whisper, Hush!" boomed the driver. "I've got to turn four mules around."—New York Tribune.

No part of the road work to be started by the State Highway Commission for 1921, will be in Boone county.

The State Department has already begun cutting its force, and has only two field engineers at work. Little surveying will be done in the future. Of course, if the 3-cent whisky tax should be upheld by the Court of Appeals, that would change the situation.

As contemplated the work of construction will be continued to the Midland Trail Road, Carter, Rowan, Clark, Todd and Trigg; the Dixie Highway in Rockcastle, Laurel, Whitley, Madison and Fayette; the Jackson Highway in Jefferson, Nelson, Letcher, Hart and Barren; the Dixie Bell Line in Henderson, Webster and Hopkins and the Ohio River road in Trimble, Oldham, Jefferson, Breckinridge, Meade, Hancock, Union and Livingston, and some work in Knox on the road from Corbin to Cumberland Gap.

The Brood Sow During Winter

During the winter the brood sows should be maintained as cheaply as possible, but at the same time they must be properly fed in order to farrow a large number of healthy piglets. The pigs to be born in the spring must be given sufficient food to produce daily gains on the sows of one-half or three-fourths of a pound. To do this the grain feed must be limited, and diluted with some roughage, for unless the ration has sufficient bulk, the sows will become constipated and hungry, due to the undisturbed condition of the digestive tract. Legume hays are the chief roughages available at this season, and their use will cheapen the cost of feeding.

Either alfalfa, clover, soy-bean, or cow pea hay makes an excellent roughage, and when fed, little or no high-priced protein concentrate is needed to balance the corn. Bright, leafy alfalfa hay gives the best results of any of these roughages. Alfalfa meal is simply the best grade of alfalfa hay chopped into a meal. Clover hay contains almost as much nourishment as alfalfa hay, and soy-bean hay, cut and cured when the beans are almost ripe, is a very nutritious feed. Cowpea hay should be cut when the first peas are ripening and consequently does not have as high food value as soy-bean hay. Great care must be exercised in curing soy-bean and cowpea hay, for the stalks are very heavy and succulent and unless thoroughly dried are apt to mold. Under no condition should a brood sow be fed upon any roughage which is not bright, nutritious, and free from smut or mold. She does not relish or thrive on such inferior feed. It is very apt to cause severe digestive troubles and may lead to the loss of her litter.

W. F. Bradford, of Florence, Secretary of the Milk Producers Association, was a business visitor to Burlington last Saturday.

Give The Orchard A Chance.

Lexington, Ky. — The Extension Horticulturist of the College of Agriculture has been conducting demonstration orchards in various counties in the State of Kentucky. In practically every county has been found that where good methods have been applied and good management given the orchard profitably returns have been received. Mr. Joseph Polin, Springfield, Ky., had one of the demonstration orchards during the 1920 season. This orchard contained approximately an acre and part of the trees were not given treatment in order to demonstrate what treatment would do as a means of comparison. Mr. Polin has submitted the following figures as representing his seasons work.

The treated trees produced over 42 bushels of number one fruit and some of these apples were sold during the summer and some were kept for winter use and the price is estimated at the present figures, which makes the total value of the 42 bushels—$101. The cost of giving this orchard the necessary treatment such as pruning, and spraying was estimated at $20, making a net profit of over $80 on less than an acre. In speaking of this Mr. Polin stated the returns are much more than he had expected taking into consideration the condition of the orchard; but he is convinced that by giving the orchard good treatment and spraying the orchard with fertilizing they round, pruning and spraying the trees that the orchard on the average farm in Kentucky, can be made to bring in handsome returns. At least it will more than pay its way, which will mean considerable to the people when it is possible for them to have all the fruit they want besides some to sell in order to defray operating expenses. This orchard can be taken as a fair representation of the general orchard conditions in the state and it well illustrates what can be done by good management.

That the figure 13 was an important factor in the life of Rosecoe Ashley, whose funeral services were held Friday afternoon, Rev. J. W. Weldon officiating with burial in Grapevine cemetery, is evinced by many events which marked his career occurring on the nineteenth day. He enlisted while residing in Arizona, Sept. 19, 1917; he was wounded Sept. 19, 1918; and died in a French hospital on Nov. 18th, 1918. At the time Ashley was wounded he was attached to Battery B, 34th Field Artillery, 8th Division. The body arrived in Madisonville for interment on November 19.—Madisonville Hustler.

W. R. Davalville, who recently sold his residence in Burlington, rented from Bert Sullivan his farm just south of town, and moved there last week.

Miss Alice Carver and Mr. K. P. Boserup, Petersburg, were calling on friends in Burlington, last Sunday afternoon.

FARM BUREAU NOTES.

The directors of Boone Co. Farm Bureau met last Saturday afternoon. Several members not on the board attended. We are glad to have members attend as these meetings are all open meetings, and every has a standing invitation to attend, and make known his opinions.

Several who have been soliciting for the money to pay Mr. Sutton's expenses turned in their papers. About $250 of the $400 had been signed up at that time. The Farm Bureau wants to express its appreciation of the way in which these men have worked and to thank all those who donated so liberally to this fund. We hope by the time all the papers are in the question of obtaining a Court Agent for 1921 will be favorably answered.

The Milk Producers and Farm Bureau members met at Florence Nov. 26th, and took orders for feed. The next night they met at Hebron. About 150 tons were placed and bids for prices were placed last Thursday. All were rejected however. Another meeting will be held at Florence Dec. 18th. The Farm Bureau is working on prices, and we hope we have better ones than have yet been offered. Any one wishing to order feed please let us know before Dec. 18th.

Mr. E. H. Surface, of Florence, besides subscribing his part towards Mr. Sutton's salary, came in and paid his dues as a member of the Bureau for next year. Mr. Surface is well pleased with the Bureau and is doing all he can to make it successful. The first meeting of members for 1921.
LEWIS C. BRENNON,
Manager Boone Co. Farm Bureau.

High School Notes.

E. A. Skillman and Miss Skillman were Cincinnati visitors Saturday, Miss Virginia Clure was also a visitor in the city.

Most all the students are longingly looking forward to the Christmas holidays. School will be dismissed on Friday, Dec. 24, and will convene Monday, Jan. 3. This will give the pupils a rest of nine days.

The next regular meeting of the Literary Society will be held Friday evening, Dec. 24. This will be a Christmas number and the public is cordially invited to attend. At the last meeting there were 25 visitors in attendance.

The first number of our Lyceum Course was a distinct success and greatly enjoyed by everyone. The students worked very hard to sell tickets and the unusually large crowd present was proof that their efforts were not in vain. There will be five more numbers and no doubt they will all be as generously patronized as the first one. As soon as we receive the date and name of the second attraction, the same will be announced in the Recorder.

We have just received over $100 worth of Science equipment. This material was ordered six weeks ago, and our experimental work has been held up considerably on this account. From now on classes in Physics and Biology will be able to do much more thorough work.

The class in expression under the direction of Miss Mattie Kreylich, will present a play entitled "Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yards." This play will be given in Library Hall, Wednesday, Dec. 23d, 1920, at 8 p. m. The list of characters are as follows:

Mrs. Briggs—a woman of business—Miss Isabelle Duncan.
Her Family—
Ralph Mr. Wilford Rouse.
Jimmy Mr. Franklin Huey.
Alvin Master Robert Hensley.
Melissa Miss Elizabeth Hensley.
Silas Green—"A near Relation"—Mr. Clayton Brown.
—Mr. Lee—a wealthy neighbor—Owen Acton.
Virginia Lee—his daughter—Miss Mary Beas Cropper.
Daisy Thornton—her friend—Miss Marion Rogers.
Mrs. O'Connor—with no liking for goats—Miss Mattie Kreylich.
Mandy Bates—whose tongue will stumble—Miss Bessie Baldon.

107 Horses Bring $87,546.

The thoroughbred market continues strong, judging from the excellent results of the sale held at Lexington last Thursday. One hundred and seven horses sold for $87,546, or an average of $818. Jeff Livingston sold 37 mares for $20,275. Rome Reesop bought seven of them for $11,100. Among them was the Kentucky Oaks winner, Lillian Shaw. John E. Madden sold 29 mares for $24,325. The racer King Gorin was sold in order to dissolve the partnership between Bob Baker, Hebron, and J. C. Bright. S. K. Nichols secured the horse for $3,000.

PETERSBURG.

Owing to its dilapidated condition the State Fire Marshal has ordered the raising of the town building next door to Col. Graddy's home.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berkshire, Nov. 23d, a nine and one-half lb. girl, Roberta Baker, and baby doing fine. Thanks to Dr. Nunnally and the nurse.

Captain Allen was here the past few days dismantling the steamer Pauline. He has shipped the boiler to Louisville and will junk the remainder of the craft.
The anti-fur market by the school on Wednesday afternoon before Thanksgiving, was pronounced by many to be the best they had ever attended. The program included every department of the grades and high school in numbers.

John Botts spent last Sunday with her daughter Mrs. D. B. and family.

Carl Walton and family, of Petersburg, spent Saturday and Sunday with A. B. Renaker and wife.

Mr. Eli Fisk, Jr., of Alexander, Campbell county, attended county court in Burlington, Monday, and while in town called at this office and subscribed for the Recorder.

Powers & Johnson, of Walton, sold the dairy Ryan farm of 20 acres to C. W. Montgomery, of Grant county, for $5,500.

Wool has declined to decline in price ever since the Boone County pooled wool was sold and has reached 25 cents a pound. It seems the demand is for fine wool while that grown in this county is an excellent article of coarse wool. The marine sheep produced the grade of wool for which there is a demand this year.

The toughest problem that has confronted Courtney Walton since he became a citizen of Erlanger, was sprung on him one rainy day recently, to-wit: How to get four tons of coal in the basement of his residence, it having to be handled three times, but he accomplished the solution by a combination of muscle and hustle and the feat is now the town topic.

Russell Smith who resides about one mile north of town, suffered an attack of appendicitis last Sunday and was taken to the Deaconess Hospital, Cincinnati, Monday. He was operated on and his appendix removed by Drs. Zinke and Dunn Tuesday morning. Mr. Smith has revived from the operation and is in as good physical condition as could be expected. This was the second acute attack Mr. Smith had suffered, and he has not been entirely well since his first attack.

The necessity of a good lighting system for the court house was shown last Thursday night, during the entertainment given by the McDonald Birch Co. for the Boone County High School. The court house should by all means, be equipped with one of the modern lighting plants as nearly every night some part of the building is used by the county officials, transacting business for the citizens. It would not be out of place for the Fiscal Court to have installed in the court house a modern lighting plant, the cost of which would be so small that no additional tax levy would have to be made for that purpose. Some people object to every improvement that is made in any of the public buildings but upon completion of the improvements point to them with pride.

The Rural Letter Carriers, of the Sixth Congressional District, met at Odd-Fellows Hall, in Covington, Saturday night, December 4th. Many of the carriers of Northern Ky., were present and enjoyed the interesting talks of State President M. L. Ransell, of Harrodsburg, and State Secretary C. V. Martin, of Bloomfield.

J. W. Wood made a very interesting report of the National Convention, which was held at Dallas, Texas.

The following officers were elected for the year 1921:

President, J. W. Wood, Corinth, Ky.

Vice-President, L. L. Childress, Erlanger, Ky.

Sec.-Treasurer, J. R. Rouse, Covington.

Executive Committee W. N. McCrander, Verona, Robert Wheeler, Alexandria, Ky., Elijah Stephens, Burlington, Ky.

The next meeting will be held the third Saturday night in April. Every carrier should have made an effort to have attended this meeting. They were standing in their own light when they did not, and also shifting their responsibilities on some one else's shoulders.

ELIJAH STEPHENS.

PETERSBURG,

Geo. W. Rector was born May 3, 1842, and departed this life Nov. 28th, 1920, being 78 years 9 months and 25 days old. He was married to Susan Sullivan Jan. 19, 1871. To this union thirteen children were born, nine of whom are living, five sons and four daughters. Besides the children he leaves one brother and 21 grandchildren. His wife having departed this life Nov. 21, 1904.

Robert Hoffman and wife are the guests of their brother-in-law Frank Collier, who is critically ill. Glen Northcutt, of Covington, was visiting relatives here the past few days.

H. Clay Hensley was called to Covington last Thursday owing to the serious illness of his mother.

The Petersburg Charade Club issues a challenge to the Burlington Charade Club. A return game is desired.

Mrs. Carrie Mahan gave a Charade party in honor of her sister Miss Belle Black and Mrs. Anna Woods, of Hartford, Indiana.

W. T. Evans and wife left last Friday to spend the winter with their son, John, of Covington.

The McDonald-Birch Co., entertainment at the Christian church was enjoyed by a large crowd on Friday evening, Dec. 3rd. This was the first number of the Conventional Lyceum Bureau Course. Five other numbers at intervals of two weeks or a month will be given. The winter season tickets are purchased for the remaining five numbers.

A delicious dessert which will delight the children or even the grown-ups is:

Stewed Figs, Lemon Jelly and Custard. — Pour boiling water over a pound of figs, and let boil rapidly until tender; add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and let simmer a few minutes to form a sirup. Set aside to chill. For the jelly soften one-fourth of a two-ounce package of gelatine in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water and dissolve in three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water; add half a cupful of sugar and two-thirds of a cupful of lemon juice. A package of lemon jelly will do away with the above work, if it is at hand. Pour into a dish to make a sheet about three-fourths of an inch thick. When chilled and set, cut in cubes. Set the figs and sirup in individual dishes, arrange the cubes of jelly around the figs and pour a custard over-all.

Ribbon Cake.—Cream one scant cupful of butter; add gradually two and one-third cupfuls of flour with four and one-half teaspoonsful of sugar, and four eggs one after the other without beating; sift four cupfuls of flour with four and one-half teaspoonsful of baking powder; add to the first mixture, alternately with one cupful of milk. Bake two-thirds of the mixture in two layer cake pans. Add the following to the rest of the cake mixture: One cupful each of nut meats and raisins, one-half cupful each of currants, citron and cherries (the fruit is minced and the nutmeats broken in bits); add two tablespoonsful each of molasses and cocoa, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves. Put the layers together with fruit jelly, cover with boiled frosting and decorate with halves of walnut meats.

How to Cook Pork Chops.—Arrange the chops in a heavy iron frying pan with just water enough in the pan to cover the bottom; steam and cook uncovered until the water is evaporated, then brown, season and serve. The chops will be well done, well seasoned and not dry.

YEGGMEN

Rob The Vault of The Walton Bank & Trust Co. of Safety Deposit Boxes.

Yeggmen entered the vault of the Walton Bank and Trust Company, Walton, Ky., about 2 o'clock last Monday morning, and "poked into" the safety deposit boxes, but did not attempt to get into the bank safe. The boxes contained property belonging to customers of the bank and until they report what was in the boxes the extent of the loss can not be determined. One of the boxes contained all of the sample money order blanks of the Walton postoffice. A postal inspector found that stamps to the value had been stolen.

The large vault door was opened by pulling off the combination, the inner vault doors were forced with a "jimmy." The Walton Bank and Trust Company carried insurance on all of their property, and they will lose nothing by the robbery. The bank is a member of the American Bankers Association and the Kentucky Bankers Association, and both of these associations offer rewards for the arrest of any one robbing a member bank. The Burns Detective Agency is employed by the American Bankers Association to put detectives on all cases of this kind. This insurance company has a detective force employed, who will assist the Burns Agency in trying to locate and arrest the guilty parties.

Joe Hopperton, who lives next to the bank, heard the yeggmen when they broke into the building about two o'clock in the morning, also when the vault door was broken open. She was so frightened she did not attempt to notify any one that the bank was being burglarized.

A Real Christmas Present

The holiday season with its joy and its problems is upon us. What shall we do to add to the happiness of the occasion? Every one of us would like to give to our friends a Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year, but to give them one we cannot do this by giving them a gift of money. Thoughtless gifts cause the January ash can to bulge with debris. Only when our gifts have lasting meaning do they carry the message of good-will which is the spirit of real giving.

We can give happiness and contentment and safety for the future as well as for the present moment. Such gifts are within reach of all. They are to be found in the Savings Securities of the U. S. Government. From the Third $1000 to the $10,000 Treasury Savings Certificate, they will carry with them not only the greetings of the season but happiness and contentment. Presenting the child a card with one thrift stamp affixed, you bestow not only a present but a habit which will grow in value as the days pass, for he will wish to fill the card. That little gift will have grown wonderfully before another Xmas comes around, and the recipient will be on the way to a life of independence.

Big Increase in Land Prices.

During the last five years the selling price of farm land and improvements in the United States has increased 65 per cent, according to estimates made by the Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report to the President, December, 1919.

Although the data for the 1920 census not yet available, it seems probable, the Secretary said, that the average price of farm land and improvements per acre increased only 29 per cent during the 40 years from 1880 to 1900. The price of farm land in 1919 was 120 per cent of the price of 1910 and five times that of 20 years ago.

Get Your Auto License

Up to the present time about 45 auto licenses have been issued by the County Clerk since distribution of tags began on the 15th inst.

The new license tags are the same as those of 1920 with white letters and figures with a beaver colored background. Under the new system of registering automobiles it will be necessary for owners to give up favorite numbers. Cars in Boone county are numbered from 7901 to 8100. Auto license tags will be filed with the County Clerk by the last day of Dec. and those who fail to get their license by that time will be subject to a fine. Better attend to this before it is too late.

Ordained as Deacons

C. L. Gaines and L. R. McNeely were ordained as deacons of Burlington Baptist church last Saturday afternoon. The following ministers were present and assisted in the ordination: J. W. Campbell, Bullittsburg; C. E. Baker, Bellevue; Robert McNeely, East Bend; W. G. Wood, Dayton and R. F. DeMolay, the regular pastor, Walton. Bellevue, Bullittsburg, and Gunpowder churches were represented by their deacons. The selection of Mr. Gaines and Mr. McNeely as deacons, puts in that responsible position two of the younger men of that church and the membership will know that they will perform their duties with honor to the church and credit to themselves.

Farmers Boat Low Market; Make Wool Into Blankets.

Farmers of North Carolina, assisted by a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State College of Agriculture, have found that there are more ways than one to dispose of wool. They are having their wool manufactured into blankets and expect to sell the blankets. About 15,000 pounds of wool produced in North Carolina has been handled in this manner. The bottom dropped out of the wool market for North Carolina. Three wool sales which were to be held at Washington, Greensboro, and Asheville, have been abandoned due to the fact that there was no market for the wool at prices acceptable to the farmers. After the sales were canceled a large manufacturing company, with establishments at Winston Salem and Elkin, was interested in the proposition to make up the wool of individual farmers into blankets. A representative was stationed at Elkin to receive the wool. Each consignment was weighed and graded, and a report made up showing just how many blankets of a certain grade and quality could be made from the lot. This is a manufacturing establishment the necessity of advancing cash for wool on an uncertain market. Many of the farmers are now arranging to place their blankets on the market. It is estimated that their wool will average them something like 50 to 55 cents a pound and in some cases more. The State College experiment station netted approximately 73 cents a pound, and that from a state test farm approximately 84 cents a pound.

Excitement at Erlanger.

Considerable excitement has been aroused among citizens of Erlanger, Ky., as a result of what is known as the candy case. It is the story of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Gurney, Commonwealth Ave., Erlanger. Mr. Gurney is chief clerk of the railway mail service at Cincinnati. It is said that on two occasions within the last week candy was found on the porch of the Gurneys. The candy was placed there by Nancy Gayle Gurney, ten years old, and Elizabeth Katherine Gurney, eight years old. Authorities are investigating.

Foot-and-Mouth Disease.

"The Department is responsible for the protection of the livestock industry against the introduction of nearly a score of serious foreign livestock diseases," declares the Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report, just made public.

"One of the most infectious and dangerous of these," he adds, "is foot and mouth disease, which exists nowhere in the United States at the present time, but is a constant menace because of the facility with which it may be carried by animals, hides, and various livestock products."

"The importance of prompt action in eliminating any centers of infection whenever they develop emphasizes the necessity of providing an adequate insurance fund, available for immediate use. Such a fund to be used only in case of actual outbreak, has been carried on the books of the Department since 1907, and its appropriation at the last session of Congress, leaving an amount which is entirely inadequate to cope with serious outbreaks."

"While, through good fortune, no outbreak has far occurred during the current fiscal year, it would certainly be the part of wisdom to make liberal provision for dealing with this dangerous disease, and the department, therefore, has recommended in its estimates for the next fiscal year, 1921, that the appropriation be restored to its former figure."

NOTICE—I will receive cream on Thursday instead of Friday, because Christmas is coming. Xmas coming on Saturday. Thereafter will receive on my regular day. J. O. HURT, Cashier of Hebron Deposit Bank, was a business visitor to Burlington Saturday afternoon.

Increase in Boone County Property Over 1919 Assessment.

County Tax Commissioner, R. W. Riley, has completed the 1920 assessment of property in Boone county. The grand total of all classes of property in Boone for the year 1920 amounts to $1,332,625. This is an increase over the 1919 assessment of $834,625. 1311 dogs were listed with the assessor and there should be that number of licenses issued by the County clerk. Under order of the state Tax Commission the county tax commissioner was compelled to increase the assessment to 90 per cent valuation. The State Tax Commission has directed the county tax commissioner to increase the assessed values of property in this county for several years past. This is a duty that the County Tax Commissioner does not like to perform but he had to follow the order of the State Tax Commission. As land values are now on the decline, and the State is in need of funds, will the State Tax Commissioner order the County Tax Commissioner to reduce the assessed values? It will not be hard to answer this question. The administration now in power promised the people that if elected, they would reduce taxes, that statement was made for political purposes. Any person who had given thought or consideration to that question would know that taxes could not be reduced by that an increase was inevitable.

George Slayback.

George M. Slayback, son of Jesse and Margaret Slayback, born December 3rd, 1853, in Boone county, Ky., died Dec. 12th, 1920, at the home of his son Ed, at Lexington, Ky., aged 67 years and 3 days.

Married to Mary P. Swim Aug. 12th, 1869. To this union was born one son, Ed. Slayback, a daughter, George A. of Beaver Lick; Ed. of Crescent Springs; Pearl, of Marshall, Ind.; Jesse E. of Cincinnati, Ohio; and one son, Norwood, Ohio. Besides these children he leaves his wife, 7 grandchildren, one great grand child and a host of friends and acquaintances. He was a member of the Methodist church at Marshall, Ind. Farewell dear wife and children all.

Wants the Dog Law Enforced.

Judge N. R. Riddell, Burlington, Ky. Dear Sir: I am writing to ask your co-operation in the enforcement of the DOG LAW. In many counties I am advised that there is no money in the County Dog Fund with which to enforce the law. I claim arising from the administration of this law.

Ready for Distribution.

According to an announcement just made by W. D. Nichols, head of the Department of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, the second annual edition of the Farm Account Books, issued by the Extension Department of the University, are off the press and ready for distribution to the farmers of Kentucky. Some changes have been made since the first edition, last year which have made it an improvement over former editions. The book contains ample room for an inventory of the farm together with space for receipts and expenditures and other items of farm business.

A Nice Xmas Gift.

While you are wondering what you will give him or her for Christmas, remember that a year's subscription to the Boone County Recorder will guarantee many happy days during 1921 to a friend or relative who is away from the home and you have not the time to write them the news every week. It will bring joy to them and give you the comforting satisfaction of knowing that they will be enabled to hear from home once every week. A gift that will be appreciated fifty-two times a year. Send us your subscription to the Recorder to some friend or relative for you. DO IT NOW.

The Man Who Saves.

The man who saves something every year is on the road to prosperity. It may not be possible to save much. If not, save a few dollars a year. A dime a day is too small a sum to lay by. Everybody knows how little expenditures get away with large sums. But it is one thing to save a dime a day and another to save a dollar a year. A dime a day makes a large hole in a man's income, but a dollar a year makes a small hole. A dime a day makes a large hole in a man's income, but a dollar a year makes a small hole. A dime a day makes a large hole in a man's income, but a dollar a year makes a small hole.

Better Tag Your Dogs.

Dog license tags for 1921 are now available at the County Clerk's office, and out of 1300 or more dogs listed, only about one hundred owners have applied for licenses. Licenses must be secured before January 1, and delinquents are liable to fine. Last year several fines were assessed against dog owners who failed to secure licenses. If you fail to get a tag for your dog and the grand jury returns an indictment against you for harboring a dog without license, don't blame the officers for they are only enforcing the law.

Can This Be True?

That the Federal Government apparently thinks twice as much as the State Government, and fifty times as much as domestic animals in general as it does of infants, is the assertion of Mrs. Maude Wood Park, chairman of the National League of Women Voters, who is in Washington to urge the passage of the Shepley-Towner bill for public protection of maternity and infancy and other legislation for the benefit of women.

In support of her contention Mrs. Park points to the Congressional appropriations. "Congress last year gave the Children's Bureau only $368,169," she said. "For the same year more than $1,000,000 was appropriated for the work of the Bureau of Animal Industry in protecting domestic animals, and $100,000 of this amount for the eradication of hog cholera. While the eradication of pests is important work and should receive due consideration, the protection and development of child life is of vastly more importance."

The United States is wasting lives of children and babies, she points out, as more than 23,000 women died in child birth last year, in the United States.

Provisions Should be Made.

Immediate consideration should be given by Congress to plans for extending the Federal road building program, the period for which was originally set at five years, terminates with the close of the present fiscal year, declared the Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report to the President. In order that there may be no halting in the work it is hoped, he said, that the Congress will, at the next session, provide additional appropriations to extend the program under the terms of existing legislation with certain modifications, at the rate of $100,000,000 a year for a period of five years, beginning with July 1, 1921.

Future legislation, the Secretary said, should not disturb the principle of the Federal road program, which has been tried out and found to be so satisfactory, and only those changes should be made which experience has clearly shown to be desirable.

Step It.

There is a predisposition upon the part of some people to be continuously complaining, and it is not about one thing, then it is about another. Burlington is no exception to the rule, and it has its quota of "grumblers." If the weather man sends rain they contend it should be snow; if it snows they are all prepared for such weather, etc., and so goes the complaining for morning until night. But there is a remedy for this chronic grumbling. Let these chronic grumblers find some kind of employment. If work can not be had at home, let them go elsewhere and seek employment. Nothing is more conducive to health, happiness and good citizenship, in which one does not find time to complain or to parade the faults of his neighbor from one store to another.

Highways a Serious Problem.

Highways construction and maintenance have always been a problem, which has now become a serious one. When automobiles were first introduced the existing roads, which had been designed for horse traffic, were found to be unsuitable and blundering madmen with heavy foundations were widely adopted. The widespread use of automobiles brought about extensive construction of highways adapted to the needs of the motorist. In catering to these needs the weight of the vehicle was hardly considered. By the time the time the trucks first came into general use many of the states had built excellent highway systems which represented an enormous expenditure in addition to high maintenance costs.

The heavy truck with solid tires introduced a type of traffic for which the roads were entirely inadequate. Foundations were not strong enough to support this concentrated load; surfaces were rapidly broken up and the miserable condition of the American roads today is the result. Communities which had been rarely able to carry previous maintenance expense found it impossible to keep pace with the trucks. It was found useless to repair roads of the lighter-madam type, and a few of the trucks were torn them out. Even when roads were built to withstand traffic by trucks of a certain weight, they were found to be unsuitable with disastrous results by still heavier vehicles. Comparatively new roads have been rendered unfit for use before the trucks which financed them were retired.

Under the present system of road financing it is impossible to build all roads of a type which can bear heavy truck traffic. A good concrete road costs from $10,000 to $20,000 a mile, but a dirt road is more than communities can afford.

The head of Alexander Hamilton will adorn the new $10,000 stamp, which will be to the design of a green tint. It is interesting to note that this will be the first time that the head of the U. S. Treasury has been placed on a Government saving security. The new $10,000 Certificate will be of a design and to the design of the $10,000 and $50,000 certificates, although different in color.

SMALL-POX

Several Cases in Vicinity of Petersburg—All Residents Quarantined.

Drs. Nunnally and Yelton were called to Petersburg last Saturday by Dr. Jackson, of Aurora, who had been treating a patient for what he pronounced as smallpox. Drs. Nunnally and Yelton agreed with Dr. Jackson in his diagnosis. It was found that two families just below Petersburg had cases of smallpox, and the Health Board at once quarantined these residences, and also ordered the Petersburg school dismissed, and also ordered that no public gathering be held in any of the churches until further notice. The patients thought that they had cases of chicken-pox and the other members of the families had been going about the neighborhood, and it is feared that the disease may break out in other families. Every one who has been exposed to any of these patients or members of their families should be vaccinated. At this writing no cases have developed in the town of Petersburg.

Would Be a Calamity.

Undaunted by a chorus of disapproval, the Rev. J. B. Acham pastor of Walnut Hills Methodist church, protested strongly at the Methodist Ministers' association meeting Monday against bringing Billy Sunday to Cincinnati to conduct a revival.

"After close observation of a six days' meeting conducted by Mr. Sunday I believe that it would be a calamity to bring him here," the minister, who is strictly known because of his overseas service with the Cincinnati Base hospital, said. "Men and women who are thoughtfully and sincerely given to religion, and who may be brought to have part in this thing will regret it at the end of their days. Without discussing further the subject, I say that if he will not have any effect, I must protest, from the depths of my being, against the methods of Sunday and against that evangelist hold-a-revival here."

Although on a motion put by the Rev. D. Lee Aultman, the vote to endorse the proposed revival, was carried, the minister, who is strictly known because of his overseas service with the Cincinnati Base hospital, said. "I have been told that in Springfield this was done, and it was more than a year before."

"The production of natural asphalt has received a great impetus from the extensive road building programs of the various States. The fact that it is readily mined and can be laid, sold by unskilled workmen has made it possible to surface roads in a high way with asphalt where the cost and physical difficulty of laying the hot mixed asphalt prohibited the use."

Did you ever stop to think that your neighbor is entitled to the same consideration that you ask and expect for yourself? Right in your own community are there those who think that it is a crime for anyone to oppose their views, and no matter how odious their opinions they expect you to accept them as a "matter of course." Why throw slurs at your neighbors, no good can come from such doings. "Cut it out."

BOONE CIRCUIT COURT

Conner, with his deputies to see to the jurors and serve processes were on the job, while Commonwealth's Attorney, John J. Howe was on hand to prosecute all evil-doers.

Fourteen of the largest coal mining counties in the State of Kentucky receive from the state treasury for school purposes $687,816.25 the same time these same counties pay into the treasury $245,393.08. The agricultural counties are carrying the tax burdens of the State and (unlucky) the money to educate the children of the big rich coal counties. There should be some way to compel these pauper counties to pay their rightful share of taxes to the State.

Mrs. H. W. Duncan returned home last Sunday from Lexington Hospital, where she had been operated upon for appendicitis.

Oats Economical Crop.

It is sound farm business to sell some crops for cash. Farm management surveys have shown that the safest and soundest practice is to have about one-fifth of the total receipts on the farm come from sale of crops. The other four-fifths will come from the sale of live stock or livestock products.

The crop that can usually be sold for cash most economically is oats. Oats are not generally as profitable a crop to grow as some others, but a good rotation needs this small grain in it. It makes a very satisfactory connecting link between the corn crop and the hay crop. Corn, if sold as a cash crop, makes a larger return to the acre, but corn can usually be fed more profitably than it can be sold for cash. It is ordinarily a cheaper feed than oats. Hence, if any crop is to be sold, it should be the oats.

LaGrange—Jon Pickles, 68 years old, three years after the death of his first wife, traveled 3,000 miles to the home of his youth in Kingley, England. There he met the sweetheart of his boyhood days, Mrs. Ann Wigglesworth, 48. He wooed and won her and brought her to LaGrange. Her husband, world war veteran, a nephew of the bride, accompanied them here.

New burley sales on the Louisville breaks last week totaled 140 hogheads at an average price of 19.35c a pound, compared with 11.85c for the 256 hogheads sold previously this season. Nineteen hogheads of 1927 dark have been sold—thus far, the average being 1.95c a pound.

Rejections of burley sales were 31 per cent of auction sales and rejections of dark were 41 per cent in both the like weeks of last year and 1918 total rejections were 15 per cent.

Next year all county officers will be elected, besides a Circuit Judge for this district, a Commonwealth Attorney, Representative and State Senator. It is said there may be a woman candidate for one or more of the county offices. From present indications there will be one or two hot fights for the nomination for county offices, as several aspirants have already inaugurated an active campaign, which will be vigorously prosecuted until the primary next August.

There are more northern people going to Florida in automobiles this winter than ever before. There is hardly a day passes that a number of autos on Michigan and other northern States do not pass through Palm Beach en route south. The most of these carry whole families and camping outfits. They say that they can motor to Fla., and spend the winter cheaper than pay $25 per ton for coal in the north.

According to the law of gravity, everything that goes up comes down. It is also true that the pendulum goes so far and then swings back. This can also be applied to business from the beginning of the world. Prices on everything during and since the war reached the sky. The high prices in most cases were the result of unusual conditions in the world, but some were fictitious and were boosted by profiteers. The slump had to come and it should not catch any one asleep at the switch.

According to the reports received from over the Burley Tobacco District this year's crop will weigh much less than had been expected. The tobacco is very light in this county and very fine in quality, so growers must have a good price or they will lose money on their years work.

Rev. Dubois preached two interesting sermons at the Baptist church last Sunday morning and evening.

Wilson and Noble Prize.

It would have been strange if Woodrow Wilson had not received the Nobel Peace Prize. The will of Alfred Bernhard Nobel, which left $9,000,000 to this foundation, provided that each year five prizes should be awarded to those persons whose work had contributed most to the progress of the world and the welfare of humanity in five great divisions of learning and advancement—physics, medicine, chemistry, literature and peace.

In 1906 Theodore Roosevelt received the prize for his successful efforts to end the Russo-Japanese War. In 1912 it was granted to Elmer Root for his admirable work in the interest of world peace as a member of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague and as president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Aside from Mr. Wilson, they are the only two Americans who have been thus honored, although the prize has been granted since 1901.

It may be claimed, of course, that our victorious armies settled the conflict, and that is true. Yet the war might have lasted months longer, with its wounding and killing and maiming, if some tangible all-embracing plan acceptable to both sides had not been proposed. Mr. Wilson submitted that plan. For that alone he deserved the Nobel Prize.

But the story of Mr. Wilson's contribution to the cause of international peace does not end there. The Fourteenth Point dealt with the future. It proposed an association of nations which would make future wars impossible, so far as anything devised by humanity can accomplish that. Accordingly, the last war settled, Mr. Wilson went to Europe with his plan for world peace. He was privately jeered by Old-World statesmen who had no intention of abandoning the balance of power theory, since the result of the war gave the balance of power into their hands. The spoils were theirs, not a just and equitable settlement and a supposedly crazy idealistic plan to bury balance of power and adopt a system for the future which would comprise all the nations of the world working together for international concord.

To Clemenceau's "We'll have none of that," Mr. Wilson retorted. "The United States will join no group or combination of Powers which is not a combination of all. We are not interested merely in the peace of Europe, but in the peace of the world."

The great controversy was won by Mr. Wilson, and the Peace Conference of Versailles dispersed part of its work was the completed and signed Covenant of the League of Nations, which is functioning actively today. Mr. Wilson was not original in his conception of a world peace tribunal. The idea is 100 years old and has been the subject of experiment. But Mr. Wilson did "sell" the idea to Europe at a most critical time, and his salesmanship has borne fruit.

For mankind's immediate welfare Mr. Wilson contributed the programme of principles which ended the war; for its progress he made the League of Nations an accomplished fact. Ending the war was a tangible benefit; the fatherhood of the League, if that body accomplished one-tenth of the good which its complete success would bestow upon mankind, Mr. Wilson's contribution to the progress of the world and the welfare of humanity will be inestimably colossal.—C.J.

Marketing Cost Data Needed.

Washington, D. C.—Need for reliable data on the cost of marketing farm products to supplement similar information concerning the cost of production was pointed out by the Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report to the President. This want, he said, has been felt for some time.

In fact, he continued, "such data are essential to the correct understanding of our marketing processes and are fundamental to the development of plans for their improvement and the elimination of lost motion and unnecessary expenses. We should be able to indicate with a fair degree of accuracy the proportion of the consumer's price received by the producer and the proportion received by various marketing agencies. Studies with reference to the cost of marketing live stock, grain, milk, and potatoes are now under way, and it is highly desirable that they be extended as rapidly as possible to include other staple agricultural commodities."

The Negro Population

Philadelphia Record.

Heavy increases in the negro population of Baltimore and Cincinnati, and a drop in that of Louisville, help to explain why Maryland and Ohio went so strong to Republican at the recent election, while Kentucky held fast to its Democratic moorings. There can be little doubt that the large migrations of negroes from Southern to Northern States during the past few years have added materially to Republican strength north of the Mason and Dixon line, and at the same time have given the Democrats a tighter grip on the South by increasing the percentage of whites voters there. The flow of Tennessee to the Republicans does not disprove such a contention, as it was largely due to strictly local causes. Colorist men and women now are potent factors in the politics of such Middle Western States as Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, and must be reckoned with the future. There are possibilities of racial troubles in this condition of affairs which cannot be ignored. Chicago and East St. Louis have shown what the antagonism of black and white may lead to.

Personal Credit for Farmers

One of the national problems demanding special attention at this time is that of securing personal credit for farmers in the opinion of the Secretary of Agriculture, expressed in his annual report to the President.

"It is generally recognized," he said, "that one of the problems demanding special attention at this time is that of short time personal credit for farmers. In the case of a man who has paid for his farm, the supplying of personal credit raises, as a rule, no serious question. In the case of the renter, however, and of the young farmer who is just starting out as an owner, the question of short-time credit is a difficult one. In such cases credit can and should be based, to a considerable extent, upon character and productive ability. To deny credit to the honest, ambitious and energetic farmer because he has little tangible security to offer is to lessen the productivity of available capital and to discourage a man who, in the future, should be a land owning farmer. While the bankers are in many cases, showing a commendable and energetic need for a system which will enable the man without collateral to secure funds for productive agricultural enterprises. Without doubt this important problem should receive careful consideration, and every feasible effort should be made to aid the farmer in obtaining the necessary personal credit."

Sheriff L. A. Conner and Deputy Hume have purchased two Winchester rifles as part of the equipment of their office. These rifles may be needed at any time as the criminal element in this country are committing more crimes than during any other period in the history of this country.

Gov. Will Appoint Willis.

Gov. James M. Cox wired President-elect Woodrow Wilson, offering his co-operation in appointing Senator-elect Frank B. Willis to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Harding in the Senate. Mr. Cox's telegram follows:

"I read in the papers of your intention to resign from the Senate January 10 or 11, at which time you announce, the new Governor will appoint Senator-elect Willis. I have no doubt that in preparing for executive tasks you are desirous at the earliest possible moment of bringing the Senatorial responsibility to an end."

"If it will in any way give furtherance to your plans or aid to your convenience, I shall be very happy to appoint Mr. Willis immediately on your resignation."

"This suggestion is prompted by a spirit of helpfulness which must possess our people without regard to political association if Government is to meet the needs of humanity efficiently."

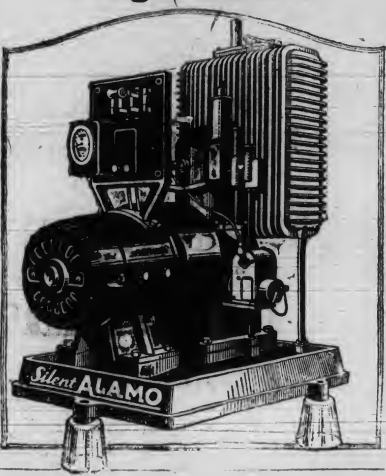

Signed "JAMES M. COX."

Nation's Stability Menaced.

Declaring that "when American agriculture begins to lose ground, the political stability of the Nation is endangered," the Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report to the President discussed the drift from the farms to the cities and emphasized the necessity of doing every thing possible to make farming profitable and country life more attractive.

"Life on the farm and in the rural community," he said, "gives rise to problems the solution of which is of vital importance to American agriculture and American civilization. It has been demonstrated that these problems are susceptible of scientific investigation."

Before Selecting Your Light Plant, Stop and Think What A Light Plant Is.

A real light plant is only purchased once in a life time, and the SILENT ALAMO is one of these plants.

The motor to a light plant is like a horse to a wagon.

Selecting a light plant is a proposition of selecting the right kind of a motor; for the motor has the work to do in lighting your home, running washing machine, pumping your water, running your separator, sweeping your house, running your electric iron, running your electric tools, and can be used for many other purposes.

No oil tanks to care for; no oil can to carry around, no concrete pillars to be made; no vibration—as you see this little ornament sitting here. Touch the button and start the motor and it will take care of itself automatically.

Read this ad carefully, and study it over before selecting your lighting plant.

Kentucky Asphalt.

Asphalt, the quality of which is like that used in the ordinary paving, is being mined like coal and quarried like rock in the Kentucky hills, says Popular Mechanics. No one has estimated the quantity of natural paving material to be found in the great natural beds--much of it lying so far underground and being so difficult to transport that it is probable that it will never be removed from the hills.

"Natural asphalt is a rock formation," says the writer, "which lies in thick veins or seams like coal. Years before the true character of the material was known the natives called the asphalt beds 'black rocks.' Geologists say the asphalt beds were once a great deposit of oil-bearing sand. Gradually the streams cut through the hills and allowed the lighter oils to drain off or evaporate. This left a black, sticky residue, known to road men as bitumen. The bitumen bound the sand together into the rock formation.

"Most sheet asphalt is a mixture of bitumen and sand. To turn out the finished product in Kentucky it is necessary to break up and pulverize the natural asphalt rock. The pulverized rock can be spread upon the road and rolled, giving a sheet asphalt surface just like the streets in any American city.

"First the natural asphalt is quarried like rock. Later the depth of the vein may result in a mining operation. The surface soil or overburden is removed with hydraulic pressure. A powerful stream of water uproots trees, dislodges rocks, and washes them away with the soil of the valley. This leaves the asphalt rock exposed and ready for blasting. Donkey locomotives, tractors and shovels carry the rock to the road.

"Getting the asphalt to the market is another big undertaking. The nearest available railroad point is Bowling Green, Ky., a distance of eleven miles by river. Two large steamboats and a fleet of barges are used in this traffic.

Jane Haley, the oldest person in Livingston county, and said to be the oldest woman in Kentucky, is dead. She was 100 years a month and seven days old. She lived in Livingston county all of her life. She leaves one daughter, fourteen grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Uncle Mit Crider, a familiar character of Mayfield and Graves, died a few days ago at the age of 84 years. Uncle Mit was an honest, conscientious man and had made several successful races for jailer. The fact that he died in the county poor house is all the more sad. Think of the many joyful hours people have spent in Graves county at the expense of this aged man and when he became too feeble to work and unable to care for himself, he was deserted by his friends. He was voted the most popular farmer in Graves county about 20 years ago in a newspaper contest. He remained loyal to his friends but was forgotten, missing him to die of a broken heart--Livingston Enterprise.

FARMERS AGAIN UN-
TIFY NATION'S FAITH

Have Produced Immense Harvest This Year in Face of Enormous Difficulties

The farmers of America have again justified the faith of the Nation in their ability to meet the requirements of food, feed and raw materials for clothing, says the Secretary of Agriculture in beginning his annual report to the President. They have proved this year in the face of enormous difficulties, he continues, the largest harvest in the history of American agriculture with a single exception.

The 1920 corn crop of 3,199,000 bushels is an unprecedented record, more than four-fifths of the world's production. The sweet potato crop of 106,000,000 bushels is the largest ever produced and far in excess of that of any other year except 1913. The rice crop of 52,000,000 bushels is one-fourth greater than the largest crop ever before harvested. The tobacco crop of 1,476,000,000 pounds considerably exceeds any previous yield. The sugar-beet crop is more than one-third larger than the largest ever before recorded. The grain sorghum crop of 149,000,000 bushels is 18 per cent above that of 1919, which was itself a record crop. The potato crop of 421,000,000 bushels has been exceeded only once, and then by a very narrow margin. The oat crop of 1,444,000,000 bushels has been exceeded only three times, and the tame hay crop of 88,000,000 tons only twice. The apple crop of 236,000,000 bushels has been exceeded only once in 1914. The yield of wheat, barley, buckwheat, rye, peas, peanuts, edible dried beans, flaxseed, and cotton are slightly below the average, but they, nevertheless, represent an enormous volume in the aggregate. The number of all classes of live stock on farms, although less than the number in 1919, exceeds by 18,214,000 the average for the five years preceding the outbreak of the European war.

These remarkable results, the Secretary points out, were achieved under great difficulties. In only four years of the last 37 the progress of plowing up to May 30 backward as in 1920. Farmers were discouraged. They saw no hope of reduction in the prices of fertilizer, machinery and supplies, which had steadily increased since 1914. The labor supply was approximately 37 per cent short and wages had risen to such a point in 1919 that the farmers were appalled at the thought of paying still higher wages in 1920. During the time when the farmers were enduring their crops, paying for labor and supplies at unusually high rates, the prices of agricultural commodities, generally remained high in mid-summer, when the farmers' period of outlay was nearly at an end and their income period was about to begin--after the problem of production had been solved--a sharp decline occurred in practically all farm products. Covering nearly everything the farmers had to sell, did not materially affect the articles they had to buy. The year's output, produced at a normally high cost, was worth at current prices $3,000,000,000 less than the smaller crop of 1919, and $1,000,000,000 less than the still smaller crop of 1918. A note of warning is sounded that the stability of agriculture in the U. S. is threatened unless farmers receive an adequate return for their products.

Adventure Of Sea Is Revived.

New York, Nov. 20--Shore-staying people who wag their heads and say that the romance and adventure of the seas went out with the clipper ships and better not express their views in the presence of any of the officers or men of the army transport President Grant, with her aides coated with green moss, has just tied up at Pier 2, Army Base, Brooklyn, after a nine-month voyage of some 45,478 sea miles, in which all hands, from Captain John Chambers, to the smallest Philippine boys, had all the adventure they desired, and then some.

And Captain Chambers may be said to be a good judge of adventure, for when he went to sea with the ship, he sailed around the world when 19 years smallest Philippine boys, had all ship, and has seen many strange things and tight squeaks in 40 years at sea.

It would be impossible to sum up the doings of the President Grant and her men on the long voyage equal to almost twice the distance around the globe at the equator, but they went through fire, storm, sudden death, births, a red-hot iron trap, heat, mosquitoes, typhoons, glassy seas and rescue at sea.

The cruise started February 23, and ended last Monday at 10 a. m. when the liner warped into harbor. The President Grant is 600 feet long, 18,072 tons capacity and had on board 345 officers and men.

Frankfort--The new auto license law passed by the last Legislature, making it the duty of the County Clerk to issue automobile registration plates. This statute provides that the County Clerk shall levy 30 cents each for issuing the tax, and another 50 cents for each plate. OFFICIALS CRITICISED

Kentucky Inspector Attacks Expense For Autos and Phones.

Gasoline and talk, the gasoline sometimes used for "joy riding," and the talk expended over the telephone in long distance tolls are the subjects of severe criticism by State Inspector James in his report to Governor Morrow on the activities of the State Road Department of Ky., from July 1, 1918 to July 1, 1920.

Inspector James called attention to the telephone and telegraph bills of the department for the year ending June 30th, 1920, which amounted to $246.29 and for the year ending June 30th, 1920, which amounted to $1,252.13.

"I have reached this conclusion, after examining the accounts, that the employees are too free with the long distance telephone and telegraph and have used them on numerous occasions when a letter would have answered the purpose just as well," his report sets

Taking up the expense account of the Division Engineers for gasoline and repairs to machine, Inspector James shows that some of the accounts are more than $200 a month.

H. E. Reed, of Louisville, had expense account amounting to $2,413.09 for the year ending June 30, 1919, and to $2,716.03 for the year ending June 30, 1920. T. B. Smith, of Bowling Green, had expense account amounting to $2,302.41 for the year ending June 30, 1919, and $2,390.96 for the year ending June 30, 1920.

In 1919 a number of automobiles were issued to the Road Department by the Federal Government to be used in road work throughout the state.

"These cars have been a very great expense to the state, and I am of the opinion that a great deal of this expense was useless and a waste of the state's money," said Inspector James.

"Many of the employees whose duties are mostly in the office in Frankfort are assigned cars. The storage, gasoline bills and upkeep of these cars have in some instances been out of reason." From August, 1919, to June 30, 1920, Inspector James said there was paid to a garage in this city $528.75 for gasoline, storage and repairs on account of the Franklin use by Highway Engineer J. S. Boggs. The car assigned to W. N. Bosler, road engineer, whose duties are most in the office here, Inspector James said, was paid by him to go to his home in Louisville on Saturday and return to Frankfort Monday morning.

There was paid by the state to a local garage on October 1, 1919, to June 30, 1920, $709.78 for storage, gasoline and repairs," he said.

"One of the most expensive cars of the department is a machine which cost the state $1,423.84 in ten months. On December 18 there is a charge of $7.75 for labor and a charge of $12.00 for gasoline on this car, yet it consumed $13.50 worth of oil and five gallons of gasoline, $13.50, on that day; on the 19th, while $8.50 was charged for labor, it consumed gasoline, amounting to $3.24, and one quart of oil, amounting to 40 cents, are charged on the same day."

The report says from July 1, 1913, to July 1, 1920, the State Road Department expended a total of $2,496,299.44 for road building in Kentucky. Of this total $167,734.75 was for surveying, $1,198,256.50 for state aid, $315,710.02 for convict labor, $547,934.01 for Federal aid; office account, $ 54,285.81; division engineers account, $101,157.83, and machinery account, $71,150.72.

Planning Wireless Market

The wireless telegraph, as a means of carrying to the farmers agricultural market news such as prices and conditions is to be tested by the Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Bureau of Standards. The experiment is to be tried in half a dozen Maryland and Virginia counties adjacent to the District of Columbia, and if successful, will be extended over the country.

The plans contemplate the eventual use of seventeen wireless stations over the country. The wireless news of market conditions and prices will be sent broadcast and arrangements will be made with numerous private licensed operators who would aid in distributing the reports to farmers and others interested in the territory covered.

Present plans for the system provide for the use of ten wireless stations with a 250-mile radius, eight in the East, where market centers are most numerous, and closer together, and two in the far West; two 300-mile radius stations to reach the outlying points of Maine and New York; one in the northeastern part of the country, and five 500-mile radio stations west of the Mississippi.

Each of the distributing radio stations would be connected with the Washington headquarters and other distributing stations by land telegraph wires of the present market news service of the department and twice a day would receive for immediate release by wireless, summarized reports of market conditions and quotations at the principal market centers and shipping points. Detailed reports of market conditions in the various territory, however, would also be released, as well as crop and weather reports issued by the Department of Agriculture.

A Week's News.

Last Wednesday, Dec. 8th, was the anniversary of the beginning of the worst winter weather this part of the country has ever known. On Dec. 8th, 1917, the snowfall began that marked the inception of the "war winter" of 1917-18. From midnight to midnight fourteen inches of snow fell. The temperature dropped to one below at midnight, December 8. From that time until February there was snow on the ground continually. One snow followed another. There was spell after spell of zero weather.

Pension disbursements for the fiscal year 1920 aggregated $218,395,314, according to the annual report of Commissioner Saltzger, of the Pension Bureau, made public today. The figures showed a decrease of about $9,000,000 from 1919 totals, and the report recorded the death during the year of $7,871 Civil War pensioners, leaving 348,590 soldiers of that war on the pension roll, in addition to 290,100 Civil War widows. While no survivors of the war of 1812 were shown, 71 widows of soldiers in that war are receiving government pensions.

Claims filed by creditors of Peter D. Magnuson, an extensive cattle and farm land dealer of Springfield, S. D., in the United States Court in Sioux Falls, apparently show he has liabilities of nearly $4,000,000, the creditors being banks and individuals in South Dakota, Sioux City, Ia.; Chicago, California, and other cities and States.

Many repairs to navy compasses have been made necessary during the past year by reason of the fact that the instruments have been broken open for the alcohol they contained, says the annual report of Rear Admiral J. A. Hoosewerf, superintendent of the Naval Observatory, to Secretary Daniels made public today.

No corn is being shipped from Petersburg, Indiana, which is one of the greatest corn-shipping points in the State. One hundred thousand bushels of corn are in crib in this vicinity, but farmers refuse to take fifty cents a bushel offered them by buyers and will hold for higher prices. There are still thousands of bushels of wheat in granaries in this county that were held for $3 a bushel. Some corn is changing hands, local feeders paying 65 and 70 cents a bushel for it.

Fingerprints are said to be unchangeable throughout life. Sir William Herschel, one of the earliest students of fingerprints, took the impression of all his fingers in 1866. He took them again fifty years later, and there was no alteration in the slightest detail.

At Leicester, England, there was an inn upon the wall of which years ago a pastor wrote: "I pray for all." The village lawyer, seeing in this a means for free advertising, wrote underneath: "I plead for all." One day a farmer thought he was justified in adding: "I feed all," and an army officer passing through the village left: "I fight for all." But an unknown author added the last line by writing, "I take them all—the devil." The host not wishing to show any partiality, has hung out his sign: "The House of All."

Willie, you have been fighting again, and lost two of your teeth." "No, I ain't ma. They're in my pocket!"

That Bordeaux mixture sprayed on tomatoes will increase the yield has been shown by the University of Kentucky, Experiment Station on a demonstration plot at Liver-Ky. Four sprays of the mixture were applied to the plot during the summer and those in charge of the demonstration state that the yield was increased 50 per cent. The first spray was applied when the plants were well established in the field and the other three at approximately two-week intervals. Those in charge of the experiment stated that green tomatoes were still on the vines when the season closed.

The United States uses annually between four and five million Xmas trees, according to the estimate of the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

During the last fiscal year 150,875 automobiles were exported to eighty-one foreign countries.

Dave Struck, a farmer of McCleary county, realized a return of $175 the past season from 14 acre patch of strawberries.

Up to the present time the enrollment in the boys and girls club work in Jackson county gives indications of exceeding any membership enrollment that the work in that county has ever known.

Walton Loose Leaf Warehouse

Opening Sale Wednesday, January 5th

Farmers Loose Leaf Warehouse

Opening Sale, Thursday, January 6th

Both houses will receive tobacco beginning with Saturday, January 1st. Growers will grade their tobacco on the stick, as none of the Warehouses employ graders as in the past.

It is to the interest of the growers and warehousemen to work in harmony and to the interest of each other. The faster warehousemen can unload tobacco the sooner the farmer can get away. If he will deliver his tobacco on the stick, sorted and graded, with but one grade or sort to the stick, it can be placed upon the basket rapidly and properly. Warehousemen can unload many more farmers in a day if they will bring in their tobacco this way. If warehousemen are compelled to sort tobacco as it comes off the wagon, it costs them time and money to do it; at the same time handicapping the farmer who comes in behind, subjecting him to a tedious wait, which means money to him.

To correct this, we shall hereafter charge ten cents per hundred pounds extra for sorting that comes to the warehouse off the stick. We give you ample notice that you may save yourself this expense, as well as labor to the warehousemen. Warehousemen lose money sorting tobacco; the grower loses time when that has to be done. It may be that the time for marketing tobacco on the loose leaf will be short this season and every effort must be made to handle the tobacco quickly and as much on each sale as possible, and this is more to the interest of the growers than anyone else.

CONTROL OF FRUIT INSECTS

Work Under Way by Department of Agriculture to Perfect Remedies for Various Pests.

United States department of agriculture reports plans completed, and work already under way in southern localities, for extensive experimental work in the control of insects affecting orchards, vineyards, nuts, and the like. Investigations of pecan insects will be concentrated at the Texas laboratory, now located at Brownwood. Particular attention will be given to perfecting remedies for the pecan weevil, the pecan nut case bearer, and related pests.

Work with peach insects is under way in Mississippi and Georgia, where further experiments are in progress in determining the comparative merits of spraying and dusting. Life-history studies of the codling moth are being continued in Delaware, the Yakima valley in Washington, the Rogue river valley in Oregon, and at a new laboratory in North Georgia.

The laboratory at Fresno, Calif., is devoting attention to the grape mealy-bug, which in recent years has become a troublesome pest of grapes. At the laboratory at Sandusky, Ohio, experiments and demonstrations are being made in control of the grape-berry moth and other grape pests of the region.

At the laboratories in Washington, additional studies of insecticides have been begun, including the study of the insecticidal constituents of plants. Group studies are under way of the arsenicals, the mineral-oils, sulphur compounds, and other groups.

CULTIVATE CHERRY ORCHARD

Work Should Be Continued Until the Trees Reach Bearing Age—Inter-Crop Is Favored.

Cultivate the cherry orchard just as you would cultivate a field of corn, and cultivate every season; or at least, until the trees have reached bearing age. Some growers use a mulch of straw and litter for two or three years but cultivation is better. An inter-crop in a cherry orchard is all right—some hard crop or some crop that requires constant cultivation. The general method is to discontinue cultivation after the orchard attains bearing age and get the land in sod, says a writer in an exchange. I, however, prefer cultivation at all times and have found that the orchard cultivated regularly gives much better results, especially in this true in seasons of drought, as the cultivation forms a mulch that conserves the moisture.

The general method for cultivating the cherry orchard is practically the same as that used in the apple orchard. Cultivate regularly until mid-summer, say the last of July. Then sow a cover crop for winter protection.

PREPARE LAND FOR ORCHARD

It is Better if Cultivated Crop is Grown for One Year Before Planting Sod Land.

On newly cleared timber land and sod land that has been in grass for some time, it is better if a cultivated crop be grown for one year before the orchard is planted. The ground should be put in as good condition as possible before the trees are set to insure the best growth. It is important to plow deep because it will be impossible to work the ground near the tree again.

Replace the trees in the orchard.

Apples set forth more heavily when there are bees in the orchard.

When Bartlett pears are cross-pollinated they bear more heavily.

Cover up the roots of the trees that have been exposed for wintering.

It has now become the general practice to train peach trees for an open center.

Put old grass away from small apple trees before the ground freezes. This will have one less reason for them.

ORDER GARDEN SEED EARLY.

Lexington, Ky. — The Kentucky farmer who wants to raise the best garden in his neighborhood will take time to figure how much seed will be needed for the different kinds of vegetables in 1921 season and will order these seed from some good reliable mail order house. It is the hit and miss gardener that is willing to take a chance on picking up any old kind of garden seed and planting it expecting to have a large crop of vegetables. Various tests and experiments have been conducted which show conclusively that certain varieties of vegetables will do well in the State of Kentucky while other varieties will not, and the College of Agriculture is ready to give out this information, as they have made extensive tests which will enable the farmers to know good varieties of vegetables.

The farmers garden should be the richest spot on the farm, as it is annually called upon to produce enormous quantities throughout the growing season. In order to do this it is necessary to have a good rich soil and to have good garden seed. The seed can be enriched by sowing a cover crop in the winter and plowing it under the following spring. This will help to increase the humus and enable the garden to produce as much as it should. By ordering the seed early and selecting good well-known and tried varieties, the garden can well be depended upon to produce the maximum crop of vegetables which should be found on every farm in Kentucky in order that the people may have the desired vegetables during the growing season.

Tax Exchange Expected.

Strong efforts will be made at the forthcoming session of Congress to amend the tax laws in two important particulars.

First, an effort will be made to increase again the rate of first-class postage to three cents an ounce.

Second, an effort will be made to put a stamp tax upon bank checks and other business instruments that heretofore have escaped taxation.

The object of this instrument is two-fold. It will provide much needed additional revenues to replace the expected loss in income and excess profits taxes for the calendar year 1920. It will obviate the apparent necessity for general revision of the tax laws at this session of Congress, which will have its hands full passing supply measures.

Many members of Congress are in favor of such a move to satisfy the demand for tax revision and at the same time to meet the needs of the Treasury, on the basis of the probable appropriations necessary. To extend income they say, and then fit expenditures to a fairly definite return would be sound economics.

Two measures providing for these taxes will be introduced soon as the session is opened. They will go before the Ways and Means Committee, and probably will be considered in caucus when the general program of the session is decided.

New Idea for Storing Vegetables.

Lexington, Ky. — Practically 80 per cent of the gardens in the State of Kentucky will be bare this coming winter. This is a condition where the Department of Horticulture recommends the sowing of a cover crop. The garden to produce a growth that can be plowed under the following spring and help furnish humus to the garden soil. The garden should be the richest place of ground on the farm, as it is called upon annually to produce an enormous amount of crops. In order to withstand this growth year after year it is a good idea to sow cover crops, such as rye. All trash and rubbish should be piled and burned as this not only helps control the insects by destroying many of them and at the same time it improves the appearance of the garden, which is usually located near the house. Do not let the excuse of having to bury some vegetables in a pit keep you from sowing some cover crop in your garden. It is much better to move this pit than it is to let the garden be idle during the winter.

Local Happenings.

Monday was the first day of winter.

Rev. R. F. DeMolay was called by the Burlington Baptist church last Saturday their pastor for 1921.

Business was quite lively at the County Clerk's office last Saturday, caused by those seeking auto and dog licenses.

We are of the opinion that the girls wear those hair-buffs over their ears to keep from hearing what the young men say about their short skirts.

With plenty of corn many farmers see money in feeding a bunch of hogs for June market as there seems to be a shortage of meats in cold storage.

Several of our progressive merchants and citizens have installed electric lights in their stores and residences. If others would do likewise it would give our town the appearance of a live-burg.

Mr. Farmer, do not sell your tobacco and farm produce without getting a good man's contract or money, any man can buy on an up market if he does not have to make good on a decline.

The present congress will be flooded with quite a number of half baked bills to help the farmer, but the best thing Mr. Farmer can do is to prepare to live any way regardless of what bills are passed by Congress.

All State bar examinations will be held in Frankfort in the future. Heretofore the Board of Examiners has been meeting in various cities for the convenience of applicants, but the Court of Appeals has issued an order that the applicants must go to Frankfort.

Do you remember that on the 7th Inst. three years ago we had one of the heaviest fall of snow known in years, and on the ninth the Ohio river was frozen over and remained so until the following February, when, in breaking up, millions of dollars of damage was done?

Population of the United States on January 1, this year, as enumerated in the fourteenth census, was 103,763,721 and announced by the Census Bureau for certification to Congress as the basis for reapportionment of the members of the House of Representatives from the various States.

Dr. H. C. Winnes, who was arrested in Harlan county on a charge of being implicated in the murder of Miss Laura Parsons, a teacher of Pine Mountain Settlement School, has tendered his resignation to the State Livestock Sanitary Board as Assistant State Veterinarian.

A well known minister who had been preaching a begging sermon concluded it as follows: "I don't want any to contribute who has not paid their subscription to the home paper, for country papers need money as great as more than do the heathen." That minister knew what he was talking about.

A wise woman one said that there were three follies of men that always amused her. The first was climbing trees to shake the fruit down, when if they would wait long enough the fruit would fall itself; the second was going to war to kill each other, when if they only waited they would die naturally; and the third was that they run after the women when if they did not to so the women would be sure to run after them.

We again invite our readers to inform us of matters of news so closely as we confined to our office in doing the mechanical work necessary to printing a weekly newspaper that it is quite impossible to gather news items that otherwise we would be able to do. When you have a personal or other item, do us the kindness to call the Recorder office, and help us make the Recorder a better and more newsy paper.

Where are the good times coming from that have been so long predicted? Mr. Farmer is unable to discover the path, and certain it is that newspaper publishers are so relieved in the matter of the present cost of printing material.

Perhaps these predictions spring forth from the little word "hope" and to that case we are only too glad to join the optimistic gang, for a large supply of "HOPE" is about all that we do possess.

County Clerk W. R. Rogers and his deputy, Miss Lizzie, will have to leave 500 or 600 motor vehicle licenses before Jan. 1, and this constitutes a lot of work. In a very short time it will be unlawful to operate a car or truck after Dec. 1 without a new license tag. Don't wait until the last days, and run the chance of being delayed, as you will have to take your turn to be waited on. The work in the county clerk's office is very heavy at this time of year, and it takes some hustling to perform these important duties.

To You and Yours
OUR CHRISTMAS WISH

IT REQUIRES not the occasion of Christmas with its joys, cheer and prevalent good will, to arouse in us a sense of the appreciation due patrons of this paper.

In our hearts and minds are gratitude and good thoughts for you during every day of the year; but Christmas hallows our sentiments and makes their expression fitting and timely.

Such as we have accomplished and such good as may be traceable to our efforts would not have been possible without your sustaining power and co-operation. If in any sense we have upheld a beacon, you have supplied oil for the lamp. If ours has been a chariot, yours has been the motive element which has kept it on its way.

All characters appealing to or endeavoring to entertain the public, must be given a certain meed of applause or they cannot exist. With those engaged in publishing a newspaper, the applause comes in the interest which readers manifest in its columns and in an occasional word of approval. The practical help of subscribers and advertisers has enabled us to maintain a publication standard; their encouragement has furnished the degree of pleasure necessary as an incentive to our daily tasks.

May the spirit of Christmas work for you the full degree of its bountifulness. May you be enabled to get the same amount of pleasure and benefit from these columns that we have derived from making them.

Girl Knocked Unconscious By Robber She Surprises In Her Home.

Miss Loretta Meiman, 20, who was rendered unconscious by a blow from a jelly jar in the hands of a robber in the cellar of her home, Commonwealth, at Herbert-av., Erlanger, Thursday, at 3:45 p. m., said Friday she believed the plot to rob her had been carefully laid and that there were two men in the house when the assault occurred.

Miss Meiman said she was in the kitchen preparing supper for her father, John Meiman, and brother, John Jr., when she heard a cough in the dining room, and simultaneously all the lights in the house went out. Thinking the fuse had burned out, she seized a flashlight and descended the cellar steps to investigate.

She remembers turning the light once about the basement room before she was struck a blow in the forehead and fell unconscious. The cough, she believes, was a signal from the robber in the dining room to the man concealed in the cellar for the lights to be turned out.

When Miss Meiman regained consciousness a few minutes later she went to the home of C. A. Riggs, a neighbor, who returned and searched the house with her. No trace of the robbers were found, but they had dropped a $1 note, which was attached to a mill bill, and $1 was found beneath the dining room table. A secret drawer in the sideboard was rifled and $35 taken. Entrance was gained through a cellar window, which had been forced open.

Miss Meiman said she had received a mysterious telephone call several weeks ago, when a house in the neighborhood was robbed. The voice asked her if she stayed alone and advised her to get someone to stay with her during the day. She said at the time she attached no significance to the incident.

The Meimans formerly resided in Florence, this county.

Mrs. Laura Clore Dead.

Mrs. Laura Clore, aged 69 years, widow of the late William Clore, died last Saturday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. B. Ryle in the Waterloo neighborhood. She had been in declining health with ailments due to old age for some time. She leaves a family of six children—four sons and two daughters, viz: Hubert, L. T. Albert and Bluff; Mrs. Kenneth Berkshire and Mrs. S. B. Ryle.

After short funeral services at the residence at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, the remains were taken to Bellevue and laid to rest by the side of her husband, who preceded her to the grave about twelve years ago.

Besides her children she leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn her death.

There is going to be readjustment of prices, whether we like it or not, but the greatest trouble is finding some one who wants to start price cutting. There is no way known to human ingenuity whereby every man can get for his product which he wants to sell the highest price, and at the same time enable him to purchase everything he wants to buy at the lowest price.

Relief Fund.
Boone County's Quota For This Year Is $1,700—Help the Good Work Along.

The Armenian and Syrian Relief was organized in October 1915, in response to a call from Ambassador Morgenthau describing the terrible distress resulting from the Turkish massacres and deportations.

This society ministered to the stricken people until August 8th, 1919, when the Near East Relief was incorporated by act of Congress, with headquarters in Washington and New York. The work on the field is being carried on by 538 American men and women. The immediate object has been to save men, women and children from death thru starvation and exposure. While providing food and clothing, it has become necessary to engage in related activities, gathering the wandering children into orphanages, providing homes for christian girls rescued from Moslem harems. Hospitals for thousands suffering from disease and malnutrition and work shops to help the people back to self support. There are now 51,000 orphans in 229 orphanages and 55,000 orphans outside given partial support. There are 12,000 rescue homes. There are 6,653 beds and food relief to 500,000.

We can not afford to let this good work stop. Boone county's quota for this year is $1,700.

FOILED
"Fake" Telephone Message Failed to Catch the Officers Off Their Guard.

Quite an excitement was caused among the citizens of Burlington about 8 o'clock last Saturday night when Sheriff Conner was called over the phone and informed that if he would go to a certain house at Constance (naming the house) that he would find a moon-shine still in full operation.

Follow at the other end of the line claimed to be Joe Shaffer, and wanted to know of the sheriff if he would go or would he send his deputy, when Mr. Conner informed him that both would go, and the man said, "I will call again at 11 o'clock."

Sheriff Conner becoming suspicious, told the operator, if he called again to tell him they had gone to Constance. At 11 o'clock the same fellow called and was informed that the sheriff and his deputy had gone.

Instead of going to Constance, the sheriff, his deputy and several other citizens, armed with shot guns, went to the court house, where they had a good view of both banks and the jail from the windows.

It is the opinion of some that the message was only a "fake" to get the officers out of town, when a raid would be made on the banks or on the jail to remove young Reas who had been convicted by the circuit court last week to three years in the penitentiary for stealing an auto from a barn near Florence two or three months ago.

Coming from that part of the county, this theory seems more plausible, as young Reas' home is at Constance, and it is the supposition that some of his pals are very anxious to have him released for fear he might squeal on them.

Another theory is that the message was for the purpose of getting the officers to come to that place, where a gang of thieves might have attacked them and given them a beating or assassinated them.

The all-night watch of the officers and citizens proved to be a hoax, but if any one had made their appearance about the jail or banks, there would have been a hot time in the old town.

Moon Full Christmas.

If the skies are clear on Dec. 25th it will be a person's while to gaze at the moon.

The moon will be full. That at least is some inducement to look up. There won't be many holidays celebrated "full" like the numbers in years gone by.

The phenomena will consist of the moon's closest approach to the earth. It will be a time when the moon 369,000 miles distant. This happens only about once in a lifetime.

On Christmas night the moon will look so large that it will span more than one-half a degree of vision, and a ball six inches in diameter, fifty-seven feet away, will not be large enough to hide its surface. If one could maneuver so as to get a house twenty-four feet in diameter on a hill-top half mile away, between him and the moon, he would see the moon shining all around that house. That is, the house will be too small to hide or to tip the moon.

There will be a time also of abnormally high tides on our Atlantic coast, on account of the severe "pull" of a close-up moon. By so means, a condition, as favorable, be sure to take a look.

In Memoriam.

George Dallas Ranes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ranes, was born June 18th, 1859, and died this day Dec. 23, 1920. Mr. Ranes was born in Boone county, Ky.

Martha Delph Ranes, wife of Geo. D. Ranes, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ranes, who was born near Bellevue, this county, Dec. 23, 1815, and departed this life Nov. 13, 1920. She spent her entire life near the place of her birth.

Card of Thanks—We desire to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness during the illness and death of Martha D. Ranes, also of C. Scott Chambers for the manner in which he conducted the burial.

The Family.

If you knew you could get more for your good grades of tobacco with the poor grades left in your barn, than you could get for both the poor grades and the poor grades if it is all sold at once, would it not look like mightily poor business for you to sell your poor grades along with your good grades with the market in its present condition? That is just exactly the condition that confronts you right now. Mr. Tobacco grower, if the word of experienced tobacco men is to be believed, such being the case, the natural thing to do is to hold your good grades in your barn for the present and sell only your high grades. Later if the market for the poor grades improves you might be able to sell your low grades, but don't sell them for a song. Better use them for fertilizer rather than do that.—Grant County News.

Circuit Court.

Floyd Read was tried last Thursday for stealing an automobile by a jury in the circuit court. Read was defended by Atty. Brown, of Covington, the Commonwealth was represented by Commonwealth Attorney John J. Howe and County Atty. B. H. Riley. The jury found the defendant guilty and fixed his punishment at confinement in the state penitentiary for three years.

J. H. Campbell was fined $10.00 and cost for operating an automobile without a license.

Judgments were rendered for the plaintiffs in the following cases:

E. L. Rice & Son vs. G. W. Markberry.
W. R. Warner vs. T. K. Wallace, Margaret Peeno vs. Joe Ratcliff, I. R. Brown vs. John Hill, H. H. Hays vs. Thos. B. Eggleston.

Johnson Paint Co. vs. G. W. Markberry.
J. H. Grant vs. G. W. Markberry.

John Schroder vs. Arch L. Acra. Divorces were granted the plaintiff in the cases of John Wood vs. Mary Wood and Annie Campbell vs. Chas. Campbell.

The grand jury was in session four days, examined 50 witnesses and returned 11 indictments. One for murder, two for stealing automobile, eight for failure to send children to school, the other six were for hunting on Sunday, assault and battery and negligent operating motor vehicles on the public highway. The grand jury complimented the manner in which the court is being kept and recommended that several improvements be made, also that the Trustees of the town of Florence be requested to repair the approach to the concrete bridge in Florence at the junction of the Union pike.

Truce Void.

'Legal Fraud' Seen By Judge Bullock to Keep State Out of $500,000.

Holding that the Harkness tax agreement entered into in 1916 "amounts to a legal fraud," County Judge Frank A. Bullock set it aside.

Should his decision be sustained by higher courts, Kentucky will receive $500,000 more in inheritance taxes, and Fayette county $400,000 more, it is estimated. The State claims that the five-year inheritance tax should be paid on all of the Harkness estate of $69,000,000 value instead of on $20,000,000.

"The difference between the amount paid by the Harkness estate is so vast, as shown by subsequent events," Judge Bullock said, "that the result itself indicates a concealment so great that it amounts to a legal fraud. Had this court been aware of the facts disclosed in this record, it is needless to say the judgment complained of would not have been entered."

Judge Bullock pointed to the controversy of Harkness son in Surrogate's court, New York, that his father's home was in Kentucky. Contradictory statements of Harkness as to his place of residence also were shown.

There is nothing that tends to show that Sheriff T. C. Bradley and County Atty. Hogan Yancey, Fayette county, who entered into the agreement with the Harkness administrator, were "in any way guilty of any fraud or failed to perform any duty," Judge Bullock held.

The suit to set aside the agreed judgment was filed June 3, 1919, by T. C. Coyne, Revenue Agent for the State-at-large, with the consent of State Tax Commission.

The petition charges that Fayette county sheriff and County Attorney were led to believe thru fraudulent statements by representatives of the estate that it was better to accept a $20,000,000 valuation than to run the risk of losing even this in a costly suit the claim being made that Harkness actually had never resided in Fayette county, despite the fact that he owned the Walnut Hill Farm there.

The charge also was made in the petition that when Walton Byars, Revenue Agent for the State-at-large at that time, filed suit to vacate the judgment, he was induced to do so by a $5,000 fee offered by Sheriff Bradley to withdraw the suit. An influential attorney was paid $7,000 by the sheriff, the petition alleged, to persuade Byars to withdraw the suit to obtain the consent of the Attorney General and other state officials to compromise. The $20,000,000 judgment netted the State $25,000,000 and a penalty.

Testimony was submitted to Judge Bullock a month ago and the case was argued by Judge Robert C. Talbott, representing the State, and by Judge Alex E. Humphrey, Louisville, for Harry Harkness, the Harkness administrator.

An installment of $113,137.85 of the State school fund was sent to County Schools from Frankfort, one day last week, and $118,775 to city schools for teachers' salaries, making a total of $232,912.80 for the school year to date.

DEVON.

We wish the Recorder and its many readers a Merry Xmas and Happy New Year.

Dr. and Mrs. Cornell, of Cincinnati, came out Saturday and remained until Sunday evening the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Carpenter and family.

Eli Carpenter and wife gave their sister Miss Alda, a surprise Sunday, it being her birthday, and a large number of relatives and friends were present. A most delightful day was enjoyed by all.

Death has again visited our midst and called home one of our oldest and most highly respected women, Mrs. Elizabeth Groger, at the age of 84. She died Friday morning at the home of her daughter Mrs. Wm. Ficke, where she had spent the last few years of her life. Services were conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ficke by the pastor of the Christian church, Erlanger, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, after which the remains were interred by the side of those of her husband. She leaves a large family of devoted children who did all that kind hands and loving hearts could do for her in her old age. She will live in our memories for the noble deeds which she did for all in need, who came her way.

John Hogan, who lives on the Bullittville and Dry Creek pike, east of Hebron, had his pockets picked on Fifth street, Cincinnati, a few days since. His pocketbook containing $8.00 in money and several checks, was taken from his trousers pocket while he walked from the Manhattan restaurant, a distance of about 100 feet.

On Monday Dec. 6th, the Angel of Death again visited our community and took Mr. Michael Dempsey after a week's illness of stomach trouble and pneumonia. Mr. Dempsey was a man of good moral character and highly respected by all who knew him. He was 69 years old, the father of nine children, six of them preceding him to the grave. His wife died six months ago. One son, Jerry J. Dempsey, and two daughters, Mrs. James Allen, and sister Mary Hyacinth, of the convent at Nazareth, Ky., are left to mourn his death. The funeral took place Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church, Father Bankemper having charge of the services, after which the remains were laid to rest by his wife in St. Patrick's cemetery. Undertaker J. L. Hamilton, had charge of the funeral.

Carrollton defeated Walton here Friday night in a game almost devoid of interest. For the first time this season the local quintette had the advantage of weight and height, and these factors contributed much to the large score. Neither team did any brilliant playing. The team work which gave Carrollton victory over her strong rivals in previous games was lacking. The Walton boys played a good, clean game, and never gave up the fight until the final whistle blew. Lancaster, Beverly and Rouse did the scoring for the Walton team, while Mosink, Raney, Adams and Hanlon scored for the local team. After the game the visitors were entertained in the homes of the Carrollton players.—Carrollton News.

The Farm Bureau succeeded in buying a car load of feed at about $10.00 per ton less than any bids they had received.

A Week's News.

In the midst of an Arizona desert any human habitation and while a storm raged, twins were born to family, the father hastily turned the little car into a first-aid hospital, and the twins arrived without the aid of a doctor.

Food Enough

To Give Each Inhabitant One Ton of Grain, Vegetables, and Fruit.

One ton of grain, vegetables and fruit for each of the 107,000,000 inhabitants of the United States is the response of farmers to the popular appeal of the country for more and cheaper food, according to the reports to the Department of Agriculture.

The nation's harvest is bountiful enough to feed every inhabitant of the United States seven weight once each month in the coming twelve, if the average American resident, including children and infants, is rated at 160 pounds. In addition, there still would remain enough food to fatten the starving millions in Central and Southern Europe at the same rate for eight more months. Farmers complain that the bounty of their harvest has brought many of their number to the verge of ruin because of the reduced prices. These, they assert, are absorbed by speculators and middlemen, and not passed along to the consumer. Farmers have made some gains in land values, which have jumped 100 per cent. in some localities, and in smaller, though substantial, percentages throughout the United States, according to Agriculture department reports.

Farmers Feeling Blue.

The farmer is feeling blue over the prices now being paid for his products and what he has put forth less energy for crops in 1921. One thing should be remembered that one extreme follows another and many times things are not as bad as they seem.

The farmer who runs in every time a cloud appears will be found losing considerable good time. The prices for corn and tobacco seem to have reached the low water mark and perhaps before another year there will be a shortage and prices will begin to go up. Get the present crop ready for the best market and sell and prepare for another crop of tobacco if you have good ground and be sure and raise plenty of other crops. Just because everything seems to be going down is no reason for giving up because we can live more easily and run at less cost when things are not so high and that farmer who always has some thing to sell on the farm will succeed whether prices be high or low. It is true that farm products are the first to fall in price and it will be remembered that they were first to raise. Farm machinery will continue high another twelve months as will clothing and furniture but the prices on these articles will eventually fall. So the best policy seems to be to sell everything and pay debts and buy what you are compelled to have.

Sell your surplus and sell it quick—Owen Co. Democrat.

Human nature is about the same now as it was when Adam stepped into the Garden of Eden to pluck a little ripe fruit, or reduced to Pendleton county language the modern Adam would say, "Stir up a little alfalfa." But what we started to call your attention to was the appeal that went up all over the country for the government to reduce the cost of living. The government made a strenuous effort to reduce prices but in the face of this light prices continued to soar. Now that the cost of living is being reduced, another howl has gone up by the ones on the selling end, and they are appealing to the same government to aid them to keep prices up. It is surely hard to please all the public.

That farmers and dairymen of Kentucky can save money and experience much satisfaction next summer by putting up ice this winter, is the statement of W. D. Nichols, head of the farm management department of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in his suggestion that all farmers of the state take advantage of the opportunity to store ice as soon as it comes. Continuing Mr. Nichols said, "By putting up ice this winter, farmers and dairymen who wish to use it will not pay the increase in prices and as for convenience, a supply of ice is practically as essential to the welfare of the farm family as the garden which supplies them with vegetables."

Fire, caused by an electric feed wire snapping and dropping into a pool of water, creating a short circuit, wreaked damage estimated at $2,500,000 to the $3,750,000 floating dry dock of the Jahncke Drydock and Shipbuilding Co., at New Orleans, destroying three vessels undergoing repairs, damaged six others and caused a casualty list of at least thirty.

According to estimates of the Maritime Exchange vessels valued at $10,000,000 were at the docks.

According to W. H. Moyer, Superintendent, when Santa Claus visits the Frankfort Penitentiary this year, he will carry 489 fewer presents than he did in 1919, and 131 less than last year. The number of convicts in the institution this year is 995, the fewest in a half century. He says the decrease in the prison population is due to prohibition, prosperity and paroles.

Assessments from only four Kentucky counties for the taxes to be collected in 1921 have been received by the State Tax commission, it was announced at the office of the commission. All returns must be in by January 15, according to the law. The counties which have reported are Franklin, Pendleton, Callaway and Caldwell.

Before Selecting Your Light Plant, Stop and Think What A Light Plant Is.

A real light plant is only purchased once in a life time, and the SILENT ALAMO is one of these plants.

The motor to a light plant is like a horse to a wagon.

Selecting a light plant is a proposition of selecting the right kind of a motor: for the motor has the work to do in lighting your home, running washing machine, pumping your water, running your separator, sweeping your house, running your electric iron, running your electric fan, and can be used for many other purposes.

No oil tanks to care for, no oil can to carry around, no concrete pillars to be made; no vibration—as you see this little ornament sitting here. Touch the button and start the motor and it will take care of itself automatically.

Read this ad carefully, and study it over before selecting your lighting plant.

Kentucky Tax Reform.

Recognizing that taxation is no respecter of persons or parties but concerns property regardless of ownership and affects all of the people, the advocates of Tax Reform have steered clear of politics and its varied membership is a guarantee of its impartiality and public spirit.

Every administration in control of the State government in the past quarter of a century has taken an active interest in the efforts for better tax laws and representatives of all parties have joined in the movement.

Administrations come and administrations go but taxation goes on forever and in publishing the facts and figures relating to taxation; as reasons for changes in the tax laws; only biased minds could construe a reference to assessments and revenue taken from public records as reflecting on persons or parties.

The difficulties in taxation did not begin yesterday nor will they end tomorrow and the problem is to be solved by the people as no party has ever assayed to make an issue of that which concerns all alike.

Here are some of the results which "cannot be rubbed out" and worth all the time and money spent to secure them.

Under the old law less than one-fourth in value of the taxable property in the State paid any taxes. Now about one-half tax payers.

Under the old law Real Estate paid eighty per cent of the taxes while it now pays only fifty-five per cent.

Under the old law Bank Deposits were listed at only $11,000,000 and those subject to taxation now amount to $250,000,000.

Money which was formerly sent to other States to avoid excessive taxation, may now be kept at home with impunity.

Under the old law there were eighty-one delinquent counties while now there are only fifty-five.

Under the old law bonds issued in the State for public purposes were unwisely taxed by the State, counties and towns. They are now exempt from all taxation.

Bonds, Stock, Mortgages, Notes and Accounts are now taxed for State purposes only and it is no longer necessary to "fear them off."

Manufacturing, the great dependence of the State, is encouraged by rational tax laws and many new industries are being established.

Kentucky raises more tobacco than any State but adverse laws diverted much of it to other markets and the last Legislature, on the recommendation of the Governor, undertook the reclamation of this important industry by reducing the local taxation. The validity of the law has been questioned by a local official and it will have to be threshed out in the courts but nearly every step in the path of Tax Reform has been beset with such obstacles.

Steady and while such interferences with the efforts to build up the State are discouraging the work of Tax Reform will survive and continue because the purpose is commendable and essential to the welfare of the State.

As for specific objects this Association has stood for the uniform taxation of all property of the same class, for taxes that each class can stand. For the uniform assessment of all property as the Constitution requires, and tax rates in proportion to the volume of property taxed. For lower taxes on Farming Lands.

Agricultural manufacturing industry, the foundations of wealth, and a limit on the authority of tax-spenders over the tax-gatherers. The consolidation of the assessors and collectors offices. The quadrennial assessment of land by local commissions with ample time to perform the service.

Counties alone are spending $4,750,000 a year toward the cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics under the Smith-Lever Act. The Secretary of Agriculture announced in his annual report to the President. In 1914 they were contributing only $750,000. He cited this to show how the farmers themselves are supporting the extension service.

He declared that the broad development of the system is one of the most notable events in agriculture in recent years. There are now 2,000 agricultural agents, 800 home demonstration agents, and 300 county leaders of boys and girls clubs.

The Secretary urged that the system be completed as rapidly as conditions warrant by reaching the 650 rural counties which now have no agricultural agents and 1,800 without home demonstration agents, and by extending farm boys and girls club work.

A further decrease of 3% per cent in retail food prices in November, as compared with October, was reported by the Department of Labor's Bureau of Statistics. Decreases were noted in all of the 31 cities for which monthly prices were tabulated. The greatest decrease, five per cent, shown in Memphis.

In Birmingham and Seattle the decrease was four per cent. In Atlanta, Buffalo, Chicago, Dallas, Houston, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Little Rock, Louisville, Manchester, Minneapolis, Mobile, New Haven, Richmond, St. Louis and Savannah the decrease was 3 per cent.

Geo. Rhyne and wife and D. H. Rhyne and wife, of Lexington, Ky., spent Sunday at the residence of Mrs. Eliza Rhyne, sister of Mr. Geo. Rhyne. Mrs. Rhyne is in a very critical condition and her relatives are anxiously hoping for an improvement in her condition.

COLLAPSED.

No more co-equal refutation of the whole Republican campaign of opposition to the League of Nations, which was prosecuted in behalf of the election of Harding and Coolidge, could possibly be made than has just been made by the League of Nations itself.

That campaign pivoted on Article X. This Article, the anti-League campaigners, frankly told the voters, guaranteed the territorial integrity of the members of the League and set up a "super-government" which could abrogate our sovereignty and control our boys to fight in foreign lands. The advocates of the League denied this, contending that the power of the Council of the League under Article X was only advisory and that no obligation could be imposed upon the United States as a member of the League to send troops abroad except as authorized by Congress. The anti-League campaigners persisted to the last in their preposterous contention and voted in so many as the election returns can be considered, as recording a verdict on the issue of the League of Nations.

Now comes the League itself, certainly the supreme authority in the interpretation of its Covenant, and declares that there was absolutely no basis for the campaign of opposition to the League that was made in the U. S. "It cannot be too emphatically stated," says the League, "that the League of Nations does not guarantee territorial integrity to any member of the League. All it does is to condemn aggression on the territorial integrity of the political independence of any member of the League and call upon the Council to consider the means to be done to resist such aggression."

At the same time, in a case relative to Denmark, the League took action and definite action all disputes as to the question of obligations which the U. S. would assume as a member to contribute to the League's aid military or naval forces, either with or without the sanction of Congress. The League had requested Denmark to send a few troops to Vilna, and Denmark replied that while party leaders desired to comply with the request, under the National Constitution the approval of Parliament was necessary. The League accepted this reply as entirely satisfactory.

The situation is exactly analogous to that in which the United States as a member of the League would find itself should a similar request be made of this country. Our sovereignty would be unimpaired; our Congress would decide whether we should accede to the request; and it would be to the request, either express or implied, to decide except upon its own judgment.

Thus collapse the arguments on which a great political party fought a great national campaign. Thus crumbles the foundation on which Mr. Harding himself during that campaign based his objection to the League. What is to be the sequel?

Of course if those arguments and objections were pressed in the fabrication of a policy of mere party expediency there may be no sequel, so far as the winners of the election are concerned. They may continue to oppose the League, on the pretense that they know more about its Covenant than the League itself does. But if those campaign arguments and objections were honest, arising from the League shows from misconception of the Covenant, the way is now cleared for the incoming President to end the anomalous and disgraceful situation of the United States in relation to the Peace Treaty and to effect our early entrance into the League of Nations.—C. J.

Soon the "little folks" will be all smiles and supremely happy in anticipation of the coming of Santa Claus. And who would rob them of this childish pleasure? Very few, however, as we are slowly, but surely creeping upon us we become forgetful and remiss in our duty to childhood. Those of mature age prefer to view life in an entirely different light: from the sweet, innocent child whose heart is so set upon the mysterious Santa. And just there where we mistake, let us older people, in our minds, at least, live again the days of our childhood, not forgetting to make the little ones around, during the fast approaching Christmas holidays to enjoy that which were the happiest days of our childhood. And, too, let us not forget the significance of Christmas day, the day that commemorates the birth of Him who is our only hope of a life beyond the grave.

Applicants for appointment as county school superintendents under the new statute boards of education next year must qualify in scholarship, administration and supervision, according to the act of 1914, and the State Board of Education has formulated rules putting the law into effect. Graduates from universities, colleges, normal schools and graduates of recognized junior colleges are entitled high schools with two years of college or university work, or the possessor of a State diploma in education will be accepted. In administration and supervision a full year's work on those branches in some recognized college will be required unless the applicant can show five years of experience during the last five years as superintendent or supervisor or five years' experience during the last five years as a teacher.

When the New Year comes what will you swear-off from?

By abandoning the usual Christmas-New Year's resolutions for the first time in years, Congressional leaders plan to put thru a heavy program this week and present several pieces of legislation to the nation on holiday lifts.

Farmers' relief measures hold the leading places on the program, which contemplates final adoption of the resolution to revive the War Finance Corporation passage by the House before Christmas of the emergency tariff bill and a bill to agricultural products and a decrease in several other important measures.

GOV'T OPERATION OUT OF POLITICS

Party Leaders Convinced by Results of National Censuses of Editors.

VINDICATES FORMER POLL.

Overwhelming Vote Like That of Year Before From Both Sides of Political Fence.

Washington—Inner circles of both political parties here are greatly interested in the results of a national poll on the question of government operation among over 5,000 newspaper editors throughout the country. With 56 per cent of these editors, regardless of political faith, giving it their impartial opinion that the public is more than ever opposed to the government going into business in competition with its citizens, observers here see little chance that either political party will find it a profitable campaign issue.

In the opinion of party leaders this sort of a canvass among newspaper editors is the best possible index of public opinion. They recall a similar questionnaire sent out a year ago in connection with the proposition that the government take over the railroads permanently. Replies at that time from approximately the same number of editors showed 53 per cent against the principle of government operation. They recall also that within ten days from publication of the result of the former questionnaire the sentiment for return of the railroads to their owners had definitely crystallized.

Comparison of present results in detail with those of a year ago convinces the political student not only that these editors have been accurate in their judgment, but that party considerations played no part in forming it. From Democratic and supposedly radical Texas, for example, the present questionnaire brought replies from editors of 244 papers, only three of which are Republican. Yet the percentage against government operation was 92, which is exactly the same as that given by 200 editors from Republican Michigan, among whom were representatives of only three Democratic papers. Other states that put percentages significantly are Massachusetts and Nevada with 100; Connecticut and South Carolina with 97; Maine and West Virginia with 96; Kentucky and New York with 91; Missouri and Pennsylvania with 89; Ohio and Oklahoma with 87.

The result of the present poll as to government operation in each state are graphically shown by the following chart:

100% OPPOSED TO GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP
85% IN FAVOR OF GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP
15% DOUBTFUL OR FAILED TO REPLY.

TOBACCO MARKET.

Transactions in the leaf tobacco market of Louisville, Ky., for the week ending Dec. 18, 1920.

New crop burley tobacco ranged in price from 25c per lb. for inferior trash to 35c for the best grades of dark red tobacco; bright reds sold from 35c for green and mixed trash to 55c for leaf.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 28--According to a statement made today by John W. Newman, President of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, speculators have been paying from 20c to 25c per pound for the best crops in several of the burley producing counties.

Dark manufacturing tobacco on the Louisville market ranged from 25c to 35c per pound.

Yes these are hard times. We throw away ashes and buy soap, raise dogs and buy hogs. We grow weeds and buy vegetables and brooms. We catch fish with a 34 rod. We build school houses and send our children to be educated away from home. And at last we send our boys out with a $40 gun and a $19 dog to hunt 10 cent game.

The monthly reports on Kentucky crops, which usually is issued on the 10th of every month, has been delayed because of the taking of a re-census of the tobacco crop. The new census of the tobacco crop was caused by complaints of tobacco growers that the November report, in which the size of the tobacco crop was estimated, was incorrect.

Walton Loose Leaf Warehouse

Opening Sale Wednesday, January 5th

Farmers Loose Leaf Warehouse

Opening Sale, Thursday, January 6th

Both houses will receive tobacco beginning with Saturday, January 1st. Growers will grade their tobacco on the stick, as none of the Warehouses employ graders as in the past.

It is to the interest of the growers and warehousemen to work in harmony and to the interest of each other. The faster warehousemen can unload tobacco the sooner the farmer can get away. If he will deliver his tobacco on the stick, sorted and graded, with but one grade or sort to the stick, it can be placed upon the basket rapidly and properly. Warehousemen can unload many more farmers in a day if they will bring in their tobacco this way. If warehousemen are compelled to sort tobacco as it comes off the wagon, it costs them time and money to do it; at the same time handicapping the farmer who comes in behind, subjecting him to a tedious wait, which means money to him.

To correct this, we shall hereafter charge ten cents per hundred pounds extra for sorting that comes to the warehouse off the stick. We give you ample notice that you may save yourself this expense, as well as labor to the warehousemen. Warehousemen lose money sorting tobacco; the grower loses time when that has to be done. It may be that the time for marketing tobacco on the loose leaf will be short this season and every effort must be made to handle the tobacco quickly and as much on each sale as possible, and this is more to the interest of the growers than anyone else.

SAFETY FIRST

Warnings For Stores, Churches, Bazaars, Etc.It is Better to Be Safe Than Sorry.

Holiday fires in these places while filled with people, are usually holocausts. Light inflammable decorations make fires easy to spread. A match, a gas flame, or an electrical defect, may do it. Watch gas jets, decorations may be blown against them and a fire started.

Watch smokers; do not permit them to light cigars, pipes, or cigarettes, while inside the buildings filled with holiday shoppers, or while around decorations, etc. Do not make any changes in electric wires, devices, or appliances, without consulting a competent electrician.

See that the fire extinguishers are in good order and in proper places. Do not allow fire extinguishers to be placed on the floor, in closets, or in out of the way places. Hang them on the walls in plain view.

See that the hose, nozzles, etc., to fire-fighting appliances, are in good condition and in working order.

Do not pile boxes, crates, etc., on stairways or in front of windows, exits, or on fire escapes. Keep the aisles clear of obstruction. Before closing the shop, mill, or factory at night, go over the entire building to see that everything is safe from fire.

Provide for the disposal of waste paper, trash, etc., in non-combustible receptacles.

Protect floors under and about stoves and furnaces, with brick, cement, or sheet metal. Be careful not to have stoves and furnaces close to woodwork.

Spittoons should be of metal, or other non-combustible material, and should never contain sawdust. Gasoline and other volatile oils should never be kept in buildings, except in small quantities in approved metal safety cans, and should NEVER be kept in open receptacles.

WARNINGS FOR THE HOME.

Every year in America many children are burned to death by fire from Christmas candles.

DO NOT decorate your Christmas tree with paper, cotton or any other inflammable material. Use metallic tinsel and other non-flammable decorations only, and set the tree securely so that the children in reaching for things cannot tip it over.

DO NOT use cotton to represent snow. If you must have snow use powdered mica or asbestos fibre.

DO NOT permit children to reach or light the candles while parents are not present. They frequently set fire to their clothing instead. Electrical illumination is safer.

DO NOT LEAVE MATCHES within reach of children at holiday time. Candles are meant to be lighted, and if the children can get matches they will experiment with them. They imitate their elders.

DO NOT allow trees to remain inside buildings after the holidays. The tree itself ignites readily when needles have become dry. A large number of fires usually occur in January from this cause.

A House of Mourning is better than a House of Mourning.

A College President working on a railroad, a master of four or five languages digging coal in a mine and graduates of Oxford and other high seats of learning oiling machinery.

The foregoing may read like the old days of panic and penury, but such is not the case. The strange circumstance came under the observation of a state official during the last twelve months.

It wasn't misfortune nor hard times or any of the usual causes contributing to the condition known as "down and out" that brought these highly educated persons to the status of "day laborers."

It was due to lack of education in a particular line. They had neglected the one course of training which, perhaps, counts most in America—the English language course. They are foreigners who came to the United States for various reasons. To them it was a land of opportunity, and in each instance, the State official discovered, they found the opportunity they sought.

Getting Serious.

We scarcely look at a city newspaper that we do not see from one to a dozen or more accounts of house and robberies. It causes us to wonder what can be the cause of all these depredations? Is it that people are out of employment and are facing starvation? The boldness which is shown by the perpetrators of these deeds indicate that they are content by fearless and dangerous classes of criminals.

Of course, as a rule, newspaper men have so little money they feel quite immune from attack, but to those who do occasionally have a dollar in excess of their immediate needs, we would say "would be well to be on our guard, and if you have no firearms with which to protect your home and money purse, buy a gun."

Soon the armies of the police will rid the cities and larger towns of the thieves, and naturally they will victimize the people of the smaller towns and villages.

About the most effectual burglar alarm that you can procure is a double-barrel shot gun. Then keep it loaded with buck shot. When properly used its efficacy as a burglar "alarm" is hard to excel.

But all jests aside, the frequency of robberies are becoming alarming, and too much care can not be exercised by business households and institutions or individuals who handle any considerable sum of money.

When Winter Comes.

The days of chill winds and frosts are at hand. On the farms of the country provision is made for winter's coming in the food laid aside for the time when frost locks the land in its grip. In the towns and cities, on the other hand, the food is the product of the busy summer and is literally the fruit of sweat and toil.

But on the farm it is stored, and the farmer can store his varied productions of garden and field are safely put away for the time of cold. With all this stuff under the farmer's care, it is no wonder that he knows that, whatever happens, his future is provided for. Let strikes shut off the food supply of cities, the farmer is safe. Let transportation be suspended, and hunger stalk grimly in its wake, so far as the cities are concerned.

But on the farm it is different. The farmer can sit by his fireside with the assurance that his family cannot be harmed by misguided labor that can't find its own source of supplies, and in winning a strike loses more than it wins. Well, some day the balance will swing back to the land. The farmer has to get away from it will end; and it now seems likely that a few acres and independence is going to weigh more than a job in a factory that may end any time the demand for a certain product ceases.—Kansas City Journal.

Never before in the history of the county has there been a more substantial display of Christmas offerings to gladden the hearts of shoppers and make happy thousands of homes; and that, too, at greatly reduced prices.

Heretofore it has been the belief of many purchasers that the prices of goods were boosted just prior to Christmas, as sugar is at the preserving season.

Be that as it may. This year conditions are such that merchants are compelled to keep pace with the decline in prices, and are absolutely disposing of their goods at an annual heavy loss, many of them running up into the thousands of dollars. They realize that it is better to bear their losses at this time than to be compelled to experience them later.

Goods are absolutely being sacrificed; they haven't reached pre-war prices, they are close to it, and only the high price of labor precludes that.

Rev. Tomlin occupied the pulpit at the Methodist church last Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Tomlin's sermons are appreciated by all who hear them. Mr. Tomlin is well liked by the Methodist members who have heard him both as a minister and personally.

"It takes money to make money," is the remark frequently heard today. Most of the cheap land is gone. It requires quite a bit of capital to engage in farming. The same is true of most other industries. People with large amounts of capital at their disposal have made it hard for the man without capital to compete with them. What will be the effect of this condition? One effect will be to keep families more permanently in one industry, according to Alfred Westfall of the Colorado Agricultural college. As long as there were abundant opportunities on all sides, a young man did not value as highly as he might the business his father had built up or the farm he had developed. As it becomes increasingly difficult for the man without money to make money, he will be more careful of the family inheritance. When sons can not easily acquire farms elsewhere they will hold more closely to the home place. We will approach the condition of Europe where land remains in the same family for generations because other land is hard to obtain. Whether or not this condition is desirable is another matter. It will be one of the effects of a shortage of land if we ever have such a condition here.

The art of appreciating beauty is one of the subtlest of human capacities. Why is one piece of music more beautiful than another; one rose of smell more sweet than another; one view beautiful and another hideous? Taste belongs to the man who possesses the aesthetic sense; but it would be rash to declare this sense to be peculiar to man, says New York Tribune. Does not the nightingale take instinctive pleasure in its song, or the kingfisher in its reflection? The hen bird appreciates the plumage and antics of its mate. Whatever relation that instinct may bear to its counterpart in human nature, man, at all events, has also the power to cultivate it and bring it into harmony with his reason. Eventually his appreciation becomes more rational than instinctive. Yet the elusiveness of the faculty remains, for the reason that beauty, like truth and goodness, is an intimate reality.

The child delights in a plaything he has fashioned with his own hands. We are all born to be producers, to add to the wealth and beauty and happiness of the world. Our gift need not be an obelisk by the Nile, or a Parthenon, or the dome of a St. Peter. A cheering word that heartens a brother for the day's struggle—that, too, builds for eternity in the soul of him who gives and in him who receives, writes Meredith Nicholson in Cosmopolitan. He a builder, not a destroyer! It profits me nothing to tear down a thing that I cannot replace with something better. "I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." He who uttered these words re-created the earth upon a new foundation whose corner stone is love.

In the first five months of this year the exports of France increased 4,000,000 francs over those of the same period last year. A very large part of this increase was in manufactured goods. In the same period imports to France increased 2,000,000,000 francs, and nearly all this increase was in raw materials. It is a very encouraging report. France's "comeback" is slower than that of Britain and Belgium for easily understood reasons. No other manufacturing district was so thoroughly wrecked as that of France, and no other allied country in the west lost so heavily in men. But if slow, France's recovery is sure, the more so since a deal of it is based on revived agriculture.

A newspaper report says that French women who used to admire men for their intellect, now desire good looks, and avers that the American invasion is responsible for the change in taste, and a good many Americans won't know whether to get mad or feel complimented by this information.

Trustworthy observers testify that Russian autocracy and Russian militarism, under the Soviets, are more severe than under the czar. It does not ease the muzhik's burden to be told that this is all for his own good. That is what the czar said.

It is time to break up the youthful gangs who take a pride in beating up other youngsters. The boy gangster is the one who puts a burden on taxpayers by keeping up the high cost of jails and penitentiaries.

The effort to put dueling under the ban in France looks like an effort to discourage what has always been looked upon as a healthful and invigorating outdoor sport.

Broad prices have risen 0.10 per cent the past year. In the meantime wheat has declined about 20 per cent. As for bread, so far it is only the loaf that has gone down.

The more the price goes down the more the business will go down.

FEED AND HAY.

The American farmers spend a large amount of money each year in the purchase of feeds. The price declines which have been taking place in the case of grain, cotton seed, and other products used for feeding purposes have reduced the size of the feed bill to a considerable extent. The price of several feedstuffs is now near the pre-war figures.

The demand for feeds has been light for some time. The principal markets are reported as having heavy stocks of wheat feeds. The exports of high protein feeds such as oil cake and oil-cake meal during the first 10 months of 1920 were much less than during the corresponding period in 1919.

Reports indicate that the hay market is dull. The receipts have not been heavy and this has helped to maintain prices. It is reported that only a small part of the marketable surplus has moved to market. Weather conditions of course, have considerable influence on the demand and if severe weather should set in, the demand would be increased.

Cooperative live stock shipping associations represent a type of cooperative marketing which has become very popular during the last few years. One of the earliest live stock shipping associations was formed in 1905 while at the present time there are several thousand such associations in operation in the U. S. The illustrations the rapid development which has taken place.

The organization and the manner of doing business are simpler than that required for many other lines of cooperative marketing. This no doubt has been a factor in the rapid growth of cooperative shipping. Then, shipping association usually have had little difficulty in demonstrating their values in communities where this form of united effort is needed.

Undoubtedly the most important question now confronting our farmers is that of cooperation in selling farm crops. At the present time we see we are in a disastrous plight of lack of such cooperation. One half of the farmers are helping slaughter the other half, simply by insisting on selling their crops when there is no market.

We are in the position of an army which is not only assaulted by the enemy, but finds half of its panic-stricken soldiers wildly firing at their own comrades. We must get a system whereby one half of the farmers will not slaughter products for the other half. The American Farm Bureau Federation is now working on such a system.

Kentucky distillers will recover from State Auditor John J. Craig a total of $5,013.63 as a result of the suit of the Frankfort Distilling Company, in which it was held that the alien tax was in lieu of the 50-cent corporation tax. Some fifty companies had paid the corporation tax and are entitled to recovery.

Sons and daughters of farmers exceed in numbers those of any other occupation represented among the students of the University of Kentucky, according to figures compiled in the office of Sara L. Gilla, registrar of the university. There are 144 students whose fathers are farmers.
